Taxes and hearings: Is anybody happy?

By Jonathan Greenspan

NEWTON — Evelyn Bell was one of many residents who were "caught by surprise" by the new assessments mailed out last week.

Bell, 60, owns a two-family home in Auburndale that has been revalued from 11,300 to 111,300 resulting in a $490 increase in her tax bill.

Finnegan Associates of Acton, the firm that conducted the accelerated revaluation of city property has scheduled hearings for approximately 5,500 homeowners in the last 10 days. Thomas Polzella, project manager for Finnegan, had said the firm expected to set up 4,000 hearings.

On Monday, Bell, a widow, was one of many homeowners who visited City Hall's War Memorial Auditorium for a hearing on the new assessments.

"I was absolutely surprised," said Bell of the tax increase. "It is definitely going to be hard for me."

"I'm at an age where I had intended to be retired." Bell added. "Now "I'll now be working until...

"Unfortunately the older homes house the older people," said Bell. "If they could give me a check for that amount I'll gladly let them."

Under the revaluation, the average assessment for single and two-family homes rose between 700 and 800 percent. As a result, about 50 percent of the city's homeowners will pay an increase in property taxes of $200 or more, according to city officials.

Newton's revaluation, which was mandated by a state law requiring all cities and towns to bring real estate up to 100 percent full and fair market value, should adjust past inequities in the city's taxation of residential property.

As a result, owners of older homes, which in most cases have been far undervalued, face substantial increases in their property taxes while owners of newer homes will have their taxes adjusted downwards.

Joan Bates of Newton Centre, who had yet to receive a tax notice due to a mix-up, was hoping her bill would go down.

"The newer homes have been carrying the older homes," said Bates. "When you look at it from that perspective you have a different opinion."

Chief assessor bumped

NEWTON — Harold Brady, who has headed the city's assessing bureau for the last three years, has been replaced as chief of the department and demoted to assessor after being voted out of the top spot by his two colleagues.

Assessor Robert Palmer, who has headed the revaluation that began in May, was the winner of a power struggle for the chief assessor's post which reportedly drew opposition from Brady.

Under statute, the three assessors vote for a chairman each year. However, an election for the chief assessor's post was apparently not held by the board in the past three years.

Brady, who will remain an assessor in the city, apparently changed his vote to make the selection of Palmer unanimous. The vote came during a 10-minute assessor's meeting Friday afternoon and is expected to be an-

In superintendent search

Closed doors okay

NEWTON - The Superintendent Search Committee won the blessing of the district attorney's office last week in closing the public out of interviews of over 100 applicants in spite of a seven-year-old state law designed to keep the process open.

Attorney Carol Ball of Middlesex County DA John Droney's office said Monday the committee charged with screening applicants for Superintendent Aaron Fink's job can close the doors to the public "to protect the confidentiality of applicants" until the applicant pool is narrowed down to "semifinalists."

Citing a state Supreme Judicial Court case relating to a similar superintendent search in the town of Northhampton, Ball said she agreed that holding "executive sessions" from which the public is excluded is legal, until the semifinalist stage.

The state's Open Meeting Law, passed in 1975, allows governmental groups to exclude the public from discussions of such things as the mental health or criminal conduct of applicants for a job. The Assistant DA says 'privacy right' in protecting applicants is okay for now, in spite of Open Meeting Law.

"The Northhampton case seems to have created a de facto additional exemption (to the state's Open Meeting Law) by recognizing a privacy right in a general applicant pool for a government position," Ball told The Newton Graphic.

law explicitly prohibits exclusion of the public from discussions of "professional competence" of applicants but Ball's legal opinion in relation to the Newton superintendent search appears to bypass that portion of the law.

Official vote bans butts

NEWTON — Despite threats of legal action from the tobacco industry, the Board of Aldermen Monday night approved an amended version of an ordinance prohibiting the public distribution of promotional tobacco products.

As a result of the 19 to 4 vote, Newton has become the first city in the Commonwealth and third nationwide to enact such a ban. The Board of Aldermen first approved the ordinance on February 6 but a move to reconsider the item for legal clarification forced aldermen to again vote on the giveaways.

Prior to the final vote, aldermen voted against sending the ordinance back to the Legislation and Rules Committee for reconsideration.

John McGlynn Jr., state director of the Tobacco Institute, said there is a "very strong possibility there will be legal action" on the part of the tobacco industry in response to last night's vote.

Rita Addison, president of the Group Against Smoking (GASP), thought "the city called the bluff" of the tobacco industry.

"This was truly a city standing up for what they knew made sense," said Addison, admittedly elated, "So much of what I've seen is the result of manipulation

But one disagrees

NEWTON — When the smoke had cleared Monday, Alderman Joseph DePasquale had had enough.

After aldermen had debated a proposed ordinance prohibiting the public distribution of promotional cigarettes for close to an hour and a half, DePasqaule, a chain-smoker, decided he would make a point.

"Should the ordinance not be reconsidered," said DePasquale as he rose from his chamber seat, "I would like to know it's on record that I was the last person in Newton to hand out free cigarettes."

DePasquale proceeded to hand out complimentary packs of Marlboro Lights to each of 22 board colleagues.

"How far are we going to regulate people's lives," asked DePasquale. "I think that the board spending so much time on his issue is a sham."

As DePasquale finished his round of the chamber, Aldermen Rodney Barker and Cynthia Creem both screamed that their colleague's actions were "a mockery of the chamber."

Alderman Robert Tennant followed DePasquale around with a waste basket in hand collecting the promotional packs from those aldermen who don't smoke.

"I really don't think I've convinced anyone to smoke," said DePasquale in answer to Creem. "I just wanted to make a point."

The board voted 19 to 4 in favor of the ban on promotional giveaways.

'Rider' bus service bankrupt but city bailout vote stalled

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The "Newton Rider" city bus service, which provides public transportation for over 100 school students and a number of senior citizens daily, is bankrupt and may be shut down.

A vote on an emergency $4,000 request to keep the one "Newton Rider" bus running for this month was delayed Monday night by a parliamentary procedure employed by Alderman Wendell Bauckman.

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas, who made the emergency $4,000 request and an additional $12,000 request to keep the bus running from April to the end of the fiscal year, was unavailable for comment on whether the city bus would be forced off the road.

However, in a letter to aldermen, Thomas wrote: "It is requested that $4,000 be appropriated immediately and that the Board of Aldermen consider the additional $12,000 expeditiously, to prevent the interruption, should the board support the continued service through the remainder of the fiscal year."

Bauckman stopped debate on the emergency request and prevented a vote until the next regular board meeting, March 15, by "chartering" the request.

"I would like to know more about this in committee," said Bauckman.

Fire guts Centre offices

NEWTON CENTRE - A three-alarm blaze gutted a long Centre Street office building Monday leaving seven Newton firefighters injured and requiring mutual aid companies from a number of neighboring communities.

The fire took some two hours of battling before being brought under control, fire officials said. Firefighter Richard Learned was the first person injured as a result of the blaze that gutted the two-story structure at 1320 Centre Street. Learned was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital's West Wing about 10 a.m. and at 4:30 p.m. was admitted to the operating room for hand lacerations, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Six other firefighters, Jack Kennedy of Engine 1, treated for frostbite, Ralph Calderone of Engine 9, treated for frostbite, John Cedrone of Ladder 1, treated for an arm injury, John Negrotti of Engine 4, treated for a back injury, Jack Connors of Engine 7, treated for a rib injury and Lt. Richard Fanning of Engine 9, treated for exhaustion, were all treated and released.

The blaze is still under investigation, according to Fire Chief Edward Reilly. The building is owned and occupied by Advertising Agency Associates Inc. G.W.V. Travel Inc. also rent space in the building. About 50 employees and a crew of workers on the roof escaped injury.

The first alarm was struck at 9:41 a.m., according to alarm operators, who said they were alerted to the blaze by several phone calls from employees within the building. A second alarm was struck at 9:48 a.m. and a third alarm was struck by Assistant Chief Bernard Goulding at 10:07 a.m.

The blaze caused a cloud of smoke that could be seen several miles away. The fire swept rapidly through the building through a long, open loft under the roof, according to Captain Carmine Tedesco. Water flooded Centre Street, which was blocked off by Newton Police cruisers at Beacon Street and Paul Street.

Mutual aid engines from Boston, Brookline, Waltham, Watertown, Weston and Wellesley covered Newton's fire stations since all of the city's engines and ladders, with Assistant Chiefs William Dwyer, Edward Murphy

School board still plans to close Warren School

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A group of Warren Junior High parents and community leaders apparently failed Monday night to persuade the School Committee to review and possibly delay the closing of Warren Junior High in light of costly sewer problems at F.A. Day Junior High.

Instead, the School Committee passed a resolution calling for expeditious approval by the Board of Aldermen for the more than $500,000 estimated cost of repairs to the faulty plumbing line at Day Junior High.

The majority of the committee showed no support for reopening the June 1981 decision to close Warren completely in June 1983 with 7th graders from the Warren district attending Day (in a phased closing) this September.

Committee member Susan Silbey abstained from the otherwise unanimous resolution vote. Silbey said she would not support the resolution on the grounds that

Doctor cites concern over federal support

LOWER FALLS — With a snip of the scissors a ribbon fell away, marking the opening of Newton-Wellesley Hospital's new inpatient psychiatric unit — one of the first of its kind in the country.

The $3 million wing will officially be open to take patients in April but as NWH Department of Psychiatry chief Dr. Alvin Becker told more than 200 guests and government officials, "This is a momentous occasion" with the hospital taking "a historic step forward in meeting the health needs of the community."

Becker said the new wing — called "Three-central" — will be operated completely through insurance-company reimbursements, and will accept patients without regard to their ability to pay for services.

Noting that the mental-health wing will not rely on local, state or federal funds, Becker stressed that changes in the Reagan adminstration's rules regarding such insurance-program reimbursements for government employees could cut into funding for the new wing.

Referring to "significantly reduced mental health benefits in federal employee insurance programs," Dr. Becker said the "dream" of opening up the new wing "is threatened even at its inception by ominous trends."

"If these trends continue," he added, "we will be in serious financial trouble."

But, addressing the crowd which included notables Governor Edward J. King, Mayor Theodore Mann, Congressmen Barney Frank and Margaret Heckler, he expressed confidence "that the public sector/private sector model we have developed will help us overcome these obstacles."

Gov. King praised the hospital staff and administration for the work which has gone into development of the unique mental-health wing.

"If we can be of any help," King said, "I want you to know it isn't hollow, especially when it comes to those who cannot help themselves, we really and truly will respond as aggresivley and bountifully as we can."

With Friday's ribbon cutting, the year-long. construction project came close to an end for the 24-bed unit.

As Dr. Becker noted, the new wing will provide evaluation and treatment for persons with "an acute psychiatric illness" with preference given first to residents of the hospital's service area, which includes Newton, Wellesley, Weston and Needham. These patients will be treated "regardless of their ability to pay" and other patients will be admitted if there is space and they are able to pay or have adequate insurance.

Move to upgrade computer

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Department is recommending that an additional $21,000 be spent to upgrade the high school computer program next year at both high schools.

If approved by the School Committee as part of the $39.2 million school budget, the move would mean the transfer of Newton North High's Digital PDP11 to Newton South High and the purchase of a new, larger capacity computer for North.

While the high-tech and home computer booms are well-known trends, Paul Shapiro, coordinator for the computer program at the high schools, revealed at the School Committee's budget meeting Monday night that in two years the Educational Testing Service will administer an advanced placement exam in computers for college-bound students.

This year, the school budget set aside $28,000 for the computer program at the two high schools, but the nearly $50,000 recommended for next year (a 77-percent increase) will boost the total number of terminals from 21 to 35 as well as allow the lease-purchase of a new computer for North which is expected to be compatible with South's computer.

Next year's lease payment on the current North computer will be the final payment.

The upgrading of the computer program would also require that a capital outlay request be filed with the Board of Aldermen for $7,000 for rewiring and air-conditioning of the computer room.

Included in this figure are moving costs for transferring the North computer to South, although moving costs are not required to be capital outlay items and could be part of the school budget, Roy Cornelius, director of Support Services for the School Department, said.

Shapiro said having computers at both high schools would save $6,000 in telephone costs for next year alone since the terminals at South are linked to North's computer by telephone lines.

Shapiro said these telephone costs have spiraled upwards "by unbelievable amounts" and that this is "really wasted money."

North settlement to pay debts

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The $1.4 million settlement resulting from inadequate design of the heating and ventilating system at Newton North High School will be used to reduce the city's bond debt.

The Board of Aldermen Monday night voted unanimously to use the settlement to pay off bond notes for asbestos removal and heating and ventilating repairs at the high school.

Bonds are sold by cities and towns to finance expensive long-term capital improvement projects. Both City Treasurer Theodore Scafidi and City Comptroller Lawrence Marino have argued that the move will secure the city's AAA credit rating.

A settlement in the legal dispute that pitted the city against several contractors and architects for seven years came in November. A city claim for approximately $200,000 against two sub-contractors and an $11,000 suit brought by a New Hampshire construction firm against the city have not yet been settled.

In other action, aldermen:

• denied a petition by Arnold Belli of 78 Crafts St. to store 20,000 gallons of diesel fuel for his contracting business on his property. Approximately 75 area residents in a petition protested the request as a "safety risk" and "detriment."

•the conversion of 60 three-hour parking meters located in the Austin Street municipal parking lot to 12-hour meters.

•a resolution requesting Mayor Theodore Mann fill the vacancy in the custodial staff for the remainder of the fiscal year.

•approval of purchase of a two-family house at 1202 Chestnut St. and the transfer of the house to the Newton Community Development Authority.

•approximately $21,000 for retirment, leave and workmen's compensation for municipal employees and legal settlements.

•$3,000 for the city's share of the MBTA budget.

•$7,000 for the maintenance of fire apparatus.

• Department of Public Works requests for $30,500 for electricity, $40,937 for traffic signal maintenance, $12,500 for traffic signs, $4,500 for traffic paint.

•$1,400 for installation of sewer at Kingswood Road.

• a resolution honoring President of Newton Youth Hockey Michael LeConti of West Newton for his service to Newton youth.

•the re-appointment of 10 local residents to city boards and commissions and one new appointment by Mayor Theodore Mann including: Elsie Husher, Stephen Pauler, Thelma Fleishman, Stephen Rosenthal, Herbert Bamel, Paul Burke, Francis Rice, Meredith Censullo, Dr. Frank Howard, James Hyde, and former Mann campaign coordinator Edward Mandell.

Brady out as chairman

nounced by Mayor Theodore Mann today.

Brady, who has been working nights on the Bedford revaluation, said there had been a request for an election. Palmer apparently requested the election.

Palmer, a city assessor for the last two years, received the critical vote of assessor Mary Champagne who took over the job in February after a mayoral appointment.

"There were no direct reasons," said Palmer when asked why Brady was booted from the top position. "It was just a case of the board holding the annual election and that was the outcome. A year from now, it might be different."

Palmer will take the post in the wake of a city revaluation that has resulted in tax bill increases for approximately 12,000 of the city's 24,000 homeowners. The new property values have been criticized by many residents.

When asked why an election was not held in previous years, Brady said: "It was very unsettled. We were involved in a couple of projects and we split the work."

Both Brady and Palmer denied that there were hard feelings as a result of the vote. "I'm still there," said Brady. "There is nothing bad going on here."

Brady said that he expects the three assessors will rotate as chairman each year. "I think that was the intent," he said.

"It's no big deal," he added. "I think you are trying to make a mole hill into a mountain."

"There is no animosity or anything like that," said Palmer. "It is just a decision by the board."

When asked if he planned to make any changes in the department, Palmer responded: "It's my first day. I am going to take it one step at a time."

Alderman Richard McGrath, who was the lone opponent to Brady's three year reappointment by the 24 member board in February, charged that Brady has "contributed to confusion about revaluation in the city."

McGrath called the vote "a lack of confidence."

"He deserves the job," McGrath said of Palmer.

"I am happy Bob Palmer has been elected by his peers as chairman," said Chairman of the Aldermanic Revaluation Sub-Committee Paul Coletti. "If any person deserves some credit and accolades for the job that has been done (on revaluation) it is him."

Taxes and hearings

William Pearlmutter of Chestnut Hill, who faces a tax increase of $300, wanted to "know how it (the assessment) was done."

"I don't think the people who came around knew what they were doing," said Pearlmutter. "I want to know where they got these comparisons."

The sales of five comparable homes within the last three years are provided at the hearings.

"What they've done is shifted the burden from the rich to the middle class and the poor," added Pearlmutter, whose home was revalued from $14,000 to $125,600.

Jim Bearfield, the owner of a two-family home in Newtonville, called the comparison sheets "meaningless."

"They're not giving me a list of homes comparable to mine. It doesn't compare it in anyway," said Bearfield, who faces a $400 increase for a home that was revalued from $12,500 to $115,300.

David Moran of Auburndale was at City Hall to "make sure the assessors had all the data correct." The assessment on Moran's single-family home went from $10,000 to $87,000 resulting in a $200 tax increase.

"I'm not on fire the way most of these people are," he said. "I don't know why all these people thought their property taxes would go down. Property in Newton is worth a lot."

Peter Hoving expected his taxes to go down yet was confronted with a $700 tax increase. Hoving's Newton Corner home, which he and his wife bought in 1973, was revalued from $10,700 to $109,700.

"I'll sell it if anyone wants it for that price," said Maalke Hoving. "If anything I would have expected it (tax bill) to go down with all the cutbacks."

"The kids now walk to school and last year they didn't," said Hoving. Children living up to two miles from their junior or senior high must walk when last year only children who lived 1.5 miles away from their respective schools were forced to walk.

"It's also hard to believe how they went about it." said Hoving. "They were absolutely not qualified."

Harris Gordon, a condominium owner in Auburndale, found that Finnegan had given him the value of another condominium instead of his.

Sunday chase ends in arrest

NEWTON — A local man was arrested Sunday following a 5-minute high-speed chase through West Newton Square roads, police said.

Paul E. Stefaniak, 22, of 54 Adella Ave., was charged with operating without a license in his possession, driving to endanger, and speeding. He will be arraigned today in Newton District Court.

The chase began as the suspect turned west on Washington Street from Watertown Street, allegedly operating at a high rate of speed. Officer Hart attempted to stop the suspect, but the yellow Ford Mustang took off, reaching speeds of 50 m.p.h., police said.

Man faces variety of charges

NEWTON — A 28-year-old Jamaica Plain man was arrested Friday night for uttering a false prescription and assault and battery on a police officer.

Adrian P. Rozankowsky, of 105 Segwick St. will be arraigned today in Newton District Court.

According to police, the man attempted to break loose from police at Garb Drug, 2090 Commonwealth Ave., and a scuffle ensued.

Rozankowsky was also charged with possession of a Class B controlled substance, possession of a syringe, and possession of a hypodermic needle.

Walnut Hill Road home entered

NEWTON — A Walnut Hill Road residence was ransacked sometime Friday, police said.

A large assortment of jewelery and some prescription drugs were taken, according to police reports. No values were given.

Entry was gained through a 12-by-24-inch pane of glass in a rear porch door, and by kicking in an inner door to the dining room.

Cassette radio taken from club

NEWTON — A Panasonic AM-FM cassette radio, valued at $200, was taken from the Neighborhood Tennis Club, Berkley Street sometime Friday afternoon, police said.

The theft occured between 2:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Entry was gained by forcing a lock on the rear west side door.

DeMeo notches AF honor

AUBURNDALE — Airman James J. DeMeo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. DeMeo of Auburndale, has graduated from the Air Force tactical air command and control specialist course at Hurlburt Field, Fla. DeMeo will now serve at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., with the 21st Tactical Air Support Squadron. He is a graduate of Newton North High School.

PRESIDENT'S THANKS - Massachusetts Bay Community College President John McKenzie (right) hosted a tour and luncheon Friday for residents, legislators and alumni of the school who successfully pushed to keep the school open following budget cutting moves on the state level last fall. Opposition to merger of closing of the school, which includes a large percentage of students from Newton, eventually led to increased state support for the facility which is located in Wellesley.

For Newton teachers:

Short term leaves eyed

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Since sabbaticals were wiped out of this year's budget because of tight money, the School Committee has urged "a renewed committment" to staff development.

For next year, Superintendent Aaron Fink has proposed a new $45,000 program of short term leaves during the school year for professional development.

"I don't think any proposal I've ever made has gotten more enthusiasm out of the staff than this proposal right here," Fink stressed.

Nevertheless, some School Committee members questionned the program during Saturday budget discussions, especially the possible disruption caused by pulling regular teachers out of the classroom and replacing them with a substitute.

Sabbaticals, which cost about $78,500 in 1981, were given on a half-year, full-pay or full-year-at-half-pay basis. Fink said about 7 to 10 teachers were awarded sabbaticals each year.

Fink's proposal for short term leaves sets aside $45,000 for substitute teachers for leaves of absence which could range from 1 to 10 weeks. Applications for short-term leaves would be required to demonstrate a product of value to the Newton public schools.

Fink said the length of time awarded would be suited to each project.

But, the issue of pulling teachers out of the classroom continued to nag one School Committee member.

"I need to know what is the nature of the thing that we are proposing here," Susan Silbey said. "I'm not inclined to vote $45,000 for substitutes."

Silbey said she did not see anything about the proposal as outlined so far "that indeed cannot be done during summers and holidays" with teachers being paid as an "incentive."

Fink cited the example of teachers wanting to observe other classes in session as something which could only be done during the school year. Also, he said, "Paying a person a salary in the summer is sometimes more expensive than this."

"It seems like a reasonable thing to try, at least for a year," Ann Berwick said.

"When you hear from the parents with children in the classrooms where the teachers are not, you may be inclined to change your mind," Silbey said.

Marcia Mitchell suggested the formation of a sub-committee to define the program. "I'm very enthusiastic about it and I want to be able to defend it when we need to," she said.

"To me it is a kind of sabbatical. I think if we believe in staff development we can defend it on that basis," Leonard Gentile said.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said discussion of implementing the program would "need to follow passage."

Taking good aim on our bad drivers

Wow!
Socko!

That's the gut reaction to what Insurance Commissioner Michael Sabbagh is intending to do in future dealings with high risk drivers who make Massachusetts roadways fearful avenues of death and injury.

Car operators with poor records, convicted drunk drivers particularly, but also the law violators, those at fault in accidents, are going to pay through the nose in surcharges. Come January, 1983, it's going to be truly expensive for the bad driver to threaten fellow citizens.

Past criticisms here have chided the commissioner for being a bit footsie with the insurance industry in setting rates. With acquiesence of Sabbagh, the insurers got a 14.5 percent hike which was better than the analysis by Attorney General Bellotti declared more equitable.

Here again, in the commissioner's altered risk penalty formula, it could well be the underwriters will make out like bandits. This is where we'd like to see some detached, non-industry input and a more objective viewpoint on what takes place than is presently possible. The foxes are definitely in charge of the chicken coop.

All reservations aside, however, we fully support the aims of Commissioner Sabbagh in making the privilege of operating a vehicle so high for faulty driving it will discourage or disqualify the high risk element.

Until now, drivers in the high-risk pool have been charged the same premiums as all others. This would change to a selective premium schedule based on performance. A 1978 clause in the auto insurance law would be implemented to permit what is called surcharge reinsurance on risk applicants.

Finally, the commissioner wants to sharply increase surcharges as they are now scheduled under the Merit Rating system. First-offense surcharge levies would go up 50 percent, repeat convictions on drunken driving to $1,000 per. Retroactive application might find some drivers billed for $1,500 or more.

Recommendations come from a Reinsurance Facility Board representing the industry and brokers appointed by Sabbagh. This is highly exclusive company, with a high degree of self interest. So long as public safety is bolstered and the revisions work toward rewarding the good drivers with a better shake on premium costs, we have no quarrel.

Along about June, the Facility's spokesman reports, a look at the full package will be available for public hearing review. Consumer advocacy groups should be watching carefully the means by which benefits will be returned.

Graphically speaking

Who was that masked man?

Endorsingly yours

It is the political season, in case you hadn't noticed, and in this week's mail came two notes worth noting.

First, on the county scene, Register of Probate Paul Cavanaugh, in his bid for the Middlesex County DA's job, was endorsed by Newton Alderman Bruce Carmichael.

Cavanaugh first announced his candidacy for district attorney last May.

In tossing his support to Cavanaugh, Carmichael cited the current register of probate's experience as an attorney, legislator and court administrator, as well as the recent "strong stand" Cavanaugh has taken by filing legislation on issues like drunk driving, repeat offenders and neighborhood crime.

Another endorsement was announced last week, this one by Independent Action, a "national progressive political action committee," which gave its endorsement to Congressman Barney Frank.

Frank will be going head-to-head with Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, following redistricting which puts Newton into Heckler's present district.

In announcing the backing for Barney, Independent Action said the Fourth District Congressman "has shown himself to be a true leader for progressive causes in this country."

"His work on the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee, as well as the Government Operations and Judiciary Committees, has been exceptional," the committee said in a press release.

In endorsing Frank the group also said it would be giving the legal maximum - $5,000 - to his campaign coffers.

Into the 'inner workings'

Ever wonder about what goes on behind the scenes of those juicy afternoon soap operas..

Although Graphically speaking hasn't been keeping up on the changes since the great "General Hospital" fad last year, the Auburndale Community School is offering a one-session class on soaps.

Dan Wakefield, creator of "James at Fifteen" will be there on March 10 (in a Newton home, that's all we know at this point) along with Joanne Spitz, a "professional fan" of soaps, according to the folks at the Community School.

For more information call thge Auburndale Community School at 969-3652.

Something's fishy

The Graphic recently showed you a picture of a rather sizeable sea bass caught by Waban angler Russ Berger. Russ hauled in the fish and walked home from the recent sportsmen's show in Boston with high honors in his division from the state Department of Commerce and Development.

Well, with red faces we discover that Russ was not alone in his angling talents.

A note from Governor Ed King's office says the top award in the governor's saltwater fishing derby for 1981 in the women's division went to Jeannine Boudreau of Sherrin Road, Newton Lower Falls. She hauled in a 1,000 bluefin tuna to top competition in that category.

Now that, one must admit, would put Charlie Tuna to shame.

Sing out in Boston

If you happen to be in the big city (Boston, that big city) on Tuesday, March 9 you might drop by Quincy Market just before noon.

Some 100 Newton kids will raise their voices in song, as they say, as part of the All City Elementary School Chorus in a special program at the market. The group will also perform that afternoon.

Verdict was out

Rumors are at times just that and at City Hall where the walls have ears, a good rumor can travel faster than you can say Ed English.

English, the city clerk, was passing around false information last week concerning the filming of a marriage licence sequence at City Hall.

Well, the filming went on as scheduled, but the rumored star - Paul Newman - was no where to be found. Newman, who was seen recently in South Boston filming shots for the movie, The Verdict, was finished with Boston-area production by the second week in February.

Audvid Productions, a Newton-based independent production house, was filming part of a pilot program called "Living and Loving," a series of 1½ to 3 minute dealing with social problems.

The filming that was done as English read the marriage vows will be used as cover material for the said series.

The psychiatrist who is financing the filming intends to sell the segments as fillers to newscasts that need to fill broadcast time.

So those rumors left quite a few Paul Newman fans wondering who the masked man really was.

Marking time

On finding out you just don't exist

I knew when I ran for mayor that I risked losing my public identity. I knew that gradually people would forget me. And I guessed that as I resumed my apolitical life I would gain some kind of anonimity.

However, I never expected the kind of anonimity that I received this week.

You see, I don't exist. Furthermore, not only do I not exist, my house doesn't exist, either. My street exists. My neighbors exist. But I don't.

Now, I know this sounds absurd but according to that marvelous computer of Finnegan Associates my house is not on the revaluation/property list.

That means either I don't live here, nobody lives here, the house doesn't exist, or that there is no assessment and no taxes.

Or maybe it's because Mr. Finnegan was so enamored of my high praise for his firm and the revaluation process that they took me off the list as a present.

Ordinarily, I would think a mistake has been made. But we all know computers don't make mistakes. Furthermore, we know the painstaking efficiency with which this process has been conducted. It couldn't be a mistake.

The revaluation was supposed to be completed the first week of January. So what if it's seven weeks late and still not completed. Mr. Finnegan estimated 10. of the people would demand hearings. So what if it's already 25..

The city paid R. M. Bradley $15,000 to insure the certification of the commercial property. So what if our commercial properties failed to get certified. And who cares that R. M. Bradley left all the values lying around City Hall ungarded.

So with all of this precision and accuracy in the revaluation process it's clear that my being left off the list could never be a mistake.

So I debated whether I should say anything. After all, if my house wasn't revalued I was never given a hearing and never received a tax bill.

And if I subsequently received a bill I could deny payment on the basis I never received notice of my increased value.

It would't be hard to prove. The city's list proves it for me. Very tempting.

But since I was having a hard time coming up with a column this week - this fiasco was just too good to pass up.

So I am making a public confession to Mr. Finnegan. You goofed. You missed me. (Now I'll probably receive an assesment of $500,000).

There is a serious point to this column. And that is that if you feel your revaluation figure is not realistic, then challenge it.

These people and machines are not infallible. They make serious errors and your valuation could be one of those errors.

Request a hearing. If you receive no satisfaction and no adjustment, file for an abatement. If the assessors deny your abatement, appeal it to the Appellate Tax Board. And if you lose your appeal there's always one more option - RUN FOR MAYOR AND LOSE - then you and your house can also disappear from the tax rolls.

You guest it

A tight spot

By Bernice Bennett

I squeezed through carefully with just enough room. How lucky can you get.. One parking space left when you are in a hurry is a boon. All you need is one.

Congratulating myself on my good fortune and looking forward to proceeding with the rest of my chores, I entered my bank. Because of the warm, summer day, I had left the window on the passenger side open. I enjoyed myself as I indulged in a little chit-chat with the clerks in the bakery and book shop.

Out again once more - I walked towards my car and knew instantly I was in deep trouble. Where I had left enough room on the driver's side; that is - for a person to open the door and squeeze through - someone else had replaced the car that was there before and now was parallel to mine with about an inch of space allotted. I was completely fenced in from both sides.

I stood there - angry and frustrated - for a few moments and then, finally, decided to take the "take the bull by the horns." I entered each store in the block inquirinq as to the owner. No one - but no one - admitted to hemming me in. The least the idiot could have done would be to leave a note advising me as to his or her whereabouts - for it was done - I'm sure - with full knowledge.

A group of men were standing and watching, not without a good deal of amusement showing on their faces. I stood surveying the situation and pondering my strategy.

"Okay, hotshot woman driver - let see you get out of this one." I was sure this thought prevailed. One of the men finally spoke up. Grinning from ear to ear - "Miss - (it happened a while back) - if you want - we can help you."

"How..," I asked. (Do you believe in miracles..) "well.. we can lift you up and push you through the open window."

Shocked at the bold suggestion and uncomfortably aware of the inappropriate apparel for such calisthenics, I started to giggle. The whole idea appalled and fascinated me at the same time. What a sight it would make - but desperate - and grabbing at the straw - I reluctantly agreed.

One of them produced a box upon which I stood and with their signals in action - I felt myself held firmly by the ankles - ONE - TWO - THREE'.

I was pitched head first right through the window where I landed face down and by this time - convulsed with laughter to the accompaniment of the cheers and hand clapping from the pedestrians who had gathered to watch.

As I inched out again under their close scrutiny and wonderful direction, I waved my thanks and wondered..."Why many are called - but few are chosen".

Letters to the editor

Offering a '1 percent' solution

To the editor:

The advent of Reagonomics has left many areas of need on the American socio-economic scene without capacity for survival. The new federalism replaces a commitment to fund basic human needs with a transfer to state and local governments at a time of financial shortfall in most states. The only solution for many will be an awakening of the conscience and a call to arms in corporate America.

I suggest an immediate commitment of 1 percent of profits to community based social services and organizations which abet the downtrodden in this country. One percent is not an impressive number; however, it is a start. My experience in 27 years of banking tells me that all too often corporate commitment is lacking.

Certainly, businesses which are imbued with a fixation on numbers — earnings per share; earnings on assets, return on capital, etc., should readily comprehend and commit to such a formula. I suggest 1 percent as a minimum and challenge American businessmen to compete for primacy in this commitment — a sort of "Can You Top This" syndrome.

What is called for, is a re-examination of the corporation's role in modern society and a redefinition of the legitimate constituencies to whom corporations owe some obligations. I believe that our future health and the health of the free-market system will depend upon how well we respond.

What is so sorely lacking is a clear recognition that the public involvement of the corporation is just as much a legitimate and integral part of its function as are its more traditional roles.

The potential of corporation America is great but an awakening from its Rip Van Winkle era is long overdue. The realization must come that opportunity for a full and meaningful life is for all Americans and for this to come to fruition, the HAVES must share a greater portion of the great pie with the less fortunate.

The soul of this country is at stake; for indeed, "What profiteth the man who gains the whole world, but loses his soul!"

Strange duck in Washington

To the editor;

A United Press International press release of Feb. 24 from Lawrence, Kansas runs as follows: "Move over Daffy, Donald, Huey, Louie and Dewey - a new species of duck has been discovered. It's white-headed, stocky and can't fly but it can 'steam'. The discovery of the whiteheaded, flightless steamer duck in Argentina was announced in the Nov. 25 issue of the University of Kansas Museum's Occasional Papers."

Yet, contrary to scientific opinion it may well be that a single member of this species known for its white-headed stocky form, inability to fly but with power to steam has been observed in a number of plaes in this country for many years, particularly in Washington, D.C.

The psuedo-scientific name often used is "Tippus Oneilacephalous."

However, many people in the 8th Congressional District where this bird is known to roost when not flapping about on the floor of the great coop by the Potomac feel that he is now a senior citizen among our feathered friends and deserves a well-earned rest from steaming.

They know he will be well cared for with a fund of 70,000 or 80,000 handsomely engraved "bills", to be replaced yearly of course, provided by his Washington curators to line his Cambridge nest.

This will enable him to obtain Republican "worms," the sole diet of this extraordinary duck.

As John James Audubon, the noted ornithologist might comment if alive today, "Politics certainly makes strange bird fellows."

Man appeals verdict in personal injury case

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A former Newton resident charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene after personal injury was found guilty on both charges last week in Newton District Court and is appealing a court decision.

Judge Monte Basbas sentenced Jonathan Earthrowl,24, of West Roxbury, formerly of Newton Centre, to 60 days in the county house of correction to be served and one year suspended which will be served concurrently for each of the charges.

Earthwal was arrested by Newton Police Officer Frank Gorgone at 7:14 p.m. on Jan. 28. According to police, Earthrowl was driving east on Beacon Street when he struck a 62-year-old man in front of the Newton Centre Cinema. Arnold Paris, of 100 Columbia St., Brookline, was rushed to Newton-Wellesley Hospital where he was treated for a fractured skull and head lacerations. Paris was released a week ago Monday.

A Boston College student, Susan Erickson, testified for the prosecution, Assistant District Attorney Adrianne Lynch, that she saw Earthrowl strike Paris on Jan. 28 and leave the scene of the accident. Erickson alerted police to the accident and gave a description of the red Ford Maverick that Earthrowl was driving the night he was arrested.

Basbas, after making a finding of guilty, originally sentenced the defendent to 30 days in the county house of correction. However, after a brief recess, Basbas realized that court papers prepared on the case were inaccurate and that the penalty for a guilty verdict on leaving the scene after personal injury is at least 60 days in the house of correction. When the case resumed in the court room, Basbas told the prosecution and defense attorney James Burke that the sentence was changed to 60 days. After a brief conference, Burke told the court that they would appeal the decision to a six-man jury at the Trial Court of Cambridge.

On Monday, Feb. 22, when the list of cases scheduled for the following day in district court was being prepared, court clerks incorrectly stated the one of the charges against Earthrowl as leaving the scene of an accident, rather than leaving the scene of an accident after personal injury. Earthrowl was arrested and arraigned on the latter charge as well as operating under the influence of alcohol. The record was changed before being posted Tuesday.

Newton District Court

Mixed verdicts for Quincy man

NEWTON — A Quincy man was found guilty last week in Newton District Court on several charges, including breaking and entering and possession of a firearm.

Scott W. Hodges, 31, of 317 Copeland St., was found guilty of breaking and entering in the night with intent to commit a misdemeanor to wit assault and battery. Judge Monte Basbas sentenced Hodges to two year's probation.

Hodges was also tried for assault and battery and was found guilty for which he received two-year probation.

On charges of possession of marijuana, Hodges was found not guilty, and on charges of possessing a firearm without a license, Hodges' case was dismissed.

On charges of leaving the scene after property damage, Hodges was found guilty and sentenced to two years probation and ordered to pay $460 in restitution.

Man ordered to alcohol program

NEWTON — A Watertown man was found guilty last week in Newton District Court on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol.

James T. Halligan, 38, of 23 Darch Rd., was ordered by Judge Basbas to attend the Alcohol Alternative Safety Program (ASAP) and pay a $200 fee to attend. Halligan's license was also suspended. A review date is set for March 9.

On charges of leaving the scene after property damage, the case was continued without a finding.

Case continued without finding

NEWTON — The case of a Fitchburg man charged with leaving the scene of an accident was continued without a finding.

Phillip P. Hugo, 26, of 139 Calley St., was charged with leaving the scene and causing property damage. The case was filed until Feb. 23, 1983.

On being black and in the forefront of Boston TV

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL — When Liz Walker is asked to comment on being a black television news reporter in a city that has been plagued with racial tension, she says it's too bad people focus on racial difference.

"It's really stupid. We're on the verge of a nuclear holocaust and we don't like each other because of the color of our skin."

Walker,30, an evening news co-anchor for WBZ-TV's Eyewitness News show, last week talked with students at Newton South High School about the the life of a news reporter, racial issues and the world of television.

Walker is an Emmy award-winning reporter. She is also black. And for that reason, Walker was invited to speak with students during the school's "Black History Week," sponsored by the Enrichment Program.

About 150 students, including many black students, crowded into two classrooms to question Walker about her life as a reporter. "What's it like being a black reporter? Do you face a lot of discrimination? Do you think Boston is a racial city?" South students asked Walker, who charmed them with her down to earth style, wit and sense of humor.

Walker remembers that when she first came to Boston, the media and public were stirring because a black would be anchoring the 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. editions.

"When I first came to Boston, the big thing in all the newspapers was that I was black," explained Walker. Walker said she didn't understand what all the fuss was about. However when she joined the show in 1980, Walker would be the only black anchoring the weekday 6 p.m.and 11 p.m. news program.

"I did a lot of interviews with newspaper reporters who kept asking me what it feels like to be black reporter," explained Walker. "After a while, I ran out of answers. I told them I just got here, I've been black and I don't know what to tell you."

As a result of the racial issue, Walker says she felt pressured. But most of the pressure comes from the nature of the job, Walker said. "It's a competitive field and there are always 1000 people who want your job, who want to be television news reporters," said Walker.

Walker, an Arkansas native who came to Boston from San Francisco, where she anchored an early morning program for KRON-TV, said being a tv reporter, whether you are black or white, is challenging.

"Television is a demanding and time consuming job. You have to fight and you have to struggle to get attention. Survival is the key," said Walker.

When a black student pressed Walker to say whether or not she felt racial tension, she responded, "Yes, I've encounterd racial problems. But no one's ever called me a nigger. At least not to my face."

One such problem occurred when she was asked to cover a story at Harvard, where a researcher said he found further evidence that blacks are genetically inferior to whites. "I really didn't want to do that story," remembers Walker, who won an Emmy in 1978 for her coverage of the Jonestown tragedy.

> 'I did a lot of interviews with newspaper reporters who kept asking me what it feels like to be a black reporter. After a while I ran out of answers.'

Also, when Westinghouse Broadcasting was considering hiring Walker for the evening slot, the company initiated an investigation to find out what the effect of hiring a black would be. "I kind of resented that," said Walker. "I think they were really afraid to put me on the air because I'm black."

Walker also criticized the media for its intense coverage of the political strife in Poland, while, she said, political and social injustice has existed for years in South Africa.

But Walker, who is as personable and friendly off the air as she is during the show, also joked with students about her life and work. After a thorough introduction by a student, Walker said, "Well, there's not much more to tell you. I'm black and I'm big." said the 6' tall, maybe 6' 1", Walker. "Everybody is so freaked out by that."

"Does everybody on the show really like each other as much as they seem, or is just an act?" another student asked.

"It's really genuine," Walker responded, as she told students that the news team is always cracking jokes. "I particularly like Bob Lobel. He just makes me LAUGH. And Jack WIlliams can be very funny too... Then Bruce will make these comments that are somewhere out in left field and we all just look at each other laughing..."

Walker also joked about a story she did in Sommerville, an event she didn't want to cover, "But my photographer wanted to cover it," said Walker. Walker said she found herself in Sommerville where bullets were flying out of a tavern, dogs biting her ankles, police spraying tear gas and all she wanted was, "To GET ME OUT of Sommerville!" It was 10 p.m., she was a nervous wreck and her makeup had melted away.

"And there's Tom Ellis. Standing there without a hair out of place, just as nice as he is on tv, very calm and getting his story."

But Walker, looking sporty in a yellow jersey, green cardigan and beige trousers, shrugged her shoulders, "But I love my work."

City eyes mill site for housing units

NEWTON — The city's Planning Department is negotiating with Greenfield's Sweaterville Old Colony Knitting Mills to buy its 2.2-acre site for 51 units of elderly and low-income housing.

Sweaterville, on Glen Street in Newton Centre, is the "preferred site" for the use of $2.4 million of state Community and Development funds, according to John Quatrale, city housing development coordinator.

The Newton Community Development Authority (NCDA) is looking at five additional sites in the city.

"We're pretty tentative at this point," said Quatrale last week.

According to Quatrale, NCDA awaits completion of commercial property revaluation before negotiating a price with Sweaterville.

"We're having the property appraised to see if we can afford it or not," Quatrale said. Federal Community Development Block Grant funds can also go toward the acquisition.

Quatrale expects "the usual type of opposition" from residents of the area. He hopes the project — even with the increased density of the housing — "would be more palatable" to the residents because of the removal of a large manufacturing area from a residential locality.

He said the Sweaterville site is the only one under consideration that can accommodate the 51 units.

The complex would consist of 26 elderly, 15 family and 10 congregate elderly housing units. The city's Department of Housing Services, under NCDA direction, would manage the units.

A BRILLIANT DEDUCTION.

Together, you and your spouse can take up to a $4,000 Federal income tax deduction in 1982 by opening West Newton Savings Bank Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) right now. That's $2,000 apiece for each working spouse or $2,250 if only one spouse works. If you're self employed, you can take even greater deductions with our Keogh Plan—up to $15,000 worth.

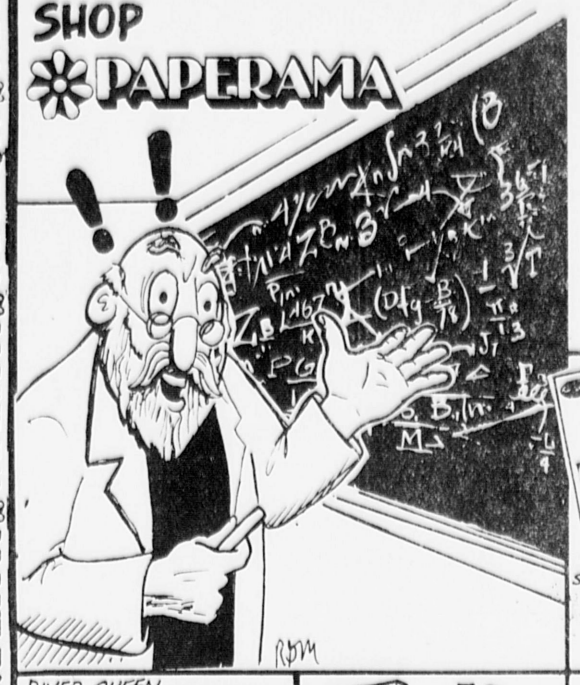

What's more, the healthy interest you'll earn is tax exempt until you withdraw funds after retirement. And of course, your principal and interest are fully insured.

Stop by any West Newton Savings Bank office soon for the complete details. Remember: an IRA or Keogh Plan is more than a smart move for the future. Considering the tax benefits you'll get, it's absolutely brilliant.

Club notes

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will meet on Monday, March 8 at 12:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Concord St., Newton Lower Falls. Mrs. George Stanley Wattendorf, Regent, will preside. The guest speaker, Mrs. Warner B. Hartford, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Changing Styles of American Furniture". In her presentation she will focus on the furniture of the Early Colonial days through the Federal period, emphasizing the art of the Colonial cabinetmaker. Mrs.-Hartford has been associated with the Boston Museum of Fine Arts since 1951. There will be a petit luncheon preceding the business meeting. Hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. Elias B. Boyce and Mrs. Rene Marcou.

The New England Singles Unit B'nai B'rith and B'nai B'rith Women No. 5182, will hold a Sunday Supper Brunch at J & B Steak House, 418 Watertown St., Newton on Sunday, March 14, at 11 a.m. All you can eat: members $6.50, non-members $7.50. Mail checks by March 10 to Barbara Seletsky, 38 Bowdoin St., Newton, 02161, or call Barbara 332-9828 or Selig 566-4561 for further information. For age 39 and over.

Corpus Christi Church, 45 Ash St., Auburndale will be having an evening with Irish entertainment in the Church Hall on Saturday, March 13, starting at 8 p.m. The evening will feature traditional Gaelic music and step dancing. Some of the performers will include; Jean McVeigh, a Belfast born professional singer; Maureen and Tom Kelley will provide bagpipe and accordian music as well as step dancing; Skip McK inley will play the timber flute and the penny whistle; Bill Crozier will perform on the mandolin; and a group from the Maureen Keohane Dancers in West Roxbury will round out the entertainment. Tickets are $4 a person and can be obtained by calling 964-1906, with a limited number of tickets at the door.

The Temple Emanuel Couples Club of Newton will hold its annual gala fund raising event of the season "Club Caravan", on Saturday, March 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Hall, 385 Ward St., Newton Centre. The theme will be "Totem Pole Night" featuring all the great music of the 40's, remembering the Glen Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Jimmy Dorsey and Harry James Orchestras and the songs they made famous. Jerry Davis and his orchestra will recreate this musical treat. A full course catered dinner will be served. Admission is $35 per couple for all members, nonmembers and guests, and will be by reservation only. Call Victor and Mildred Resch at 244-1809 or George and Dorothy Miller at 244-1049 promptly. Reservation cut-off date is March 8.

David Anable, overseas news editor of The Christian Science Monitor will be the guest lecturer at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands on March 17 at 1 p.m. This meeting, co-sponsored by the Woman's Club and Baybank/Middlesex will be held at the Workshop, 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands. Following a brief creer in British politics, Anable became a foreign correspondent in London for The Christian Science Monitor. He then came to live in the United States and has been assistant overseas news editor, United Nations correspondent, New York bureau chief, and now is overseas news editor. He has traveled extensively in Latin America, Canada, Europe, Scandinavia, Africa, Australia, the Middle East and the Soviet Union. Mrs. Charles Casey, club president and Mrs. Joseph B. Moulton, chairman of this program say that since Anable has been guest speaker previously, the club members are condfident that he will bring them up-to-date on current affairs. There will be a food sale and treasure table proceeds of which will be used for the scholarship fund. Refreshments will be provided and members may bring guests at no charge. Hostess: Miss Dorothy Rolfes; Committee: Mmes. Cunningham, Fibel, Kelly, MacKintosh, and Miss Maloney.

Social

Newton residents help plan Heart Association benefit

NEWTON — The weekend of March 12 - 14, will mark the American Heart Association's First Gala Benefit Antiques Exposition which will be held at the Northeast Trade Center, Woburn, in conjunction with the Yankee Doodle Drummer Antiques Show.

Sandra Perrin of Newton is president of the Women's Council, American Heart Association Greater Boston Division. She is working with more than a dozen other Newton residents in coordinating the upcoming fund-raising auction.

Television personalities Gail Harris, WBZ-TV anchorwoman, and Joyce Kulhawik, arts and entertainment reporter at WBZ are co-chairpersons for the event.

Highlighting the weekend festivities will be a champagne preview and benefit celebrity auction on Friday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m., when a distinguished assemblage of political, civic, sports and media personalities will volunteer their assistance as guest auctioneers with the entire proceeds of the evening going directly to the American Heart Association.

Admission to the champagne preview and benefit auction will be by donation of $10 per person; with patrons at $25 per couple, and sponsors at $50 per couple, through tax deductible contributions to the American Heart Assocaition.

Advance contributions can be made or auction information can be obtained by calling Bornstein at 617/535-4810; or by writing the Antique Exposition at P.O. Box 2204, Peabody, 01960.

Community Concert Band forming

NEWTON — If you play a woodwind, brass or percussion instrument, or if at some time in the past you did, and would like to dust the old instrument off and join a congenial, interested group under expert leadership, the Newton Community Concert Band may be just for you.

Started several years ago with a seed grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, under the auspices of the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department, the Band now meets weekly at Newton South High School from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., on Tuesday evenings. Ron Bergin, on the music facility of the Newton Public Schools, is the musical director and welcomes players of all ages and abilities. The music fee is $15 and rehearsals started last week.

To join, call Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department at 552-7120 or send a check made payable to Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent St., Auburndale , 02166.

Rabbi Roth slated as guest scholar at temple

NEWTON CENTRE - The fourth annual Rabbi Samuel Chiel Kallah will be held on Friday evening, March 12, and Shabbat morning, March 13, at Temple Emanuel, 385 Ward St., Newton Centre. Guest scholar will be Rabbi Joel Roth, dean of the Rabbinical School and associate professor of Talmud at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Rabbi Roth's theme will be Halachah. On Friday evening he will concentrate on the types of non-le gal factors that are studied by Halachic scholars in the process of decision making. On Shabbat morning Rabbi Roth will focus on the Halachic and extra Halachic elements involved in the issue of the role of women in Synagogue ritual. In particular, he will comment on the practices of giving women aliyot, counting women as part of a minyan, and permitting women to be witnesses in Jewish law. Rabbi Roth has indicated that background material for the topics he will present can be found in the book "Conservative Jud8aism and Jewish Law" edited by Prof. Seymour Siegel.

Rabbi Roth completed his undergraduate education at Wayne State University in Detroit. He continued his studies at the Jewish Theological Seminary and was ordained a rabbi in 1968. In 1973 Rabbi Roth received his Ph.D. in Talmud from the seminary. In addition to being a member of the department of Talmud and Rabbinics, Rabbi Roth has served as associate dean of the Rabbinical School, dean of students at the Seminary College, and director of the Melton Research Center for Jewish Education. Rabbi Roth is the author of the book "Sefer Ha Modecai, Tractate Kiddushin" and has completed work on another book, "The Halachic Process: A Systemic Analysis."

The Kallah, which means general assembly or popular college, was instituted by Babylonian scholars during the third century, C. E., and continued in existence until the eleventh century. Both scholars and laymen would gather semi-annually during the months of Adar and Elul in order to study under the leadership of the heads of the academies mentioned in the Yekum Purkan prayer.

NEW SHRINER - Bernard Garber (center) of Newton was recently inducted as a shriner in Aleppo Temple in ceremonies in Wilmington. Shown at left is J. Philip Berquist of Auburndale, grand master of Masons in Massachusetts and Earl Leake of Brookline, past potentate of Aleppo Temple.

Waban Women's Club plans benefit concert

WABAN — The Waban Women's Club will sponsor a benefit concert March 7 at the Widsor Club in Waban entitled "Spring and Renaissance".

Proceeds from this concert will be designated for two scholarships to be given to one Newton North and one Newton South High School 1982 graduate. The students are traditionaliy picked from students in the Waban area, and are awarded on the basis of accomplishment and need.

The concert this year will feature "Good Companie", a trio of musicians who play music from the Renaissance on authentic instruments. They have performed concerts and lecture-demonstrations throughout New England. The players are Paula Chateauneuf, lute; Mollie Glazer, treble and bass viola de gambas; and Roy Sansom, recorders and ackett They will play a program of music of different origins from countries around the world.

The Waban Women's Club has a distinguished 85-year history. Historically, it has attracted local women who have met to study local or international issues, to enjoy the arts together, and to perform philanthropic good works. At present, there are 135 members. It is affiliated with the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs.

Chairman for this concert is Patricia Givens, philanthropic chairman for the Waban Women's Club.

HANDIWORK - Helen Foster and May Casey, volunteers for the West Suburban Chapter of the American Red Cross in Newton, show off bibs sewn for patients undergoing rehabilitation in the Boston Veterans' Administration Hospital. Mrs. Foster furnished the materials and personnally sewed 75 of the bibs as her annual contribution to the Red Cross.

Chiropractic for Health

by Dr. David G. Rutman, Chiropractor

"THE COMMON COLD"

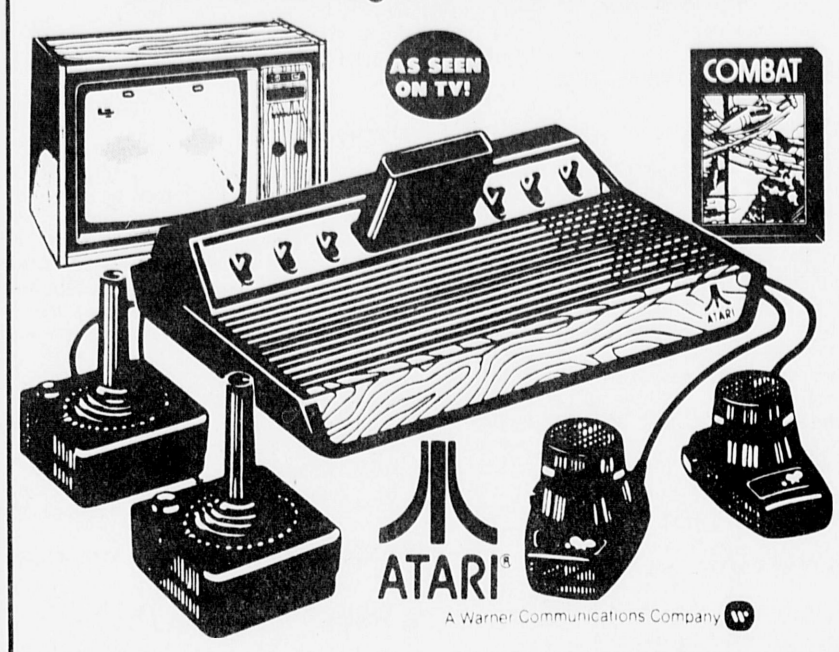

The common "cold" really has nothing to do with low temperature as implied by the name. It involves, rather, an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the air passages. There is talk of a cold "settling" in the nose, throat or bronchi, whichever is inflamed. It is these areas which become weakened and less resistant to toxins in the body. These tissues finally succumb to the "cold". The primary reason for their weakened state, however, is often the lack of nerve energy from the spine. The spine is the exit point for the nerve's supply of vital energy. With an adequate supply of energy, the body's tissues are better equipped to ward off toxins. Your chiropractor works to minimize your nervous system's efficiency and help eliminate offending toxins. Your chiropractor is interested in both the restoration of your health and the maintenance of your health. Chiropractic utilizes all modern forms of diagnostic procedures in addition to specialized Chiropractic procedures for locating the real, fundamental causes within your body which can disturb natural body function and prevent normal health. We believe chiropractic care not only restores your health but also can maintain and build it. Give it a try! We think you'll be glad you did. Chiropractic doesn't cost. It pays off in improved health! DR. DAVID G. RUTMAN, CHIROPRACTOR, 4593 Washington Street, Roslindale, 323-5022.

CHIRO TIP:

Drink large amounts of water to increase kidney activity and flush out accumulated toxins.

Board votes ban on free cigarettes

by the tobacco lobbyists in this state."

McGlynn, who acknowledged that the institute was unaware that the law was in committee, called the ban Newton's "ought to be a law syndrome." He said the tobacco industry has not given away promotional cigarettes on the public streets or sidewalks of Newton.

"You have a legal product and it should be treated as any other legal product," said McGlynn.

According to McGlynn, the ordinance would discriminate against a lawful product, violate rights of commercial free speech and provisions of the Public Health Cigarette Smoking Act of 1969.

"I think the board made a big mistake by not reconsidering it and not getting a concrete opinion from the city solicitor," McGlynn said.

City Solicitor Daniel Funk told aldermen in a memorandum that he "did not believe that further research will uncover any judicial decisions which would serve to clarify the issue" and therefore the question of adopting the ordinance was one of policy.

"The validity of the ordinance in question falls into the grey area of the law," wrote Funk. "No courts have squarely considered the issues presented."

Addison Monday reaffirmed her group's offer to provide Newton with free use of its' attorneys to defend the ordinance if it's challenged by the tobacco industry. In addition to GASP's own counsel, Addison noted that John Banzhaf, professor of law at Georgetown University and John Brody, of Suffolk Law and author of the book Legal Rights of Non-Smokers, have said they would assist in the defense of the law.

"If it's unconstitutional, there is nothing we can do about it," said Alderman Robert Tennant, who voted against the ban. "I don't advocate smoking. I advocate free enterprise."

Alderman Verne Vance, who filed for reconsideration, noted there were "serious questions that require serious consdierations no matter what the merits of the issue are." Vance voted in favor of the ordinance.

The modified ordinance, which included minor clarifications, deletes a clause which takes issue with the litter nuisance created by giveaways. A second change omits a part of the law so it can not be interpreted to include the selling of cigarettes or the use of cigarette machines.

Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota, each passed a similar ordinance in 1979. The constitutionality of these laws have yet to be challenged.

Last spring, Newton became the first city in Massschusetts to pass a law protecting the rights of non-smokers in public restaurants. The ordinance requires public restaurants with 50 seats or more seats to set aside 15 percent of their seats for nonsmokers.

Aldermen in favor of the ordinance: Baker; Barker; Bullwinkle; Coletti; Carmichael; Creem; Daley; Gentile; Levinsky; Malec; McGrath; Morris; M. Richmond; Shea; Sheehan; Schick; Sofman; Vance; and Jefferson.

Aldermen against: Bauckman; DePasquale: Taglienti; Tennant.

Search committee

A reporter for The Graphic was excluded from two meetings of the 18-member search committee last week on the grounds that "the privacy of individual applicants outweighs the public's right to know," according to committee chairman Oscar Wasserman.

Wasserman did invite the public to search committee meetings last week to hear the standards which the group is using to screen the 110 applicants for the job currently held by Superintendent Fink, who is stepping down at the end of the current school year. Wasserman said beforehand he would call an executive session to interview candidates.

Although the group did close out the public on advice of the district attorney's office it did not, at either of the two meetings, follow the letter of the Open Meeting Law.

The law says a committee must state the reasons for an executive session, hold a roll call vote, record the vote, and announce whether or not the committee would meet again in open session following the closed door portion.

At meetings on Wednesday night and Saturday afternoon no votes were taken and Wasserman did not say whether or not the group would reconvene in open session.

Wasserman said at both meetings last week the group was seeking "an individual who maintains diversity in the schools through affirmative action" and holds "high academic standards" while showing "a high intellect."

"You don't know what you have done," countered Alderman Rodney Barker. "If the funds are not approved, service will stop."

"Why haven't we heard more about this before..." asked Bauckman.

Thomas said that in 1981 the bus service routes were expanded to "meet the needs of students deprived of school bus transportation."

"This has resulted in an increased operating cost," he wrote in a letter to aldermen. "The expanded service and lack of adequate funding by corporations serviced by the bus routes has resulted in a deficit."

The bus service was designed to meet the needs of local residents and was envisioned as a self supporting service. The service has received approximately $15,000 in contributions from local merchants since its inception nearly two years ago.

The bus provides regular service to the Chestnut Hill Mall, the Needham Street Industrial area and other Newton village business districts.

Arts in the Parks lists schedules

Arts in the Parks, Newton Recreation Department announces its spring roster of challenging children's enrichment courses in creative movement, pathways to music, creative drama and music and art for children ages two through eight beginning the week of April 5 for 10 weeks through the week of June 14. Keren Milner, music specialist, will offer "A Music Morning" for three and four year olds, Monday mornings; a partners' class for two and early three year olds which include an hour each of music and art Wednesday mornings with adult of choice; and two afternoon pathways to music classes, Monday and Wednesdays. Phyllis Bernstein offers creative movement and the visual arts Tuesday and Thursday mornings 9:30 a.m. - noon; afternoon creative movement classes for children ages three through s ix and for Grades 1-3, creative drama Wednesdays 3:30 p.m. - 5 p.m. Both Keren Milner and Phyllis Bernstein are experienced specialists who follow a clearly defined curriculm which heightens the children's interest and abilities in these areas. A full schedule of classes can be obtained by calling Arts in the Parks at 552-7120 and requesting the spring Arts in the Parks brochure. Similar classes will be available both during the summer and fall.

Arts Center hosts five-part series

NEWTONVILLE - The Newton Arts Center has announced, as an adjunct to its winter semester, a five-part series of lectures and instructions on antiques. Experts and collectors in the field of antique porcelain and pottery, rare books, and American folk art will speak at the Arts Center on consecutive Wednesday evenings at 7:30 starting March 17, at 61 Washington Pk., Newtonville.

"19th Century Chinese and Japanese Pottery and Porcelain" will be the subject addressed by Stuart Slavid, a partner of the Den of Antiquity, Boston. This lecture on March 17 at 7:30 will include discussion of Imari, Satsuma, Rose Medallion, Mandarin, Canton, and Cloisonne pottery and porcelain with samples and slides.

"Wedgewood: Circa 1755-1930, Pottery and Porcelain" will be Slavid's second lecture topic on March 24. The evening will give a comprehensive view of the manuy varieties of decorative and nondecorative Wedgewood ware.

"Rare Books and First Editions" will be the topic of discussion by Theodore Yonge on March 31. Yonge, a writer himself, will explain8 how to tell a rare book, what a first edition is, where it comes from, what happens to it and its uses and abuses.

Mat Tavares, owner of the Pole and Cap, will lecture on "American Folk Art," April 7 and 14. The first evening will examine the origins and relationships of major groupings of American folk art; and April 14 there will be a discussion of folk art collecting with slides and hands-on examples from a private collection.

The series fee for all five lectures is $38 for mem bers of the Arts Center; $45 for nonmembers. Individual tickets are available at $10 per lecture. Tickets and further information are available at the Newton Arts Center, 924-3424.

"This is an outstanding series of lectures given by recognized authorities in their field," said Beverly Bernson, of the board of governors at the Arts Center. "We're thrilled to have people of this caliber for a continuing series and see it as a rare opportunity to participate in a program covering such a wide range of 'antique' interests."

Social workers discussed elderly abuse and neglect

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Social workers throughout the west suburban area gathered last week at the Community Service Center for a training program on elderly abuse and neglect cases.

Sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services (WSES), which services Newton, Waltham, Weston, Watertown, Wellesley, Needham, Brookline and Belmont, the program featured several guest speakers who shared their experiences and insights into dealing with difficult abuse cases.

"All the comments I heard on it were very good," said WSES Senior Case Manager Becky Silvia. "And our training evaluation was very good."

According to Silvia, of the 2800 people that WSES deals with, about 90 are elderly abuse and neglect cases.

The main goal of the 3½-hour session was to let case workers know where they can get help for elderly patients who need, for example, emergency housing or medical care.

"These cases require a great deal of time and legwork. And if these resources aren't available it can be very frustrating," said Silvia. She explained that setting up a network within a community is vital in fulfilling this need, particularly if an elderly client refuses help or is competent enough to make his of her own decisions.

"We can just present them with options," said Silvia of resistant or competent clients.

According to one social worker who addressed the the crowd of about 90 people, an interesting switch in elderly abuse cases is not children abusing their aged parents but elderly parents abusing their grown children.

"People say, 'Oh this poor little old lady,' but it just isn't that way," explained Marilyn Collins, Director of Protective Services of the Minuteman Protective Service Agency in Lexington. Collins, who has held that post for more than three years, formerly abused children continue to be abused by parents because they can not break the bond with their parents.

"It can be life or death for the children too," continued Collins. "A lot of my cases are children who can't separate, who never learned to separate from the parents. Many become alcoholics."

Collins commented that she can understand the "high burnout rate" among child abuse workers. "I've always said I can't work in child abuse," said Collins. She said a child has to be near death before authorities will become involved. "Strangle marks don't count."

Collins told other social workers that, "We are not God. We can not save the world. But we can make some decisions."

There is a need for legislation, said Collins, so that the state can intercede in certain cases. Collins said she was unable to intercede in the case of an incompetent mother whose daughter would not let the agency try to help the woman.

Collin's agency was one of several represented at the program, including Life Resource Center of Cambridge, Elderserve of Watertown and the Metropolitan Mental Health and Retardation Center of Waltham, Watertown and Belmont.

WSES, based in West Newton, is a state and federally funded nonprofit organization employing 200 people.

Cohen named to panel on justice

NEWTON - State Representative David B. Cohen (D-Newton) has been appointed to the newly created Joint Committee on Criminal Justice. Cohen, who is in his second term as representative, will also continue to serve as a member of the Pulic Service and Transportation Committees.

The Legislature created this new committee to consider all legislation pertaining to crimes and punishments and all criminal justice procedures.

In accepting the appointment, Cohen said, "The problems confronting the Commonwealth's criminal justice system are immense. Faced by the double-barreled attack of a rising crime rate of crisis proportions and the crunch of budgetary contraints on our court system, it has become increasingly difficult to ensure the protection of the rights of both the innocent victim and the accused and to guarantee that justice is served and the guilty are convicted and prosecuted.

"Before our system of justice breaks down completely," Cohen said, we must search for, find, and implement creative solutions which will protect the rights of the public and accused alike, and will ensure that criminals are convicted and punished equitably."

Cohen added, "This new committee, charged with focusing solely on these problems, has its work cut out for it. I eagerly look forward to working hard to find ways to make our justice system work as it should: weighing the evidence before it, and deciding on the guilt or the innocense of those accused of a crime, all of which (should be) carried out in a manner which does not violate the fundamental rights and protections the founding fathers set up in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

Tiger girls survive 56-53 tourney scare

The Newton North girls have to catch their breath after barely surviving their initial MIAA Tournament test Friday at Oliver Ames Gym, Easton.

The Tigers trailed throughout the North Sectional Division 1 fray before rallying in the final three minutes to nose out New Bedford, 56-53.

Next tourney venture for the Garden City quintet is a return trip to Easton Wednesday night to engage Suburban League champion Quincy, which routed Durfee, 53-40, in its tourney opener Friday.

Debbie Quinn, who had been monopolizing the scoring for Newton North throughout the regular season, came to their rescue with a whirlwind of points in the fourth quarter against New Bedford. The multi-talented senior dropped in 15 markers alone in that stanza to wind up with a game-high total of 31.

The speedy New Bedford five got the jump on Newton North and raced into a 12-4 lead in the first five minutes. The best the Tigers could do in the early action was force a 18-18 tie midway through the second quarter on an outside shot by Jenna Lammers.

New Bedford forged ahead again and took a 29-26 lead into the locker room at halftime. Employing a fullcourt press, the Southeastern Mass. League team went up by seven points (37-30) before starting guard Cathy Johnson was injured in a collision with Lammers and had to leave the game.

While the Tigers were starting to show signs of coming to life, New Bedford held a 41-36 advantage as the fourth period got underway. That's when Quinn took over and spearheaded the Newton North comeback.

She had a string of eight points and pared the New Bedford lead to a basket, 47-46, with 5:29 to go.

The Tigers took the lead for the first time, 52-51, on a three-point play by Debbie with three minutes remaining. Two free throws by Kathy Maguire extended the lead to four points before New Bedford's Rhonda Dias made two foul tosses to cut it to a single digit (54-53) at the 1:35 mark.

Both clubs were guilty of turnovers in the pressure-packed final minute before Lammers dropped in a pair of free throws to complete the scoring.

Newton North coach Allyson Toney attributed her team's early problems to the quickness displayed by New Bedford. "They were the quickest team we've faced all," said Toney. "As a result, it took us longer to adjust. We had to play better positional defense and make sure we boxed out. That was the only way to combat that quickness. We also switched to a zone in the second half and forced them to shoot from the outside."

Also, said Toney, New Bedford was a balanced team with no one player on whom the Tigers could key. "They were different from anyone we've played in that they had five players who could all shoot, rebound, dribble and score," said Allyson. "It was difficult for us to match-up with them. I remember one point in the game when we had a forward guarding their point-guard. That's the type of team they were — interchangeable."

New Bedford's aggressiveness didn't bother Newton North. "We face teams all the time in the Suburban League who are just as aggressive," said Toney. "The difference here was they were aggressive and quick. Fields was a big girl who created a lot of problems for us inside."

Debbie Quinn had her usual sparkling game, pulling down 19 rebounds in addition to her 31 points. "Debbie didn't have a great first half, but she follows the standard line," Toney commented. "When the going gets tough, the tough get going. That's Debbie. At the end, she was dominating at both ends of the court."

On New Bedford losing, Toney commented: "They never thought they would lose to us. Throughout the game, even when we got close, they thought they'd win. When the gun sounded and they'd lost, there were tears in their eyes. But they were still very gracious."

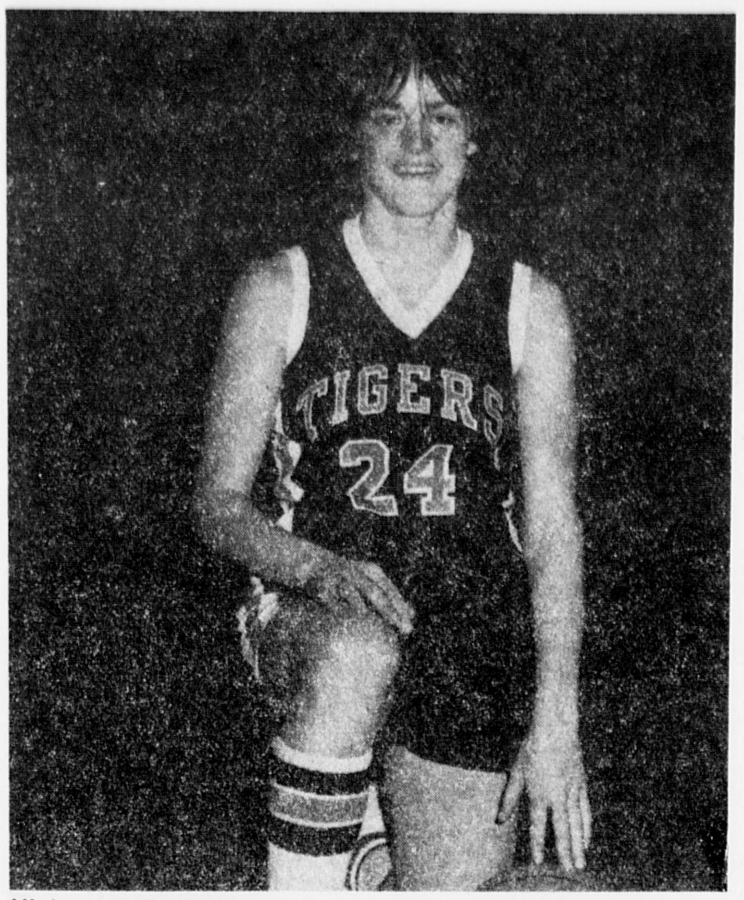

Next for the Tigers in Suburban rival Quincy, who beat them, 52-49, in their last meeting Jan.19th. "Quincy is another tall, physical team. We'll have to neutralize that height advantage to win."

The summary:

NEWTON NORTH (56)--D. Quinn 12-7-31; B. Kelley 1-0-2; K. Maguire 2-3-7; J. Lammers 4-2-10; T. McCabe 1-0-2; D. Russell 2-0-4. Tot. 22-12-56.

NEW BEDFORD (53)--J. Silva 2-0-4; J. Gomes 4-3-11; D. Fields 7-4-18; C. Duckett 2-0-4; C. Johnson 2-0-4; R. Dias 0-2-2; N. Robinson 4-2-10. Tot. 21-11-53.

Turnovers end Lion season

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

Their stay in the MIAA Division II South Sectionals may have lasted only two games, but in that short time the Newton South Lions discovered what it was like to experience the feeling of competing at opposite extremes of efficiency. From the near-flawless performance of Thursday's Dedham decimation, when everything they attempted turned to gold, the Lions rode a different train Saturday, committing 26 turnovers and losing to South Boston, 63-55, at the South gym.

Newton South finishes the year at 16-3 and South Boston, 18-3 and champs of the Boston Division I league, moves on to face Rockland (21-1) Thursday.

"We were tight, and that may have contributed to the turnovers," said an obviously disappointed Joe Killilea afterward. "But I thought we came on pretty well at the end and had a chance to win it. South Boston just played well and held us off."

The Lions had actually led throughout the first quarter, falling behind for the first time when South Boston's Ed Bryant (17 points, 9 steals) swished a jumper from the corner with three seconds left to make it 15-14. South Boston then began controlling the tempo and the boards and held on to that slim one-point margin (27-26) into halftime.

A dismal third period left Newton South trailing by as much as 13 (47-34) before the Lions closed to 47-36 on a rebound basket by Scott Anglin heading into the final eight minutes.

But if there's one thing the Lions have been this year, it's persistent. They were that again. David Hill, who had been held to nine points, got hot and brought them back. Hill doubled his point total in the first five minutes of the fourth and Mike Antonellis knocked home a pair of buckets to bring the Lions to within two (55-53) with 2:33 to go.

Just as quickly as that, however, the rally died. Dennis Parks applied the killer by streaking into the middle of the lane and heaving up a wild, off-balance shot which bounced off the glass and through the hoop. The Lions missed on their next possession, fouled, and Gary Cole sank both free throws to lift South Boston into a 59-53 lead and seal Newton's fate.

Killilea, while insisting he wasn't looking for excuses, nonetheless made no effort to hide the fact that he wasn't too pleased with the officiating. "They had no control over the game," he said. "There were too many reaching-in fouls that weren't called. It was a very loosely called game."

Actually, both coaches had reason to be upset. It's doubtful either referee would want films of his performance sent to the MIAA for review. "They had an off-day," agreed South Boston coach Earl Garrett. "I know Joe (Killilea) was upset, but we had some reason to complain too. I looked up at the board in the fourth quarter and saw us with five team fouls and them with one. We were ahead. Usually that means they'd be doing the fouling. But that's the way it goes sometimes."

The real difference, though, was South Boston's board strength. The Lions finished with a 43-31 edge in rebounds, but it was the Knights who seemed to come up with most of the crucial ones, especially at the offensive end. "I was awed at the way they failed to box out in the first half," said Garrett. "I was just glad that we were able to take advantage."

Newton South's chief nemesis was 6-1 Forward Rick Coplin, whose 12 points included eight via offensive rebounds. He also led the club with 13 boards.

The Lions began right where they'd left off Thursday, rolling to a 7-2 lead as Hill tallied twice and Steve Abrams turned a rebound into a three-point play. But South Boston went to fullcourt pressure and the turnovers started coming. Consecutive steals resulted in corner pops from Coplin and Cole as the Knights cut the lead to 7-6. The clubs traded hoops the rest of the quarter before Bryant gave South Boston a lead with his buzzer-beating bucket.

The game was decided in the third period. Abrams buried a 15-footer at the start to put Newton South into a 28-27 lead, but South Boston responded with a 9-2 run which gave the Knights a six-point cushion (36-30) with 4:16 on the clock. South Boston's strength on the glass and its pesky defense fueled the outburst. Coplin and Parks both pulled down caroms and scored and Bryant picked Meatchie Russell's pocket for a steal and an ensuing layup.

Abrams halted the barrage temporarily with two free throws before Bryant's four points sent the Knights off again. This time they rattled off 11 straight points for their largest lead of the afternoon, 47-34.

South Boston's defense again created the blitz. Garrett had his troops applying pressure all over the court, forcing the Lions into countless passes of questionable nature.

Miracle finish saves Arrows

The St. Sebastian's School of Newton seemed hopelessly headed for a first place tie with arch-rival Rivers. The Arrows were down by a point with 20 seconds left and they didn't have the ball.

The Arrows rallied when Milton Academy's Paul Ayers missed the front end of a one-on-one. Bob Peretti took a back-door pass from Tom O'Connor and he converted the layup with one second left to play. Peretti was fouled and he hit the free throw to give the Arrows the big 49-47 win Wednesday at Milton.

The victory kept St. Sebastian's a half-game ahead of Rivers at 10-3, while Rivers is 10-4 in the South Division of the Independent School League.

Peretti tossed in 16 points for the Arrows and freshmen center John Bean dropped in 17 for the winners. St. Sebastian's jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but by the end of the quarter Milton had closed to 14-11 and the game was on.

Rivers kept pace with St. Sebastian's by defeating Groton, 87-62. The Redmen jumped out to a 21-13 lead at the end of the first-half and never looked back. Groton would get the lead down to nine points in the early stages of the second half, but Rivers maintained its lead.

John Sims led the offense for the Redmen with 31 points. Kevin Sims dropped in 17 points for the winners. Guard Jeff Wynne popped in 12 points for Rivers. The Redmen will close out the season Friday night at Thayer Academy. The summaries

Hill's 23 gives South opening tourney win

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

Much of the pre-game talk centered around the homecourt advantage, but the truth of the matter is this: They could have put snorkel jackets on Newton South, bathing suits on Dedham and played this game in Death Valley and the Lions still probably would have won. That the drama was played out in the Lions' den only enhanced the embarrassment for Dedham.

In a season which has included victories over the likes of Wayland and Acton-Boxboro, this was undoubtedly Newton South's finest moment. The final Thursday night in this MIAA Division II South Sectional playoff was Lions 72, Dedham 35, and yes, folks, it was that bad. "We played very, very well," said South coach Joe Killilea afterward in a classic understatement. "We got them into a running game right from the start and I think they tired because of it."

The Lions were dominant in every faze of the game, but perhaps the most telling was underneath, where they totally and completely intimidated Dedham. Steve Anglin rejected three early shots to set the tone, and from there on, nearly every inside foray from the Marauders was capped with a ball bouncing back into their faces. Anglin finished with six blocks and the team had nine.

Dedham's first-year coach Pete Kelly was philosophical about the lopsided defeat. "Hey, if we're going to get beat what's the difference if it's five or 40 points," he said. "The important thing for us is that we got here. If we can make it this far every year I'll be very happy."

While Anglin's early presence established a story-line, it was the play of Senior guard and co-captain Dave Hill which really sent the Marauders packing. Hill, who entered the contest as South's leading scorer (16.3), enjoyed a Larry Bird-type evening. He buried his first nine shots, ended up 10-for-12 from the field for 23 points, and for good measure added six assists. Every time South needed a hoop, Hill was there to get it.

Also spectacular was Center Mike Antonellis. The 6-5 senior led the club with eight rebounds while popping in 14 points, three of the three-point variety.

And, of course, we mustn't forget Meatchie Russell. Just a sophomore, Russell directs the Lion offense as though he's been here for a decade. "Everyone had a super game," said Killilea, "but Meatchie made some passes tonight that you don't see from the pros."

Newton South opened a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a baseline jumper by Steve Abrams (13 points,7 boards) and a layup and two foul shots from Hill. Hill's points came gratus consecutive steals by Scott Anglin as the Lions came out pressing in a man-to-man defense and rattled the Marauders into early mistakes.

Dedham settled down, however, and worked the ball inside successfully to chop the deficit to 6-4 and then 8-6. But the Lions, as streaky a team as you'll see, got hot. Antonellis put in a rebound on Newton's third shot and Russell swished two deep jumpers to suddenly give them a 15-6 cushion.

Anglin then rose up and swatted away a John O'Connor baseline pop and South had the ball again. How dominant were the Lions, you ask.. Well, in the next sequence, Antonellis drew a foul and went to the line for two shots. He hit the first and missed the second. But Hill leaped over his man for the rebound, bounced a shot off the rim and Abrams was there for the tip-in. That capped a 10-0 run and gave South the lead at 18-8.

The first quarter came to a close with South scoring three baskets (Abrams pop and two Hill layups) in 15 seconds and leading by a dozen, 24-12.

Dedham began the second quarter with a couple of inside baskets from Jon Ames and Steve Connolly, whereupon Killilea put a stop to that forever by switching to a 2-3 zone. The Marauders would never work the ball inside again with any consistency. "Our defense was superb; very tight," noted Killilea.

"We haven't had a strong outside shooter all season," said Kelly. "It's been our biggest problem. A team goes into a zone and we have no one to bust it."

The Lions, meanwhile, just kept on rolling. Hill knocked home three straight jumpers, Gene Lindsay canned a free throw and Antonellis banked an 8-footer to send South to a 34-20 lead. The peak came at 15 points (39-24) on another Hill hoop before Dedham closed to 40-28 at the break.

The closest the Mauraders would get in the second half was 13 (43-30) on a corner pop by Tim Rose. After that, the Lions shifted into fifth gear. Hill, Anglin, Russell and Abrams all scored to make it 51-32, and after another Rose basket temporarily stopped the streak, Anglin, Abrams, Antonellis (3-pointer) and Hill put together a 9-0 run which left the scoreboard reading Newton South 60, Dedham 34 after three.

Killilea cleared his bench for the fourth quarter, but the Lions still rattled off nine more points — making it 18 straight and 24 of 28 — before Jeff Harding scored Dedham's only point of the period from the foul line with one minute left. In all, Newton South scored 30 of the game's last 35 points.

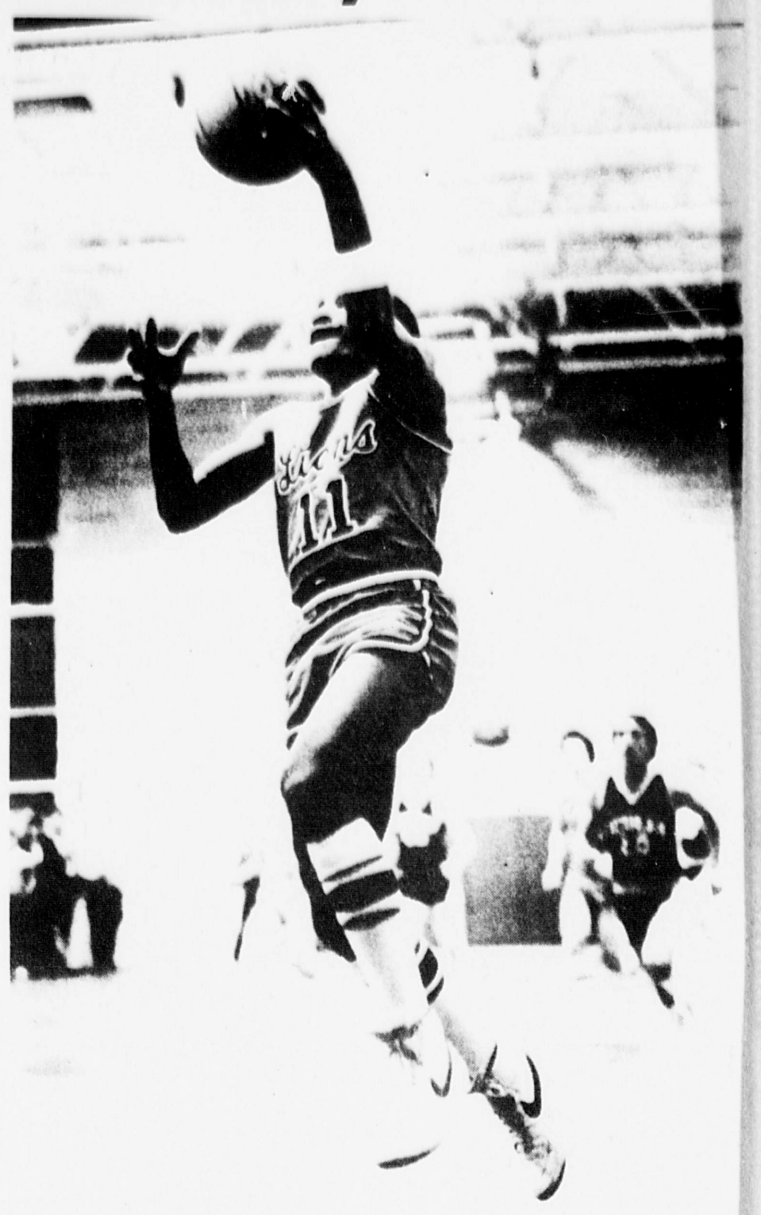

The summary:

NEWTON SOUTH(72)--Abrams 6-1-13; Scott Anglin 2-0-4; Antonellis 5-4-14; Hill 10-3-23; Russell 3-2-8; Lindsay 1-1-3; Steve Anglin 1-0-2; Young 0-1-1; Sullivan 0-2-2; Wands 1-0-2; Totals 29-14-72.

DEDHAM(35)--Driscoll 2-0-4; Ames 3-2-8; Connolly 2-0-4; Harding 0-1-1; Winbourne 1-0-2; Rose 4-2-10; O'Connor 3-0-6; Totals 15-5-35.

Newton Bantams win Kiwanis Tourney

The Newton Youth Hockey Bantam AA team has captured the Bantam Division Championship of the 11th annual Quincy Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament played at the Quincy Youth Arena recently.

Teams from all over New England, New York and Canada competed for this prestigious title. In winning this Bantam title for the second year in a row, the Newton Bantam AAs extended their undefeated season to 55 games.

Led by the outstanding defensive play of Chris Heitman and the solid goaltending of Kenny Castriotta, the Bantams swept to five straight wins allowing only four goals in the five games.

Newton opened the tournament with a 6-1 thumping of Wilmington. It was an especially impressive win because Newton was missing five skaters and played the entire game with six forwards, three defenseman and a goalie. C.J. Young scored four goals and added two assists to key the victory, while Timmy Marchand played his first game of the season at defense and did yeoman service in support of Heitman and Jimmy Burke. The second game was an 11-1 rout of Milton paced by Tom Bachner's four goals and three more tallies from Jon Sachs.

In the quarterfinals, Newton defeated Norwell-Scituate-Cohasset, 4-0, in a hard fought game. Single goals by Heitman, Paul Healey, Bobby White and Chris Biotti along with Castriotta's clutch goaltending sparked the victory.

The semi-final game against a physical Don Mills, Toronto team proved the key to the tournament. Newton dominated the entire game, but won by a deceptively close 2-1 score. The Don Mills goaltender stymied Newton throughout the contest and hit the post on four occassions.

Newton's first goal came on a five-on-three power play and was scored by White on a pass from Bachner. In a reversal of roles, Bachner scored the game winner with a short slide flip after a give and go with White.

Newton won the championship game defeating Wexford, Ontario, 5-1. The game against Wexford was a dogfight until Newton blew it open with three goals late in the third period. Biotti opened the scoring for Newton 30 seconds into the game, blasting a slap shot from the right point past the screened Wexford goalie. The score remained 1-0 until the end of the second period, despite some excellent chances at both ends of the ice.

Castriotta made his best stop of the tournament midway through the second period when a Wexford forward took a pass behind the Newton defense and went in alone from the red line only to be stoned by Castriotta, who also controlled the rebound to kill the play.

With eight seconds left in the period, Biotti scored again firing a wicked slap shot low into the far corner, this time from the left point.

This goal proved to be the game winner as Wexford scored early in the third period to come within one goal. Healey tallied the backbreaker for Newton on a perfect pass from Young, and Sachs and Bachner added cushion to put the game away. Although not often appearing on the scoresheets, defenseman John Connors and forwards John Mullowney and Eddie Sullivan were contributors in the final game and throughout the tournament.

Coaches Dick Fletcher and Mike Mullowney have done an outstanding job with this talented team, and are now making plans to prepare the players for the State Tournament, just a month away. Newton Youth Hockey is the host program for the 1982 Bantam Division I State Tournament, and the selection process for the 15 District representatives who will compete for the State Championship along with Newton will be complete this week.

Mishkan Tefila remains unbeaten, wins 51-45

Temple Mishkan Tefila remained undefeated in the United Youth Synagogue Basketball League Monday with a 51-45 triumph over Lowell.

Now 8-0 in the league and 9-1 overall, Mishkan Tefila had an easy time of it against winless Lowell, rolling to a 10-3 lead after one quarter and 26-13 at the half. The advantage rose to a peak of 19 (43-34) before Lowell closed to make the final score respectable. But the losers never got within the final margin of six.

Steve Chapman was the only man in double figures for Tefila with 10 points. Six of those came in the third quarter.

Tefila might have won by an even larger margin if not for its terrible free throw shooting. They were just 1-for-9 (11 percent) from the charity stripe and 0-for-7 in the fourth quarter.

Mishkan Tefila travels to Lexington for a contest Thursday.

The summary:

TEMPLE MISHKAN TEFILA(51)--Tuchman 2-0-4; D. Chapman 3-0-6; Katz 2-0-4; Gordon 2-0-4; S. Chapman 5-0-10; Goldberg 2-1-5; Freeman 3-0-6; Florence 0-0-0; Marsh 2-0-4; Glasgow 2-0-4; Michalson 2-0-4; Totals 25-1-51.

LOWELL(45)--Greenhouse 4-0-8; Golner 6-1-13; Loftus 2-0-4; Rosenberg 1-0-2; Levy 7-0-14; Shapiro 2-0-4; Totals 22-1-45.

Newton people pushed for passage of safety law

NEWTON — It took several Newton adults some six years' worth of effort to show that kids can be very special people.

Under the guiding hands of local legislators and child advocates, landmark legislation mandating protection of children in cars through the use of safety belts and car seats was signed into law earlier this year.

The law, which allows for a $25 fine for any driver who does not properly restrain a child up to the age of five in an automobile, took some six years before it won approval on Beacon Hill. State Senator Jack Backman (Newton-Brookline), joined forces with former state Representatives Lois Pines and David Mofenson and current Rep. Joseph DeNucci to win passage of the bill.

During signing of the bill into law by Governor Edward King, the governor pointed to statistics which show motor vehicle accidents rank as the number one cause of death and injury for children.

King said, "This is by far the most convincing argument for the passage and implementation of this new law."

In addition to local legislators, the ultimate passage of the law received a big boost from Newton Highlands resident Pat Bartoshesky, director of the Child Passenger Safety Resource Center, a program operated by the state Department of Public Health, Division of Preventive Medicine.

Bills filed on the subject during the terms of Pines and Mofenson were done on behalf of Newton Centre resident Sally Barnett, codirector of the state Chapter of Action for Child Transportation Safety, a pioneering group which operates a car seat recycling program.

The law won acclaim across the state from child safety advocates and the month of February was declared "Child Passenger Safety Month" by Gov. King.

Bartoshesky said last week the key behind the law is not only enforcement but education of police officials, health professionals and the public. The Child Passenger Safety Resource Center, under her directorship, plans to work with the Department of Public Safety on the education program and is offering information in the form of educational programs, audio-visual materials and a telephone information system (727-2662).

FEELING SECURE - Children like this one now have protection as passengers under legislation promoted by a number of Newton residents.

Also on the local level Newton Police Lt. Charles Feeley of Newton Highlands has enlisted the support of safety officers in educating the public about car seat and seat belt safety.

Part of the long-range educational plan, according to Bartoshesky, also includes free or low-cost infant car seat rental programs, now in place in more than a dozen hospitals and community agencies.

One hospital - Melrose-Wakefield - actually gives a restraining car seat to each newborn leavingthe facility.

Anyone seeking information about the new child car-seat law, educational materials or help in setting up a car seat recycling or rental program can contact the Resource Center by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Car Seats, Box 10, Boston, 02112.

'House Keeping' is program theme at Jackson Homestead

NEWTON — Houses, quilts, and flowers are featured in the spring program "House Keeping" announced this week by the Friends of the Jackson Homestead. Newton residents, "American country" enthusiasts, architecture buffs, and gardeners will be attracted by more than a dozen offerings which clebrate Newton's older houses and the rich social and architectural heritage of the City.

"Hey, there's my house!" is a remark heard frequently in the archives of the Homestead. Individual researchers are delighted to find their houses clearly drawn in the fascinating nineteenth-century atlases at Newton's historical center. To offer this excitement of recognition to many more people, a two-part course, "How Old is Your House.." will be given March 1st and 8th by Barbara Thibault of the Newton Historical Commission. Cosponsored by Newton Community Schools, the lecture/workshop will guide the participant in discovering the construction date and architectural style of his house as well as the personal histories of the various owners. The atlases and other primary sources in the Homestead's collection will be used to document the information.

Another collection, this one of antique quilts, will be the basis for "Quilting at the Homestead". Taught by quilting expert Priscilla Church, this eight session course offers instruction for beginners and intermediates and begins March 3rd. Nearly 100 quilts, donated over the years by Newton residents, will provide inspiration and illustration of this fine American art.

Quilts tell stories of the women who made them and the families that were warmed by them. So, too, do houses and their styles say much about the way people wanted to live. A four-part lecture course, "Housestyle/Lifestyle", will illuminate the whys and wherefores of the porches, turrets, nooks and crannies of the houses on the streets where we lived. Illustrating with slides of Newton houses, architectural historian Kathlyn Hatch will sort our architectural styles and their social implications. The Course begins Monday, April 5 and is cosponsored by Community Schools.

Brass Restoration and Historic Gardens will be the subjects of two Sunday afternoon workshops, held March 7 and April 4 respectively. Mel Rosenberg of the Brass Buff in Newton Upper Falls will offer the first; Rolce Payne, popular lecturer and author of New England Gardens Open to the Public, will present a sampler of old gardens for old houses.

Other scheduled events include walking tours of Nonantum, Newton Centre, and the Cotton Street Burying Ground. There will be a tour of the preservation in progress in a 1740 salt-box on Waverley Avenue, an afternoon of old-fashioned children's games on the lawn behind the Homestead, a judged flower show, and a photography exhibit highlighting architectural detail of 19th century Newton buildings. "House Keeping" will culminate in the Old House Fair on May 2 at City Hall. Fifty exhibitors will show off their products and services which aim at helping the homewoner improve his house without sacrificing its character. Entertainment, food, workshops, and film will complement the wide range of exhibits at this celebration of Newton's remarkable and distinctive history.

Anyone wishing to receive a free brochure should write to "House Keeping", the Jackson Homestead, 527 Washington Street, Newton, 02158 or call 552-7238 for information.

School Committee still plans on closing Warren School

it was "not necessary" and "not responsive to the public."

Marcia Mitchell was persuaded to change her mind from abstention to supporting the resolution, but was vocal about her concern that other problems might arise in the Day building after educational options were closed by closing Warren.

"My trust in the construction of that school has been, to put it mildly, undermined," Mitchell said.

"Well, who knows.. Who knows with respect to any building.." committee member Ann Berwick said.

"That's not the point!" Mitchell said emphatically. "Something has happened in this building already which to any prudent person should indicate" that there are possibly other problems.

"Serious mistakes were made in the construction and the planning of this building," Mitchell said. "What makes you think there may not be others.."

"Let me assure you that the problems we are talking about have nothing to do with the structure of this buiding," Fraser stressed.

"I have no wish to threaten an excellent consolidation," Mitchell said, "but when these options are closed, they are closed!"

Fink and some members of the School Committee urged all members to support the resolution to send "a clear message" to the Board of Aldermen for repairs to Day.

Mitchell was persuaded to vote on that basis, but said, "I want it understood that I am concerned about the building and the educational future."

Mayor Theodore Mann noted the city will file a suit to attempt to recover the cost of the repairs, but said "there is no guarantee that we're going to recover" the money.

Because of the pending suit, city officials and School Committee members will not discuss the nature of problems at Day as outlined in an engineering study conducted by the city.

Faced with declining enrollment on the north side of the city, Warren was tapped as the north side junior high for consolidation over either Day or Bigelow. However, the choice was really between Bigelow and Warren as the result of the School Committee decision to withdraw Day, a newer school built through a land-taking, from consideration because of severe deed restrictions.

The School Department says they did not become aware of the sewer problems at Day until August, two months after the vote to close Warren.

According to School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann, temporary repairs to the plumbing line at Day have removed the possibility of any health hazard for the remainder of the school year.

However, Building Commissioner Allan Fraser said a waiver from the state was granted to keep the school open until the end of the year because of the temporary repairs. But, Fraser said, "I doubt that they would grant that waiver for additional amounts of time without a good faith effort on the part of the city" to make permanent repairs.

If the waiver is not granted or repairs are not made before September, Fraser said, "wearing my public safety hat, I would have to close the school."

Many Warren parents and community leaders say they are not arguing for a School Committee vote to close Day instead of Warren. What they want is School Committee review of all the "new information" which was not available when the vote was made to close Warren: Day's faulty sewer, the problems caused if the extensive repairs are not completed before school in September and new laws governing mixed use of school buildings.

"I can't see why there must be haste," one woman told the committee. "I'm sure that a carefully considered decision will receive respect, gratitude and support."

"I can't believe that $1 million of work can be completed before the school is ready to open," she stressed.

"Having worked with construction, I think you'll find that you're dreaming," Auburndale attorney Paul Snyder said of the timetable for repairs detailed by Fraser.

Fraser said that if the Board of Aldermen approves the project by April 15, four to six weeks would be needed to draft plans and specifications. Another six weeks would be needed for the public bidding proess and then "depending on the number of crews, and assuming using three crews round-the-clock, the work can be done in 50 days."

Superintendent Aaron Fink urged the School Committee not to alter "its existing plans" for the closing of Warren Junior High and said Day was "an educational facility...far superior" to Warren.

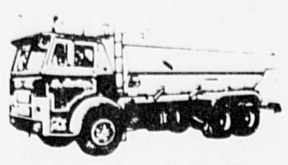

Blood pressure clinic set in Nonantum

NONANTUM — Peg Weizel, a registered nurse with the Newton Health Department, holds health and blood pressure clinic at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center on Monday, Tuesday, and Friday mornings, and Monday and Thursday afternoons. Evening clinic is held on the first and third Tuesday of each month from 6 - 8 p.m. Weizel 's popular diet class is held on Thursday mornings from 10 - 11. Newton adults over 21 years of age are encouraged to take advantage of these valuable services.

Recreational activities for senior citizens at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center includes ceramics, bingo, bowling, yoga, dancing, films, painting, table games, exercises, crochet, special parties and trips.

Senior adults may attend the hot lunch program at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, Monday through Saturday. The nutritious meals are provided by the West Suburban Elder Services. Transportation to the hot lunch program may be arranged by calling 552-7120 and asking for Dorothy. Seniors may attend lunches for the whole. week, or on individual days, but should call the Center for reservations at 965-6390.

27 teaching jobs may be cut from the budget

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Based upon a continuing decline in enrollment, the Newton schools may cut 27 teaching positions next year.

In the recommended $39.2 million budget for next year, a 4-percent increase over last year, Superintendent Aaron Fink calls for the reduction of 26.75 teacher and specialist positions due to declining enrollment.

Yet, salaries for teachers and specialists, the largest single account in the budget, is projected to increase from $15.8 million to more than $16.3 million for next year. This 3.6 percent increase provides for negotiated salary increases for the recommended total of 634.40 positions in this category system-wide.

"We've come within one percent of our projection on this account every year," Fink said at budget discussions Saturday at the Education Center at 100 Walnut St.

Fink recommends cutbacks of 10 teacher positions at the elementary school level, 16.25 secondary school teachers and a .5 junior high English specialist.

According to Fink, since 1976, the first year of school consolidation, "we've been able to reduce (the total) staff virtually parallel to declining enrollment."

Projected total enrollment for 1983 is 11,045 students compared with 17,812 in 1971.

Out of the total recommended reduction of 16.25 positions at the secondary schools, a cutback of 6.8 teacher positions is recommended for North High and five for South High. Fink maintained that despite this reduction, pupil-teacher ratios will remain the same at both high schools, although North will actually drop from 17.3 to 16.5.

The specific teaching positions which are targeted for reductions at North High are one math teacher, two social studies teachers, one foreign language, two English teachers and a .8 art teacher. One position is recommended reduced from English, foreign language, math, science and social studies at South High.

Teacher position reductions projected at the elementary school level are 2.5 at Franklin, 1.5 at Ward, Bowen and Cabot, 1 at Pierce and Underwood and .5 cuts at Burr, Countryside, Horace Mann and Williams.

According to Fink, pupil-teacher ratios at the elementary level will go down from 23.1 in 1981-1982 to 22.9 for next year. The average class size is also projected to drop from 22.5 to 22.3.

At the junior high level, staffing cuts are being recommended at Brown and Warren (where phased closing will begin next year), while increases are projected for Bigelow and Day Junior High as a result of the phased closing of Warren.

Warren, which will close in June 1983 when North High becomes a four-year high school, will begin its shutdown next year with 7th graders from the district going to Day Junior High.

Fink said pupil-teacher ratios at the junior high level are expected to increase slightly from 14.5 to 14.6 with a rise in average class size from 22.1 to 22.3.

Last year, 75.93 teacher and specialist positions were cut because of fiscal constraints, although included in this figure were adjustments for declining enrollment and the closing of Weeks Junior High.

Cong. Frank praises critique of Reagan

Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., last week hailed a "well-reasoned critique" issued recently by the Justice and Peace Commission of the Archdiocese of Boston which calls on the Reagan Administration to abandon "its mistaken policy" toward El Salvador.

In a statement printed in the Congressional Reccord, Frank praised the work of the commission and the reliablility of its information which is drawn from the "first-hand experience of the many religious and lay people working under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church on behalf of the best interests of the people of El Salvador."

More than a year ago, soon after Frank entered Congress, the commission wrote him to point out "the grave error the United States was making by allying itself militarily with the junta in control of El Salvador," Frank said.

"Last week...the commission added its voice once again to the list of those calling for the American government to abandon our c urrent mistaken policy and to work instead for a negotiated s ettlement to this civil war," the Fourth District lawmaker added.

Along with his statement, Frank had printed in the offic ial record a two-page letter he received from the Rev. Michael F. Groden of the commisssion.

In that letter, the commission told 8Frank that President Reagan's certification last month that human rights violations had been curbed in El Salvador "was based upon erroneous information." The 1982 Foreign Assistance Act required th e 8President to certify that h uman rights violations had been curtailed as a con dition of sending additional aid to El Salvador.

The commission said the Administration's "pro forma certification" was unacceptable because it ignored the spirit of the Foreign Assistance Act, undermin ded the effort to require the Salvadoran government to undertake genuine reforms, and "intimately invo lves the U.S. in the responsibility for war crimes practiced upon the civilian population by El Salvador's own armed forces."

Frank, who opposes the killings and human rights violations by all 8parties, has called for a negotiated settlement of the civil war and is a co-sponsor of legislation which would declare the certification null and void.

IN MEMORIAM
RUBIN EPSTEIN

The Brookline Hospital Family mourns the passing of Rubin Epstein, who continually worked on behalf of this institution, serving as President of the Board of Trustees for twenty-five years and, since his appointment in 1980, as Chairman of the Board. During this period, the Hospital moved from its small brick and frame origins on Allerton Street to its present location, having evolved into a modern health care institution, which all agree could not have been accomplished without Ruby's personal and careful direction.
He was a man who truly gave of himself to many charitable and philanthropic endeavors. We at the Hospital feel a particular sorrow because of his very personal involvement, not only with the Trustees and physicians, but with the employees, both old and new. His visits, which were frequent, were always anticipated with a certain degree of trepidation but, also, we could expect a smile and a wink of the eye, dispensed with the kind of approving glow that a father would have for members of his family.
His wife, Ethel; his daughters, Dorothy Carver and Marjorie Drucker; and his sons-in-law, C. Gerard Drucker and Herbert Carver, have shared his special love for the Hospital, as shown by their continued service. To them we extend our deepest condolences, with the understanding that all of us gained in having been associated with and working with Ruby these many years.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

A SCHEDULE OF MOVIES, SPORTS AND SPECIAL INTEREST PROGRAMING.

PROGRAMS SUBJECT TO CHANGE

movies

SAT., MARCH 6

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) WALT DISNEY: THE SPACEMAN IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT. Conclusion. With Dennis Dugan, Jim Dale, Ron Moody and Kenneth Moore.

8:30-10PM NBC (7:30 Cent./Mt.)

CHICAGO STORY

CHICAGO STORY. Premiere of a series with Maud Adams, Vincent Baggetta, Molly Cheek, Dennis Franz, Daniel Hugh Kelly, Richard Lawson, Kristoffer Tabori and Craig T. Nelson, following teams of doctors, lawyers and police officers swept up in the life-and-death situations inherent in their professions.

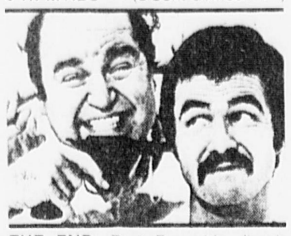

SUN., MARCH 7

7-8PM NBC (6 Central/Mountain) SMALL WORLD. Mariette Hartley, Leslie Uggams and Rich Hall host this unique Peacock Showcase for young talent, ideas and special interests as some of the brightest kids throughout the country demonstrate their skills. Budding careers.

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) ALLIGATOR. A baby reptile is forgotten but not gone after being flushed into a city sewer where it grows to gargantuan proportions, with a monsterous appetite for people. Thrills, suspense and laughter behind the bite. With the interesting Robert Forster, and, in the title role, Ramon. No 'gator-aid here!

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

THE END. Burt Reynolds directs himself in this black comedy about a philanderer who learns that his life is about to be nipped in the bud. With Joanne Woodward, Sally Field, Carl Reiner, Strother Martin, David Steinberg and an absolutely sensational Dom DeLuise.

MON., MARCH 8

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) THE BOYS IN COMPANY C. A nifty little 'Nam movie that was eclipsed by the public's curiosity surrounding the then-forthcoming Apocalypse Now. This is actually a '70's version of a '40's war flick like A Walk in the Sun and a good one, with James Canning, Stan Shaw, Andrew Stevens, Craig (Four Friends) Wasson, Michael Lembeck and Scott Highlands.

TUES., MARCH 9

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) BETWEEN TWO BROTHERS. Pat Harrington and Michael Brandon in a teleflick about a prominent attorney's compulsive drive to reach his emotionally troubled brother and make amends for giving up on him when his brother needed him most. With Helen Shaver, Brad Savage, Mary Jackson and Peter White.

WED., MARCH 10

SAT., MARCH 13

THE CHAMP

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) THE CHAMP. An overly poignant tale about the happy relationship between an ex-boxing champ (Jon Voight) and his 8-year-old son (Ricky Schroder), and the threat when Billy's former wife (Faye Dunaway) reappears in their life. There is much heartbreak in store so keep the hankies handy, particularly during the absolutely dreadful finale. For this one, Director Franco (Romeo & Juliet) Zeffirelli should have his visa revoked.

SUN., MARCH 14

7-8PM NBC (6 Central/Mountain) SKEEZER. How a pup from the pound, filled with loyalty and love, helps emotionally disturbed kids overcome their problems. Stars Karen Valentine and an enchanting four footer. This Project Peacock tale (tail?) was inspired by a true story. Continued same time next Sunday.

9-11:20PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) COMA. A beautiful young surgeon (Genevieve Bujold) fears for her own life when she discovers that hospital patients are being used as part of a deadly scheme to stockpile vital organs for transplant to the dying rich. A thriller with Michael Douglas, Richard Widmark, Rip Torn, Lance LeGault and Kurt Andon.

MON., MARCH 15

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) THE ENFORCER. Clint Eastwood... Dirty Harry, Chapter 3. A gang of revolutionaries kidnap the Mayor of San Francisco, where such weirdness happens in real life. Co-stars Tyne (daughter of James) Daly. (Parental Guidance is advised).

9:30-11PM CBS (8:30 Cent./Mt.)

Eunice

EUNICE. Three colleagues, Carol Burnett, Vicki Lawrence and Harvey Korman, reunite in a comedy drama, reprising their roles as members of the fictional Higgins family... a regular and popular part of The Carol Burnett Show. Betty White and Ken Berry also star. Carol portrays Eunice, a woman who sails through life blithely blaming those around her for her own lack of ambition... who let the words "if only" be her guide.

TUES., MARCH 16

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) THE GIFT OF LIFE. The story of a young wife and mother of two, who undertakes a contractual surrogate pregnancy for another woman... and gives birth to severe family and social disapproval. Susan Dey, Paul LeMat, Edward Herrmann and Cassie Yates. To have... and to have not.

specials

THUR., MARCH 4

POLICE SQUAD

8-8:30PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain) POLICE SQUAD. A new series joins the line up starring Leslie Nielsen and Alan North.

MON., MARCH 8

NIGHT OF 100 STARS

8-11PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain) NIGHT OF 100 STARS. A star studded whopper with a parade of luminaries appearing in this blockbuster tribute to the Centennial Celebration of the Actor's Fund of America. The greatest collection of performing superstars in a single telecast ever. To name just a few... Princess Grace, Elizabeth Taylor, Paul Newman, Gregory Peck, Mary Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Mary Tyler Moore, Liza Minnelli, Larry Hagman, Burt Lancaster and on and on with a contingent of glittering talent, produced by Alexander H. Cohen. A merry jubilee. A lollapalozza!

Star sponsors baby gorilla name contest

CAMBRIDGE — Star Market Company, along with the Boston Zoological Society and WRKO radio, is sponsoring a contest to name the first gorilla born in captivity in New England. The baby gorilla was born in June, 1981 at the Walter D. Stone Memorial Zoo.

The winner of the "Name the Gorilla" contest will win a one-week trip for four to Disneyland. The second and third prize winners will each receive a 25" color television set.

All those interested in entering can pick up entry forms at all Star Markets and partipating Star Agency stores in Massachusetts. A contribution would be appreciated with each entry. In addition to submitting a name for the gorilla, all entrants must submit in writing, 25 words or less, why the name was chosen.

All entries must be received by March 31. A penel of judges from the Boston Zoological Society will determine the winning three names on the basis of their originality. All donations received will help support the Boston Zoological Society which includes the Stone Zoo and the Franklin Park Zoo.

Fire guts building

and Leslie Spaulding were at the scene of the blaze.

The building is located next to Holly Cleaners which may have been damaged by smoke and water as a result of the fire. Several firefighters stood on the roof of the cleaning business using 2 ½ inch hand lines to extinguish the flames. Firefighters with Engine 7, parked in the front lot of Holly's, fought the blaze from a 100-foot aerial ladder with attached ladder pumps.

The rectangular building was formerly owned by Joyce and Joyce Funeral Home. According to Building Department Inspector Paul Foley, the building, which featured about 12,000 square feet of space, was built in 1952. According to Assessors' Office figures, it was last assessed at $98,000.

As firefighters fought the Centre Street blaze, Metro Fire operators at fire headquarters were dispatching apparatus to two working fires in Cambridge as well as a 2-alarm fire at Charles and Mechanic Streets in Waltham.

THE WORLD of Travel
by Hank Fleming
PARIS IN THE SPRING
What could be more romantic than April in Paris! The champagne of cities is at its most sparkling at that time of year. Where else can you begin the day with a walk under flowering chestnut trees and end it tossing a blossom onto the graves of the celebrated lovers Eloise and Abelard at the Cimetiere Pere La Chaise! Fill the time in between with lunch at the Ritz, a Sunday stroll through the bird market, a picnic on the Bois, a walk along the Seine, a drink at the Cafe de la Paix, or a visit to historic Notre Dame Cathedral.
Whether or not your trip this Spring includes a stopover in romantic Paris or a family reunion for the Easter holidays it is not too early to make your travel arrangements. Come on by FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 and discuss your plans with us. There is no additional charge to you for our services...your costs are the same as if you booked directly. Most major credit cards honored. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. 'til 8. Library hosts tax series

NEWTON CORNER - It's tax time and people are especially aware of the need to learn more about recent changes in tax and investment structures.

A series of four seminars on the "IRA and Its implications for Working Americans," and "Financial Planning, Insurance and Tax Sheltered Investments" is scheduled to begin March 8 at 7:15 p.m. at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner.

On March 8 and March 23, at 7:15 p.m. Frederick Blick and Andrew Cutler of E.F. Hutton and Company will discuss the Implications of the IRA and the variety of IRA's available because of changes in the tax laws.

Judith Garelick, a vice presBident of Bay State Benefit and Investment Companies, will present seminars on March 16 and March 30 at 7:15 p.m. She will discuss various aspects of "Financial Planning, Insurance and Tax Sheltered Investments."

Those interested should register by March 3 by telephone' Call 552-7145. Enrollment will be limited. There is no charge for the seminars.

City marks Red Cross Month

NEWTON - The month of March has been proclaimed as Red Cross month in Newton by Mayor Theodore Mann, who urged all citizens of the community to join with him in supporting Red Cross programs.

The Members and Funds Campaign will kick off in March and continues into April.

March is also Red Cross bloodmobile month in Newton with the following bloodmobiles scheduled: Newton South High School, March 10; St. Regis Paper Company, March 12; Aquinas Junior College, March 12; Newton Wellesley Hospital, March 15; Mt. Ida Junior College, March 18; Andover Newton Theological School, March 18; Newton North High School, March 19; Newton City Hall, March 19; Newton Masonic Lodge, March 21; Boston College, March 29, 30, 31, and April 1 and 2.

For further inofrmation, call the Newton Red Cross at 527-6000.

St. Paul's minister

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - The Vestry of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Newton Highlands has appointed Rev. Flora Keshgegian as interim minister of the parish.

The Rev. Ms. Keshgegian began her duties at St. Paul's Feb. 15 and conducted her first services at the church on Feb. 21. She has served at St. John's, Newtonville and most recently at Calvary Church in Danvers.

Franklin School programs slated

NEWTON — From pre-school playgroups to recording studio tours, the Franklin Community School has a number of activities for youngsters of all ages and backgrounds. Preschoolers may play together weekly at the "All New Pre-School Drop-In". Led by Mary Morse, a licensed daycare provider, the Tuesday morning sessions will bring both toddlers and mothers together for an hour of fun and socializing. Pre-schoolers will also benefit from an hour of "Mom and Tot Art" on Friday mornings at Franklin School led by Mary Arpino.

Children in grades K-6 will select activities from 29 different course offerings, including arts and crafts, dramatics, baseball clinics and ballet classes. Adventurous youngsters will also benefit from field trips to a local restaurant, an ice cream factory, and Logan Airport.

Teens are eligible to sign up for many of Franklin Community School's adult courses. In addition, young adults may also enroll in a number of specialized activities, including "Jazzercise", a "Sampler Embroidering Circle", and a Coed Basketball Clinic. One new activity for teens is entitled "Young Women and Their Writings" led by Karen Voelkner. Concentrating on women authors including Charlotte Bronte, Miles Franklin and Sylvia Plath, the sessions will utilize journal writing and discussion as forms of learning.

For more information on any of these programs, call 332-0116, 244-8246, or Newton Community Schools at 552-7117.

Talk by Dr. William Caldicott March 14

NEWTON — Dr. William Caldicott, a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility (PSR), will speak on the medical consequences of nuclear weapons and nuclear war at a meeting of the Social Action Committee of Temple Emeth on Sunday evening, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. A film, "The Last Epidemic", will be shown to be followed by a question period.

In 1961 Physicians for Social Responsiblility acted as a united medical voice in warning of the hazards of atmospheric nuclear testing, significantly contributing to the momentum that led to the partial Test Ban Treaty of 1963.

Emeth Brotherhood hosts TV commentator Flavin

NEWTON - Temple Emeth Brotherhood will host noted television commentator Dick Flavin on Sunday evening, March 7 at 7 p.m. at the Temple.

Flavin is a television journalist who specializes in political satire. His poetry, parody, and biting wit give viewers a unique insight into the issues which make up the news of the day. Gael Fitzgerald of Newton rejoices at finish line

NEWTON — Four hundred and thirty people braved 35 degree temperatures to compete in the 4th annual Garden City Marathon. It is also the New England Marathon Championship, and the last qualifying race before the Boston Marathon.

The Garden City Marathon is one of the few races in the world which is run totally within one city, according to Don Stanton, one of the race directors. The course encompasses "heartbreak hill," and travels through every section of Newton.

Robert Wilson of Portsmouth, N.H. placed first with a time of 2:28:15 for the 26.2 mile race.

Terri Martland, of Newport, R.I., was the first women's finisher crossing the finish line at 3:04:35.

Con Doherty was the Master's Class champion, 40-years of age and up, with a time of 2:49:45. Blanch Pain of Watertown was the

How much is too much?

Reval questions raised

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — From the rear yard of his home, John McAuliffe looks at the Chestnut Hill Towers. From his front step, he is forced to stare at a hard rock pile left by a developer.

McAuliffe, who lives with is wife, three children and father-in-law at 22 Beecher Terrace, an unpaved street in Thompsonville, expected to have his taxes remain about the same.

When he received his tax impact notice, McAuliffe found out that he was wrong. His home was reappraised at $74,700, up from $4,400, resulting in a tax increase of approximately $800.

'We spent seven years trying to duck revaluation because we couldn't find anyone who was suitable for the mayor.' Alderman Dominic Taglienti

'It's a mass appraisal. It's mathematically impossible to find five similar homes for every property in Newton.' Thomas Polzella, Finnegan Associates

The 1,700 percent increase in his assessment represents a doubling of McAuliffe's monthly tax rate from $65 to more than $135. City assessors have maintained that the average assessment has increased between 700 and 800 percent under revaluation. The jump was accompanied by a drop in the tax rate from $177 to $22.10 per $1,000 of market value.

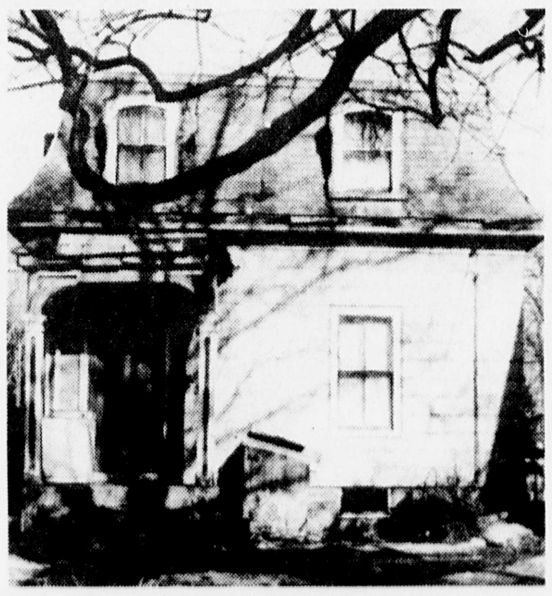

McAuliffe was one of 8,100 residents who set up informal hearings with the firm conducting the accelerated revaluation. This figure is about twice as many as originally predicted by Thomas Polzella, the project manager for Finnegan Associates.

$39M school costs win initial approval

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee gave initial "straw vote" approval to a more than $39.1 million budget Monday night, voting miniscule cuts which will not significantly reduce the four percent increase over this year.

The proposed budget would result in the elimination of 27 teachers' positions and about six full and part-time staff and teacher aides as the result of declining enrollment. Unlike city departments, the budget increase includes money for anticipated wage increases.

Current salaries for regular instruction teachers alone (excluding special and bilingual education) amount to about $15.8 million. An increase of nearly $567,000 was approved for this account despite the teacher cutbacks.

The slight decrease of $120,000 from the recommended $39.2 million current budget met with disfavor from Mayor Theodore Mann, who has asked all city departments to cut back 4.5 percent.

The proposed $39,151,846 budget received support from all School Committee members on major items within the budget. Mayor Mann cast the dissenting vote.

Mayor unhappy with school budget hikes

NEWTON — A small showing by the public at the School Committee's "straw vote" on the budget wasn't all that bothered Mayor Theodore Mann about the over $39.1 million school budget.

Mann's language was mild as he explained his opposition vote to the total budget, which represents close to a $1.4 million increase over this year, but he said he had clearly hoped for "a more conservative" budget.

"I feel that perhaps we as a School Committee in this year perhaps should have cut more than we have done." Mann said "This city has weathered the difficulties of the past several years. I'm not so certain that we're going to be able to weather as effectively the things in the next few years ahead."

The committee voted a mere $120,000 in cuts from Superintendent Aaron Fink's recommended $39.2 million budget.

Nancy Mann, chairperson of the School Committee, defended the budget.

"He (the mayor) has got a lot of problems," she said. "Proposition 2½ is not easy. But, the School Committee feels that education is very important to the city of Newton and we have decided to present the aldermen with what we feel is essential to maintaining excellence."

"It is not a plush budget. It is a tight budget," the School Committee chairperson said.

Other than the handful of "regulars" at the School Committee "straw vote" budget meeting, Mann said he was "deeply concerned" that he didn't see "a member of the public."

Legislators flunk tax group test

(But they're still satisfied)

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The city's three state representatives, who scored among the lowest in the state on a voting report card compiled by Proposition 2½ supporters, are criticizing the ratings and defending their legislative records.

Although the tax cutting measure in November 1980 was approved by a 3 to 2 vote throughout the state, the referendum was defeated in Newton by a slim margin.

Rep. David Cohen (D), who received the lowest rating of Newton's representatives, countered with his record of cutting waste in state government and support of increased local aid.

"In the legislature, I have tried to be a reasonable and responsible voice for economy in government," said Cohen, who received a 13% score out of a possible 100%. "I believe the best way to do this is by economizing on the state level and sending additional monies back in local aid." Cohen received a 19% rating.

The ratings were based on 16 votes selected by Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT), the sponsor of Proposition 2½. The votes included caps or limited overrides, resolutions for local aid and a resolution for a balanced federal budget. The ratings are the percentage of "pro-CLT" votes on the 16 roll calls.

Cohen said, "I think my overall record of rooting out waste and inefficiency in specific areas and passing on the savings to cities and towns indicates my commitment to delivering services at the most effective level."

Cohen, who has repeatedly battled for MBTA reforms and service improvements, said that local governing bodies should have the option to override the tax cutting measure.

"I do think the services ought to be given," he added.

Rep. Susan Schur (D), who received a 19% score, called the ratings by CLT "presumptuous."

"The legislature had over 700 roll-call votes and CLT has picked out 16 and determined they are pro-taxpayer votes," said the freshmen representative. "In 700 roll calls, there are many, many more indicative of a representative's votes for taxpayers."

"I think it's presumptuous that votes against their position mean a legislator has not voted in favor of the taxpayer," said Schur. "I think I have voted in the best interests of the taxpayers."

Schur said one of the Proposition 2½'s beneficial effects has been to "focus attention on how services are delivered."

Rep. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham), chairman of the House Committee on Human Services who also tallied only 19% approval on CLT's scale, called the CLT rating "misleading and unfair."

DeNucci stressed that several of the votes used by CLT were resolutions for increased local aid with no funding source.

"I was doing my job as a conscientious legislator and particularly chairman of the Human Services Committee," said DeNucci. "I don't think it would be fair for me to fight to defend these programs and make these posture votes. You can't have it both ways."

"To tell you the truth," added DeNucci, "I don't pay any attention to what CLT has me down for as a rating. I am kind of proud I have a low rating." DeNucci called CLT a self interest "pro-big business lobby."

The news in brief

School board names new North principal

NEWTON — Cambridge School administrator Marya Levenson recently won approval from the School Committee to take over as principal at Newton North High School. Levenson, who replaces Richard Mechem who is retiring at the end of this school year, will be paid $37,900 per year.

The School Committee strongly endorsed the appointment of Levenson, who was selected from over 100 applicants.

But, the vote was not quite unanimous with Katherine Jones of Ward 2 abstaining following the public interview at Bigelow Junior High.

When asked why she abstained, Jones said she was not satisfied with Levenson's response to questions about her administrative style in relation to her colleagues. Jones said she felt Levenson would move "too fast" in her new position.

Levenson was "the overwhelming choice" of the 23-member Screening Committee of parents, teachers and students which interviewed candidates, Fink told the School Committee at the meeting at Bigelow Junior High.

Fink, who refused to release names of semi-finalists for the job, said Levenson "possessed to a high degree those qualities of intellect, sensitivity and leadership required for the...years ahead."

The School Committee interviewed Levenson, 39, for more than one hour before an audience of about 40 people on her extensive experience with the Boston schools and current position as assistant director of the Principal's Center at Harvard University.

MARYA LEVENSON

Although Levenson said she was "disconcerted" that there was not a math requirement for graduation, she said, "It is my strong feeling that part of what happens in high school is that students have to learn to develop responsibility and to deal with options."

But, she stressed, the options should be made "very clear" by sitting down with students. Not just to fill out what courses they will take, Levenson said, but "to discuss 'What does this mean for you three or four years from now?'"

"They (the students) are owed that kind of information. They are owed that kind of conversation," she added.

St. Jean's will close at year's end

NONANTUM — St. Jean's school, the last parochial school in Newton, will close its doors at the end of this school year.

Despite efforts by parents to boost enrollment and fundraising, the large debt carried by the school and the burden on the parish prompted archdiocese Cardinal Humberto Medeiros to give the final approval for the school to close at the end of June.

The news was announced by the pastor of St. Jean's, Father Francis LeBrun, from the pulpit during Sunday services.

"Everybody's really upset," Diane Donnellan, chairperson of St. Jean's School Board, said. "There's nothing that can be done."

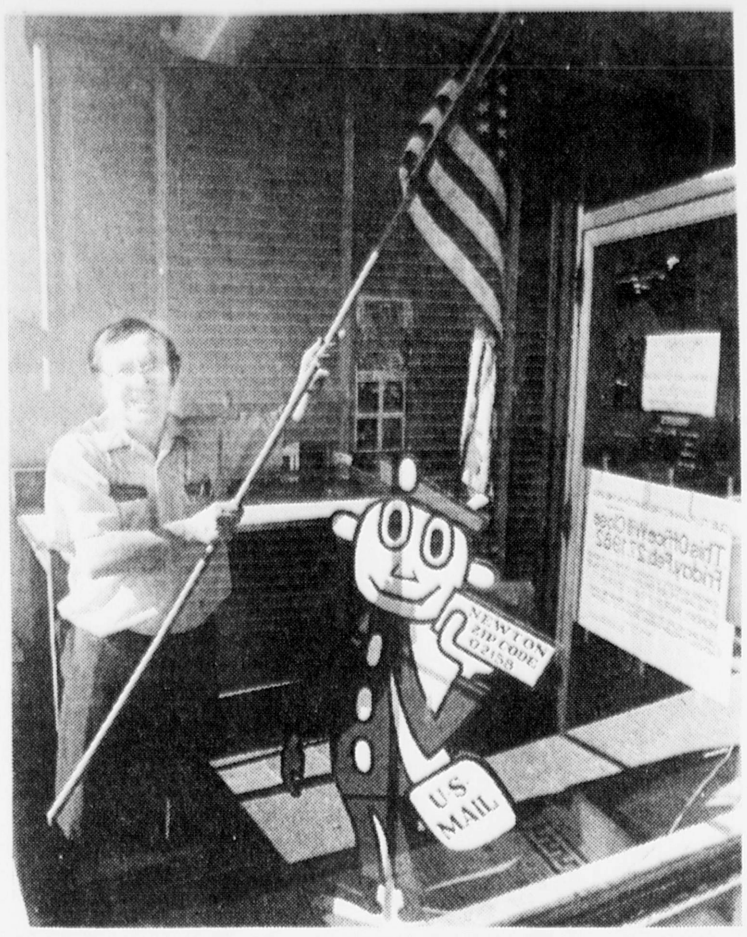

Charlotte Dooling, vice-principal of the 55-year-old school, said, "There is naturally is some sadness involved (for the school staff), but it's not the kind of mood that will prevent people from doing what they would normally do for the children."

The Parish Council of the church and affiliated school at 253 Watertown St. in Nonantum initially recommended in November that the school close at the end of the current school year because of a budget deficit of $31,000.

Although St. Jean's is the last parish-owned school in Newton, the archdiocese will be working in the next few weeks to find placements for children in other Catholic schools in Newton such as Newton Catholic Elementary (a private school formerly owned by Our Lady's Church).

Donnellan says a formal dinner and dance has been planned for March 20 with the American Legion Post 440 donating its ballroom for the evening. She said the event will not only lift spirits, but will hopefully raise some money for the rest of the school year.

Chief warns about purse snatchings

NEWTON — A rash of purse snatchings in recent weeks has prompted the Police Department to beef up patrols on the south side of the city.

Since the beginning of February, there have been nine purse thefts, seven of which have occurred in the Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, and Chestnut Hill areas. The thefts have "generally occurred" during the early evening hours between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The increased patrols include the use of unmarked police cruisers and uniformed patrolmen in the areas of the Chestnut Hill Mall and Newton Centre.

The police have yet to apprehend a suspect, according to Police Chief William Quinn. He said the department has "some leads" and was "going to get them (the thieves)."

Quinn said one woman has been beaten (not seriously) in the incidents and four victims have been knocked to the ground. The single physical assault occurred in the mall parking lot and appears to be unrelated to the other eight incidents.

"Victims are usually women walking alone in the early evening hours," said Quinn. The age of the female victims have ranged from 21 to 46 years old.

"Except for the ones (purse snatchings) at the mall, I think that the others are related," noted Quinn. The incidents outside the mall have involved male suspects, five of which are black, according to Quinn.

In a statement released to the press Quinn suggested that women take precautionary measures when walking.

"It's not an everyday crime in Newton," said Quinn. "That we've had so many is an unusual occurance."

Said Barbara Piselli, Police Department Crime Analysist: "It's not peculiar in that it (purse snatchings) never happens. It does. It's peculiar that all of a sudden we have had a lot of them."

"It's not a situation where people should panic," Piselli added. "People should be aware when they walk on the streets."

Quinn also asks of women who suspect they are being followed that they cross the street, change direction or seek assistance. If someone does attempt to steal your pocketbook, the department suggests that you "do not resist" to avoid getting "seriously hurt."

There are 137 police call boxes in the city, many of which are located next to fire boxes. The activation of a call box alerts the station to the vicinity of the crime.

Parents of Hyde School kids urge rebuilding burned unit

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Parents of Hyde Elementary Scool children are urging city officials to rebuild one of the school's buildings, which was destroyed last April in a fire, so that the space can again be used as day care space and a general community facility.

A letter explaining the need for a Hyde School Extended Day Program for children was sent recently to the Newton School Committee. Many parents of Hyde school children have also written Mayor Theodore Mann urging the rebuilding of the school.

"It provides after school care for children of parents who are working," said Susan Johnson, who wrote the 2-page letter to school committee members.

"We are not looking for free space," said Johnson, who explained that parents would rent the school space and pay teacher fees. Johnson is a Highlands resident who works full time as an educational specialist while her two children attend the Hyde day care program.

The program, with 60 children, is temporarily being held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Walnut Street, since a fire in April of 1981 destroyed one of the three Hyde School buildings.

Though the city has received the insurance money, school officials are still debating whether to rebuild the old structure.

Johnson and other Hyde parents are urging officials to rebuild the school so space will be available for an afterschool program. The facility, they stress, can also open for general community use when the afternoon program is out of session.

For four years, the Hyde Extended Day Program was held inside the now boarded-up building. Following the fire, the program moved temporarily into the Congregational Church in Newton Highlands and then, last fall, into St. Paul's. Children who attended regular Hyde School classes in the old building were shuffled into the remaining two buildings, which survived the fire.

In addition to rental fees, parents pay $1.90 per hour per child in the program. The fee decreases with each additional child.

Johnson said the use of a day care program is "an alternative that is preferred by those in the program." She stressed that, if the need for a afterschool program is not fulfilled, some parents might take their children out of public schools and place them in private schools with longer school days.

"There's a tremendous need for it," explained Martha Richmond, who has a child in the program. Richmond, a chemistry professor at Suffolk University, said the results of a questionnaire distributed three weeks ago throughout the Highlands are evidence that residents want an afterschool program.

"We can insure that there will be steady income to support the facility," said Johnson. "We're hoping that the school committee sees that it's worth it," she added.

Johnson said that the contractual agreement made with St. Paul's Church is only temporary because the church needs the space. "There's nothing else available in the Highlands," said Johnson.

Jews, rise of Hollywood at Beth Avodah

NEWTON — Local movie buffs are in for an interesting evening on Friday, March 19 when Professor Elaine May speaks on "Jews and the rise of Hollywood" at Temple Beth Avodah, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Professor May is professor of American Studies at the University of Minnesota and a guest professor at Harvard University.

She will discuss the early days of Hollyood, from glove peddlers to junk dealers and street car conductors.

The program is open to the public.

Survey in Highlands shows mixed views

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — An architectural firm hired by the city is pondering renovation options on a section of the Hyde School damaged by fire last year but residents and merchants of the Highlands recently voiced their own ideas about the school's future in a community-wide questionnaire.

The survey, conducted by the Newton Highlands Neighorhood Area Council (NHNAC) concluded that "most respondents want the fire damaged building restored to its original exterior appearance and used for school and community purposes," according to a report by Hyde School Steering Committee Chairman Tink Gunnoe, which was published last week in the NHNAC newsletter.

Surveys were distributed throughout the Highlands by the NHNAC with about 13 percent (199) responding.

"While this seems a small figure in absolute terms it represents a reasonably good response rate when compared to community surveys in general," Gunnoe said.

When asked to choose a preferred option for providing educational space requested by the School Committee, 54 percent of those responding said they wanted to see the fire-damaged portion of the building renovated for use as a school or for other community use.

Some 22 percent of respondents preferred renovation of the building strictly as a school while 13 percent said they wanted to see an addition built on to the currently used Hyde School buildings.

Asked to name "acceptable"options for Hyde if it were not renovated for school use an overwhelming 76 percent of respondents said they wanted the building to "be used and rebuilt to appear, from the outside, as it did before the fire."

The second preferred option among respondents to the survey would be tearing the damaged secton down and using the site for a park or play area. Some 49 percent of respondents said that would be acceptable.

Thirty-eight percent of those responding said rebuilding, with external appearance changes, would be acceptable while 12 percent okayed razing of the structure and using the site for public parking.

On the question of whether or not some uses of the fire damaged building would be acceptable if school activities were also housed there, 49 percent said community facilities in general would be acceptable in a shared use situation.

Some 35 percent of respondents okayed municipcal services and offices while 29 percent said elderly hosuing housing would be acceptable in shared usage. Some 28 percent of respondents said sharing of space by medical offices and/or health care facilities would by acceptable; 25 percent said non-retail business offices would be okay; and 15 percent said family housing would be acceptable.

Some 52 percent of those surveyed indicated that use of the school by the Hyde Extended Day Program was "essential" while 24 percent okayed the PTA Outgrown Shop as "essential" in the building. Twenty percent said use of the school for a senior citizens' center was essential and 19 percent said a Highlands branch library was essential.

Of those who responded to the survey, 47 percent were not parents of Hyde School children; 41 percent were parents of children at the school; 12 percent were abutters; 5 percent were merchants; and 7 percent of those who responded did not provide this information.

The architectural firm of Kubitz and Pepi is currently considering, under a specific contract, an addition to the building to "provide the net educational space requested by the School Committee" and total renovation of the building to provide that same net space within the exisiting structure.

The architects are expected to make their recommendation to the Design Reveiw Committee within four to six weeks.

3 shows planned

NEWTON CENTRE - Newton Community Schools and the All Newton Music School will join forces this Spring and provide Newton residents with three musical performances. Entitled "Music for a Sunday Afternoon", the series is made possible with funds provided by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Beginning April 25, Connie Boykan, flutist, and Elizabeth Morse, harpist will kick off the series. On May 2, Jeanette Flagan, pianist, will play and on May 16, the trio of Ronald Knudson, violinist, Adrienne Hartszell, cellist and Rita Moerschel, pianist, will combine their talents.

All three performances will meet in private homes on Sundays from 3 - 5 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. There is a $1 registration fee and a $10 materials charges.

For more information about the series, call Newton Community School at 552-7118.

Our Lady's goes Irish March 16

NEWTON - Our Lady's of Newton will host an Irish night on Tuesday, March 16 from starting with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7.

Musical entertainment at this event, which is open to the public, will feature the Blarney Castleers and Kathy D'Agostino along with Father Frank Strahan.

Dancing will be to the music of Mike Connolly and the famous Celtic Airs. A raffle will be held with the top prize of a trip to two to Ireland. The cost of the evening is $8 and tickets are available at the rectory, 573 Washington St. Information is available by calling 527-7560.

Committee members for the evening include Monsignor John McManmon, Rev. Leroy Owens and Rev. Francis Strahan.

Other committee members are: Elinor Barton, winifred Donahue, Edwina Hertach, Virginia King, Mary Terry and Timothy Meade.

Community Schools cited in a national publication

NEWTON CENTRE - Newton Community Schools has been cited recently in a nationwide publication entitled "Its name is Community Education: A Variety of Opinions and Practices", according to Joseph Baron, NCS executive director.

Distributed by Ball State University, the 8400-page book describes 17 models of community education.

"NCS was chosen as a national model because of its high degree of community envolvement in all aspects of program planning and design", noted Baron. "Since volunteers first started the program in 1973, they have consistently provided high quality activities for people of all ages and backgrounds."

Baron also said people become involved with NCS for a variety of reasons. Terri Kasper, co-coordinator of the Mason-Rice Community School is one example. "For me, Community Schools is a real opportunity to put people together and help to build a community spirit. People may not know their neighbor who lives two doors away and through Community Schools we can bring residents together."

Diane Maffiola, co-coordinator at the Franklin Community School agrees. "It's very fulfilling. It's a way to participate both in your school and in your community, and to respond to needs in your own neighborhood.

NCS recently began its spring term with over 700 activities. Some 400 volunteers helped to plan activities, recruit program leaders, register participants and worked closely with local schools and agencies.

For more information, call 552-7118.

Death and taxes

No one said any of this revaluation was going to be fun.

After all, the person who made up the old adage about the two things you can't escape - death and taxes - had to face the music on both counts long ago.

But with some 8000 homeowners filing for hearings on their tax assessments with Finnegan Associates, it looks like a long road ahead toward getting this problem of 100% property valuation on record.

We can really offer only one suggestion in this mess and that is that homeowners who want to speak their minds or at least share their misery (or delight) with others can attend the March 16 hearing at City Hall.

And in the mean time we muse over how history tends to repeat itself by quoting from a Newton Graphic editorial published in May, 1975.

We quote: "If anything has ever rocked Newton to its very foundations, revaluation has.

"Revaluation has inspired fear and panic and outrage among many people here. Residents have taken one look at their tax bills and said 'we can't afford to live in Newton anyone.'

"This is disquieting to say the least."

Seven years later, with even more taken out of the paycheck every week, utility bills climbing through the roof, the cost of buying - much less maintaining - a home approaching a prohibitive level, it is not simply disquieting. It is downright grim.

An open season

Thanks to members of the Aldermanic Public Safety Committee for their dealings with Chaulk Ambulance Service Monday night.

A while back Chaulk refused to release information pertinent to the service's contract and performance for the city.

If requested figures were released, one Chaulk official said, it would be "open season" for the press.

Well on Monday the Public Safety Committee said to hell with open season and committee members demanded information from Chaulk - the same information routinely supplied to the mayor and police chief, but not to the aldermen.

Displays of such legitimate curiosity, assertion of authority and realization that the aldermen (and public) have a right to know when it involves a contract with the city are exactly why such aldermen are voted into office.

The press is not trying to tell Chaulk how to run an ambulance. But if the aldermen have questions along those lines they need cooperation and the necessary statistics to be informed on the issue.

Perhaps now Chaulk officials are thinking the aldermen have declared open season. And aldermen don't even need hunting licenses.

Marking time

Come see the best show in town

By Mark White

Step right up ladies and gentlemen. Come one, come all to the greatest show in the city!

We have daredevil acts! We have men and women who are absolutely fearless. We have acts that will amaze you, astound you, terrify you and amuse you.

You'll laugh. You'll cry. You'll react with emotion and sometimes, with anger.

And the price? It's free. Not one thin dime to watch this entertaining spectacle.

Come right in and watch the Newton Board of Aldermen!

In the center ring is ringmaster and president, Matthew Jefferson. His demeanor, patience and fairness in the midst of chaos will amaze one and all.

"Introducing the amazing, the miraculous, the unbelievable smoking ordinance." This ordinance, by prohibiting the handing out of free samples of cigarettes in Newton will actually eliminate the tobacco industry from the Western World. Amazing!

The entertainers are entering the Center Ring. Alderman McGrath, the lion tamer, will read the city solicitor's legal opinion that states: "The law is neither clearly prohibited nor permitted. It would be advisable to send the ordinance back to committee for more work but sending it back to committee will probably do no good." Amazing!

Alderman Sheehan, the famous political tightrope walker, will now interpret that ruling to mean the city solicitor favors the ordinance and feels that it will stand up in court. Amazing!

The comedians have now entered the first ring led by Alderman Barker who will publically call the whole matter a "foohaha." That's right, a "foohaha." Amazing!

> See the man who doesn't know what he's talking about without saying a word! See things to thrill you and chill you!

Then, referring to Alderman Vance, he will say "He doesn't know what he's talking about" without Vance ever uttering a word.

As a matter of fact, Verne Vance is now entering the third ring. Armed with logic, a brilliant legal argument, and eloquent speech he will actually try to convince the aldermen that laws should be passed correctly and that since there is no present danger of floods of cigarettes being passed out in Newton in the next two weeks, more work should be put into the ordinance. Amazing!

And now, ladies and gentlement, the main attraction. Alderman DePasquale, the fearless, the sensible, the courageous, will actually try to pursuade his colleagues that the law is unnecessary because nobody is passing out cigarette samples in Newton.

And then, to emphasize the point, he will pass out samples of cigarettes to all the aldermen. Amazing!

And here comes Alderman Tennant with a wastebasket, collecting all the cigarettes. Amazing!

The crowd is on its feet cheering as the debate goes on.

Alderman Creem is yelling that "this is a mockery." Aldermen Baker, Daley, Richmond and Levinsky are urging a piercing blow to the tobacco industry. Amazing!

Alderman Bauckman then brings down the house with the most sincere and honest statement of the night. "This should be the worst of our problems. We should pass this because it is a nice thing to do - but only that."

A really sensible statement. Amazing!

So come right in and watch this unfold before your very eyes.

You'll laugh. You'll cry. You'll shudder in terror. You won't believe your eyes and ears and just remember this circus will only be around until Dec. 31, 1983!

My turn

For some, it's hard to understand

By Steven Burke

Like many working people in this city, he does not understand.

He does not understand why taxes are skyrocketing after Proposition 2½, designed to reduce property taxes, has been implemented.

For many in this attractive, wealthy suburb paying the tax bill increase is as easy as writing another check. Maybe it means one less $300 suit. Maybe it means giving up a trip to Florida.

But for Eugene Paoletti, 80, and others struggling to live on a fixed incomes, it could mean moving out of the city where he has lived, worked and raised a family.

He has lived in Newton for 50 years and does not know how he will pay the increase.

Paoletti is one of many angry taxpayers who recently received tax tax notices. Paoletti's tax bill will increase by $300. His income will not.

His wife, Carmela, 76, stood by his side at City Hall recently. "We'll have to move," she said.

"They are a bunch of crooks," snapped her husband.

The bureaucrats, meanwhile, are touting exemptions - exemptions that are shooting downward as assessments shoot up.

Exemptions that will aid the very, very needy, but are laughable for a family struggling in Nonantum or a middle class elderly couple. Exemptions that call for an elderly couple's gross income to be less than $7,000.

Judith Bocock, a middle aged resident who moved to the city in 1976, must pay a $500 increase.

"I never thought I'd reach this age and be in this much trouble," said Bocock, who lost her job as a teacher in the Boston system under Proposition 2½. "I am going to have to sell that house somehow and get out. There is no way I can pay that."

It is hard to find city officials talking about the countless Eugene Paoletti's and Judith Bocock's who will be forced to leave the city. It is much easier to talk about banning promotional cigarette giveaways on city streets. It is much easier to talk about the construction of a new park.

As the bureaucrats bide their time on political nonsense, the city is crumbling. The heart of any city is its diversity - its wide spectrum of people.

With a landmark revaluation that has resulted in the assessments for single and two family homes jumping 800 percent, Newton may wake up to find it has lost that diversity.

(Steven Burke is a staff writer for The Newton Graphic)

Graphically speaking

It's easy to be 'in'

How to be 'in' in Newton

Those guys at the Newton Kiwanis Club sure are a bunch of cards.

Why just last week we received the club's newsletter in the mail and saw that some people will do anything to get into print.

As the newsletter's author (who signs himself only as "The Good Scout") recounted items of interest from a recent meeting he suddenly interjected "Ernie Pile was sitting across from me and insisted I put him in, so here he is - in."

Bet you didn't know you'd be "in" Graphically speaking, Ernie.

Higher education elsewhere

We also received a note in the mail last week from Joyce Turner of Kendall Park, N.J.

She noted that two graduates of Newton South were heading to bigger and better things, politically speaking, and they aren't even doing it in Newton!

Monja Krieks Miles, a member of the South High class of '66 and Joyce Beldon Turner, class of '67 are both running for seats on the Board of Education in South Brunswick, N.J.

Who knows. Maybe Jersey thinks it has the best school system in the country.

Barney says he'll manage

Congressman Barney Frank, who has his supporters out pounding the pavement for signatures and support in his race against Margaret Heckler, has named James M. Dolan as his campaign manager.

Dolan, who has headed Barney's congressional staff since December, 1980, has taken an unpaid leave of absence from that post to run the local campaign.

"Jim Dolan brings a unique perspective and extensive experience to the management of this campaign," Barney said last week.

"I am pleased that he has agreed to accept this assignment."

In something of a strange twist of fate (could it be the hidden political weapon?) it seems Dolan worked as press secretary for Congresswoman Margaret Heckler in 1975-76.

The assignment, if you decide to accept it...

Can we write you a check?

Bad news, folks. The trustees at Boston College announced recently that undergraduate tuition, room and board fees for the 1982-83 academic year are going up.

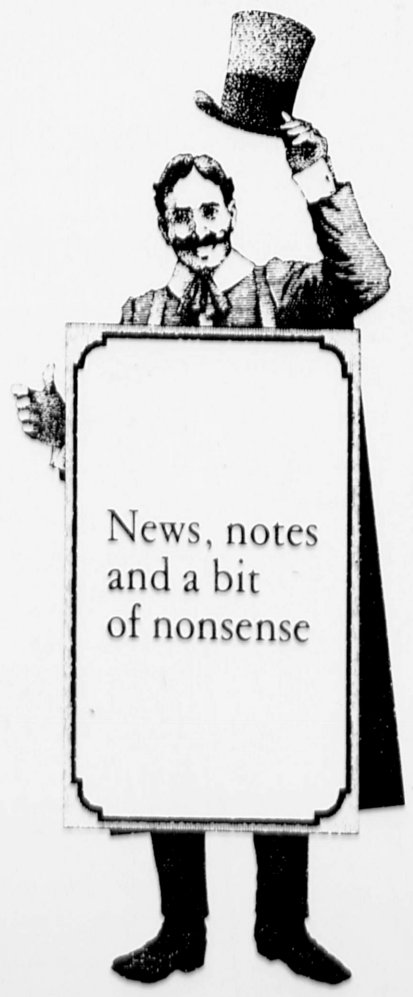

Surprised, you say?

The new fees will total $9280, representing a $1166 increase (13.7%) over last year's costs.

In a press release explaining the increase it was noted by BC officials that "when compared with 1967 dollars, tuition at Boston College has remained relatively constant over the past 15 years and that over the same period of time, tuition at BC has constently remained between 20 and 25% of the US median family income."

Sure wish we had some of those 1967 dollars around the house...

Intruders hit home

CHESTNUT HILL — Police reported last week that intruders entered a Woodman Road home.

According to police, nothing was reported missing from the home following the break-in at 7:54 p.m. The intruders gained entrance into the home by forcing open the front door.

Cars recovered

CHESTNUT HILL — Two cars, both stolen within minutes of each other from the Bloomingdales parking lot, were recovered by Boston and Norwood Police.

A 1976 Chevrolet Camaro was recovered later by Norwood police. A 1979 Mazda RX 7 was later recovered in West Roxbury.

Newton Police reports

Two apartments entered

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Two apartments within a Boylston Street house were broken into sometime last Wednesday when jewelry and camera equipment were stolen, according to police.

The residents of the apartments told police that the units were entered sometime between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. by slipping the front door locks. Assorted jewelry and camera equipment were reported stolen from both apartments.

Television, silver stolen

WEST NEWTON — After smashing a window, burglars entered a Mignon Road home and stole a color television set and a set of silverware, according to police.

According to police, the home was entered sometime between 8 a.m. and 10:50 p.m. last Wednesday by smashing a 24''x24'' rear window,.

Thieves are scared away

NEWTON CENTRE - A police officer apparently scared away two potential robbers early last Wednesday night after a sound alarm was activated in a Park Avenue home.

Police officer David Benoit was alerted at 7:48 p.m. to a sound alarm inside the home and went to investigate. Officer Benoit discovered that the rear door was forced though the house was not entered, according to police. Officer Benoit also discovered two sets of fresh footprints coming from the house.

Office equipment is taken

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Office equipment was reported stolen late Tuesday or early Wednesday morning from a Walnut Street business.

According to police, the thieves entered Referral Unlimited, 1193 Walnut St ., sometime between 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Police said they do not know how the main building was entered, though one of the rooms was entered by forcing a door knob.

Auto ignitions popped

CHESTNUT HILL — Intruders tried unsuccessfully to steal two cars parked Wednesday at the Chestnut Hill Mall lot, 199 Boylston St., according to police.

The ignitions of a 1979 Cadillac and a 1979 Pontiac Trans Am were popped sometime between 8:40 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., police reported. Both cars were reported locked.

Gas station is entered

WEST NEWTON — Nothing was reported missing Thursday morning following a break into Washington Street gas station.

According to police, someone smashed a 2'x18'' window at the side of the West Newton Mobil at 1232 Washington St. Police discovered the broken window during a routine check at 2:23 a.m.

Police team up to nab suspect

WATERTOWN — Newton and Watertown police teamed up early Saturday to catch a Medford man after he allegedly led Somerville Police on a chase through Boston and Newton and into Watertown Square where he crashed an allegedly stolen car, police said.

The 22-year-old suspect and his passenger, a 23-year-old woman, were turned over to Somerville Police for booking. Police said the suspect was wanted on arrest warrants in numerous communities but did not disclose what offenses he is charged with or where he is wanted.

According to a Newton Police spokesman, Newton Police began following two Somerville Police cars pursuing the suspect after he drove from the Oak Square section of Brighton into Newton and onto Washington Street toward Watertown about 3:45 a.m. Saturday.

In Watertown Square, the suspect lost control of the allegedly stolen 1981 Chrysler LeBaron and drove it onto the traffic island. One Somerville Police cruiser also drove onto the island behind the suspect's car.

The suspect jumped from the Chrysler and ran but was caught after a short foot chase.

A Somerville patrolman who suffered chest injuries when his police car drove onto the traffic island was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Brighton for observation.

Short circuit blamed for blaze

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — A faulty electrical system has been blamed for the $1 million dollar blaze that destroyed the Advertising Agency Associates building at 1320 Centre St., according to fire officials.

According to Fire Prevention Captain Carmine Tedesco, a faulty circuit within the electrical system of the first-floor panel caused the sweeping three-alarm blaze. "It was definitely electrical. There's no question about it," said Tedesco of the blaze which spread rapidly through the building.

The fire destroyed the long brick and wood structure, temporarily displacing about 90 employees of the agency and its tenant, G.W.V. Travel Incorporated. Both agencies have relocated and no employees are unemployed as a result of the incident.

According to an agency spokesman, Advertising Agency Associate's owner, Allan Hackel, has not decided whether or not to rebuild on the site. "We have no idea. It's really too soon to tell," said Hackel's assistant Brandie Morris.

The agency has moved into several offices of the National Hardgood Store, located next door to the gutted building. All 25 employees of the company, which is using the same mailing address and telephone number, are working at that location.

Robert Bernard, president of the travel company, said he is seeking permanent office space in Newton for his company. "I would like to stay in Newton," explained Beranard, a Newton resident.

The company's 40 employees are now working at five different locations. Bernard said 15 people are working at the Great American Travel Company, 210 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill, using several offices. Others are working in Framingham, Natick, Needham and Waltham.

"It's been business as usual," said Bernard said confidently. However he stated that it would probably take a long time before a permanent location is found.

A private demolition company, South Easton Crane, Inc., is cleaning up the debri from the building, which was left in a black shambles as a result of the blaze. Crewmen also removed a chimney which was left standing.

Tedesco said the demolition company will be working to clear the site through the end of next week. In addition to crew, the insurance company hired a salvage group, New Boston Recker of Watertown, to recover boxes of supplies located at the rear of the building and not destroyed.

Tedesco said fire officials and insurance investigators would continue to look into the faulty electrical system which caused the blaze. During the Monday fire, Tedesco reported that the flames spread rapidly through an open loft under the roof and running the length of the building. He stated yesterday that inspectors still have not discovered how the blaze traveled from the first floor panel.

Van Vactor's 'armful' as new book publisher

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — David Van Vactor is a writer, teacher and former church lay preacher who recently became a full-fledged publisher.

It took three years for his Newton Highlands-based company, Van Vactor and Goodheart, to publish its first book, "An Armful of Warm Girl," by W.M. Spackman but Van Vactor feels it was well worth the wait.

"It's a terrific book to start out with," says Van Vactor of the stylish novel by the 77-year-old Rhodes scholar. "The book has the possibility of a large market, " adds Van Vactor, noting that a screenplay has been written from the book.

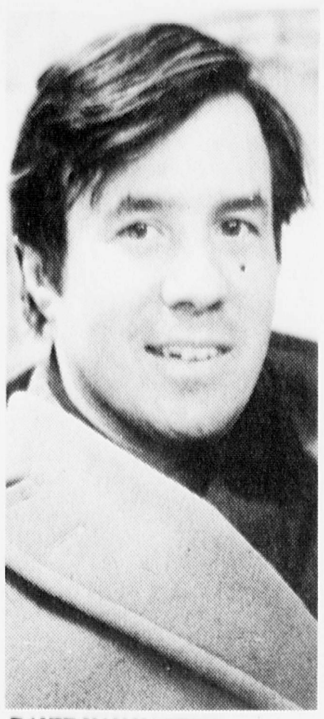

A Tennessee native, most of Van Vactor's life has revolved around the literary world. A 1961 Harvard University graduate, Van Vactor earned a bachelor's degree in literature and taught expository writing to Harvard freshman.

Married to novelist Patricia Goodheart who authored "The Translator," both Van Vactor and his wife ran a non-profit organization called, The Writing Arts Institute," for teachers. In addition, both Goodheart and Van Vactor edited "Cantos," a quarterly literary review magazine.

Last spring, Van Vactor thrust all is efforts into the publishing company. By December, Van Vactor had published "An Armful of Warm Girl."

"It's going a little slow," says Van Vactor. "The difficulty is in distribution. I still don't have sales reps on the east coast," adds Van Vactor, who is trying to sell the publication to large chain book stores.

In addition to distribution problems, Van Vactor suggests the sales may be slow because of the book's style. He admits that Spackman's novel isn't for the average reader.

DAVID VAN VACTOR

"His language is hard to read," says Van Vactor of the novel about a Philadelphia banker whose wife's request for a divorce leads him to a former mistress and a 20-year-old actress. "I compare it to chocolate mousse. It's very rich. It has a very precious style," Van Vactor explained.

Now, Van Vactor has his eye on several other books he hopes to publish in the near future. "My goal would be to have business going so well so that my sons might have good jobs,if they choose," says Van Vactor, who hopes it would lead to spending more time with his writing. ',My heart is really in writing and teaching."

Many won't see tax exemptions

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Property tax bill exemptions for hundreds of needy and disadvantaged veterans, elderly and handicapped homeowners have decreased dramatically as a result of the decline in the property tax rate under revaluation.

Many of the benefits use the tax rate in calculating the top dollar exemption. The average veteran obtaining benefits will lose approximately $175 under the the residential revaluation that began in May, according to assessor's statistics.

Approximately 1,200 vets took advantage of the various exemptions last year. A preliminary estimated tax rate of $22.10, a drop from last year's $177 per $1,000 of assessed property, has been set by the assessors. The exemptions are regulated by state law.

The average exemption for blind homeowners will decrease approximately $400, according to assessor's statistics. Approximately 85 residents took advantage of the exemption.

Under clause 41, the average exemption for approximately 570 elderly residents will lose an average of $200.

A clause 17 exemption for widows and spouses has also been reduced sharply because of the tax rate drop. Approximately 257 residents took advantage of the average exemption of $354 - reduced by more than half this year as a result of the tax rate drop.

Alderman Michael Malec has filed a "home rule" request that would allow an additional 100 residents to take advantage of the exemption. The minimum exemption under the new tax rate will drop to $175.

The residential revaluation, which has resulted in assessments skyrocketing from 700 to 800 percent for single and two family homes, has received preliminary certification from the state Department of Revenue.

Under the "home rule" legislation filed by Malec, a homeowner whose estate is valued at $40,000 with the first $60,000 of the house excluded, will be allowed to take advantage of the exemption. A hearing on the amendment is scheduled for tonight before the Legislation and Rules Committee. The exemption, approved in the state legislature, was filed by Rep. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham).

"The person this is going to help is the elderly person on a fixed income," said Malec. "They are the people who need it the most."

Chairman of the Aldermanic Revaluation Sub-Committee Paul Coletti, said the legislature should move quickly to provide relief to needy residents. Coletti recently met with DeNucci to urge legislative action.

"I think the state should give the same amount of relief in dollars that they were getting at last year's exemptions," said Coletti. "Statewide there is no call for this and I don't understand it."

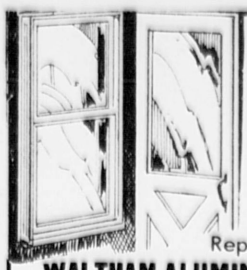

"I am sympathetic and I am waiting for the state to come up with something," added Coletti.

Jewish War Vets host dinner

NEWTON - Newton Post 211, Jewish War Veterans, will hold its annual "Classmates Today, Neighbors Tomorrow" on Thursday, March 18 at 7 p.m. The winning student from Newton South is Alan Carver and the winner from Newton North is Erica Seifert, chosen by the students as best exemplifying brotherhood, scholastic work and voluntary work in their communities.

The guest of honor will be Mayor Theodore Mann , who will address the stu dents and present the awards. Both the parents and principal from both schools will also be present.

A full course chicken dinner will be served by Quarter Master Victor Resh and his staff.

Differing views on lunch funding in local schools

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A $157,000 deficit is anticipated this year for the lunch and breakfast program in the Newton schools, a subsidy the School Committee "feels strongly" it wants to reduce "to zero."

Last year during budget discussions, the committee decided to make changes in the food program in hopes of reducing the subsidy largely through price increases for fully-paid lunches whose average actual cost to the schools is $1.33 a meal. The elementary program also went from hot to cold lunches with considerable savings.

But it appears that the price increases are driving many students away. The committee's consensus was that participation would fall even further and the deficit would grow if prices were increased over the current 90 cents at the secondary level and 70 cents at the elementary level.

At a recent School Committee meeting a hiring freeze was unanimously approved for cafeteria staff in the secondary schools. Other measures such as staff reductions and/or using an outside vendor next year are possibilities.

Experimentations with heavy use of more popular menus for the remainder of the year and with a la carte offerings are being studied. A consultant is also being contacted for a free initial analysis of the overall food program.

According to school officials, labor costs at the secondary level are approximately $411,000 a year for the total lunch and breakfast program. This work force, according to Roy Cornelius, director of Support Services, needs to be brought more in proportion with drastic reductions in the number of students now buying lunches.

However, Robert Robards, president of the independent union (Local 454) which represents the personnel who staff the secondary school cafeterias as well as school custodians, says labor costs are not significantly higher at the secondary level. He says city payroll figures for the secondary program for this year are actually $378,000.

Robards says the pay for all part-time personnel as well as full-time cafeteria helpers ranges from $4.27 an hour the first year to $5.07 after five years. The starting hourly rate for cooks is $4.85 with $5.51 as the top pay after five years. Cafeteria managers can make $6.65 an hour after five years.

Robards compares this with the pay scale for part-time personnel for elementary lunch supervision. Since elementary schools do not serve lunch out of cafeterias, lunch attendants manage elementary classrooms on a staggered schedule each day for hourly pay which ranges from $4.32 the first year to $5.50 for the seventh year.

There are also 17 lunch managers for Newton's 17 elementary schools with a 15-hour work week whose job is to collect money, arrange for substitutes (or fill in themselves) and manage the program at their school. Their pay scale ranges from $5.39 an hour the first year to $6.97 the seventh year.

According to projections for next year, the cost of the lunch managers and 75.5 attendants, despite the reduction of two positions, will increase 5.1 percent to about $174,000 due to projected salary increases.

Robards emphasizes that these people do not prepare any food, but only supervise the program.

According to Roy Cornelius, an additional labor cost of the elementary program is for food handlers at approximately $36,000.

Robards says at Newton South High, by contrast, six part-time personnel and three full-time people serve, prepare, cook, clean-up, "cashier the money an bank it" everyday for both the breakfast and lunch program. He says over 400 people are served lunch alone.

Robards is also angered by the hiring freeze at the secondary school level, an action which he feels should have been aired with the union first. He has turned the matter over to the union's attorney, Alan McDonald of the Boston firm McDonald and Noonan.

"Mr. Cornelius informed the School Committee to talk to the union. Of course, the School Committee doesn't talk to the union," Robards says.

"I think this is not fair treatment to them (the cafeteria personnel in the secondary schools)," Robards emphasizes. "These women are frightened. They feel their jobs may be in jeopardy."

"We cannot understand why it is necessary to invoke a hiring freeze when there is a well-known shortage of personnel at the secondary lunch level," Robards says.

However, Cornelius says there is no shortage of personnel at the secondary level.

"In fact," Cornelius says, "we've made it clear that that is one of the first things we have to do — reduce staffing."

Cornelius says the total number of lunches to be served this school year was projected at 461,700, but has been drastically revised to 356,100.

Cornelius added that there are two substitutes for the secondary food program staff "still on board."

Lawyers leave their briefs at The Gables

If you'd like a permanent parole from a house that no longer suits you, we suggest a visit to The Gables in Newton. These superb two and three bedroom attached single family homes offer the space and detailing of a large older estate without the problems of care and upkeep. There is a staff to take care of your every need, and combined electronic/gatehouse security will protect you.

In brief: the homes are a mix of one and two level townhomes with attached two-car garages, private decks and courtyard areas, and full basements, some with sliders. Examine the clubhouse, swimming pool, and tennis courts. Careful design and placement assure privacy in every case.

Discriminating professionals have already purchased almost all the 35 homes in the first section, and a number of the 16 in the next group are already reserved. When homes in the $265,000 to $400,000 range sell this fast there must be good reasons.

And there are many. We urge you to visit the new furnished models and judge for yourself. The Gables is easy to find at the junction of Parker and Dedham Streets, directly adjacent to the Charles River Country Club in Newton. Phone (617) 969-0200 for an appointment or visit any day from 9 to 5.

Kathryn Ann Schmitz and James Stone

June wedding planned

WABAN - Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schmitz of Amherst, N.H. announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn Ann to James Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stone of Waban.

Miss Schmitz is a 1976 graduate of Milford Area Senior High, Milford, N.H. and a 1980 graduate of Cornell University.

She is currently employed as a software engineer at Wang Laboratories in Lowell.

Mr. Stone is a 1968 graduate of Commonwealth School in Boston and attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is currently employed as a senior software engineer at Wang. A June wedding is planned.

Susan McLeod wed in R.I.

NEWTON - Mrs. Barbara E. Burns of Newton and Chelmsford announces the marriage of her daughter, Susan E. McLeod to Curtis Munford of Newport, R.I.

The wedding took place in Cambridge on Feb. 20 followed by a reception at the couple's new home.

The groom is studying voice in Boston and the bride was educated in the Newton schools. She is currently working as a physical therapist.

The bride's mother was matron of honor and the groom's father, James Munford, was best man.

The wedding was attended by family and friends and followed by a supper at the home of Mrs. Patrician Halnen of Billerica, the bride's sister.

Dr. Katz is Kalla guest

NEWTON — Dr. Steven T. Katz, Chairman of the Religion Department of Dartmouth College, will be guest lecturer for the fourteenth annual Temple Reyim Kallah March 19, 20 and 21 The theme for this Kalla will be "Varieties of Jewish Religious Expression in the Second Temple Period". Dr. Katz will develop this theme in three lectures and discussions to be held as part of a weekend of study and religious services.

On Friday evening, March 19, during the Erev Shabbat service, Dr. Katz will lecture on "The Historical Setting - From the Maccabean Revolt to the Destruction of the Second Temple". Discussion will be held at the Oneg Shabbat following the service. At the Saturday morning Shabbat service, Professor Katz will discuss "The Religious Diversity of the Era", considering the Pharisees, Saducees, Essenes, Zealots, and Jewish Christians. A Kidush luncheon and further discussion will follow the service. On Sunday morning at 10:30, the final lecture will be "The Victory of Rabbinic Judaism", a view of the main elements accounting for its success and its importance for all subsequent Jewish life.

Professor Katz is currently on leave from Dartmouth and is Visiting Professor at the Center for Jewish Studies and the Center for World Religions at Harvard University. He is also vice president of the Association of Jewish Studies, editor of Modern Judaism, and member of the editorial teams of The Cambridge History of Judaism and the History of Nineteenth Century Religious Thought.

Local teacher pens new political novel

NEWTON - Newton North High School English teacher George Bower has just published his second novel, entitled "Running" but in the land of the Boston Marathon this book takes off on a different foot.

Bower, who also teaches creative writing at North, focused the book on state Senator Tom Jordan, 32, a fictional former all-American split end at Notre Dame and his gritty campaign for the 1978 Democratic senatorial nomination.

Parts of the novel, published by Seaview Books, are set in the Garden City.

As Bower said last week, the novel, "is about the price of greed, ambition, neglect and fame," ingredients he hopes will put the book at the top of the charts.

The novel also focuses on Jordan's relationship with two close political friends, his brother (a guard for the Los Angeles Lakers), his widowed mother, formeer wife, two sons and the wife of a Massachusetts congressman. Jordan also is concerned in the book with "the beautiful black lawyer he wants to marry," Bower noted.

It is a book, he said, "about the consequences of dedication, and the endurance of character, excellence and commitment."

His first novel, "November...December" was published in 1977.

Mishkan Tefila readies for 'Facing History' auction

CHESTNUT HILL - What do President Gerald Ford, Alan Alda, Danny Kaye, Jack Lemmon, Paul Newman, Jack Klugman, Ed McMahon, and Henry ("the Fonz") Winkler have in common? They are only a few of the many concerned celebrities who have sent personalized memorabilia for the gala Mishkan Tefila auction to be held Saturday night, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Congregation Mishan Tefila, CHestnut Hill.

The auction will benefit charitable causes including the nationally-acclaimed "Facing History and Ourselves" project developed to teach children about the roots of bigotry. The "Facing History" project develops curriculum materials for teaching junior high school students to come to terms, emotionally and intellectually, with recent attempts to exterminate whole peoples, including the Nazi assault on the Jews during World War II and the Armenian genocide shortly before World War I.

Educators around the country and the world, point to this program as a model for moral education. Federal budget pressures have caused a cutoff in federal funding for "Facing History" and a large portion of the auction proceeds will be devoted to funding this program.

In addition to the celebrity items, over $30,000 worth of furs, jewelry, trips to exotic islands and other merchandise will be auctioned off.

Tickets are $7.50 per person and include dinner, hors d'oeuvres , and admission to the auction. Send your check to Harvey Greenstein, c/o Congregation Mishkan Tefila, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway, Chestnut Hill, 02167. For further information, please call Greenstein at 969-0997.

A FUNNY THING - The Torah Fund Troubadours will present "A funny thing happened on the way to the Pushke" at the temple Emanuel community Hall on Wednesday, March 17 at 11:30 a.m. In charge of the event are (from left) Selma Seligman, musical director; Miriam Samick, cast and advisor; Rosamond Grant, sisterhood president; and Ann Furman, Torah Fund chairperson. All four women are from Newton.

Emanuel Sisterhood slates show March 17

NEWTON — The Torah Fund Troubadours of Temple Emanuel Sisterhood will present "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Puske" as the highlight of the Torah Fund Program which will be preceeded by lunch at 11:30 a.m. in the Temple Community Hall, on Wednesday, March 17.

Chairperson of the event is Ann Furman, assisted by Ida Neistadt, both of Newton. Special participating guests will be Rabbi Samuel Chiel, Elliot Salo Schoenberg, and Mark D. Friedman.

Other participants are: Hadassah Blocker, cast, Joyce Bohnen, cast, Estelle Mitchell, cast, Ruth Mitchell, cast, Cele Kaufman, cast, Honey Gordon, secretary, Nancy Parritz, cast and publicity, Edith Sobol, treasurer, Eileen Kagno, vice president of the New England Branch of Women's League for Conservative Judaism and regional Torah Fund chairperson of special gifts, and Phyllis Stewart, set design.

Arthur Miller to speak at Sunday Brunch Club

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Arthur Miller, a familiar face in households for his highly rated TV series "Miller's Court", will speak on March 21 at the Sunday Brunch Club on his book "Miller's Court."

Recently published by Houghton and Mifflin, the book addresses topics that affect our everyday lives in the same upbeat style as his TV show.

By putting the reader in the middle of a lively, TV type discussion on pornography, child custody, genetic engineering, living together and many other topics, he makes what might seem absurd or complex become comprehensible.

Arthur Miller is a professor at the Harvard Law School, served on national commissions in the fields of privacy, computers and copyright, and worked as reporter for the Advisory Committee on Civil Rules for the U.S. He has made the law accessible to the general public through "Miller's Court", his weekly appearances on "Good Morning America", his periodic colums in the national and local press, and as author and co-author of over 25 other books.

The Sunday Brunch Club, where Miller's talk will take place is a Newton based educational social club committed to providing personal and cultural growth to the single, divorced, seperated and widowed individual, at The Workshop, 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands.

For reservations to "Miller's Court" program or to receive free bulletin listing other activities, call 527-4478, or write Box 245, Chestnut Hill, 02167.

Brotherhood Man of the Year honors March 21

CHESTNUT HILL — The Temple Mishkan Tefila, Chestnut Hill Brotherhood Man of the Year Award will be presented to Benjamin Lipson at the seventeenth annual Wilson Memorial Breakfast at 9 a.m. Sunday, March 21, at the temple.

At this occasion to honor Lipson, the featured speaker will be Beverly Minkoff, national president of Women's American ORT, Organization for Rehabilitation through Training. As the vocational and technical education program of the Jewish People, ORT has served more than two million Jewish citizens worldwide since it was founded in 1880.

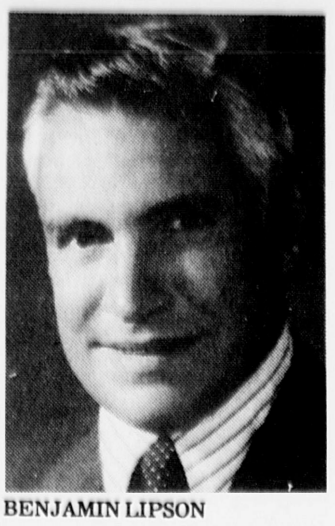

A native New Yorker, Minkoff leads a 145,000 member organization and is currently visiting ORT programs in Europe and the Middle East to examine the Jewish communities and the services ORT can provide in response to political, social and economic conditions. Her topic "A Time for Decision" will be an address on the current status of world Jewry.

Lipson is honored as Brotherhood Man of the Year, to recognize a long career of service and leadership in Mishkan Tefila, and Greater Boston area causes. A native of Mattapan, Lipson attended Bopston University and served in the United States Air Force. An independent life insurance broker, he has been active in his profession and writes regularly on insurance for The Boston Globe. Lipson has promoted life insurance consumer interests through his various articles, books, surveys, and testimony before legislative committees. A resident of Newton, Lipson served on the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health, and directed the Newton's Centennial Commission. He has been program chairman of the mayor of Newton's Community Prayer Breakfasts since their inception seven years ago.

He is a past president of Brotherhood Temple and Mishkan Tefila and has served as a congregation vice president. He founded the Temple's Good Neighbor Night, a program that promotes and recognizes interfaith leadership and has honored statesmen, educators, and professionals of national and international stature.

The Jack Wilson Breakfast originated 16 years ago to honor the memory of a man who became "the lifeblood of the Brotherhood" when the Temple moved to Chestnut Hill. Jack Wilson was a poet, playwright, musician and family man who devoted his life to the Brotherhood and Temple life. The Wilson award is presented annually to a member of the congregation who in his own way typifies Jack Wilson's spirit.

Dr. Barry J. Benjamin will be chairman of the program and past presidents, the Honorable Theodore D. Mann, mayor of Newton and Louis Katz, will serve as honorary co-chairman. Honorary committee members are: Dr. Milton Glickstein, Martin Braver, Jay Fialkow, Albert Frager, Harvey C. Krentzman, Melvin Miller, and Melvin Ross. William Lehrman serves as co-chairman.

BENJAMIN LIPSON

Reservations are now being accepted. Call 969-1882 or the temple office, 332-7770.

A BOOST - Rachel Rosenbaum, executive director of the Carroll Center for the Blind in Newton, received a check from Shawmut Community Bank vice-president Paul Ladouceur recently, as a sign of support by the bank for the rehabilitative works offered to newly-blinded adults at the center.

Dr. Bewick named moderator of First Baptist Church

NEWTON — Dr. John A. Bewick has been chosen moderator of the First Baptist Church in Newton. He and other church officers were elected by the membership at a recent annual meeting.

Dr. Bewick is the current Secretary of Environmental Affairs for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Since his appointment by Governor Edward J. King in 1979, Dr. Bewick has been actively involved in pursuing a solution to the problem of hazardous waste disposal, encouraging the development of strong coastal protection programs, and seeking effective state and local management of water supplies. Dr. Bewick received his doctorate from the Harvard University Business School in 1972. He also holds degrees from Harvard University, University of Michigan, and Cornell University.

As moderator of the First Baptist Church, Dr. Bewick presides at all business meetings of the church, serves on the church cabinet, and is an ex officio member of all standing committees.

Other officers elected include: clerk, Esther Winslow; assistant clerk, Ann Carpenter; treasurer, Henry Pollard; assistant treasurer, Keith Gorton; registrar, Max Brauninger; assistant registrars, Muriel Taylor, Wilma Brauninger, Sally McCool, and Lilian Morse; auditor, Richard Hubbard; church school administrator, Chris Edwards; assistant church school administrator, Dorothy Edwards.

Rotary plans annual car show

AUBURNDALE — The Fifth Annual Newton Concours Auto Show sponsored by the Rotary Club of Newton for the benefit of its many community service projects will take place on Saturday, May 1 on the senic grounds of Weir's Cove in the Auburndale section of Newton.

Returning through popular demand, the show which was enjoyed by young and old alike for the past four years, will feature autos from the pre-war 1926 period through the post war bodied rods and/or customs.

In commenting on the show, David Nixon, coordinator, stated with judging to begin at noon. An awards ceremony will follow at 3:30 p.m. at which time all classes will receive first and second place prizes and climaxed by the "best of show award."

To add to the experience, the Newton Rotary Club will have its popcorn wagon fully stocked with hot dogs, sodas, beer and of course popcorn.

The ever popular locomotive minature train run on tracks and offering free rides for children will once again be freatured. Stan Barclay will serve as the engineer for this added attraction.

Newton Rabbi wins award

NEWTON - Rabbi Murry I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, was recently honored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews with the presentation of the Pioneer Award, given for pioneer contribution in the field of inter-religious and inter-racial understanding.

Dr. Rothman is a founding member of the Archdiocesan Committee of Catholics and Jews.

He has instituted in this area a series of interfaith pilgrimages to Israel, planning, scheduling and accompanying each tour.

Lt. Richard Thomas goes solo

NEWTON - Marine 2nd Lt. Richard M. Thomas, son of David A. and Helen V. Thomas of Newton has completed his first solo flight.

Thomas is undergoing primary flight training at the Naval Air Station, with Training Squadron 19, Naval Air Station, Meridian, Miss. The 14-week basic course, which includes 65 inflight training hours, is the initial step of the Naval Integrated Training Systems. Follow- on training with jets, helicopters or multi-engine aircraft will lead to designation as a naval aviator.

NCS offers 300 activities for toddlers

NEWTON CENTRE - For many children, the end of the school day marks a time to go home, raid the refrigerator, and watch TV. However, for certain youngsters in every corner of Newton, those after-school hours represent opportunities to learn about computers, explore the world of oceanography, speak foreign languages, and solve Rubik's Cube.

As part of its spring program, Newton Community Schools will offer approximately 300 activities for toddlers, pre-schoolers and children grades K-6. Beginning this month spring offerings will include activities in drama, music, arts, crafts, languages, athletics, cooking and indoor games.

"We have a comprehensive range of programs that have always been popular among children", noted Joseph Baron, Newton Community Schools' executive director. "In addition to continuing those programs, as will offer 50 new activities this spring. We challenge any child in Newton who says, 'I don't have anything to do'."

One new program at the Underwood Community School is enititled "Create a Miniature Room". Led by Cynthia Sudhultz, the course will instruct youngsters and adults in making tiny furniture, planning a decorating scheme, and doing interior design work on a miniature scale. Underwood Community School will also present a four-session course on cartooning. Led by Jeff Tolbert, the course will introduce children to the basics of conceptualizing, drawing and creating figures.

For those children interested in Dungeons and 8Dragons, both the Pierce and Cabot Community Schools will offer several sessions of this popular and mysterious game. Participation requires enthusiasm, creativity, and most importatnt of all - imagination.

"Computer Craziness" will be the theme of a two-session class at the Hyde Community School. There, fifth and sixth graders will gain hands-on experience on a Northstar computer. Merle Schlesinger will lead the sessions and a simple program will be developed for each participant.

Pre-schoolers will also benefit from a wide variety of opportunities throughout Newton. At the Mason-Rice Community School, incoming kindergarteners will be introduced to the 'real world' of kindergarten. Presented by preschool specialist Marcie Ravech Williams, the three sessions will include games in the gym, crafts in the classroom, and fun out of doors.

Pre-schoolers will also have the opportunity to learn about a different culture at the Countryside Community School. Entitled "Cantonese Pre-School", the Saturday sessions will be led by a native of the People's Republic of China, and will include an hour of Cantonese storytelling, singing and games.

In addition to specialized courses for preschoolers and older children, NCS will provide a number of one-session special events. At the Auburndale Community School, children may sign up for a "Feast of Purim". There, Jewish traditions will be introduced as youngsters sample food, hear stor ies, and listen to traditional Hebrew music.

To celebrate Easter, children may sign up for Easter 8egg hunts throughout Newton. At the Franklin Community School, K-2 students will make their own Easter baskets from bleach bottles and other easily-located items.

Field trips throughout Massachusetts will be offered in the months of April and May. Locations will include Sturbridge Village, the Higgins Armory in Worcester, Logan Airport, and many other exciting locations.

For more information about these childrens' activities or any other program offered by Newton Community Schools, please call 552-7118.

women's master class champion, and finished eighth overall for the women, with a time of 3:27:33.

"We have the best marathon in the world," Daley said after the race. "The quality of the race, the prizes, safety, and the distribution of funds in the end all make it great."

The major sponsors of the race were Volvo Village, Purity Supreme, and McDonald's of Newton. Among the donations were some 1,800 sandwiches and 700 glasses of beer.

Daley wanted to thank the city of Newton for its cooperation during the day, offering special thanks to the police, fire, public works, and recreation departments.

The top 10 male finishers were: Robert Wilson, Portsmouth, R.I., 2:28:15; Steven Pelles, Wellesley, 2:34:59; William Desrosier and Bob Hurlbut, Warren, N.H., 2:37:48; Chip Carey, Boston, 2:37:50; Stephen Mulheern, Portland, Me., 2:28:46; Thomas Sherman, New York City, 2:39:12; Harvey Blonder, Canton, 2:39:44; William Tharion, Amherst, 2:40:16; and Jim Foley, Winthrop, 2:41:31.

THE WORLD of Travel

by Hank Fleming

RIO DE JANEIRO

Rio De Janeiro offers a magnificent concentration of nature in its voluptuous landscape. As this fluid city winds through the hills of Guanabara Bay, it creates long arcs along the cobalt colored Atlantic coastline. Its broad beaches widen to timberland and then rise to bare peaks. The mountains of Tijuca National Park feature the world-known promontory, Sugar-loaf. The jade islets, vast stretches of beach and blue-gray mountains are said to have created a color chemistry that inspired Edouard Manet to paint in 1849. Visit Rio for the Love Affair of a life time.

If you became engaged recently the staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 would like to add our congratulations and best wishes for a very long and happy life together. We look forward to helping you plan your honeymoon trip whether that will take you to Rio, the Caribbean or perhaps somewhere closer to home. We offer the lowest airfares, cruise fares and vacation packages available. "Why pay more if you don't have to." There is no charge for our service. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. 'til 8. Institute for Clergy slated for March 19

WEST NEWTON - Dr. Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom in Newton, has announced that the annual Institute for Clergy will be held on Friday, March 19 at the temple, 175 Temple St., West Newton. The lecture will start at 10 a.m.

The Reverend Robert W. Bullock will be the guest lecturer and his subject will be "Jews and Christians in the community, a common agenda."

Rev. Bullock is the pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Sharon. Prior to his present appointment, he was selected by the late Cardinal Cushing to serve as director of Campus Ministry of the Archdiocese of Boston from 1966-1978. He was a member of the Archdiocesan Ecumenical Committee, the Archdiocesan Liturgical Commission and has served as chairman of the Catholic-Jewish Committee of the Archdiocese from 1973-75.

Mr. Bullock was awarded the Underwood Fellowship of the Danforth Foundation and in 1980 was presented with the Norman S. Rabb Human Relations Award. He has led interfaith missions to Israel, has done scholarly research in Europe, Israel and the United States and has published and lectured nationally.

Following the lecture and discussion, a noon luncheon will be served by the Sisterhood of Temple Shalom.

The evening Sabbath service to which the community is invited, will start at 8:15 p.m. Father Bullock will be guest speaker.

Battle over trash is heating up

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The corporate battle for a $20 million city trash disposal contract is heating up with the two principal firms improving offers in a topsy turvy bidding war.

The two firms in the forefront of the battle for the 20-year contract with the city that would begin in 1985 after construction of a waste-to-energy faciltity are: UOP Inc. of Illinois, coordinating the Northeast Solid Waste Resource Recovery Council; (NESWC) and Wheelbrator Frye Inc. of New Hampshire, coordinating the 128 West Resource Recovery Council (WRRC).

Chairman of the Public Facilities Committee Alderman Richard McGrath, whose committee is reviewing the contracts, said both companies have offered new improved proposals within the last several weeks.

"They are both working hard in a competitive way to sign a contract for the city of Newton's trash," said McGrath. "We are in a good position."

McGrath said the two companies planning to construct plants to convert area trash into electrical power will have new contract offers "in writing" within the next week.

The bidding war producing improved offers comes after city officials ignored two deadlines set by UOP officials with the threat of a penalty fee if the city had not signed a contract. The firm has backed off on a Dec. 31 and a Feb. 28 deadline.

"There has been no penalty and they are working harder for (the contract) now than they ever were," said McGrath. "Since the so called two ultimate deadlines have expired our position is better."

State officials and consultants had endorsed the NESWC plan, touting cost benefits, and urged the city to sign a contract before both NESWC deadlines. State consultants and officials had maintained that the energy revenue sharing plan for the NESWC proposal could cost the city up to $14 less per ton in a "worst case scenario." The city produces 130 tons of trash daily.

In response, WRRC has promised to equal the cost benefits of the NESWC contract. In addition, the WRRC contract appears to offer "less risk" to the city, according to McGrath.

Under the NESWC revenue sharing plan, the city could be responsible for bonds and debt if the plant goes bankrupt. Under the WRRC plan, cities and towns are not responsible for the debt if the company goes bankrupt.

McGrath said the state may have hastily endorsed the NESWC proposal in an attempt to get a written commitment for construction of a waste-to-energy facility.

"We are in a much better position now than ever before," said McGrath. "If we followed the state's advice that would not be the case."

WRRC has not signed a contract with any cities and towns for the waste-to-energy plant proposal. NESWC, however, has a contract with 22 communities and needs only several more to assure the needed commitment before construction could begin. At the state's expense, city officials from Newton and surrounding towns were flown to Chicago to inspect a plant provided technical assistance by UOP officials.

McGrath's committee is also considering a proposal from Refuse Fuels Inc. of Bradford, Mass.

The firm entered the competition after McGrath learned that other city officials had "screened" the firm out of the bidding process. The Refuse Fuels contract does not offer revenue sharing which offers cost benefits to participating cities and towns.

Judge Sherman is guest at Temple Beth Avodah series

NEWTON CENTRE - Judge Arthur Sherman of the Middlesex District Court will be the March 12 guest in Rabbi Robert Miller's ongoing series of "Pulpit Dialogues" at Temple Beth Avodah.

In light of the Biblical commandment of "Justice and justice shall ye pursue," both the rabbi and judge will discuss the rising crime rate and the effectiveness of the commonwealth's judicial system and success of rehabilitation efforts in the state's correctional system.

The pulpit dialogue series is part of the Sabbath evening service and Oneg program at Temple Beth Avodah, starting at 8:15 p.m.

The temple is located at 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton Centre.

Judge Sherman is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard University Law School. He has been a practicing attorney in Boston from 1953-72 and senior lecturer in law at Northeastern University.

Judge Sherman was appointed justice in the district court, Department of the Trial Court of Massachusetts in February, 1972. He is a member of the Criminal Law Section of the Mass. Bar Association and chairman of the Committee on Jury of Six Practice and Procedure of Massachusetts District Courts.

The judge is also co-author of "Model Jury Instructions for Criminal Offenses Tried in the District Courts."

New guide gives seniors choices

By Gregory Hale
Correspondent

NEWTON — Growing old often is not an easy task to handle, it can seperate a family.

For those getting on in years or for those who want to learn about nursing homes in general, Choices for Living, a service of the Cooperative Metropolitan Ministries, has published a nursing home guide.

Designed to give information to those families considering a nursing home or for families assessing their needs for the future, the guide was created to "educate people and help them make informed decisions," said Susan Lanspery, West Suburban Area Coordinator for the Nursing Home Ombudsmen.

The guide, pubished for the Belmont, Brookline, Needham, Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston areas, not only talks about nursing homes, but it also talks about alternatives to nursing homes.

According to Lanspery, the high point of the guide is its introduction. It gives an idea of a nursing home resident's basic rights or how financial assistance can be obtained.

Helping people become informed about nursing homes, the Newton based interface social action agency had a first mailing of the guide in November. But the first major mailing to the public occured at the beginning of February.

Since the major mailing, Lanspery said, the agency has recieved "about 20 postcards back in the mail."

"A lot of families have expressed a great relief (at) being able to have better access to information," she said. But, Lanspery then added, the guide is "just a tool people can use to help them."

Eventhough people will use the guide to help make their decisions, it is not geared to be a rating system of nursing homes.

The Cooperative Metroploitan Ministries sent a staff of two around to area nursing homes to "assess the physical plant, the staff members and to talk with the administrator," said Lanspery. The staff also sent out a questonaire to the nursing homes asking some additional questons.

The results are in the guide listed under "Nursing Home Profiles." These profiles give a list of nursing homes interviewed and some basic information, such as costs.

For more information about the guide call the Choices for Living Program at 244-1016.

NCS offers 300 activities for toddlers

NEWTON CENTRE - For many children, the end of the school day marks a time to go home, raid the refrigerator, and watch TV. However, for certain youngsters in every corner of Newton, those after-school hours represent opportunities to learn about computers, explore the world of oceanography, speak foreign languages, and solve Rubik's Cube.

As part of its spring program, Newton Community Schools will offer approximately 300 activities for toddlers, pre-schoolers and children grades K-6. Beginning this month spring offerings will include activities in drama, music, arts, crafts, languages, athletics, cooking and indoor games.

"We have a comprehensive range of programs that have always been popular among children", noted Joseph Baron, Newton Community Schools' executive director. "In addition to continuing those programs, as will offer 50 new activities this spring. We challenge any child in Newton who says, 'I don't have anything to do'."

One new program at the Underwood Community School is enititled "Create a Miniature Room". Led by Cynthia Sudhultz, the course will instruct youngsters and adults in making tiny furniture, planning a decorating scheme, and doing interior design work on a miniature scale. Underwood Community School will also present a four-session course on cartooning. Led by Jeff Tolbert, the course will introduce children to the basics of conceptualizing, drawing and creating figures.

For those children interested in Dungeons and 8Dragons, both the Pierce and Cabot Community Schools will offer several sessions of this popular and mysterious game. Participation requires enthusiasm, creativity, and most importatnt of all - imagination.

"Computer Craziness" will be the theme of a two-session class at the Hyde Community School. There, fifth and sixth graders will gain hands-on experience on a Northstar computer. Merle Schlesinger will lead the sessions and a simple program will be developed for each participant.

Pre-schoolers will also benefit from a wide variety of opportunities throughout Newton. At the Mason-Rice Community School, incoming kindergarteners will be introduced to the 'real world' of kindergarten. Presented by preschool specialist Marcie Ravech Williams, the three sessions will include games in the gym, crafts in the classroom, and fun out of doors.

Pre-schoolers will also have the opportunity to learn about a different culture at the Countryside Community School. Entitled "Cantonese Pre-School", the Saturday sessions will be led by a native of the People's Republic of China, and will include an hour of Cantonese storytelling, singing and games.

In addition to specialized courses for preschoolers and older children, NCS will provide a number of one-session special events. At the Auburndale Community School, children may sign up for a "Feast of Purim". There, Jewish traditions will be introduced as youngsters sample food, hear stor ies, and listen to traditional Hebrew music.

To celebrate Easter, children may sign up for Easter 8egg hunts throughout Newton. At the Franklin Community School, K-2 students will make their own Easter baskets from bleach bottles and other easily-located items.

Field trips throughout Massachusetts will be offered in the months of April and May. Locations will include Sturbridge Village, the Higgins Armory in Worcester, Logan Airport, and many other exciting locations.

For more information about these childrens' activities or any other program offered by Newton Community Schools, please call 552-7118.

Fun in Garden City

women's master class champion, and finished eighth overall for the women, with a time of 3:27:33.

"We have the best marathon in the world," Daley said after the race. "The quality of the race, the prizes, safety, and the distribution of funds in the end all make it great."

The major sponsors of the race were Volvo Village, Purity Supreme, and McDonald's of Newton. Among the donations were some 1,800 sandwiches and 700 glasses of beer.

Daley wanted to thank the city of Newton for its cooperation during the day, offering special thanks to the police, fire, public works, and recreation departments.

The top 10 male finishers were: Robert Wilson, Portsmouth, R.I., 2:28:15; Steven Pelles, Wellesley, 2:34:59; William Desrosier and Bob Hurlbut, Warren, N.H., 2:37:48; Chip Carey, Boston, 2:37:50; Stephen Mulheern, Portland, Me., 2:28:46; Thomas Sherman, New York City, 2:39:12; Harvey Blonder, Canton, 2:39:44; William Tharion, Amherst, 2:40:16; and Jim Foley, Winthrop, 2:41:31.

THE WORLD of Travel

by Hank Fleming

RIO DE JANEIRO

Rio De Janeiro offers a magnificent concentration of nature in its voluptuous landscape. As this fluid city winds through the hills of Guanabara Bay, it creates long arcs along the cobalt colored Atlantic coastline. Its broad beaches widen to timberland and then rise to bare peaks. The mountains of Tijuca National Park feature the world-known promontory, Sugar-loaf. The jade islets, vast stretches of beach and blue-gray mountains are said to have created a color chemistry that inspired Edouard Manet to paint in 1849. Visit Rio for the Love Affair of a life time.

If you became engaged recently the staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 would like to add our congratulations and best wishes for a very long and happy life together. We look forward to helping you plan your honeymoon trip whether that will take you to Rio, the Caribbean or perhaps somewhere closer to home. We offer the lowest airfares, cruise fares and vacation packages available. "Why pay more if you don't have to." There is no charge for our service. Open: Mon. Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. 'til 8. Call 899-5658.

Institute for Clergy slated for March 19

WEST NEWTON - Dr. Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom in Newton, has announced that the annual Institute for Clergy will be held on Friday, March 19 at the temple, 175 Temple St., West Newton. The lecture will start at 10 a.m.

The Reverend Robert W. Bullock will be the guest lecturer and his subject will be "Jews and Christians in the community, a common agenda."

Rev. Bullock is the pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Sharon. Prior to his present appointment, he was selected by the late Cardinal Cushing to serve as director of Campus Ministry of the Archdiocese of Boston from 1966-1978. He was a member of the Archdiocesan Ecumenical Committee, the Archdiocesan Liturgical Commission and has served as chairman of the Catholic-Jewish Committee of the Archdiocese from 1973-75.

Mr. Bullock was awarded the Underwood Fellowship of the Danforth Foundation and in 1980 was presented with the Norman S. Rabb Human Relations Award. He has led interfaith missions to Israel, has done scholarly research in Europe, Israel and the United States and has published and lectured nationally.

Following the lecture and discussion, a noon luncheon will be served by the Sisterhood of Temple Shalom.

The evening Sabbath service to which the community is invited, will start at 8:15 p.m. Father Bullock will be guest speaker.

Battle over trash is heating up

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The corporate battle for a $20 million city trash disposal contract is heating up with the two principal firms improving offers in a topsy turvy bidding war.

The two firms in the forefront of the battle for the 20-year contract with the city that would begin in 1985 after construction of a waste-to-energy faciltity are: UOP Inc. of Illinois, coordinating the Northeast Solid Waste Resource Recovery Council; (NESWC) and Wheelbrator Frye Inc. of New Hampshire, coordinating the 128 West Resource Recovery Council (WRRC).

Chairman of the Public Facilities Committee Alderman Richard McGrath, whose committee is reviewing the contracts, said both companies have offered new improved proposals within the last several weeks.

"They are both working hard in a competitive way to sign a contract for the city of Newton's trash," said McGrath. "We are in a good position."

McGrath said the two companies planning to construct plants to convert area trash into electrical power will have new contract offers "in writing" within the next week.

The bidding war producing improved offers comes after city officials ignored two deadlines set by UOP officials with the threat of a penalty fee if the city had not signed a contract. The firm has backed off on a Dec. 31 and a Feb. 28 deadline.

"There has been no penalty and they are working harder for (the contract) now than they ever were," said McGrath. "Since the so called two ultimate deadlines have expired our position is better."

State officials and consultants had endorsed the NESWC plan, touting cost benefits, and urged the city to sign a contract before both NESWC deadlines. State consultants and officials had maintained that the energy revenue sharing plan for the NESWC proposal could cost the city up to $14 less per ton in a "worst case scenario." The city produces 130 tons of trash daily.

In response, WRRC has promised to equal the cost benefits of the NESWC contract. In addition, the WRRC contract appears to offer "less risk" to the city, according to McGrath.

Under the NESWC revenue sharing plan, the city could be responsible for bonds and debt if the plant goes bankrupt. Under the WRRC plan, cities and towns are not responsible for the debt if the company goes bankrupt.

McGrath said the state may have hastily endorsed the NESWC proposal in an attempt to get a written commitment for construction of a waste-to-energy facility.

"We are in a much better position now than ever before," said McGrath. "If we followed the state's advice that would not be the case."

WRRC has not signed a contract with any cities and towns for the waste-to-energy plant proposal. NESWC, however, has a contract with 22 communities and needs only several more to assure the needed commitment before construction could begin. At the state's expense, city officials from Newton and surrounding towns were flown to Chicago to inspect a plant provided technical assistance by UOP officials.

McGrath's committee is also considering a proposal from Refuse Fuels Inc. of Bradford, Mass.

The firm entered the competition after McGrath learned that other city officials had "screened" the firm out of the bidding process. The Refuse Fuels contract does not offer revenue sharing which offers cost benefits to participating cities and towns.

Judge Sherman is guest at Temple Beth Avodah series

NEWTON CENTRE - Judge Arthur Sherman of the Middlesex District Court will be the March 12 guest in Rabbi Robert Miller's ongoing series of "Pulpit Dialogues" at Temple Beth Avodah.

In light of the Biblical commandment of "Justice and justice shall ye pursue," both the rabbi and judge will discuss the rising crime rate and the effectiveness of the commonwealth's judicial system and success of rehabilitation efforts in the state's correctional system.

The pulpit dialogue series is part of the Sabbath evening service and Oneg program at Temple Beth Avodah, starting at 8:15 p.m.

The temple is located at 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton Centre.

Judge Sherman is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard University Law School. He has been a practicing attorney in Boston from 1953-72 and senior lecturer in law at Northeastern University.

Judge Sherman was appointed justice in the district court, Department of the Trial Court of Massachusetts in February, 1972. He is a member of the Criminal Law Section of the Mass. Bar Association and chairman of the Committee on Jury of Six Practice and Procedure of Massachusetts District Courts.

The judge is also co-author of "Model Jury Instructions for Criminal Offenses Tried in the District Courts."

New guide gives seniors choices

By Gregory Hale
Correspondent

NEWTON — Growing old often is not an easy task to handle, it can seperate a family.

For those getting on in years or for those who want to learn about nursing homes in general, Choices for Living, a service of the Cooperative Metropolitan Ministries, has published a nursing home guide.

Designed to give information to those families considering a nursing home or for families assessing their needs for the future, the guide was created to "educate people and help them make informed decisions," said Susan Lanspery, West Suburban Area Coordinator for the Nursing Home Ombudsmen.

The guide, pubished for the Belmont, Brookline, Needham, Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston areas, not only talks about nursing homes, but it also talks about alternatives to nursing homes.

According to Lanspery, the high point of the guide is its introduction. It gives an idea of a nursing home resident's basic rights or how financial assistance can be obtained.

Helping people become informed about nursing homes, the Newton based interface social action agency had a first mailing of the guide in November. But the first major mailing to the public occured at the beginning of February.

Since the major mailing, Lanspery said, the agency has recieved "about 20 postcards back in the mail."

"A lot of families have expressed a great relief (at) being able to have better access to information," she said. But, Lanspery then added, the guide is "just a tool people can use to help them."

Eventhough people will use the guide to help make their decisions, it is not geared to be a rating system of nursing homes.

The Cooperative Metroploitan Ministries sent a staff of two around to area nursing homes to "assess the physical plant, the staff members and to talk with the administrator," said Lanspery. The staff also sent out a questonaire to the nursing homes asking some additional questons.

The results are in the guide listed under "Nursing Home Profiles." These profiles give a list of nursing homes interviewed and some basic information, such as costs.

For more information about the guide call the Choices for Living Program at 244-1016.

Bond conducts Newton Symphony on March 14

NEWTON — Victoria Bond, a composer and conductor and a woman of many "firsts," will be the guest conductor of the Newton Symphony Orchestra in its third subscription concert on Sunday evening, March 14, at 8 p.m., in Brown Junior High School auditorium.

In 1978, Victoria Bond became the first woman appointed to the conducting staff of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. The following year, she was named their Exxon/Arts Endowment Conductor, the first woman to be placed as an Exxon Conductor with a major symphony orchestra. In addition to holding that prestigious position, she served as Music Director/Conductor of the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony and the New Amsterdam Symphony Orchestra.

Maestra Bond has appeared as guest conductor with some of America's leading orchestras, including Pittsburgh, Houston, Buffalo, and the Aspen Music Festival. She has conducted numerous premieres of both symphonic and operatic music.

Born in Los Angeles, her family moved to New York City were she began improvising and composing well before her formal training. Her musical world began at home, with her father, a physician, a professional singer with the New York City Opera, and her mother a concert pianist. While in New York, Bond studied at the Mannes School, and later studied piano with Nadia Reisenberg. When her family returned to Los Angeles, she studied composition with Ingolf Dahl at the University of Southern California, and received a bachelor's degree in music. During her years in California, Bond worked with many of the Hollywood studios orchestrating and arranging for some of the most distinguished film composers.

Seeking to continue her formal education, she went back to New York City, where she studied with composers Roger Sessions and Vincent Persichetti. Later, she was accepted at the Juilliard School of Music as a scholarship student of Sixten Ehrling, and became the Assistant Conductor of the Juilliard Orchestra and the Contemporary Music Ensemble. A recipient of the Victor Herbert Conducting Award for outstanding achievement, she was graduated from Juilliard with a Masters Degree in Orchestral Conducting, and was awarded a further scholarship as a Doctoral student. In 1977 she was selected to participate in a master class conducted by Herbert von Karajan, and in the spring of that year, became the first woman to receive a doctoral degree in orchestral conducting from Julliard.

Bond's compositions have been performed throughout the United States and Canada, and she has received an A.S.C.A.P. Standard Award since 1977. She has been commissioned to write works for the Pennsylvania Ballet, the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, and American Ballet Theater.

Maestra Victoria Bond may be seen on the "Good Day" show, WCVB-TV, Channel 5, on Friday morning, March 12, with the Newton Symphony Orchestra in rehearsal, and with the two soloists for the March 14 concert, Ronald Knudsen and Jerome Patterson.

For ticket information and reservations for the NSO March 14 concert, call 965-2555.

MUSIC OF IRELAND - "Glandore," a quartet of musicians featuring music and dance of Ireland, will perform at the Newton Arts Center on Sunday, March 14 starting at 2 p.m. under a grant from the Mass. Council on the Arts and Humantities. Admission is $2.50 for members, $3 for non-members and beer and soda bread will be served.

MIAA girls' basketball tourney

Tigers halted in semis, 52-42

By Steve Tiberi
Sports Correspondent

The Newton North girls' basketball team was eliminated from the MIAA Division I South Sectionals Wednesday night and coach Allyson Toney feels the Tigers can look in the mirror to find one reason why.

The defending state champions were ousted by Suburban League rival Quincy, 52-42, at the Oliver Ames High Gym in the semi-final round of the tournament. The loss ended the Newton North season with a 13-6 record and is the first tourney loss for the Tigers in two years.

"We made too many mistakes near the end," said Toney, who watched her team win the last eight games of the season to earn a spot in the tournament. "We had chances at the beginning of the fourth quarter to grab the lead, but we missed free throws and layups down the stretch. You just can't miss those shots in a tournament game and expect to win.

"I feel that we beat ourselves more than we were beaten," Toney continued. "Another key was Debbie (Quinn) getting called for her fourth foul with just six seconds left in the third quarter. Quincy also had a height advantage on us."

The Presidents, who will play Weymouth North (a 70-57 winner over Needham) Saturday, 1 p.m. at Foxboro High School in the South Sectional final, put their height advantage to good use. Senior forward Mary Kamb threw in 20 points to lead all scorers and all of them came from no more than five feet out.

"She (Kamb) was really effective underneath," said Toney. "She did a good job, but Tina McCabe played her well defensively in the fourth quarter."

McCabe fronted and denied Kamb access to the ball in low throughout the fourth quarter and this led to a Quincy scoring drought. The final frame started with Quincy leading, 38-34. The Tiger defense took hold and held Quincy to just one basket in the first six minutes of the period.

Unfortunately, Newton North could score just six points in the six-minute span. The Tigers did have breakaways and free throw opportunities, but they couldn't connect. Jenna Lammers and Diane Russell each hit baskets to bring Newton North to 42-40 with 3:44 left to go.

Guard Maryann Agres took a nice pass from Nancy MacDonald to drop in a big basket for Quincy and break the scoring lapse. The Tigers turned the ball over and Quincy responded with another inside hoop from Kamb, her first bucket of the period.

Senior Debbie Quinn, who led all Newton scorers with 18 points, then collected her only points of the quarter by hitting a pair of free tosses. On the other end, Kamb put Quincy back up by six with another inside move at 48-42 with 1:14 left to play. Newton North was called for a three-second violation and turned the ball over.

MacDonald, who ended the game with 13 points, hit her only basket of the fourth period to cement the Quincy win.

The Tigers never led in the game and started off a bit sluggish in the first few minutes of play. Newton North trailed, 24-15, with 3:30 to go in the second period. Newton North would run off the next nine points and hold Quincy scoreless to end the half at 24-24.

"We played well throughout the first half on defense," said Toney. "I wasn't surprised that we came on strong near the end and got the tie. We were playing well and things began to click for us.

Quinn, who collected nine of her points in the second frame, keyed the spree by Quincy. She hit a pair of turnaround jumpers and a free throw. Jenna Lammers, who hit a big bucket in the nine-point binge, stole a Quincy pass with five seconds to go and rolled in for the layup, but she missed. Alertly, Quinn followed up with an offensive rebound and hit the layup at the buzzer to tie the score for Newton North.

Lammers finished with 10 points and did a good job controlling the team. Agres dropped in 13 points for Quincy. The Presidents were also getting three and four chances at the basket at times with strong rebounding from MacDonald, Kamb and Ellen Deady.

Quinn did score 18 points, but only six came in the second half. Quincy coach Peter Swanson had two players watching Quinn at all times. "She's an explosive player," said Swanson. "We had to play her well in order to win. Cindy Morrell did a good job and when she let up Nancy (MacDonald) would step over to help out."

Senior guard Dianne Russell scored nine points for the Tigers. The summary:

QUINCY (52)--MacDonald 6-1-13; Deady 1-0-2; Kamb 10-0-20; Agres 5-3-13; Morrell 1-0-2; Duggan 1-0-2. Tot. 24-4-52.

NEWTON NORTH (42)--Quinn 5-8-18; Lammers 4-2-10; Russell 4-1-9; Kelley 2-1-5; Maguire 0-0-0; McCabe 0-0-0. Tot. 15-12-42.

Miracles run out for Hawks in final, 70-68

By Frank Murphy
Sports Editor

It took a little man to bring Waltham High down in its tournament title quest.

Shawn Hood, a 5-8 junior destined for greatness on the hardwood, provided some crucial points and the motivation that carried Don Bosco to a down-to-the wire 70-68 triumph in the MIAA Division 1 North Sectional championship game Saturday at the cavernous Reading High Gym before 4,500 onlookers.

Waltham, the Cinderella team in the post-season schoolboy extravaganza, had surprised the oddsmakers by disposing of Somerville, Andover and Everett (in that order) to vault into the final. Each of those opposing teams were spearheaded by a good, big man and Waltham was able to combat it.

Coping with the diminutive Hood Saturday was a different story, however. The clever ballhandler drove the Hawks crazy with his speed and finese. In the final minute of playing time when Waltham was trying desperately to catch up, they were unable to get their hands on the ball because of Hood's agility.

Deadly foul shooting by the junior guard clinched the decision for the South End parochial quintet. He pitched in seven of his 19 game points in the final three pressure-packed minutes.

Still, Don Bosco wasn't assured of the victory until Waltham's Scott LaForest missed on a drive to the right baseline with 0:03 showing on the scoreboard clock.

With 1:03 to go, Scott whistled home a long jump shot from the right side to pull the Hawks up to within one point, 69-68. Don Bosco went into a stall, and with Hood running the show, killed off 50 seconds before Darren Marcou deliberately fouled Don Bosco's Jerry Wright.

Wright failed on the first attempt and hit the second try, giving Waltham possession with 13 seconds left.

The Hawks got the ball to Scott LaForest to set him up for his drive down the right side. The senior co-captain faked a jumper and maneuvered to the baseline, but hit the front rim and the ball was hauled down by Don Bosco's 6-7 pivotman, Chenault Terry. He was fouled by Dave Kaufman and missed the free throw as the game-ending horn sounded.

The Waltham players left the court with their heads unbowed, and rightfully so. Their stirring performances on the tourney trail will remembered for years to come. In the four games there was a differential of only 12 total points. And this was accomplished with its tallest starter (Kaufman) at 6-1.

Coach Lenny Sorin had no regrets and was as proud in defeat as he had been in the previous victories. "It would have been nice to win, of course, but I couldn't have been more proud of our team."

Don Bosco coach John Grady was in aggreement. "That team has heart. We wanted to go right at them, but we just couldn't wear them down," he said.

The Catholic Conference champions had a couple of good-sized operators in the front court in 6-7 Terry and 6-6 John Malloy, which posed a problem for the undersized Hawks. Malloy shared top scoring honors with Hood.

Scott LaForest was high man for Waltham with 23 markers and Kaufman collected 18. Steve LaForest also hit double figures by tallying 14.

Waltham, usually an excellent foul shooting team, converted only 12 of 23 charity chucks. Don Bosco was 18 for 25.

Waltham ran into some foul trouble early, which forced Coach Sorin to juggle his personnel around. Both Dave Marcou and Scott LaForest had three fouls against them by halftime. Kaufman drew his third personal early in the fourth quarter.

Bench strength helped Don Bosco. When its big men, Terry and Malloy, appeared to tire at the start of the second period, Coach Grady made some substitutions to give them a rest.

The Hawks fell behind at the outset and fought back to take a 12-10 first period lead. The LaForest brothers put on a shooting display during the first three minutes of the second quarter and Waltham zipped into its biggest lead, a 10-point bulge at 25-15.

Don Bosco kept coming back, however, and aided by the playmaking of Hood and several breakaways, overtook Waltham to hold a 39-37 advantage at halftime.

The Intown five continued to hold the upper hand during the third stanza, its height and ball control a factor, to enter the windup period with a 55-51 edge. Waltham never could catch up. It did manage to whittle the margin down to a single point five times, scrapping to the very end.

With 3:01 remaining, Hood made a three-point play to give Don Bosco a 65-61 lead. Waltham's Dave Marcou followed with three free throws, but again Hood delivered four consecutive foul flips to pad the lead to 69-66 again.

Sorin was disappointed that his team let Don Bosco burn off too much of the clock in the final minute. "I wanted them to foul earlier," Lenny said.

Waltham wound up with an overall record of 17-5, which is quite a contrast from last year's 4-16 showing.

Don Bosco was nailing down its third title this season. The Bears won the Catholic Conference crown with a 9-3 record and followed up by winning the Catholic Tournament.

Waltham had a tremendous following at the game and packed the stands to the very rafters.

Respect arrives for South six

For some hockey programs, it would be a paper-thin accomplishment at best. But for Newton South, a school unaccustomed to success on the ice, this year's 2-7-3 record represented a step in the right direction. As first-year coach Charlie Rezzuti said, "It was the first time in probably five years that we didn't finish in the cellar."

That alone is cause for celebration. But the real reason Rezzuti can be pleased with such a season is the way the Lions performed. Amidst the stiff competition that constitutes the Dual County League, the Lions earned some respect. "That was our chief goal," said Rezzuti. "We wanted to compete evenly with our opponents and not get blown out of games. We wanted their respect. I think we achieved that."

Sure, the Lions were destroyed by Acton-Boxboro, but Acton-Boxboro destoys just about everybody. The Colonials don't belong in the DCL. Everyone else, even such clubs as Bedford, had a difficult time with Newton South. "We lost to Bedford, 7-4, but even that was a 6-4 game," said Rezzuti. "We had Concord-Carlisle beaten, 5-3, before they scored two goals in the last 50 seconds and then lost the next time to them, 5-4. So we were right there in the games."

When you've been down in the dumps for years, such occurrances are taken as positive signals. Certainly, Rezzuti is not implying that the Lions are suddenly going to become a power next season, but he is saying they will no longer be a soft touch. He has set modest goals for the team, though. "We earned some respect this year, next year our goal will be to keep it," said Rezzuti. "As far as a record is concerned, I don't like to comment on that because our league is so unpredictable from year to year that you never know what to expect."

If the Lions are to continue improving, they'll need to find replacements for some top-notch people who are graduating. Newton South loses its entire first line of Steve Mosca, Ken Fay and Ken Kolhberg. Mosca was South's top scorer this season with 10 goals and 20 assists for 30 points while Fay was No.2 (6-14-20) and Kolhberg sixth (7-7-14). Also leaving will be Dave Cohen, a three-year starter on defense, Dave March, also a defenseman, and winger Craig Stern.

Junior skaters win tourney in Canada

When many people go to Canada, they bring back fireworks.

When the Suburban Hockey League went on the road to Hillsborough, New Brunswick, Canada, they came back with a bit more than fireworks.

Recently, the Suburban League Bantams, Midgets and Juniors went up to the north country for the fifth consecutive time to play in the Hillsborough tournament.

The Bantams won all but one game playing Hillsborough on Friday, Riverview and Sackville on Saturday and Sackville in the championship game on Sunday.

Winning the first game against Hillsbrough, 3-0, three different players scored a goal.

Tommy Gamble of Waltham, Ricky Desimone and Stanley Sheeron, both of Newton were the goal scorers. Sheeron also chipped in two assists.

In the loss the Riverview, Joe Stantizie of Watertown and Don Vito of Newton were the goal scorers.

A hat trick by Scott Goldberg was the highlight of the first Sackville game. Dana Ohanian and Alex Brigham also banged home a goal apiece. Jay Corcoran of Waltham had three assists in the game.

The championship game pitted the same two teams agianst each other. In an exciting game, which was played well by both Suburban League goalies, Don Archibald of Waltham and Lloyd Wentzell of Watertown, the Bantams prevailed.

The trophy for most valuble player in the tournament went to Newton's Stanley Sheeran.

The midget team played Hillsborough on Friday night and won by a 5-3 score. Many players got into the scoring act.

On Saturday, the team earned another victory by shutting out the Caledonia Flyers, 3-0.

John Foley, Sean Flarety and John Butterworth scored one goal each.

In another game on Saturday the Suburban League midget team lost to the Suburban League junior team, 5-3.

Eventhough they lost, strong performances were given by Gary Alex, Mike Maffeo, Brendan Folan, Roger Hoffman and by P.J. Zagwyn and Jay Allen, who switched off in goal.

The Suburban League junior team played the Caledonia Flyers (the Hillsborough High School team) on Friday night and won, 7-0.

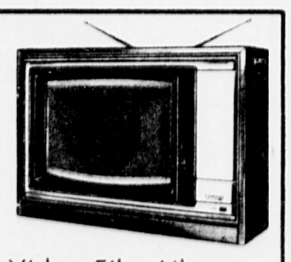

Newton's Paul Howley and Waltham's Paul Dowdy each had two goals, Paul Boudreau, Bill Chilsolm, both of Newton and John Giardina of Waltham each scored one goal.

After the game against the midget team, the junior's shutout Sackville 5-0. Goals were scored by Ray Dunn with two, Howley, Dowdy and Giardina, all with one each.

The junior's won the championship game, 6-3. Giving steller performances were: Tom Whitting, Joe Santangelo, Mark Antonellis and Mark Negrotti. The most valuable player award in the junior division went to Fred Wholey of Belmont.

North honors 225 winter athletes

In a way, it was only fitting that she should begin the evening. When Athletic Director Tom Williams handed the microphone over to Liz Natale for the start of Newton North's 1982 Winter Awards Banquet Wednesday night at the Post 440 Legion Hall, there was certainly a sense of irony to it all. Natale had been selected along with Al Fortune to MC the banquet, and although Newton North frowns on singling out individuals for praise and shuns completely the presentation of Most Valuable Player awards, there was little doubt in anyone's mind that the girl who was to begin the show was the same one who'd easily been the finest Tiger athlete through this past winter season.

It hasn't been the best of winters for Newton North athletics. The basketball team was 1-17, the hockey squad was under .500 and even that old dependable, the girls' hoop squad, was being ousted from the MIAA semifinals while the festivities were going on, but the one constant has been Natale. Rated the finest high school miler in the country by Track .. Field magazine, Natale became a state champion in that event this year while consistently recording times in the mid-to-low 4:50's.

Said assistant girls' track coach Fred Frelow, filling in for the absent Peter Martin, "I've coached girls in California, New York and now Massachusetts over the past few years, and I've never seen one with as much talent or ability as Liz Natale."

Natale was the high point of a night where varsity letters in basketball, hockey, track, swimming, skiing, gymnastics, wrestling and cheerleading were bestowed on 225 athletes and 23 plaques were presented to those students who earned either three letters in one sport or six letters in three sports.

Basketball coach Jerry Phillips named Dean Morreale and John Humphrey as next year's captains while commenting on the season just finished. "This season really tested my philosophy that winning isn't everything," said Phillips, who watched his team drop its final 16 games. "I'm glad to say we came through it okay. We had a fine group of young men who never stopped trying despite all the losses."

Hockey coach Don Crowley made special mention of the leadership provided by his captain, Paul Howley, in the face of a season which included only five victories. "The team didn't lose its enthusiasm," said Crowley, "and Paul deserves credit for holding everyone together and setting an example."

Crowley also made references to the effects Proposition 2½ has had on his program. "At last year's banquet everyone was worried that Proposition 2½ would kill sports. Well, we won four games last year and five this year, so I wouldn't say it had too much effect on us," joked Crowley.

One team that was honored for a routinely outstanding season was boys' indoor track. Under first-year coach Mark Lech, who replaced Fred Yaitanes, the Tigers finished 7-1 and grabbed a share of the Suburban League championship with Weymouth South and Brockton. "Here is at least a third of the title," said Lech upon presenting the plaque to retiring Principal Richard Mechem. "We would have liked to win the whole thing, but I'm happy with this. One loss isn't too bad."

The swimming team also received special mention for its 8-2 record which placed it in second place in the Suburban League race. Coach Chris Jones called it "one of the finest group of kids I've ever worked with."

Newton Bantams extend streak to 57

The Newton Youth Hockey Bantam AA team extended its undefeated seson to 57 games with two more impressive victories over the weekend.

In a game Saturday morning at Boston College, they defeated defending national champion Johnston, R.I., 7-0.

John Connors was the hero of the contest, scoring two second-period goals to open the scoring for Newton. Goalie Kenney Castriotta continued his outstanding play in net, making several spectacular stops in the first period while the game was still close.

Sunday night in a Middlesex League game at the Burlington Ice Palace, Newton clinched first place with a convincing 4-1 thumping of arch-rival Medford.

Tom Bachner led the way with two goals and an assist. Paul Healy opened the scoring for Newton, who jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first period.

After Medford scored early in the third period, C.J. Young iced the game with Newton's fourth goal. Young, along with Jimmy Burke, are Newton's only first-year players. Castriotta again played brilliantly when needed. He stopped one Medford backhander with his blocking pad that appeared to be a certain goal.

This game marked the return of Jamie Rice, who played defense as Connors moved up to left wing. Newton's other goalie, John Fletcher is still out with an injury sustained in a varsity game with St. Sabastian's. With his return next week, the team will be at full strength for the first time since the beginning of the year.

Coaches Dick Fletcher and Mike Mullowney hope to keep the team healthy as they count down for the state tournament to be played the weekend of March 19-21. The winner of that tournament will go to Oyster Bay, Long Island to compete for the National Championship.

Newton will be tuning up for the states by playing in the Arlington-Menotomy Invitational next weekend.

Newton LL registration

Registration for the Newton Central Little League's 1982 season will be held Monday, March 15 at 7 p.m. at the Cabot School.

Each boy or girl must present a birth certificate (or a photocopy) to be kept on file by the league. Players who have already submitted birth certificates in the past need not present one.

Every child must be accompanied by a parent. Registration blanks will be distributed to elementary, junior high and private schools within the Newton Central Little League boundry. That includes kids that go to private schools living within the boundary.

Any child who has reached the age of nine before August 1 and who will not be 13 before August 1 is eligible to try out.

The following is the tryout schedule: Saturday, March 27 — 12 year olds; Sunday, March 28 — 11 year olds; Saturday, April 3 — 10 year olds and late tryouts; and Sunday, April 4 — nine year olds.

All children who wish to play this spring, including those who are already members, must register. All late registrants will be put on a waiting list.

Clarkson looks to repeat as ECAC hockey champs

By UPI

It is a first, of sorts, for the ECAC playoffs.

Cornell is out of the picture for the first time in 18 years and Northeastern is playing at home for the first time.

Clarkson is first-seeded again but last year's first-place finisher, Providence, is seeded sixth. St. Lawrence is making its first appearance since 1974 and Harvard its first since 1976.

St. Lawrence, seeded No. 7, has made the playoffs twice since 1966 but did win the title in 1962, the first year of the playoffs. The Saints, 12-8-1, won't exactly be playing a team of ECAC playoff experience. Northeastern, 14-6-1, is in its fourth playoff game, going 0-3 in its previous outings.

The other matchups have No. 1 Clarkson, 15-4-1 hosting No.8 Colgate, 11-8-1; No. 3 New Hampshire, 15-7, hosting No. 6 Providence, 13-8, and No. 4 Harvard, 11-8-2, hosting No. 5 Boston College.

The numbers and seeds mean little, except for home ice advantage. And even a home berth, as Boston College found out the last two years, isn't a guaranteed ticket to the Final Four.

Northeastern came on strong to finish second, beating Boston University on the final weekend, 7-6, while St. Lawrence was losing 3-1 to Colgate. Had the results been reversed, St. Lawrence would have been the No. 3 seed while Northeastern would have been No. 5.

"That's how close this all is," said Northeastern coach Fern Flaman. "We played them before this year and it was one of the best games of the year (2-2 tie). There was great checking, great skating, great goaltending. And I expect more of the same."

St. Lawrence goalie Gray Weicker is the son of Sen. Lowell Weicker, D-Conn.

Harvard earned the No. 4 spot as Ivy champion, even though Boston College had a better record. But the Eagles, first-round upset victims the past two years as No. 1 and No. 2 seeds, face a buzz-saw Crimson team that has won five of their final six. The last win, a Saturday night 5-1 triumph over Dartmouth, earned Harvard the No. 4 seed as the top Ivy finisher.

"It's nice to be back in the playoffs," said Harvard's Bill Cleary. "I'm glad for our seniors. It (Dartmouth game) was a great win for them."

Rebels edged in volleyball

The Needham-Newton Home Improvement volleyball team beat the Rebels, 16-14 and 15-7 in Newton Women's Twilight League action Monday.

High scorers for the winners were Lois Libby, Sharon O'Hara and Gail Bartone, all with five points each. For the losing Rebel team, Karen Mondell had eight points and Alice Mandel had five points.

In another match, Art Carroll's won in three games against the Set-Ups, 15-9, 12-15 and 15-4.

Michele DeFazio had 25 points and Karen Coffey had eight points for the winners while Phyllis Savage had 11 points and Dee Cosgrove had eight for the losers.

Revaluation questions eyed

A public hearing has been scheduled on revaluation for March 16 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall. Homeowners meeting with Finnegan will be notified within 30 days of the result of their informal hearing.

"You can't bring people up here and say it's $74,700," said McAuliffe. "I wouldn't argue with it if that was the market value. You can't sell it for $75,000."

"We don't have any amenities," said McAuliffe. "Anything that would bring up the value of the house; we don't have any."

Four of the comparables to which McAuliffe's home was compared were located on Duxbury Road in Newton Centre; Beacon Street in Waban; Walter Street in Newton Centre; Parker Street in Newton Centre. The homes ranged in value from $79,900 to $84,400.

"He's got everything here," commented Alderman Dominic Taglienti of the Walter Street house. "That poor (expletive) has nothing."

"I don't know where they got the figures," Taglienti said. "I am really disappointed."

Polzella said usually the high and low end of the values were "hardest to locate" as far as comparables were concerned.

"It's a mass appraisal," said Polzella. "It's mathematically impossible to find five similar homes for every property in Newton."

Residents received the five comparable sales figures of homes that were sold from 1978 to 1980 at the informal hearings. These values aided in the determination of the new assessments.

"We spent seven years trying to duck revaluation because we couldn't find anyone who was suitable for the mayor," charged Taglienti. "They didn't want it because it didn't treat Ward 8 right.

In 1974, aldermen dismissed a citywide revaluation by the firm Cole-Layer-Trumble (CLT) after a taxpayers' suit was brought against the city. Taglienti has maintained that the CLT report with 35 percent added on for inflation would represent the correct values.

"The assessments of Wards 7 and 8 pumped up the value of every home in the city," said Taglienti. "They're undervalued."

Newton's revaluation, which was mandated by a state law requiring all communities to bring real estate up to 100 percent full and fair market value, is expected to adjust past inequities in the city's taxation of residential property.

Therefore, owners of older homes, which in most cases have been far undervalued, face higher property taxes while the owners of newer homes have had their taxes adjusted downwards.

Polzella said the four major factors used to determine comparable homes are: 1. location, 2. house style (Cape Cod, Colonial, Victorian,..etc), 3. size, 4. age.

A broad range of additional factors used to determine a house's value includes the number of bathrooms, fireplace, garage, and quality of the house.

"We're not going to set a value on a house to force the guy in," said Polzella. "No matter what they get, they don't think we look at location."

Polzella said one of the reasons for the large number of hearing requests is the large elderly population in Newton. Of the 8,100 hearings, he estimates 2,500 are senior citizens. According to a 1980 census figures, more than 18 percent of the city population residing in households are 60 or older.

He estimated that about 2,000 residents wanted explanations on how the home value was calculated and approximately 2,000 homeowners wanted to check the informational data on the property.

School budget up

A public hearing will be held on the the budget March 15 at 7:45 p.m. at Bigelow Junior High before the final vote March 22.

The total amount of cuts approved Monday night at the meeting was $133,287, but $12,501 in increases were voted as well.

The largest cut was in the revolving food services account which the School Committee voted to fund at $100,000 instead of the recommended $199,336.

The committee strongly supports making the lunch and breakfast program self-supporting and is considering options for next year which include hiring a consultant or going to an outside vendor.

The committee and Mayor Mann were united in support of Superintendent Aaron Fink's proposal to initiate a short term leave option to boost staff development in light of the elimination of sabbaticals this year. However, the funds were cut in half to $22,500 because of concerns by some committee members about disruption during the school year.

Ricles moved to fund the short term leaves (an account which provides for substitute teacher pay) at half the recommended level and "experiment with a pilot program at that level."

"May I say I'm not upset by some reduction in this (short term leaves)," Fink said. "I think it's going to take some time to get it underway, but the idea is worth pursuing."

Marcia Mitchell urged cutbacks in recommendations for new and replacement equipment, accounts which together total almost $188,000.

"My overall impression is that in these times we can surely do better than this," she said.

Mitchell moved that the accounts be combined, level-funded and then increased by 5 percent. The motion was voted down 7-2 with Mitchell and Mayor Mann in the minority.

"I won't support this," Ann Berwick said. "I think that one of the places the schools have most severely felt the effects of 2 ½ and tax caps is in these accounts."

Other approved cuts Monday night:

•Susan Silbey's motion to cut the telephone bills of the schools by $5,000 passed unanimously. The cut would still allow more than $9,000 for inflation over the current $204,000.

•Marcia Mitchell's motion to level-fund at $6,468 the materials reproduction account (used by the School Committee), a cut of $452, passed 5-4.

Taste Verdict: Merit.

Former higher tar smokers applaud MERIT as "Best-tasting low tar I've tried."

Can a low tar cigarette provide the taste incentive to switch smokers from higher tar brands?

Research proves MERIT can.

Taste Debate Ends.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT Landslide.

In addition, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared with higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Special ed costs could rise 5%

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The cost of special education for the Newton schools continues to rise and is expected to reach over $4.4 million next year, up 5.1 percent.

Out of the recommended $39.2 million recommended school budget for next year, an increase of 4 percent, the total increase in the special ed account is projected at $215,560.

Although Newton continues to develop its own programs and collaboratives with neighboring communities to bring back special needs students from expensive private residential and day programs, the cost of these private tuitions will hit more than $1.1 million next year.

Private tuitions, which are projected to increase by about $53,000, currently provide 90 Newton residents with severe and multiple handicaps with an educational program which cannot be provided by the Newton schools.

Since Chapter 766 was passed in Massachusetts in 1974, the provision of services to emotionally, mentally or physically handicapped children has been the responsibility of local school systems. When public school programs are deemed inappropriate for the needs of a particular child, the law makes private placements the responsibility of the local schools as well.

Tuition for students with severe and multiple handicaps which require intensive special ed private day programs averages $8,500 a year, while residential programs can run as high as $39,000 a year.

According to Dr. John Cullinane, director of Pupil Personnel Services and Special Education, Newton is successfully developing more programs and collaboratives with nearby school systems to return more students to the Newton public schools. Yet, Cullinane has said that these savings, although worth striving for, will not be huge.

Cullinane estimates Newton average per pupil costs at $2,000 to $3,000 less than private school tuition costs.

At a special budget meeting Thursday night at Bigelow Junior High, Cullinane told the School Committee that declining enrollment in special education has "parelleled" the overall decline in enrollment in the Newton schools. As a result, Cullinane is recommending for next year the reduction of one special education teacher position as well as 0.3 psychologist and 0.2 social worker.

Despite the elimination of one teaching position, projected salary increases will hike the special ed teacher salaries account to over $1.1 million, up 5.8 percent.

The cutback of one teaching position was from the current 39.5 special needs teachers. Also included in this account is one math learning disability teacher and 6.9 speech therapists.

Although the number of teacher aides for special ed (16.96) will not increase, projected salary hikes for aides are amount to a 10.2 percent increase over the current $135,835.

The School Department is recommending a 7 percent increase in funds for special needs pupil transportation in anticipation of higher costs when the school's current transporation contract expires at the end of this year.

Of the projected nearly $370,000 for next year's transporation costs, Cullinane says about $150,000 is the cost of state-mandated transportation for handicapped adults who are served by state programs such as sheltered workshops and adult day-care centers.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

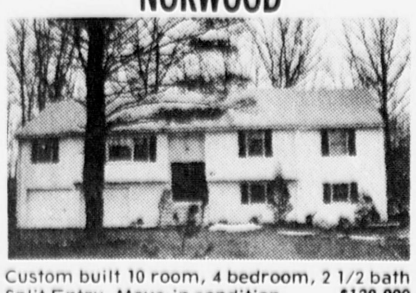

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Newton South High School plans program on Danzig

NEWTON CENTRE — On Wednesday, March 17, from 10:05 to 10:55 a.m. in the Lecture Hall, Newton South High School, the Enrichment Program will present a program on the eradication of the Jewish community of Danzig in 1939 by the Mazis. Nitza Rosovsky, Newton resident and executive coordinator of the Danzig 1939: Treasures of a Destroyed Community at the Harvard University Semitic Museum which has been reopened recently, will present a videotape and talk.

This collection of the remnants of a once-thriving Jewish Community was sent to the United States in 1939 with the understanding that if, after 15 years, there were no free Jews in Danzig, it was to be an educational device and inspiration for the rest of the world. The Danzig Great Synagogue and the Jewish Cemetery were sold, under pressure, at the same time to the Danzig authorities in exchange for permits to enable the Jewish population to leave.

The Synagogue was then destroyed by the Nazis. Despite general reconstruction of this ancient city by the Polish authorities, this has not been restored. The public is invited at no cost.

In addition, on Wednesday, March 17, Karyn Gello, Victim/Witness Advocate, Office of the District Attorney for Middlesex County, will explain the Victim/Witness Program in Middlesex County. This program provides services to crime victims and witnesses. These include crisis counseling, information and notification regarding status of court cases, restition recovery assistance and referrals to community agencies. The public is welcome to attend from 11:55 to 12:45 in Room 7106.

"Project Outreach," will be presented by the Enrichment Programs on Tuesday, March 16, from 10:05 to 11:50 in the Lecture Hall, Newton South High School. The primary function of this program in which several convicts relate their stories about prison and the consequences of a life of crime is to show young people that it is up to them to make responsible decisions or pay the onsequences.

This program is designed to provide an educational tool for decision making. Other programs included in the Enrichment Program schedule for the week of March 15 to March 19 include "Teaching Foreign Languages" on Tuesday, March 16, from 11 to 11:50 a.m. in the Language Labratory, Newton South High School. Dr. Lynn Dhority, Associate Professor of German, University of Massachusetts, Boston, will describe Suggestive-Accelerative Learning and Teaching.

On Friday, March 19, from 10:05 to 10:55 a.m., Room 7106, annual National Energy Day will be discussed and observed. Peter Aucella of the Economic Development Staff, Senator Paul Tsongas' Office, will describe the energy challenge facing our nation today and the importance of energy conservation.

Group pushes to keep 'Rider' rolling

NEWTON — With approximately 200 residents packing City Hall in support of funding for the bankrupt "Newton Rider" bus service, aldermen Monday night unanimously approved $4,000 to keep buses rolling.

In addition, two aldermanic committees, Finance and Public Safety and Transportation, gave unanimous initial approval to $12,000 to keep the service running until the end of the fiscal year - June 30.

The approval of the $4,000 in funds came during an emergency meeting of the 24-member legislative body and prevents the bankrupt service from being eliminated. The $12,000 must still receive final aldermanic approval which appears certain.

The bus service provides service throughout the city to hundreds of city elderly who jammed the City Hall conference rooms to support the funding. Four busloads of elderly and other residents attended the meeting.

Andre Bus Lines and Limousine Service of Brookline operates the service with a city subsidy and donations from local merchants.

"There is no other alternative transportation for these people," said Sandy Baldwin, a busdriver for the Rider with the crowd crammed into a committee room elbow to elbow. "These people depend on it; some for their daily bread."

The elderly residents stressed that the bus is their only means of transportation to go food shopping. Other residents, including several special education adults, pointed out that the bus provides much needed transportation to work and school.

"We have no other way to go shopping except by the bus," said one elderly resident. "We really need this bus."

Lorraine Roses of Newton Highlands said her two children attending Brown Junior High and Newton South High would be forced to walk nearly two miles to school without the bus.

"I don't know how we would deal with it if we lost it," said Roses. "It is essential."

Viola Jacobs, Newton representative of the Silver Haired Legislature, said elderly residents desperately need the bus service. "The city should help," she said. "They don't do enough for us in the way of transportation."

The service, which started in September 1980 with an initial $15,000 appropriation from aldermen and donations from area merchants, was envisioned as self supporting. However, the bus service is losing about $2,800 a month, according to City Traffic Engineer David Tannozzini.

Many aldermen urged residents to organize and pressure local merchants for increased support and funding. The business community has provided nearly $23,000 in donations since the service began.

Aldermen okay park funding

NEWTON — A proposed new city park on Beacon Street that will cost $500,000 to construct and include two tennis courts and three multi-purpose fields was approved by aldermen Monday night.

In a special meeting, aldermen voted 16 to 5 to construct the 11-acre park on a former leaf dump. The new park will be located near the intersection of Walnut and Beacon Streets and consist of a softball field, three fields, two tennis courts and a basketball court.

Opponents argued that the $500,000 could be better spent on other items in the wake of the fiscal constraints imposed by Propostion 2½. Furthermore, opponents have contended that the Recreation Department will not be able to properly maintain the facility. The city department will be forced to maintain the park with a cut in personnel and funding.

Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle and Richard McGrath said the funds should be spent on more pressing needs, particularly a sewer problem that results in flooding on Cherry Street.

Supporters have argued that funding of the project will provide a much needed recreational facility and make good on a promise to Newton residents made when the land was purchased in 1970. Furthermore, supporters pointed out that the ultimate cost to the city for the new park will be only $250,000 because of reimbursement of $250,000 from the federal government.

"This is a major recreational facility," said Alderman Edward Richmond. "It is a city wide recreational facility. It is something that will be good for us; good for our children; and good for our children's children."

If the project is was not completed by the end of the 1982 construction season, the city would have lost the $250,000 federal matching grant for the project, according to city officials.

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas claimed that the city also could have been forced to reimburse the federal government $53,000 in acquisition costs if the project was not approved.

Mayor Theodore Mann put construction of the new park on hold after the passage of Proposition 2½ in November 1980.

McGrath, who delayed a vote on the proposal last week by employing a parliamentary procedure, also argued that aldermen should make good on a promise to residents abutting Newton South high school track before funding the new park.

Residents abutting the track, constructed in 1979, were promised landscape buffers that were never put up because of cost overruns on the project. The Public Facilities Committee has given initial approval to $7,000 needed for the project.

Aldermen voting against the new park were: Bullwinkle, McGrath, Paul Coletti, Joseph DePasquale, and Matthew Jefferson.

Aldermen voting for the park were: Lisle Baker, Wendell Bauckman, Bruce Carmichael, Cynthia Creem, Elaine Gentile, Harold Levinsky, Michael Malec, Edward Richmond, Marcy Richmond, Carol Ann Shea, Sondra Shick, Lane Sofman, Dominic Taglienti, Robert Tennant, Verne Vance, and Ethel Sheehan.

Absent were: Rodney Barker, Paul Daley and Terry Morris.

Dear Ed

Congratulations on your 25th Anniversary as a Chrysler-Plymouth dealer.

During that quarter century, you witnessed an industry that went from fins to financial disaster. The changes were dramatic and the last few years, the toughest ever encountered.

As you know, many dealers couldn't handle it and had to throw in the towel. Only the best car men survived. You not only survived, you continued to manage a successful dealership. It's an accomplishment of which you can be darn proud!

The next 25-year outlook for Kehoe Chrysler, Inc is easy to forecast. Management know-how and an excellent reputation in the community indicate it's going to enjoy even more and greater success.

Once again, best wishes for a Happy Silver Anniversary and also thanks for representing Chrysler-Plymouth so well over the past 25 years.

Sincerely,

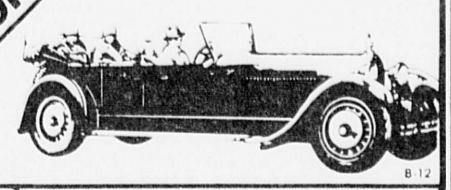

WE DO IT BETTER

Board demands service records

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A chief executive for the ambulance company holding a three-year contract with the city to provide emergency service refused Monday night to detail for aldermen the firm's financial statement for city operation.

"I think it is an infringement of my rights," said an angry Curt Lovett of Chaulk Ambulance company. "There has been no default on my contract."

As a result of Lovett's stand, the Aldermanic Public Safety Committee unanimously requested all reports that have been submitted to Mayor Theodore Mann, Police Chief William Quinn and Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar on the service. In addition, the committee voted to conduct periodic meetings with Lovett.

Chaulk took over the service last August after a bitter fight was waged by aldermen to keep the Fire Department emergency operated service.

In presentation to aldermen last year, Lovett told aldermen that the company did not intend to make a profit during the first several years of operation. Many aldermen were concerned about the financial status of the firm.

The contract with Chaulk included a section requiring a written periodic financial report. Both Lovett and Deputy Mayor James Hickey admitted the section was deleted recently in direct response to a request for the report by a reporter for The Newton Graphic and News-Tribune.

"When it became a media issue and for whatever reason it was going to be put in the paper, we really didn't want to," said Lovett. As a result, Lovett met with Hickey, the city Law Department and Kanbar and eliminated the contract section.

"It was not an afterthought that was put in the contract," said Public Safety Chairman DePasquale. "What kind of service are they going to provide to the city of Newton if they are losing $150,000 to $200,000 a year?"

"If I make or lose $30,000 this year, it is not going to break the company," Lovett said. The Chaulk spokesman also stressed that his company has posted a performance bond in the city which he said would be unattainable if the firm was not "solvent."

All seven aldermen on the committee said they have not received complaints about Chaulk's service, but wanted to review the financial data from the firm.

"If you are taking in a serious shortfall of dollars, there may be some skimping going on," said DePasquale, noting that Chaulk has submitted a bid for $1 million a year to operate in Watertown - a town smaller than Newton.

"Well show me, Mr. DePasquale where is the skimping?" demanded Lovett.

"The point is that a new service is being provided and the city should have an ongoing analysis and it is not being done," said Alderman Richard McGrath.

Hickey, however, maintained the administration is closely monitoring the company. "All rhetoric aside," he said, "the ambulance service being provided to this city is being evaluated on an ongoing basis."

Lovett said Purhasing Agent Kanbar called him after initial inquiries from a Graphic and News Tribune reporter for the financial report and asked if the report should be released.

"Why the hell is the purchasing agent calling the contractor," snapped McGrath. "He should know what his rights are."

DePasquale bluntly agreed: "What happened here is the purchasing agent screwed up."

Both Kanbar and Quinn denied they had the written financial reports from Chaulk when questioned by reporters. However, Lovett told aldermen Monday night that he has submitted the reports to both Quinn and Kanbar.

"I really did not want everyone in the world to know what our costs were," said Lovett.

"If you were really concerned that this stuff was going to get into the paper, why did you sign the contract?" asked Alderman Verne Vance. Lovett did not respond.

Hickey said the contract section requiring the financial report was deleted because it would have been a public document and "open season for the press."

School offers scholarship

CHESTNUT HILL - The trustees of the Chestnut Hill School are offering an "Award Scholarship" for a student entering grade 4, 5, or 6 in the fall of 1982. Named in honor of the headmaster, the "F. J. Allison Award" will be granted to a girl or boy who is competent in mathematics and reading, and who demonstrates a developing talent or special interest in one of the following areas: Some field of fine arts, music, dance, drama, or creative writing; a particular academic subject such as science, social studies or language arts; a craft or hobby such as ceramics, electronics, photography, weaving, coin or stamp collecting.

This scholarship is available at the Chestnut Hill School not on the basis of financial need; nor is consideration given to race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion or residence. The trustees are launching the "Award Scholarship" campaign for the fourth year to encourage creativity and originality in boys and girls of elementary school age.

"We believe," stated Assistant Headmaster Matthew S. Lieber, "that we can offer quality education, and the recipient of the scholarship can contribute significantly to the CHS community and to the community at large."

Chestnut Hill is an independent coeducational day school for youngsters in nursery school through grade six. Students are currently enrolled from 18 Greater Boston communitites. A strong academic program stresses basic skills; instruction is individualized within a graded yet flexible structure.

For details on the 1982-83 Scholarship Program and to receive an application contact Anne Dayton, Director of Admissions and Public Relations, at 566-0445. The deadline for applying is April 1.

Rags to riches auction business

It pays to ponder the trash

By Donna Lombardi

NEWTON - William Doyle wasn't like other kids his age who rushed home from school to play.

Instead, at the age of 10, Doyle spent his spare time scrounging around second hand stores and digging through rubbish cans in search of old and perhaps valuable items. His youthful obsession with old things led to what is now a $24 million a year antique and auction business in New York.

"As a child, I started waiting on Wednesday nights so I could go looking through rubbish cans," remembers Doyle, 40, a former Newton Corner resident. Now Doyle operates William Doyle Galleries, the largest American-owned auction house in the country.

His Manhattan-based firm handles property and estates of well-known celebrities and socialites such as Jacqueline Onassis, Barbara Streisand, Lowell Thomas and William F. Buckley.

But his start in the auction business wasn't quite so glamorous. Before he began browsing through celebrity mansions and penthouses, Doyle was rummaging through relatives' attics, a pasttime his mother disliked and tried to discourage.

"Don't give him anything. Don't give him anything," Doyle's mother pleaded with relatives. In spite of his mother's attempts to discourage his habit, William Doyle pursued his hobby.

"I just loved it," says Doyle, a Newton High School graduate. "I just thought old things were very romantic."

It wasn't an easy beginning for the sentimental youngster. Doyle explains that he was the black sheep of his family. "I was a difficult child, more so than the others," Doyle remembers.

The sixth of nine children from a strict Catholic family, Doyle attended Sacred Heart grammar school, but was eventually forced to leave. "I was a real hyper kid. I couldn't sit still," says Doyle, whose brothers and sisters continued through Catholic schools. Unlike his siblings, who earned doctorates and medical degrees, Doyle dropped out of Boston University after three months and joined the army for the three years.

8 semifinalists for school job

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON - Eight semifinalists, including a former Waltham school superintendent and a former district program coordinator for the Newton schools, have been recommended to the School Committee as candidates for the job of Newton superintendent of schools.

One woman and seven men were recommended Monday night to the School Committee as semi-finalists for the job now held by Superintendent Aaron Fink, who is retiring at the end of this school year.

School Committee interviews for the position, which will pay up to $58,000, begin this Saturday. Included in the list of semifinalists are Dr. Frederick Stokley, current superintendent of schools in Lake Charles, La., who was superintendent in Waltham from 1971-78 and Dr. Geoffrey Pierson, acting superintendent in Lexington who worked as a district coordinator of programs in the Newton schools from 1972-76.

NEWTON — PTA's and other educational organizations praised the $39.1 million school budget, which is up four percent, at Monday night's public hearing for being "tight" while preserving educational excellence.

'It is our feeling that this...budget before us is putting back together the pieces of a demoralized and underfunded current budget.' Eleanor Samuels

The only dissatisfaction voiced during the 45-minute hearing came from a representative of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, Ronald Nuttall.

Nuttall, chairman of the Education Budget Committee of the Taxpayers' Association, called the budget "too high" and recommended a

Aldermen ask officials to open records to press

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen approved a resolution Monday night requesting city officials "cease" their "apparent policy of withholding public documents from the press and aldermen."

The resolution, which was approved by a 15 to 2 vote, comes after Police Chief William Quinn and Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar refused to release a monthly financial statment by Chaulk Ambulance Co. to the press.

Chaulk took over the Fire Department operated ambulance service after a court challenge and was required to file the report under a city contract signed last year.

Deputy Mayor James Hickey and Chaulk Spokesman Curt Lovett both admitted at an aldermanic meeting last week the section in the contract mandating the financial report was eliminated in direct response to a request for the document by a News Tribune and Newton Graphic reporter.

No room for gripes

Reval hearing postponed

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — An unruly overflow crowd of about 1,500 angry and concerned residents forced Fire Department officials Tuesday to adjourn a public hearing at City Hall on the revaluation of residential property.

Fire Captain Carmen Tedesco told the crowd - which had packed into the aldermanic chamber, the second floor corridors of City Hall and wound down into the stairwells - that everyone "had to leave" for reasons of public safety. Residents were still arriving when the meeting was called off.

Tedesco made the announcement after the Aldermanic Sub-Committee on Revaluation voted 4 to 3 in favor of holding the meeting as scheduled.

The public forum to allow residents to air their views on the controversial revaluation, will be rescheduled for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at an as yet undetermined site. Alderman Paul Coletti, chairman of the Sub-Committee on Revaluation and chair of last night's meeting, said he will try to get approval from the School Department for use of the auditorium at Newton North High School.

According to School Department officials, the auditorium can hold about 900 people inclusive of standing room. Additonal options that are being considered is a pair of hearings to accomodate the large numbers or the possibility of holding separate hearings in each of the city's eight wards. Last week, a hearing in Newton Upper Falls at the Emerson School drew about 350 people.

The chamber at City Hall and the two adjoining committee rooms can hold between 650 and 750 people without jeopardizing public safety.

At about 8:30 p.m., after twenty minutes of debate among aldermen, fire and police officials, Tedesco told the boisterous crowd he was forced to "ask everyone to leave" in the "interest of public safety."

Added Tedesco: "I am concerned that if something happens to somebody in this crowd that they will not get the proper medical attention that they deserve. I am sorry, but at this time you will have to adjourn. This is my decision."

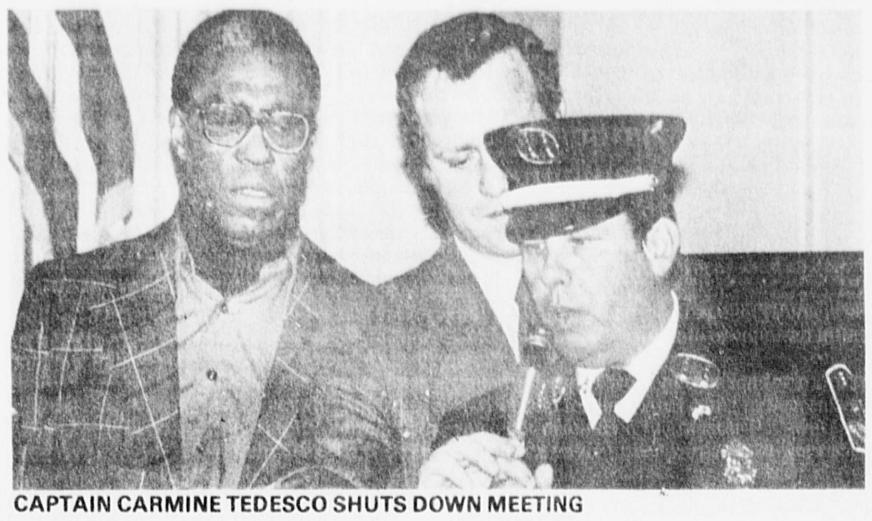

According to Alderman Bruce Carmichael, city officials had hoped to put television monitors in additional viewing areas but were unable to gain access to the equipment.

Residents, afraid they would be unable to hear the proceedings, ignored several pleas from Coletti to clear the corridors and move against the walls.

Aldermen stressed afterwards they are willing to listen to complaints but are unable to change the impact of revaluation. The city has received initial certification of residential property values from the State Department of Revenue and is awaiting the completion of the revaluation of commercial property.

"I'm not surprised at the turnout," said Joseph DePasquale, one of several aldermen who called for the public hearing. "I never thought we wouldn't be able to handle it."

"There were people in the hall that wanted to be heard and hear the peocess," DePasquale noted. "It's a disgrace that those four aldermen voted to extend this meeting tonight knowing of the danger.

CAPTAIN CARMINE TEDESCO SHUTS DOWN MEETING

Anger voiced in Upper Falls

Assessments termed unfair

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON UPPER FALLS — It has been a long week for officials of the firm which conducted revaluation of property in Newton, beginning last Thursday when hundreds stormed a school gymnasium to protest what they branded unfair assessments.

In the three-hour forum at the Emerson School, taxpayer after taxpayer - some screaming for relief - complained that homes had been overassessed in the Upper Falls community. The meeting was marked by sporadic outbursts from the large and often unruly crowd.

A number of taxpayers, many elderly, laughed in disgust when a show of hands was requested for a sampling of how many resident's tax bills decreased. The large majority of taxpayers polled will face tax bill increases of $700 or more.

Judy Neville, a city school employee, told the crowd that the Acton company that conducted revaluation, Finnegan Associates, assessed a home she purchased last May for $59,000 at $98,500.

"I thought they were crazy!" she said of the so-called full and fair market value. "It is such an outstanding example of ridiculousness. It's absurd."

"How do we get equity and fair treatment?" screamed one resident, noting that Upper Falls is a "unique" village. Many in this old mill village argued that the age of the homes in the ward, combined with increasing traffic, the skyscraper like radio towers looming over the ward, and the large number of bars and package stores here should have resulted in lower values than in other city wards.

The disgruntled mob from Upper Falls is a foreshadowing of the wave of angry taxpayers who are likely to attend a public hearing on revaluation next Tuesday at City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Louise Riley, one of the organizers of the forum, said the community was angry and upset with the "gross inequities" of the Finnegan revaluation.

"We are all very unhappy," said Riley. "We are presenting a united front in the Upper Falls community tonight."

One resident, who requested her name not be used, stunned the crowd when she charged that a Finnegan employee told her: "You got a $10 special. If you (taxpayers) wanted all these details (revaluation data), the city of Newton would have had to pay a lot more."

John Rogers of Nonantum received loud applause from the crowd when he asserted: "I have a feeling what we are witnessing here is the evidence of a saying: the rich get richer and the poor get shafted."

Many taxpayers complained that the five homes used by Finnegan as comparable sales figures to determine the new assessments were from other areas of the city.

Approximately 8,000 homeowners throughout the city have scheduled informal hearings with the revaluation firm since tax-impact notices reflecting the new revaluation were mailed out on Feb. 19. The com-

One man's view of a 'rush job'

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Peter Sorrentino has, by his own admission, become "obsessed" with the new assessment on his Winthrop Street home.

His obsession stems from a revaluation which has upped his yearly taxes from $1,858 to $4,200 and may force him and his wife Theresa to sell their "ace $190,000 home" in West Newton.

When he talks about his "ace home," Sorrentino is being facetious. He thinks he would be lucky to get $135,000 for it and believes it would cost closer to $200,000 to repair the house.

Since the printing of the master assessment list by The Newton Graphic, Sorrentino, who works for the Internal Revenue Service, has researched each house sale in the city from January, 1981 to the present.

In total, Sorrentino has collected data on 200 sales in the 13-month period ending last week. For each of the homes, he collected the assessment price, the purchase price and the difference between them.

"The variations are quite high," said Sorrentino Sunday night. "Most of them are $10,000 off in either direction."

Sorrentino's favorite example is a home on Dudley Road in Newton Centre which sold for $490,000 in Aug. 1981, an increase of $170,400 from the $319,600 assessment by Finnegan Associates.

"It's such a joke, you wonder what they did," Sorrentino noted of the accelerated revaluation. "It's supposed to be fair market value. What's fair?"

Sorrentino said he got "so irate" driving around checking values that he left a note at one house valued at $300,000 informing the homeowner he should schedule a hearing.

"I think it's dangerous. I think it's going to ruin the city," asserted Sorrentino. "The old homes will slip into disrepair and they will look like junk."

'I think it was a rush job. They did not use the factors of appraisal that a real estate person would use.' Peter Sorrentino

Sorrentino found that there "was no trend as to inflation or deflation" in the assessed values of the homes. The values were based on Jan. 1981 full and fair market value.

"After this time has gone by, you would think that everything is being sold for much higher," said Sorrentino taking into account an inflation rate of 14 percent. "It isn't."

Of the homes Sorrentino studied, 121 were purchased for more than the revaluation figures and 70 sold for less. According to Sorrentino, 49 of the 191 homes (nine were not printed on the master list) were more than $25,000 off from Finnegan's value either way and 20 were $50,000 off.

Three homes on Winthrop Street which have been sold during the period of Sorrentino's study were purchased for far less than their

3 girls suspended

Racial unrest was brewing at Newton South High

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL - Police and Newton South High School officials said last week racial problems have been brewing at the school for more than a year but they stressed that the differences exist only between the group of black and white girls involved in Wednesday's racial incident at the school.

Three girls involved in the incident were suspended from school because they refused to discuss the matter with each other and officials, according to Principal Ernest Van Seasholes.

According to Seasholes, the group of black and white girls involved in the fight each claim that the other side initiated the incident.

'The fight itself was a personality clash based on turf. The aftermath had racial tones.' Police Lt. Charles Feeley

The fight started with five or six black and white girls in a bathroom and continued with physical and verbal attacks among 30 girls outside, according to Seasholes. School and police officials met yesterday with the girls and their parents to discuss the problem.

Although the girls were warned they would be suspended if they refused to participate in the discussion, two white girls and a black girl refused to talk and walked out of the school, Seasholes said.

As the three girls left the scene of the discussion, racial slurs were exchanged, according to Seasholes and Police Lt. Charles Feeley.

"There's still a lot of heated things being said," Seasholes remarked. He said an investigation of the incident will continue and that a meeting with parents is planned for next week.

Robbin Brownell, 16, and Lynn Hurley, 14, both South students who were involved in the incident claimed that the school's report of the incident is inaccurate. They said yesterday that several black girls initiated the incident by physically attacking one white girl in the bathroom and that prior to the scene in the bathroom they were harassed by the girls in a school hallway.

However Seasholes disputed the girls' claim. "Both sides are saying absolutely the same thing," he said. Seashole added the Cutler House Headmaster Judy Malone will speak with the girls today to discover exactly how and why the fight began.

What both the officials and girls agree on is that the differences have existed for a long time. Brownell and Hurley said that they've had differences with the girls since all were students at the Charles E. Brown Junior High School.

"The fight itself was a personality clash based on turf," said Feeley, who said the girls were arguing over who should have control of the bathroom where the incident started. "The aftermath had racial tones," Feeley added.

Seasholes said that many South students have approached him voluntarily and offered their help with the racial problem. "A lot of the kids like the school and are upset that this is happening," said Seasholes. Seasholes added that the school's Student Council is meeting today to discuss the incident.

Feeley commented that during the last two days, he observed many black and white students sitting and talking with one another at the school. "There are many blacks and whites getting along," he said.

Mayor Theodore Mann said yesterday that, "To the city's credit, we haven't had many (racial problems). One is too many. I find it intolerable situation. You can't excise hate from everyone."

Aldermen give final okay to ordinance requiring permit for DNA study firms

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen have given final approval to an ordinance that will give the Board of Aldermen the power to deny a firm experimenting with recombinant DNA research a permit for said research.

Despite objections from Alderman Ethel Sheehan that board members would "politicize" the permit-granting authority, the Board of Aldermen voted Monday 20 to 2 to incorporate aldermen into the process.

The ordinance requires institutions interested in conducting DNA study to appear before the aldermanic Land Use Committee for initial approval of the experimentation site.

Under the amended ordinance, the committee can control the number and the location of DNA research facilities with the issuance of special permits. Before approval of the ordinance Monday, aldermen were only allowed to impose restrictions on the design of a facility and could not deny a petition for DNA experimentation.

The issuance of a special permit to conduct the DNA research will then be voted on by the 24-member Board of Aldermen. The law also restricts such research to limited manufacturing and manufacturing districts.

Under the old proposal, the Newton Biohazards Committee, would have acted as the permit-granting authority with input from the area alderman. The committee's recommendations would have then been passed along to the Commissioner of Health for final approval.

The Biohazards Committee, which will be appointed by the mayor, will act as an advisory board to the Board of Aldermen under the ordinance. The Commissioner of Health, Bernice Joyal, will still have grant final permit approval.

Dioxyribonucleic Acid (DNA) is the basic organic material transmitting hereditary traits in humans. A growing number of companies and academic institutions, including Harvard University in Cambridge, are involved in the implanting of DNA from one organism to another.

Some experts claim that DNA experiments are potentially dangerous and could result in cancer-causing agents and other bacteria, with no known antibiotics, being released in a community. Other scientists claim that contained DNA research is safe and poses little danger to a community.

New England Nuclear on Wells Avenue and Boston College both possess the facilities to conduct recombinant molecule technology.

The ordinance was first passed in 1981 by the Aldermanic Human Services and Legislation and Rules Committees. However, when the ordinance came out on the floor of the board, Aldermen Cynthia Creem reconsidered the item back to committee to incorporate aldermen into the permit-granting process.

The Legislation and Rules Committee, chaired by Sheehan, had voted to omit aldermen from the process fearing the procedure would become too political. Creem represents Ward 8 where New England is located.

Parenting course is being offered by Newton Red Cross

NEWTONVILLE — A course entitled "Parenting — From Birth to Two Years" will be conducted by the West Suburban Chapter of the American Red Cross on March 22, 24, 25, 29, and 31.

The course will be held from 7 - 9 p.m. at the Chapter on 21 Foster St. in Newtonville.

Course objectives are to promote family health, prevent child abuse and neglect; and to promote helath, safety, growth and development. The focus of the course is on two primary roles of parents; the protective-nurturing role and the teaching-modeling role.

For further information, or to register for the course, contact the Nursing and Health office of the Mass Bay Red Cross at 262-1234 ext. 279. The deadline for registration is Monday, March 15.

There is a fee of $12.50 per person or $20 per couple which covers the cost of all books and materials used in the course.

Three musical shows slated

NEWTON CENTRE — Newton Community Schools and the All Newton Music School will join forces this spring and provide Newton residents with three musical performances. Entitled "Music for a Sunday Afternoon," the series is made possible with funds provided by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Beginning April 25, Connie Boykan, flutist, and Elizabeth Morse, harpist, will kick off the series. On May 2, Jeannette Flagan, pianist, will play and on May 16, the trio of Ronald Knudson, violinist, Adrienne Hartzell, cellist and Rita Moerschel, pianist, will combine their talents.

All three performances will meet in private homes on Sundays from 3 - 5 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. There is a $1 registration fee and a $10 materials charge.

For more information about the series, call Newton Community Schools at 552-7118.

assessments. The homes were bought for $71,500 less than their assessments, $64,700, and $41,200 less.

During the same period, three homes on Baldpate Hill Road in Newton Centre sold for considerably more on the open market than what they were valued at by Finnegan. These homes were purchased at $87,100, $64,500 and $25,000 more than what Finnegan has assessed them.

Sorrentino found that "they (the firm conducting the revaluation) were looking at some factors and not others." He did not think the location of a home, a repair factor nor the heating bills were figured into the value of a home.

Said Sorrentino, whose home is just a block away from the Massachusetts Turnpike: "My biggest gripe about this (revaluation) is that they didn't take into consideration location."

"There was no mention of heat," noted Sorrentino of the questions asked by the data collectors. "It's the first question out of your mouth when you buy a house.

"If the house is big they don't care where it is," Sorrentino said. "If it's old, ornate, they get you."

"They didn't look at each house and appraise it as if you were going to buy it," noted Sorrentino. "I think it was a rush job. They did not use the factors of appraisal that a real estate person would use."

Anger shows in Upper Falls meeting

pany had expected about 4,000 appeals and set a March 5 deadline for scheduling appointments.

Aldermen from the ward also criticized the Finnegan values. Calling ward residents "depressed and upset," Aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee Chairman Paul Coletti said: "To see information like this is concrete evidence that Finnegan will have to look more closely at some of these homes before most of use are satisfied with the job."

'It is my hope that the assessors will have the moral courage to not accept the job done by Finnegan Associates.' Alderman Richard McGrath

Alderman Michael Malec characterized the community as "frustrated and angry."

"There is a sense of injustice," he said after urging residents to band together to pressure assessors and Finnegan officials.

"It is obvious that the neighborhood coding used by Finnegan is inaccurate," said Alderman Paul Daley.

Daley, a real estate appraiser, said the city could withhold funds from Finnegan Associates if the values are not "corrected."

Alderman Richard McGrath charged the revaluation has been done "improperly" and should be rejected by the city. McGrath said other areas in the city are also being faced with what he charged were outrageous values.

"The evidence seems to indicate that the revaluation has been done improperly," said McGrath. "It is my hope that the assessors will have the moral courage to not accept the job done by Finnegan Associates."

McGrath pointed to the the delays in the revaluation timetable set by Finnegan and the city as evidence of the "poor to bad job."

Finnegan officials and city assessors were forced to review data and make adjustments in both residential and commercial values after initial reviews by the state agency.

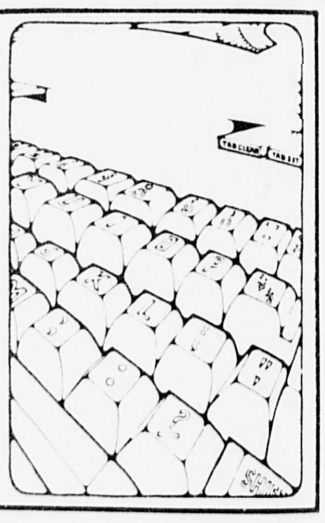

According to assessor's statistics, approximately 50 pecent of the city's 24,000 homeowners will pay a tax bill increase of $200 or more under the revaluation.

Taxpayers were scheduled to receive tax bills reflecting the revaluation on April 1. However, city officials are now saying the deadline will not be met.

Regarding principal hopefuls

Ruling on request for names is put on hold

BOSTON - The state supervisor of public records said last week he would delay an appeal by The Newton Graphic concerning release of names of applicants for the Newton North High principal's job pending outcome of a court case expected to have significant impact on public access to such records.

James W. Igoe, acting supervisior of public records in the Secretary of State's office, acknowledged receipt of The Graphic's appeal of a denial by Newton School Superintendent Aaron Fink for the names of 100 applicants for the position of Newton North principal. The School Committee recently voted to name Cambridge resident Marya Levenson new North principal.

Last month Fink refused to release the names of any of the applicants for the job after The Graphic filed a freedom of informaiton request on the grounds that past rulings by the state mandated public disclosure of the information.

Supervisor of Public Records Igoe said in a letter to The Graphic the question of access to the names of applicants for public positions is "now being litigated" in a suit filed by former Supervisor Frederick Gumbs against John Duff, chancellor to the state Board of Regents of Higher Educaiton.

In that case Duff reportedly refused to release the names of applicants for the top job at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy.

Igoe said in his letter he had received a number of requests similar to the one field filed by The Graphic to force release of applicants' names but he noted, "Until the court reaches a decision in this matter, I shall not make a determination on your appeal."

Fink denied access to the list of names for the job, which will pay Levenson $37,894 per year on the grounds that it would violate the privacy of applicants and discourage qualified people from applying.

However, in January, 1981, then-Supervisor Gumbs ruled that taxpayers have a right to know the applicants for a municipal job and that right overrides any claim to privacy by the candidates.

"When applying for a government job," Gumbs said, "An applicant should expect public scrutiny of his candidacy. In a sense he is asking the public to hire him."

Fink eventually recommended Marya Levenson for the job, after approval by the 24-member screening committee, which he chaired.

Levenson's name was the only one released by the committee.

On Friday attorney Marianne O'Brien, who has been appointed as special counsel to prosecute the court suit initiated by Gumbs, said she did not know when the case would come to trial.

Noting that Igoe had said he would not act on cases in which the names of all applicants for a job are requested until settlement of the court case, she noted, "It certainly will be significant in Massachusetts consideirng the increased interest raised concerning this issue of privacy of applicants."

Tax exemptions also backed

$1.2M approved for asbestos removal

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen Monday night unanimously approved $1.2 million to complete the final removal of potentially harmful asbestos from Newton North High School.

The removal of the fireproofing substance, which began in 1974, should be completed by the end of the summer vacation, according to Building Commissioner Allan Fraser.

Aldermen Monday night also unanimously approved a measure that will provide property tax exemptions to an additional 100 needy residents. Aldermen approved a petition, already given state legislative approval, that will provide an exemption for certain widows, orphans and spouses whose total assets are less than $40,000 - exclusive of the first $60,000 of the home.

As a result of the legislation, filed in the city by Aldermen Michael Malec and Bruce Carmichael, exemptions will be provided to more needy residents hit hard by the current revaluation.

The $1.2 million for asbestos removal at Newton North brings the total cost of removal at the school to nearly $2 million. Numerous studies have connected the fireproofing substance to respiratory diseases and scarring of lung tissue. Use of the substance was banned in construction by the state in 1974 and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in 1973.

In other action, aldermen approved:

• a recommendation by the Land Use Committee to deny an ordinance restricting the authority of the Licensing Commission in the restriction of coin operated amusement machines.

• a recommendation by two aldermanic committees to hold a request for a $10,000 consultant's study to review the Fire Department manning level in the wake of a plan by Mayor Theodore Mann and Fire Chief Edward Reilly to close the Manet Road Fire Station.

• a resolution in support of the current Middlesex Jury system that requires persons, with no exemptions, to serve for either one day or one trial resulting. The system resulted in a savings of 64 percent of juror compensation in its first year.

• a resolution requesting a performance review and update of Chaulk Ambulance Company, specifically a detailed analysis of profit and loss.

•$120,000 for workmen's compensation payments from surplus.

Correction on number

NEWTON - A story in last week's Newton Graphic about "Choices for Living," a new guide to nursing home services in the Newton area, incorrectly listed the telephone number for information about the guide.

The correct number is 244-0116.

The Graphic regrets the error but we were encouraged by the many responses of interest we received about this story and the offerings within the nursing home guide.

School budget okay to many residents reduction of 19 teacher positions over the 27 already cut in the proposed budget.

Nearly 10 representatives of various schools and organizations promised to voice their support of the budget when it goes to the Board of Aldermen after the March 22 final School Committee budget vote.

As a result of the passage of Proposition 2½, the School Committee lost fiscal autonomy to the aldermen. However, aldermen can vote only a bottom-line cut in the school budget and cannot reduce specific accounts.

Mayor Theodore Mann's opposition vote to the budget last week's School Committee's "straw vote" could forbode a conflict with the aldermen as they consider all city budgets. Mann has said the schools have been burdened by a series of expensive building problems and repairs – roofs, asbestos, faulty plumbing at F.A. Day Jr. High – and perhaps should have cut more deeply.

The overall $1.4 million increase in the school budget, although it includes anticipated negotiated salary increases, was defended by several speakers for maintaining excellence and holding pupil-teacher ratios at current levels.

The co-president of the Williams Elementary School PTA called the proposed budget a "basically hold-the-line budget" with "no frills and no extras."

Eleanor Samuels, president of the Newton Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, said, "It is our feeling that this FY83 budget before us is putting back together the pieces of a demoralized and underfunded current budget."

"It is time we called a halt to chipping away at excellence and morale and started rebuilding for the future as Newton has always done. We applaud the School Committee for making the best educational recommendation for the city as a whole," Samuels said.

"People do not move to Newton for the quality of the garbage collection," Roger Samuels, co-president of the Bowen PTA, flatly remarked and received applause from the more than 40 people at the hearing. "I hope people will remember that."

Lynne Brown of the League of Women Voters told the School Committee the League was "pleased" that the proposed budget provides for "educational excellence in Newton."

"We consider quality public education to be a high priority for Newton and we will oppose budget reductions which would diminish educational programs or increase the pupil-teacher ratio," Brown said.

But, according to Nuttall, the cutback of 19 additional teacher positions (which have an average salary of $24,000) would net about $500,000 in savings and not significantly increase pupil-teacher ratios. This, he says, would bring the overall budget increase to about 2½ percent, down from four percent.

"We're willing to go up that high (2½ percent) and not any further," he stressed.

"We think that it's important that you have a balanced system," Nuttall said. "The tendency is to cut into everything else and preserve the jobs."

Auction business had unique start

After 1 ½ years with the Chase Manhattan Bank, he went out on his own again in Boston. In a rented car, he drove through the city one day, stopped to see all the antique dealers he knew and by the end of the night sold everything he bought that day.

Doyle operated a successful antique business for several years and by 1967 began auctioneering. For seven years he ran the Sacred Heart Country Day School auctions. Auctioneering itself is something he still enjoys.

Since 1973, Doyle Galleries has been purchasing and consigning property of the Whitneys, Mellons, Meyers and other prominent families.

He boasts that he leaves clients homes "broom clean," as his workers box, crate and ship items to his New York Gallery. "It's an exciting and interesting business, " says Doyle.

Among the unusual items that Doyle has sold are exquisite music boxes belonging to blind pianist Alec Templeton, one of two French desks worth $187,000 (Queen Elizabeth has the other) and the pink satin jacket worn by Mick Jagger during his American tour.

But Doyle's most unusual business venture occurrs this months when his firm participates in the first by-mail car auction ever handled by an auction house. Promoted by Ballantine Scotch, Doyle Galleries will be taking sealed bids through May 21 on a red, 1952 MGTD valued at $17,500. The highest bid will be announced by Doyle on May 24.

Still a collector, Doyle is particularly fond of walking canes. "I like unusual canes and mechanical canes'" says Doyle, who live in New York City with his three children and wife Kathleen. "Kathleen's the one who keeps me sane," says Doyle of his wife who works full time in the business.

Following a visit with his closest friend, a Nonantum resident, and a St. Patrick's Day trip with his oldest daughter, Doyle will return to the city he loves the best.

"I couldn't live without the pace of New York."

Search was good but only to a point

After months of work the Superintendent Search Committee has handed over the names of eight people for consideration by the School Committee to fill Superintendent Aaron Fink's job, upon his retirement at the end of this school year.

Search Committee Chairman Oscar Wasserman said word of the job opening brought some 110 applications from around the country and, in one case, from France.

Public interviews of the candidates begin this Saturday, March 20, and that will be the public's first chance to see and hear what these people think and how they view the prospect of running the Newton public schools.

At this point the members of the search committee deserve credit for some long hours and serious work. It is that type of volunteer work which serves to increase public input and make such decisions, at least to a point, a democratic process.

Yet one thing must not be forgotten. In spite of Wasserman's frivolous characterization in this week's Newton North High newspaper story about the interest shown by the press in obtaining the names of all applicants for the job, this search has not been completely unblemished.

Wasserman has contended throughout the process that publication of names of applicants in the early stages of the selection process discourages those who may be most qualified. In fact, he claims that several applicants said they would drop out if their names were made public prior to selection of the semifinalists.

The Middlesex County District Attorney's office backed him up in that assertion in a disappointingly off-handed way by saying the search committee could go behind closed doors for the early interviews to protect the confidentiality of applicants.

The issue of whether names of all applicants for a government job are indeed public has been ruled both ways and will soon be debated in court in a case involving the Massachusetts Maritime Academy.

We continue to maintain that, in spite of an attempt at openness in this particular case, the public at large is still the employer and the public has the right to know everyone who has applied.

An important law

It's not the kind of law that is likely to attract a lot of attention, but for some children it could prove a lifesaver.

The state recently mandated the use of car seats for all children under the age of five.

It is a great law and one which took too may years to win passage. It is by no means a glamorous issue and unlike the recent stink over lax treatment of drunk drivers, this issue was never adequately depicted by the media.

Yet this is a good law in that it is meant simply to protect children, to give them a chance to grow up without having to face an unavoidable and often tragic accident.

Now, if only parents would buckle up the way they have to buckle up their kids in the family wagon.

A cable overview

Participation in cable yet to be seen

By Judy Jaffe

City planners predict Newton's local programming concept for cable TV will set a precedent for other communities. Continental Cablevision, in its contract with the city, agreed to provide, in addition to the company's regular programming budget, a monetary package that will total $1 million by 1995. These funds, to be handled by a private corporation, will be used to sponsor programming by and for Newton residents. Mayor Theodore Mann expects these local programming dollars will benefit the community educationally and culturally.

According to Barry Canner, head of the city's Planning Department, Newton Cable Television Programming Endowment, Inc. will have received $300,000 from Continental Cablevision by March 12, 1982, and $54,000 annually for the next 13 years (the length of the cable contract). The endowment corporation presently consists of three Mann appointees: Jay Fialkow, Anthony Logalbo and Barbara Karas. The corportion bylaws call for 21 members and by the first week of April, Mayor Mann will make four more appointments. The remaining 14 members will be appoiinted by the educational, business and instituutional, civic and political organizations of the city, with each organization appointing one member. All members must be residents of Newton.

The endowment corporation is completely independent and has the power to grant funding for the production, promotion, or acquisition of programming for the Newton Cable Television System. The corporation can also solicit and receive funds and property for the above purposes. Since the endowment is a private corporation, it does not have to abide by the state's open Meeting Law. However, representatives of Continental Cablevision, as specified in the contract with Newton, can attend all endowment meetings at which expendituress are decided. Furthermore, the endowment trustees will hold office for three, four or five-year terms, and as a result will not be tied to any one administration.

These provisions reinforce the autonomy of the endowment corporation to act in the best interests of Newton citizens. According to Barbara Karas, the endowment members have spent the last year learning about community cable.

"We've studied programs from all over the country and we are very excited about providing local programming that will be of real value to Newton subscribers," Mrs. Karas said.

'Our experience is that initial demand is usually great, then dies as the workload requirements for production are explained.'

Michael Musen

Grant proposals for use of the endowment are now being accepted by the foundation. Deadline dates for proposals have been announced as February 1 and June 1, 1982. The endowment is exected to make its first decision on grant funding soon, even before the full board officially meets. Although city organizatins and schools have received announcements and information about the monies available, anyone can apply for a grant. The endowment has already received about 30 proposals which indicates a strong community interest.

In addition to the grants, Continental also provides an annual budget to support local programming. The first year's budget alloted $75,000. When pressed by the Cable Advisory Committee to make this budget public information, Continental revealed a spending plan of $38,000 for staff salaries. A large portion of the remainder was for overhead items such as telephone ($1200), office rental ($8000), power and water ($1200) and cleaning and hauling ($480). The Advisory Committee asked if these overhead expenditures were justified for local programming and raised the question of whether these were adequate funds to cover Newton's programming needs.

In response, Michael Musen, systems manager of Continental, at a recent advisory meeting, said "We will make necessary provisions regardless of the contract."

This declaration of good intention is under close scrutiny by Roger Lewenberg, Newton's legal advisor for cable. "We're taking a lot on good faith. The sophisticated population of Newton supports a good outlook for local programming. If the demand is great, major adjustments will have to be made," said Lewenberg.

Continental has since earmarked another $10,000 for local programming expenses as a demonstration of good faith. Musen feels the increase may be necessary since the public response for registration in production training has already created a backlog in scheduling. Continental originally agreed to sponsor a 14-week training session for interested residents in order to provide public access to the color studio, van, and production equipment. To accomodate this overwhelming community interest, Continental will run two training programs this year, with each consisting of eight workshop sessions covering the operation of cameras, portable equipment, and editing machines. However, Musen said this present level of interest is not an accurate yardstick by which to budget dollars.

"Our experience is that initial demand is usually great, then dies as the workload requirements for production are explained. The additional $10,000 now in the local programming budget may be dropped next year...(local programming) is really not part of our business and we don't make any money in it," said Musen.

Local programming for cable TV, as envisioned by Newton's planners, will be funded by Continental Cablevision and the endowment corporation. Whether the dollars generated by these sources will be enough to cover Newton's programming needs remains to be seen. Perhaps if the city had undertaken a public education program or a community needs study before making its decision, the outcome might be more predictable.

Newton Symphony in review

Guest conductor brought fine style

By Abram Chipman

Aaron Cohen's recent "Encyclopedia of Women Composer" includes Victoria Bond among its youngest and most prolific subjects. I would like an opportunity to hear some of her creative input. Certainly the recreative talent displayed Sunday night at the Brown Junior High auditorium may be the answer to the Newton Symphony Orchestra's quest for a new music director.

For starters, Ms. Bond conducted the orchestra in Wagner's Overture to "The Flying Dutchman", a reading commanding in its brisk momentum, taut rhythm and the fiery enthusiasm of the players (especially horns and trombones, though the timpanist, sad to report, either missed or whispered an important attack). While this Overture is often done more weightily and rhetorically, one shouldn't forget that the piece isn't a free standing symphonic edifice but merely the entryway to an ensuing two and one half hours of grand and wrenching music theatre.

Sunday's performance wisely acknowledged that ultimate context.

Next came the evening's main course, Brahms' "Double" concerto in A Minor, Op. 102. Soloists were violinist Ronald Knudsen, Newton Symphony concertmaster and associate conductor, and cellist Jerome Patterson, who, like Knudsen, is a Boston Symphony member.

I wondered if some in the audience found the work overly opaque in its sound and windily effusive in its emotional gestures. Certainly those so reflecting would be remiss to place the major blame on present performance. The Brahms "Double" is one of those notoriously difficult pieces that, in truth, rarely come off, even at the hands of world-class virtuosi and ensembles. It is on e of music's many ironies that the far superior "Triple" Concerto of Beethoven has become almost a cliche scapegoat of many commentators, while the prevailing opinion holds sacrosanct all late Brahms. In any case, the Newton performance had its share of ups and downs. In the former category, I appreciate Bond's bouncy tempo for the finale (it is a Vivace, after all, despite the lamenting bitterness of its tunes). In the latter category, I count Knudsen's unsettled intonations early on, though matters improved well into the first movement. Patterson's cellor was rich and vibrant in tone.

Following intermission, yet a third soloist appeared. Les Roettjes (winner of the first James Pappoutsakis Memorial Flute Competition) played the D minor Concerto of the "Hamburg" Bach, Carl Philip Emanuel (second son of J.S.). The Concerto, cleanly played by Roettjes, is particularly notable for a seraphically lovely Andante and a tempestuously exciting finale. Ms. Bond wisely scaled down the orchestra to its front stands, in keeping with 18th century proportions, and in fact reduced further the compliment of strings in the slow movement to one player per part, a stylish and scholarly decision.

The rousing conclusion of the concert recalled to stage the full orchestra, including concertmaster Knudsen, functioning in that capacity for the first time that evening, in Three Dances from the second half of Manuel deFalla's ballet, "The Three-Cornered Hat."

Ms. Bond's confident, flexible control of the music and players were clearly enjoyed by all.

It rounded out a program that was both interpretively insightful and well-contrasted stylistically.

(Abram Chipman of Brookline has written about music for nearly two decades, most extensively in "High Fidelity/Musical America" and the "New Haven Register")

Graphically speaking

What? A new Mann in City Hall?

Congratulations, Sarge

Sargeant Patricia Whalen is the first police sargeant in the history of the Newton Police Department to give birth.

Sgt. Whalen gave birth a 7-pound 12 ounce baby girl at 5:08 a.m. on Feb. 20. at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston. The new papa is also with the Newton force. He's Detective William Whalen. Sargeant Whalen has been with the Newton Police force for 10 years.

Good day for a hanging?

If it was the Old West, the crowd would have been ripe for a lynching. Approximately 350 angry Newton Upper Falls residents protested the residential revaluation figures at a meeting last week.

Aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee Chairman Paul Coletti, meanwhile, was quick to stress that city officials and assessors "sympathize" and are not responsible for the figures. Representatives from Finnegan Associates, the Acton firm that conducted the revaluation, were conspicuously absent.

City Assessor Robert Palmer, who headed the revaluation effort, was not jumping up to defend the figures either. In fact, Palmer rarely spoke during the three hour forum as Coletti took control of the meeting...

And what a record it was

Just in case anybody asks, a world record was set in Newton last week.

Julie Adelson and Jennifer Crone, both 8, threw a ball back and forth 1133 times. Julie, of West Newton, and Jennifer, of Waban, said the record-setting experience took them two hours to complete.

Asked why they stopped at 1133 tosses, Julie replied, "We were going to do it more but Jennifer had to go home."

Any challengers out there?

Speaking of spouses

While we're on the subject of spouses, an interesting note came out of last week's School Committee discussion on the upcoming hiring of a new school superintendent.

Committeeman James Mnookin raised the question of whether or not committee members' spouses should go along when the committee interviews semi-finalists over dinner in the near future.

The issue was batted around for a few minutes, with Committeewoman Katherine Jones insisting the dinner should not include spouses because it "should be professional, not social."

Yet Ann Berwick noted that a super should be able to function in a social setting as well as a school setting.

In the end the committee voted 4-2-1 against letting the spouses come to dinner. Leonard Gentile abstained on the vote, noting his general confusion and feeling the choice should be up to individual committee members and candidates for the super's job.

By the way, had spouses been allowed to tag along the committee had already agreed that they would pay their own way.

And kudos, alderman

Congratulations are in order to Alderman Verne Vance and his wife Anita for the birth of their daughter Virginia Caroline. Anita gave birth to a six pound, 12 ounce girl on March 6 at 3:35 a.m. at Brighams and Womens Hospital.

It is the third child for the Vances who have been married for 12 years.

Verne celebrated a week ago Monday night with his colleagues by giving out cigars to all those in attendance. Vance, after a constitutional question on an ordinance prohibiting the distribution of tobacco giveways last week, voted in favor of the item. Aren't we stretching the ordinance just a bit folks?

Mistah Speaka, Mistah Speaka!

Coletti's forward manner and Palmer's silence drew some fire from Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle and Richard McGrath.

"You should be letting Mr. Palmer answer most of these questions," Bullwinkle told Coletti. "I think they (local residents) ought to hear from him. He is the one we are paying the big bread to watch Finnegan."

Immediately following, Bullwinkle was chastised by the two coordinators of the event, spurring screaming from residents. "What is the matter with you," said one resident. "You ought to be glad to get as many people here as you can."

Another women stormed from the gymnasium criticizing Coletti.

Thought you would never ask

Finally, in the "bet you didn't know he'd been replaced" column this week, The Boston Globe seems to have missed the lead in a story on Sunday.

The Globe published a lengthy story about the antismoking lobby, including the good folks from GASP (Group Against Smoking Pollution) who pushed through the local ban on handing out freebie cigarette samples.

Way down there in the story was the line, "Two weeks ago the aldermen passed that ordinance (banning the freebies) and early last week it was signed into law by Mayor Thomas Mann."

Run that by us again?

Was the ordinance indeed signed into law? Does it bear the signature of one "Mayor Thomas Mann"?

And if so, we wonder what our own Mayor Theodore Mann thinks about all this.

Shucks, you know how newspapers are sometimes. They never have enough time for details.

Letters to the editor

'Unfair bias' in assessments

To the editor:

The local newspapers all proclaim that the houses hardest hit by the re-valuation are the biggies and the oldies. One reason for this is that the supposedly "completely fair" computer program assigning value to the biggies simply assumes that bigger is better.

As a matter of fact, when a house gets bigger than about eight rooms (say four bedrooms), it becomes a White Elephant, a monster with a huge heat bill. The only practical thing to do with the excess rooms on the third floor is to close them off and try to use them as another layer of insulation. The computer program should have a roll-off on these biggies if they exceed eight rooms or two floors (or comparable floor area).

Most of these old Victorians also have several fireplaces. The Finnegan computer program seems to consider fireplaces as highly desired "amenities," ranking up with bathrooms. One fireplace may indeed be an amenity, a cheerfu sight on a winter night. Two fireplaces make perhaps an amentity and a half; but any number more than that is simply a heat loss, money up the chimney, and the computer program should again have a roll-off.

It seems to me that the Finnegan computer program contains an unfair bias against the big old houses of Newton. Now that heating oil costs as much as gasoline no person in his right mind is going to buy an ancient biggie it he could find a more cost-efficient smaller modern house.

A cat is killed; reader cites laws

To the editor;

Yesterday our 10-year-old cat was mauled and savagely killed by two marauding dogs in our own yard. The dogs got away before we could stop the slaughter. They had tags on so they weren't strays.

We are writing so that we can appeal to the owners not to let the dogs run loose. Newton does have a leash law and you are breaking the law by letting your pet(s) run wild.

We have a puppy and it's not that difficult to keep him on a leash and the pup has all the freedom he needs. If you are so lazy that you can't take care of a pet you shouldn't own one.

We would like to send you the vet bill for the disposal of our cat but people like you wouldn't bother to pay it anyway.

Reader can't fathom action by the board

To the editor:

I don't believe it!

I don't believe that the Board of Alderman had nothing better to do than to pass an ordinance prohibiting public distribution of promotional tobacco products.

Nothing is more distasteful that nonsmokers (especially ex-smokers) trying to tell everybody else that they are not allowed to smoke. I am, just for the record, and exsmoker. Also for the record I am a Newton taxpayer.

There is so much necessary legislation tiat the aldermen should be working on, instead of foolish legislation such as this.

Guess it is time for the taxpayers to make a few changes.

Old homes are not like 'old coins' for assessment time

To the editor;

There is so much talk about old homes having been under-assessed over the years. In no way do they resemble old coins that have been stashed away to come out at some later year for fabulous appreciation. Rather, they should be compared with an old Lincoln penny that shows up after years of circulation with its date worn off. The buyer of such a heritage, bargains for a reduction in price and then is faced with a tremendous reconstruction expense.

Such is a realistic view of the present reassessment conditions that political power has ignored.

'Zero accomplishment'

To the editor;

The all mighty wisdom of the Board of Aldermen of Newton prevailed again. These illustrious pillars of virtue passed an ordinance to ban the free distribution of tobacco products.

What a waste of time at City Hall - zero accomplishment.

Don't these great minds have any constructive matters to attend to? What a great waste of space.

Frank hits Jordan arms sale as 'grave error'

WASHINGTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., recently attacked the Administration's apparent intent to offer sophisticated weaponry to Jordan as a "grave error" that would harmfully alter the delicate balance of power in the Middle East.

"At a time when the nation of Israel is undergoing a great deal of internal torment in living up to its very generous commitment to move out of the Sinai, to have the Secretary of Defense and other high administration officials talk about a plan to sell destabilizing weapons to the Kingdom of Jordan as soon as our elections are conveniently out of the way ... is a very grave error," Frank said in a speech on the floor of the House.

Recent news reports have quoted Administration officials who have said the U.S. might sell mobile Hawk ground to air missiles and F-16 fighters to Jordan. The reportsd also said the Administration would not submit the proposed sale to Congress, which can vote to reject it, until after the November elections.

"The Administration has time again made the mistake of putting the Camp David peace process process in second place," the Fourth District lawmaker said, in a press release.

"As long as we reward Arab nations which continue to vituperate and denounce any serious efforts toward peace, we are going to undermine the one serious chance we have had to end the killing and bloodshed in the Middle East," he added

Frank said the proposal to complete the arms sale to Jordan after congressional elections was "cynical and erroneous" and he urged other members of Congress to pressure the Administration to drop its behind-the-scenes deal which would "make Jordan a real threat to Isreal."

Frank was an outspoken opponent of the Administration's successful effort last year to sell sophisticated AWACS spy planes to Saudi Arabia.

And the proposed sale of Hawk missles and F-16 fighters to Jordan is another "policy decision in which we give a great deal and get nothing in return–no oil, no security, and no commitment to peace and stability in the Middle East," Frank said.

Newton church plans free public health fair

NEWTON CENTRE — A free public health fair will be held on Friday, March 19 at the First Baptist Church in Newton, Beacon and Centre Streets, Newton Centre, form 10 to 4 in conjuction with Health Works '82.

Health Works '82 is a series of community-based fairs being held throughout Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire during the week of March 15-21. Sponsored by Shawmut Banks, WCVB-TV, WHDH Radio, the American Red Cross, and the National Health Screening Council Volunteer Organizations, Inc., the fairs are designed to promote preventie health care by provding convenient, accessible, and affordable medical testing.

The Health Fair at the First Baptist Church in Newton will offer free medical screenin and general health maintenence information too all persons eighteen years of age and older. No appointements are necessary. The basic screenings include height, weight, blood pressure, anemia, and vision.

Also available will be an optional $7 blood chemistry test that screens for diabetes, cholesterol, triglycerides, kidney and liver disease, thyroied problems, and other disorders. This series of tests could cost as much as $100 if done elsewhere. A six to eight-hour fast is recommended, but not required, for persons taking the blood chemistry test.

Individual review and referral will be provided for all tests. Participants should bring the name and address of their personal doctor, if they have one, with them.

The Health Fair will also feature exhibits, demonstrations, and information on various helath issues. Included among these are a take-home colon and rectal exam kit from the Visiting Nurses Association; CPR demonstrations by the Red Cross; information on child passenger safety from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health; exhibits literature from the American Cancer Society, the Arthritis Foundation, and the Hospice of the Good Shephard, Inc. The Newton Fire Department will present a film on fire safety at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The First Baptist Church in Newton offers barrier-free access by way of a ramp on the Beacon Street side of the building. All screenings will take place on the first floor. For more information, call the church at 244-2997 or the Health Works '82 Hotline at 424-1440.

Local temples host series of lectures

NEWTON - Exploration of Jewish heritage through classroom activities and special lectures will be sponsored by Temple Emeth, Temple Emanuel, Temple Reyim and Congregation Mishkan Tefila.

Basic Yiddish will be taught by Harriet Segal, elementary Hebrew classes will be taught by Ilona Haendel and participants in the conversational Hebrew class will be led by Mildred Levitt.

Besides the above language instruction the following courses will be given: "Yehudah Halevi - A Thinking Man and His Passion for Judaism" by Rabbi Shmuyel Klatzkin; "Jewish History, Jewish historians and interpretations of survival" by Richard Menkis; "Jerusalem in the eyes of three religions " by Alisa Maeir; and "An introduction to Jewish history in easy English" by Rabbi Michael Swirsky. All classes will take place from 7:45-8:45 p.m.

The lecture series from 9 to 10 p.m. will be as follows: March 23, "A tormented life: Rabbi Nahman of Bratslav" by Rabbi Samuel Chiel; March 30, "How the Passover Haggadah came to be and what it means today" by Rabbi Philip Kieval; April 20, "historical and religious aspects of Jewish genetic diseases" by Dr. Edwin H. Kolodny; April 27, "From the Pyramids to Mount Carmel" by Dr. Ada Aharoni; and May 4, "The Bar/Bat Mitszah book - a preview" by Rabbi Richard Yellin.

Subscription will be $12 for affiliated temple members, $3 for individual lectures and $15 for those not affiliated with one of the sponsoring temples.

Students are invited at no charge. Refreshments will be served following each lecture.

Multicultural program is taking applications

NEWTON-The Multicultural Preschool Program, designed for children whose first language is one other than English and who need experience in the area of socialization and language development is taking applications. Special consideration will be given to children who fall into one or more of these categories.

1. Have limited contact with children of their own age. 2. Have a special family situation. 3. Have been referred to us by school personnel or by social agency.

If interested or need more information, call Mrs. Ena Lorant, Teacher-Director of the Program at 552-7738 between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The screening and parent interview will be held on Tuesday, April 27. Please get in tough with us by April 26 so that we may properly schedule the child for screening.

Dick Flavin is group's guest

NEWTON-The Anna Fleisher Discussion Group of R.S.V.P. presents Dick Flavin, WBZ Channel 4 Political Satirist, on Wednesday, March 24 at 10 a.m. at the Davis School, Waltham Street, West Newton.

Please call Barbara Ireland at (Telephone number) 969-5907 for reservations. Coffee Social Hour at 9:00 a.m. Free to the public.

All ages are invited.

Dental screening offered for seniors in the Newton area

NEWTON-A Senior Citizen Dental Education and Screening Program funded by West Suburban Elder Services, Inc. is being offered by Tufts University School of Dental Medicine at the WSES nutrition sites in cooperation with local Councils on Aging.

The Dental Education and Screening Program is being offered not only to provide the service to area seniors, but also in an effort to provide Tufts dental students the opportunity to recognize and treat the special needs of the elder population. The program will include: 1. A comprehensive oral health screening for all interested seniors. 2. Counseling and advice on any conditions for which treatment would be beneficial. 3. Instruction in preventive dentistry, including effective home oral hygiene as well as advice on nutrition. Insruction will be given for those with full dentures, partial dentures and/or their own teeth. A follow-up eduction and screening program will be schedule every three months.

All Newton elders are invited to participate in this program at Zervas School Senior Drop-In Center on Beethoven Avenue at 12:45 p.m. on Tuesdays, March 30 and April 6. For further information call Nancy Watson at 969-0170.

Why not join us for lunch on those days? For lunch reservations call 527-6749. We'd love to have you.

'The Bags' are coming

OAK HILL — The Paper Bag Players, the first children's theatre group to be honored by the American Theater Association for "delight, imagination, freshness and artistry which has set a standard in professional children's theatre which will be very difficult to emulate" will be in Newton for two performances at 1 and 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 27 at Brown Junior High School (formerly Meadowbrook Jr. High).

Their new production "1 Won't Take a Bath" featuring Judy Martin, Artistic Director for over 22 years, consists of high spirited and fast paced skits, songs and dances relating to subject and viewpoints tht speak directly to children, and yet, are so entertaining, an adult wouldn't be embarrassed to go without a child. Based in New York City, The Bags, as they are affectionately called, resolutely adhere to one principle - the material and circumstances of everyday life are rich enough to provide the framework for stimulating and entertaining tches for their productions.

The first children's theatre to perform at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City, the first children's theatre to receive a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and to perform at the Smithsonian Institute, the Paper Bag Players according to Clive Barnes of the New York Times "probably are the vest established and certainly the most internationally acclaimed children's theatre ensemble. They enchant without patronizing and are fantastic without being fancy ... the words are simple; the music composed and played by Donald Ashwander is a infectious as the common cold, but much nicer."

As the Paper Bag Players make theier props and costumes from bags, boxes and brown paper, the children, and adults attending the Newton performances are invited to get into the spirit early by brining their own home made bag masks, costumes and masks.

These two appearances in Newton are part of the Saturday Children's Theatre series, jointly sponsored by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department and the Newton Arts Center, with a grant from McDonalds of Newton. In addition, the Creative Arts Committees of Oak Hill Schoiol, Judith Anderson, Chairman, Countryside, Carole Hurwitz, Chairman and Memorial/Spaulding, Natalie Kurtz, Chairman are co-sponsoring this special event.

Tickets are $3 and are now available by sending a check made payable to the Newton Arts Center, along with a self addressed stamped envelope to ensure return of tickets, to the Newton Arts Center, 61 Washington Park, Newtonville, 02160. Be sure to specify preferrred performance.

And on Sunday, March 28 at 1 and 3 p.m. at the John Hancock Hall, 180 Berkeley St., Boston. Sponsored by the Child Study Association. Tickets in advance, $3, call 969-8885.

MOP TOPS - The nationally-known children's theatre group "The Paperbag Players" including (from left) Brenda Cummings, Tom Robbins and Judith Martin, will perform on Saturday, March 27 at Brown Jr. High School, under the sponsorship of Arts in the Parks, Newton Arts Center, McDonald's of Newton and the Creative Arts Committees of Oak Hill, Countryside and Memorial/Spaulding Schools. Tile exhibit at Library

NEWTON CORNER - Musical tiles of hand-molded terra cotta, hand painted in warm colors of golden yellow, sienna, aqua and cobalt blues by Sue Ladr and Eugenie Seybold, are on display through the end of the month in the glass cases at the Newton Free Library, main branch.

The exhibit, "Tiles and tilemaking: Ceramic images, ornaments and their sources," includes 24 musician tiles of great folkloric charm.

The tiles, which are based on traditional Catalan tiles from the 18th century, portray musicians playing instruments of the period.

Ladr and Seybold, partners in Policarpo Tileworks in Boston, developed the sent of ornamental tiles from printers' ornaments. The combine the ornaments to make varying designs in the same way printers might use typographical ornaments.

The animal tiles in the exhibit are based on work done by a sixteenth century engraver, Virgil Solis, little know today, but influential in his time.

Scenes from the Commedia Dell-arte are included in the exhibit, which also features an explanation of traditional tile making techniques.

Eugenie Seybold, who was born in Louisiana, graduated in applied art from Connecticut College. She has taught at the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford and at the Portland School of Art in Maine.

Sue Ladr was born in Virginia, gree up in Connecticut and graduated with honors in music from Connecticut College. Before establishing Policarpo Tileworks she worked at the Museum of Fine ARts in the Musical Instruments Collection. She is a founding member of the Boston Early Music Festival and Exhibition.

Library hours are 9 to 9 Monday through Thursday; 9 to 6 on Friday; 9 to 5 on Saturday; and 1 to 4 Sunday. Call 552-7145 for more information.

Elder Services working to survey local seniors to identify their needs

WEST NEWTON - West Suburban Elder Services is currently surveying senior citizens to help identify the greatest needs of people in Newton 60 years and older.

The March issue of the Council on Aging newsletter "Golden Times" contains a survey which asks seniors to note services which they view as most important, including such things as financial assistance, home delivered meals, educational opportunities, mental health services and housing options. A total of 22 services are listed on the "Golden Times" questionnaire, with room for other suggestions by Newton seniors.

Susan Goodman of WSES, Inc. said last week that "with many essential services threatened by budget cuts" senior citizens are urged to help the organization, which serves eight communities, identify essential services.

WSES serves as an advocate for the elderly and, according to WSES officials, is attempting to stay informed about the needs of the elderly and work toward development of serves "so that elders can remain independent in their own community."

Senior citizens are asked to either fill out the survey in "Golden Times" and return it to WSES, 1001 Watertown St., West Newton, 02165 or call Susan Goodman at 969—0170 and she will mail out a copy.

West Suburban Elder Services also plans to share the survey results with legislators and other agencies which service Newton area elderly residents.

'Evening in Vienna' is Sisterhood fund-raiser

NEWTON - "An Evening in Vienna" will mark the first presentation of its kind for the biggest fund-raising project of the year by the Sisterhood of Temple Israel of Boston on March 31. The evening's entertainment, open to the entire congregation as well as guests, will include singing, dancing an open bar and array of "shops" starting at 6 p.m.

The vanished world of American and Viennese Operetta will come alive when Sue Ellen Kuzma, soprano and tenor Charles Walker join pianist Harvey Burgett with songs from the American stage of Rudolph Friml and Victor Herbert. The trio will also venture into old Vienna with songs and dance to selections by Franz Lehar and Johann Strauss, ending with the familiar "Merry Widow."

Sue Ellen Kuzma is based in Boston andperforms with the Boston Chamber Quartet and the "Friends of Dr. Gurney," an early music ensemble.

In addition to maintianing a vocal studio she is director of Young Audiences, Inc., which tours public schools with classical music programs. Walker is from New York City and has appeared on the Broadway and off-Broadway stages. Burgett is currently teaching at Boston University.

Newton resident Irma Dana is general chairman of the event assisted by the following steering committee: Advisor, Betsy Abrams; reservations, Jan Stern; solicitors Phoebe Woolf, and Barbara Auerbach,; program, Paula Folkman; allocations and treasurer, Frances Brisk, Martha Finn; hostesses, Sarah Sehatz and Diane Rose; and decorations, Ida Somers.

Also on the committee are: Ushers, Eve Lewis; catering, Mollye Stiller; shops and bar, Ina Burstein, Barbara Auerback, Paula Ligums, Charlotte Daum and Guttentag Sisters; telephone Rae Koster; and Julia Sherman; transportation, Geraldine Merianthal; publicity, Jane Abramson, Lesley Ann Dropkin.

Sisterhood president is Joy Rachlin of Brookline.

Tickets, which are tax deductible and in four categories, are available by calling Mrs. Stern at 232-6686.

3 earn awards

BOSTON — Three Newton residents have received awards from The Artists Foundation, Inc. with funds from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Ruth Benson Levin was chosen for her duet, "The Situation;" Barth McCarthy of West Newton for his theatre piece, "The City That Does Not Sleep."

Choreographer Dawn Kramer of Newton received $3,000 to produce a concert of "Housewares" by the Dance Collective.

POIRIER HAS THE NEW JENN-AIR RANGE at SPECIAL PREVUE PRICES
You Get The Best For Less At Poirier's For We Sell - Service and Install

The first range that lets you grill indoors without a hood or vent.

Now you can grill steaks indoors anywhere you want to.
It doesn't matter whether you live in an apartment, a condo or the 47th floor of a high rise.
With the new Ventless Grill-Range from Jenn-Air, smoke and grease are pulled down inside the range and removed by our new Electronic Air Cleaning System.
We call it our Anywhere Jenn-Air. Because that's where it lets you grill. Anywhere.
Only Jenn-Air has this new Ventless Grill-Range.
It gives you all the versatility of our regular vented ranges — indoor grilling, selective use convection/radiant oven, convertible cooktop cartridges and all the rest.
Yet it needs no venting to the outside. Or even a hood. A simple electrical connection is all you need.
Come in for a demonstration of the new Anywhere Jenn-Air today.
Because you really have to see it to believe it.
Jenn-Air.

Art Association hosts lecture March 18: 'History of America'

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — A special treat is in store for Newton Art Association members and friends when they gather on Thursday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. at The Workshop, 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands for a lecture-painting demonstration on the "History of America" by Allan Rohan Crite who describes himself primarily as a storyteller whose art stems from his sense that history is the weaving together of the strands of stories about people.

Born in New Jersey, Crite moved to Boston when less than a year old, and has lived here ever since. He began drawing and painting at the age of 4, and now, at 71, still painting, is highly regarded in the worlds of art, history, religion, and education. Crite's paintings of everyday life in the South End and Roxbury in the 1920's and '30's are a vital record of a vanished era, and may be seen in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York, Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, the Chicago Art Institute and the Fine Arts Collection of the Smithsonian in Washington.

Subsequently, he turned to religious themes. He earned his living as an illustrator of technical equipement for the U.S. Navy by day, painting, and studying at Harvard University's Extension School at night. After 14 years, Crite was awarded a degree in history from Harvard in 1968, and Suffolk University awarded him a doctor of humanities degree in 1979.

There is a strong influence of social history in his thinking and painting, but he considers himself, first and foremost, a storyteller. The prevailing influence, dating back to his studies at the Boston Museum School, is the Christian painting of the Coptic and Byzantine schools. Since 1969, he has been developing a history of the Americas, a slide-tape series of the cultural foundations of this hemisphere, divided into three parts, one each on the indigenous Indians, Europeans, and Africans. Included are 120 original drawings and paintings.

Crite says, "We don't have a story of white people, and black people, and red people, and yellow people, and brown people. We just have the one story, the story of people, and we're all related. And we won't understand ourselves until we understand all parts of ourselves." Crite's painting has essentially been a documentary series on black life, first, then his drawings and paintings (plus textual material) have been documentary works on religious literature, and now he is still working on the story of man. This Crite considers storytelling — and, at age 71, he is still doing it.

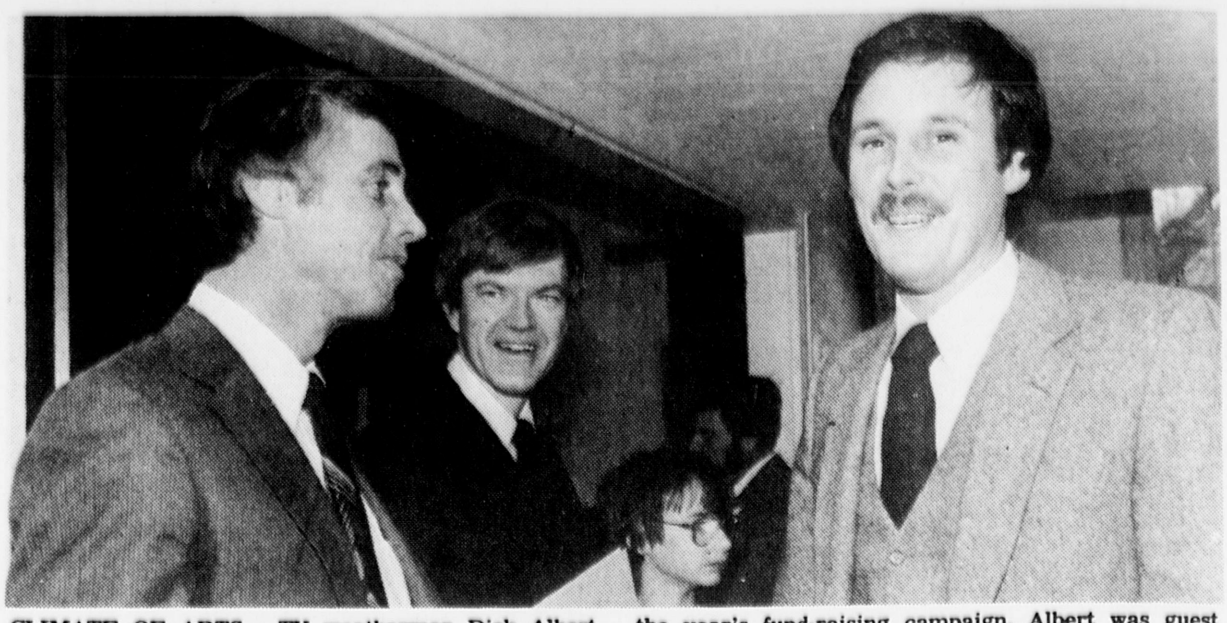

This meeting is open to the public. A fee of $2 will be assessed non-members. There is no charge for members. A social hour, with refreshments, will follow the meeting. Emilie Sheehan, of Newton, will be hostess for the evening.

There will be a special "Critique" night on March 25 at the home of Gene Faucher. Members who wish to attend (and have their paintings evaluated) should call 527-2156.

Newton seniors preparing portfolios for the art scholarships awarded annually by the Newton Art Association should call the Scholarship Chairperson, M. Campbell, at 332-3368.

President of the Newton Art Association is Frances Merton of Newton Highlands. Henry Schoenberg, treasurer, is one of 10 Commissioners on the Newton Cultural Affairs Commission, recently selected by Mayor Mann.

Future meeting dates to be noted are: Wednesday, March 31, for guest artist Roger Curtis who will lecture-demonstrate a marine oil painting which will be raffled upon completion; and April 15 - Robert Cormier; May 6 - Paul Goodnight.

CLIMATE OF ARTS - TV weatherman Dick Albert (right) chatted with Fran Fryer and Mark Dooling during Newton Arts Center kick-off breakfast last week for the year's fund-raising campaign. Albert was guest speaker on topic of "Climate of the Arts."

Highlands Congregational plans Bach special March 28

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - The Sunday morning service on March 28 at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church will feature the music of J.S. Bach, with a special preludial performance of Bach's solo cantata for bass-baritone "Ich habe Genug," Cantata No. 82. Bass Paul Barrientos will sing the solo part accompanied by a small chamber orchestra with Sandy Consiglio playing the obligato oboe. Both M'rs Barrientos and Consiglio are musicians on the church staff.

The chamber orchestra consists of the oboe and a string quartet from the New England Conservatory of Music with friends of the congregation Stephen Wright on bassoon and music director Carrol Hassman on the organ.

On the Sunday sometimes called "Passion Sunday" the Bach Cantata will prelude a service reminding Christians of their Lenten celebration. Hymns for the service will be drawn from the Bach chorale harmonizations and chorale music will include the chorale-sinfonia from Cantata 22, "Redeem Us by Thy Kindness," as well as the "Crucifixus" from the Mass in B Minor.

Co-pastor Rev. Bonnie Scott Allen will deliver the message and Mr. Hassman's postlude to the service will feature Bach's "Fantasy in G Minor."

The public is cordially invited to attend this special celebration and reception following the service.

"WHEN IT COMES TO ESTATE ADMINISTRATION SERVICES, YOU CAN DEPEND ON US."

George F. Pennington
Vice President

Choosing the right executor is one of the most critical steps in planning your estate. The wrong choice can result in delay in settlement and in increased expense.

That's where we can help.

Shawmut offers complete estate settlement service when we are named as executor or when we are asked to settle the estate as agent for the executor named in the will.

We have the experience in investments, in record keeping and tax return preparation to insure the selection of the most efficient and least costly ways of settling an estate.

Making your plans happen is our objective. If you want to learn more about how we can be helpful in matters involving estate settlement, call or write George F. Pennington, Vice President, at 292-2650.

Chamber officials charge business revaluation unfair

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The top officers of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce have charged that the decision to tax commercial, industrial and personal property (C.I.P.) at the greatest amount allowed by law was "political."

Both Jim Miller, Chamber president, and Louis Songer, Chamber executive vice-president, made the accusations Monday after Chief Assessor Robert Palmer briefed members of the business community on the effects of the revaluation at Valles Steak House in Chestnut Hill.

Under the classification amendment, passed in 1979 by state lawmakers, communities can opt to tax businesses up to 150 percent of their full and fair market value thus allowing a greater shift in the tax burden to be picked up the business classes. Utilization of classification will result in a 10 percent reduction in the residential tax burden.

Prior to revaluation, C.I.P., which has been over assessed, picked up 29.5 percent ($21.6 million) of the total tax levy of $73.5 million.

Under revaluation and without classification, the C.I.P. levy would decrease by 44 percent or $9.5 million (to $12.1 million). With full classification, the C.I.P. levy decreases 16.1 percent or $3.5 million (to $18.1 million).

The $3.5 million shift is in turn picked up by the residential class resulting in an average tax increase of $152 for the 22,000 homeowners in the city.

However, Songer believes the $3.5 million shift away from the C.I.P. levy is misleading and only benefits the larger, newer businesses in the city. According to Palmer, the utility companies in the city will pay $1 million less in taxes than they did a year ago.

Said Oscar Wasserman: "They make it sound great with this $3.5 million shift. What they don't say is that business has been paying in excess."

"I don't think you've heard the end of this until they receive their bills," said Songer of the city's business community. "I'm left with the feeling that the smaller, older businesses are going to feel this."

Palmer said the department will request that the State Department of Revenue come in next week for final certification of C.I.P. property assessments. He said he expects the C.I.P. tax impact notices to be mailed the week of March 29. The date has been repeatedly set back.

Said Songer: "It's a political decision which has obviously been talked over with other people at City Hall." During the informational briefing , Palmer said the initial decision to impose classification rested with the assessing department.

Palmer said the decision to implement classification to the maximum amount allowed by law "was based solely upon the fact that there would be a substantial reduction in taxes bourne by the commercial and industrial classes even with classification."

Classification must be approved by the 24-member Board of Aldermen and Mayor Theodore Mann before it can be implemented.

Songer said the Chamber of Commerce would draft a policy statement on the implementation of classification after the preliminary values are released.

"What may be true of the class overall (a $3.5 million shift), may not be true within the class," warned Songer. "I would be very surprised if your response from small businesses isn't the same as the response from older residents."

"I think you're going to see many more losers than winners in the business community," Songer added ""Only five percent of the land in Newton is commercial and industrial property. Somewhere along the line a political decision is being made."

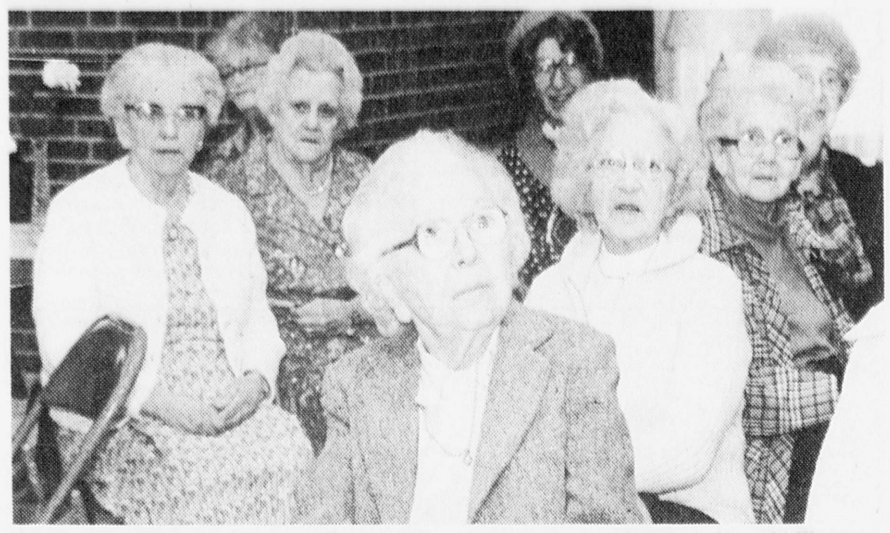

The impact notices that have been sent to homeowners reflect the full implementation of classification. The estimated tax rate for C.I.P. is $36.77 per $1,000 of assessed property value compared to $22.10 for residential property value.

Assessors have claimed that residential tax bills would have climbed $415 on the average without classification compared to the $152 figure.

According to Songer, of the 98 cities and towns in Massachusetts that have received preliminary certification from the Department of Revenue, 14 communities have implemented certification and just six have done it to the maximum amount allowed by law.

City eyes state help on services

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In an effort to alleviate the economic burden of carrying tax-exempt properties, city officials are seeking legislation which would require state reimbursement to communities for money lost due to property tax exemptions for educational facilties and hospitals.

The proposed legislation would require state grant payments in-lieu of taxes to reimburse cities and towns for the state mandated costs of servicing these institutions.

According to a 1980 report from the city assessor's office, about 30 percent of Newton's property is tax-exempt. Not until revaluation is completed will city officials be able to calculate additional monies that would be generated under said legislation.

Mayor Theodore Mann, who filed the House bill with President Kenneth Ryder of Northeastern University, noted "local taxpayers must absorb the total cost of servicing these institutions" although the benefits of the educational and health facilities are regional and state-wide.

Mann pointed out that despite the constraints on future growth in tax levies, city services to these institutions under state law cannot be eliminated. As a result of the 2½-percent tax cap, "the instititutions place a growing burden upon the ability of cities and towns to deliver quality municipal services," said Mann.

Baptist Church plans programs during Lent

NEWTON-The First Baptist Church in Newton is sponsoring a series of three Wednesday evening programs with special speakers during Lent.

The programs will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be preceded by a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m.

On March 17, Dr. William L. Holladay, the Lowry Professor of Old Testament at Andover Newton Theological School, in Newton Centre, will speak on "The Suffering Servant in Isaiah." Dr. Holladay has written and published widely on Old Testament themes.

He has earned his Doctorate in Theology at the University Of Leiden, the Netherlands, in 1958 and has taught Old Testament at Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill. and at the Near East School of Theology, Beirut, Lebanon.

On March 24, Dr. Thomas T. Howard, English Department Chairman at Gordon College, Wenham, will speak on "Christ Figures in Literature." Dr. Howard is the author of several books and numerous articles. He has been a frequent guest lecturer at colleges and universities and has directed seminars on the modern writer C.S. Lewis, on whom he has also written a book.

On March 31, the Executive Director of the episcopal City Mission of the Diocese of Massachusetts, The Rev. Joseph A. Pelham, will speak on "The Church and Urban Ministry." Rev. Pelham wa a professor of Field Education and Dean of Students at Colgate Rochester Divinity School-Bexley Hall-Crozer Theological Seminary, Rochester, NY, prior to coming to Boston. He was a Proctor Fellow at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass. in 1967.

The public is welcome to attend the programs and dinners. The church is located in Newton Centre, at the corner of Beacon and Centre Streets. Admission is free.

The series will conclude with a Maundy Thursday service on April 8 at 8 p.m., also to be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Course planned on political campaign

School board to interview 8 for superintendent job

The School Committee recently approved a salary range of $48,000 to $58,000 for the position, which currently pays Superintendent Aaron Fink $53,900, the highest city employee salary in Newton.

Under the Open Meeting Law, the School Committee must hold public interviews of the semi-finalists and later the finalists before ultimately selecting in an open session vote Fink's replacement.

The eight semifinalists are: 1) Dr. Geoffrey Pierson, acting superintendent of Lexington Public Schools, Lexington, who lives on Gibbs Street, Newton Centre. Was assistant superintendent for instruction in Lexington since 1976. Pierson was district coordinator of program for Newton schools from 1972-76.

2) Dr. William R. Holland, superintendent of schools, Narragansett, R.I., since 1978. Holland was superintendent of schools in Lunenburg, Mass., assistant superintendent for Dartmouth, Mass. and was a history and English teacher at Meadowbrook Jr. High in Newton from 1963-67.

3) Dr. Troy Earhart, superintendent of schools, Foxboro, since 1973. Prior to that he was director of program planning and budgeting for Dade County Schools in Miami, Fla.

4) Dr. Percy Clark, Jr., assistant superintendent of schools, Shaker Heights, Ohio, since 1978. Prior to that he was director of student services in the Kalamazoo, Mich. public schools.

5) Dr. Oliver W. Lancaster, superintendent of schools, Hempstead, N.Y., since 1976. Before that he was principal of Dratz High School in Philadelphia, Pa. from 1972-76.

6) Dr. Frederick J. Stokley, superintendent, Calcasieu Public Schools, Lake Charles, La., since October, 1980. Stokley was superintendent of schools in Waltham from 1971-78, and was deputy commissioner of education in Massachusetts from 1978-80.

7) Dr. John M. Strand, superintendent, Pelham Public Schools, Pelham, N.Y., since 1977. Prior to that he was assistant superintendent for one year in Pelham.

Applications came in from 110 people, representing 26 states and France for the top job in the Newton public school system.

8) Dr. Alice C. Blair, deputy superintendent of Instruction and Pupil Services, Chicago, Ill., since 1981. Prior to that she was district superintendent for District 13 in Chicago from 1976 to April, 1981. Blair is also listed in Who's Who in Black America for 1980.

According to the chairman of the Search Committee, Oscar Wasserman, who presented the names to the School Committee, there were 110 applicants for the position representing 26 states and the country of France.

Wasserman said the pool of applicants was narrowed to 20 candidates to be interviewed by the Search Committee. Of the 20, he said four were women and six were minorities.

Meeting during the last four months 18 times, Wasserman said the committee spent an average of 4½ hours each meeting deliberating the process, criteria and then holding interviews.

All interviews by the School Committee of the semi-finalists will be held in the auditorium at F.A. Day Junior High, 21 Minot Place. Following the 2-2½ hours Committee interviews, the public will have a 30-minute opportunity to ask questions of each semi-finalist.

The first interview will be with Alice Blair and will be held Sat., March 20, at 2 p.m. On Sunday, March 21, Geoffrey Pierson will be interviewed at 2 p.m. and Oliver Lancaster at 8 p.m.

Interviews will be held Tuesday, March 23, at 8 p.m. with William Holland and Wednesday, March 24, at 8 p.m. with Frederick Stokeley.

Troy Earhart will be interviewed Thursday, March 25, at 8 p.m. and on Saturday, March 27, at 2 p.m. Percy Clark will be interviewed.

The final semi-finalist interview will be with John Strand on Sunday, March 28, at 2 p.m.

Because parking is limited at Day Junior High and towing is enforced, the School Committee urges the public to park at the nearby Education Center parking lot, 100 Walnut St.

The following individuals comprised the Search Committee: Chairman, Oscar Wasserman, Katherine Jones, Honora Kaplan, Sandra Fleishman, Norman Colb, Carmella Nadeau, Elizabeth Quinn, Eleanor Samuels, Bonnie Armer, Warren Priest, Lillian Radlo, Frank Ollivierre, Kenneth Hartford, Theresa O'Halloran, Lillian Ambrosino, Lance Liebman, Joanne Gannon, Gary Rosen and Joshua Davis.

The resolution also follows a tough new media policy implemented by Chief Assessor Robert Palmer. Under the policy, assessors will only answer written questions from reporters.

The policy states: "Under no circumstances will spontaneous verbal interviews be granted to any of the media." Palmer maintains that the new policy is to "aid our mutual goal to inform the public."

However, the chief assessor has still not drafted responses to the first series of questions submitted to him by The Newton Graphic and The News Tribune on March 9.

Alderman Richard McGrath, who proposed the resolution, criticized both the new policy by the Board of Assessors and city official's refusal to release the Chaulk financial reports.

McGrath called the new assessor's media policy a "deliberate attempt to keep valuable information from the public." He also noted that unless critical questions are answered immediately the information is "useless."

"There is no excuse for it," asserted McGrath. "People want this information."

Alderman Robert Tennant argued that the resolution was unnecessary. Tennant said information and public documents would be released if asked for in a "proper and non-antagonistic" manner.

"I am not trying to defend anybody or castigate anybody," said Alderman Richard Bullwinkle, speaking in favor of the resolution. "I do know these things have occurred."

Alderman Bruce Carmichael agreed. "This is not just one isolated incident in terms of communication with the the board of aldermen, press and city," he said. "This resolution will probably do nothing to sway the administration, but at least it is a statement that we are sick and tired of the crap we get when we ask questions."

Aldermen voting against the resolution were: Tennant and Bauckman.

Aldermen voting for: Barker, Baker, Bullwinkle, Carmichael, Coletti, Creem, DePasquale, Malec, McGrath, Marcy Richmond, Shea, Sheehan, Sofman, Taglienti, and Jefferson.

Absent for the vote were: Daley, Levinsky, Morris, Gentile, Ed Richmond, Shick and Vance.

Newton's Bob Billings

Billings no longer a secret

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

His is the classic story of the unknown walk-on. When Newton's Bob Billings chose to attend Mass. Bay Community College last fall, there were hardly any headlines hailing the arrival of a saviour to their basketball program. No television cameras awaited his decision — as did that of fellow 1980-81 Suburban League All-Star Patrick Ewing at Georgetown. Instead, Billings, one of the finest athletes in many years to graduate from Newton North, was lucky to even be introduced to the coach.

"Bob just walked on the campus and tried out. I never talked to him until the first day of practice," Mass. Bay coach Tom St.Cyr sheepishly admitted.

But people who had seen Billings in action told St.Cyr and Athletic Director John Cieri that he could become one of the best players in Mass. Bay history. "I myself had never seen him play," says St.Cyr, "so naturally I was a bit skeptical about such statements. But now I believe that is true." So does Cieri, who has been AD for 15 years.

Billings' persistence was a blessing to St.Cyr. Without the talented freshman, there's no telling what his first year as coach would have been like. With him, however, Mass. Bay was able to finish a respectable 12-7 and Billings, who averaged 26.2 points per game, was voted to the first team Regional 21 All-Star squad and just recently was nominated for National Junior College All-American honors.

Billings' performance should not really come as a surprise to the folks who watched him play at Newton. Last year he averaged more than 20 points each time out while leading the Tigers to a 13-7 mark. How important was he to coach Jerry Phillips? Well, upon his departure, they promptly dropped to 1-17.

In his first year at Mass. Bay, Billings scored 36 points against Cape Cod Community College, 35 against Middlesex Community College and went over the 30-mark four other times. He also scored more than 20 points on 10 seperate occasions.

At 6-3, 190 pounds, Billings plays somewhere between a guard and a forward. St.Cyr says his future is certainly at guard, but this season he posted him up low on offense and played him as an outright forward on defense to take advantage of his rebounding strength. "Bob's a good leaper and he helped us out quite a bit on the boards," says Tom. "He always worked hard on offense to get open and that's why we were able to get the ball to him so much." In fact, Billings was the club's leading rebounder in the last 10 games.

Most of his points come from a soft outside jumper which Billings caresses into the net. Billings is a pure shooter, but he also possesses the type of versatility which every coach loves. St.Cyr likens him to former Boston Celtic John Havlicek. "Bob may not impress you with any one aspect of his game," says St.Cyr, "but he'll get the job done. The other players respected him so much because they knew he could do it when the game was on the line. By the end of the season, teams were double-teaming him and putting special emphasis on him...and he still managed to score."

The biggest problem facing St.Cyr now is keeping Billings. Billings has already received some overtures from local Division II schools, and while St.Cyr says that it's his gut feeling that Billings will stay, he's recruiting on the assumption that he won't. "I've got to do that," said Tom. "We certainly hope Bob comes back, but we have to be prepared if he doesn't. Let's just say that we're looking forward to him returning."

Such is the drawback of a Junior College program. As St.Cyr says, "I have to talk to 100 kids to get maybe seven. We're not like Boston College or Northeastern. They talk to 10 kids and get six just because of the appeal of Division I basketball. We don't have that so I have to work much harder on recruiting."

Then, when a top athlete like Billings does attend Mass. Bay, you have to worry about how long he'll be around. "I've been here three years as a coach with the women's team, so I've had a chance to see what goes on with the women and the men," says St.Cyr. "Generally, I've found that you don't lose too many players that way."

St.Cyr is hoping that holds true with Billings. He would like to have the finest guard in Mass. Bay history around for more than one year. And this time, no introductions will be necessary.

Wands wins Booster Award

By Frank Murphy
Sports Editor

Greg Wands, the sixth man on the Newton South basketball team which battled its way into the Division II South Sectional Tournament semi-finals, was awarded the Booster Club 110 Percent Award as a highlight of the Lions' Winter Sports Awards Night held Tuesday at the school auditorium.

Trophy awards were presented in each sport, both boys and girls, and letter awards were given. The Newton South Boosters Club helped sponsor the program.

Wands, a 6-2 cornerman, was a strong rebounder and was the muscle guy on the boards. Coach Joe Killilea noted that "Greg gave an extra effort even when he wasn't feeling up to par physically."

Newton South finished second behind Wayland in the Dual County League with a 10-2 record and was 16-3 overall. They bowed out to South Boston in the tourney semis.

Steve Mosca, high scorer for the South skaters for the past three years, was singled out by Coach Charlie Rezzuti for the contributions he made during the past campaign. The durable forward collected 30 points and brought his career total to 86 points.

Hockey captain two years in a row and co-captain of the football team, Steve was a third baseman on the Lions' tournament baseball team last spring.

Coach Rezzuti had high praise for his outstanding player and volunteered, "Steve gave out 110 percent all the time. He was great example for the rest of the kids on the team."

Michael Berwind, the Booster Award winner on the swimming team, made a unique contribution to the team via his recruiting. The senior captain was instrumental in getting six freshmen to join the program, which was greatly in need of a developing program.

Steve Steinberg posted a remarkable 14-1 record in the 114-pound weight class and was a unanimous choice for the Booster Club Award from Coach Charlie Hurwitz. "Steve is a fantastic kid," offered Hurwitz. "He worked hard three years to have a superior decision. He put in a lot of time into wrestling. He attended a summer wrestling camp, took part in off-season tournaments and went looking for any kind of competition."

Steinberg won seven of his matches by pins and had three superior decisions as well as a major decision.

Berwind was an outstanding distance swimmer and competed in both the 200 and 500 yard freestyle events. He improved on his time in the 200 by eight seconds and shaved off 15 seconds in the 500 during the course of the season.

Headed for Tufts University, Michael was praised by Coach Jim Robertson: "He's a good swimmer and an outstanding person, a very good recruiter and a real team member."

Co-Capt. Jeffrey Stevens garnered individual laurels on the boys' gymnastic team as a consistent and top performer who had a strong positive influence on the other members of the team. He went unlimitted and competed in rings, vaulting, floor exercise and parallel bars.

Stevens was a member of the record-setting floor exercise and vaulting teams in a meet against arch-rival Newton North.

In skiing, Andrew Barnett stood head and shoulders above his teammates while reigning as the no. 1 cross country skier and the leading scorer in the entire Dual County League.

"Andrew was a good leader, inspired the team and worked hard to improve many of the other skiers' techniques," according to Coach Tony Abend.

Patricia Sullivan, point guard for the girls' basketball team, received the Booster Award from Coach Sue Bradbury. The senior co-captain averaged 13.5 points per game and tallied more than 200 markers during the campaign.

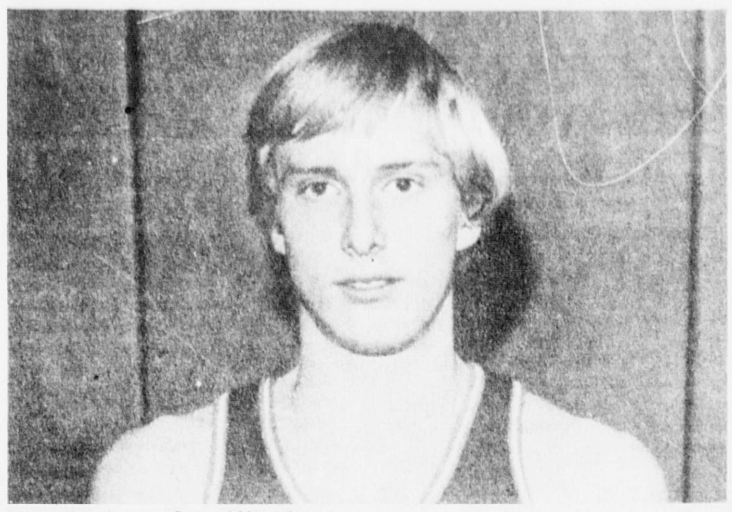

Coach Bradbury in commenting about her choice of the three-year varsity player said: "Patricia's presence as a co-captain and her other talents keyed our offense."

Senior co-captain Lisa Schneider was named the Booster Award winner on the girls' gymnastic team. She specialized in all-around and placed 12th in the Dual County League team ratings. She was ninth in floor exercise.

"Lisa is an extremely hard worker and approaches everything she does with great responsibility and determination," according to Coach Judy Blanchard.

Girls' track coach Karen Keith recalled an incident during the season indicative of Patrice Galvin's determination before presenting her with the 110 percent award. She recounted how Galvin was tripped by a spectator, picked herself up of the track and fought back to eventually to win the race.

Patrice was outstanding in the 1,000 and her best time was 2.53.

School stars in Boys' Club Tournament

A collection of the top high school basketball talent in the state will be on hand to compete in the 40th annual Waltham Boys' Club Tournament beginning Tuesday at the Boys' Club Gym.

The opening game of the tourney will be a B Division clash with Hudson-Marlboro facing Holy Name Junior at 6:30 p.m. The B Division consists of 14 teams, while the A Division has 20 teams. The first week of play will have three games each night with starting times of 6:30, 7:45 and 9 p.m.

The rosters of some of the A Division teams will read like all-star lineups. The Waltham entry in the A Division is the Hawks, which is made up almost entirely of players from the Waltham High School basketball team that went to the finals of the Division One North Sectionals.

Newton will have three entries in the A Division. The Newton Boys' Club, which is made up of players from Newton North High's 1980 team, will play Thursday, March 18, against the Cambridge Basketball Club at 7:45 p.m. Bob Billings, who played basketball and football for Newton North and more recently led the 1981 Mass. Bay Community College basketball team in scoring, will lead that team.

Dave Marcou and Dave Kaufman were starters on the team that almost pulled out a title for Waltham High. The duo will lead the Hawks into the tourney and will play their first game on Friday, March 19, against English at 9 p.m.

Yellow Cab Sports is made up primarily of players from the 1981 edition of the Newton North team will open the tournament Wednesday, March 17, 9 p.m. against the Holland Club. Guard John Humphrey, who consistently scored in double figures all season for the Tigers, will pace that squad.

The Newton Panthers open the tourney on Friday, March 19, at 7:45 p.m. against the Spartans. The Panthers are made up mostly of the Newton South High team, which lost only two games on the season and made it to the EMass State Tournament.

The Panthers will be led by the guard tandem of Meatchie Russell and Dave Hill. Up front the Panthers are led by Scott Anglin, Mike Antonellis and Steve Abrams. Mike Galvin and Dan Murphy will bolster the team.

St. Luke's of Watertown will play on Tuesday, March 16 at 9 p.m. against the Carlton House. St. Luke's is comprised of the top talent in Watertown. Mark McHugh of St. Patrick's of Watertown and Kevin Brown of Watertown High will lead that squad.

The Boston Titans will be powered by Butch Wade out of Boston Tech. The Buddies will also have a strong team with Andre Felton of Plymouth-Carver and a trio from New Bedford's semi-finalist EMass Tourney team. Center Rob Duarte and guards Todd DosReis and Carlos Martin.

In the B Division, Waltham's two entrants will square off on Thursday, March 18, 6:30 p.m. The Waltham Boys' Club led by Rod O'Bryne and Wayne Johnson will face College Stores piloted by Darren Marcou, who started for the Waltham High varsity team.

The Boston Titans are the defending B Division title holders and they return with a strong team. The Newton Community Center will play on Friday, March 19, 6:30 p.m. against Rockwell Siding.

The pairings:

Wednesday, March 17

B Division--South Boston Boys' Club vs. Cooper Comets, 6:30 p.m.; Arlington Flyers vs. Cambridge Bucks, 7:45 p.m. A Division--Yellow Cab vs. Holland Club, 9 p.m.

Thursday, March 18

B Division--Waltham Boys' Club vs. College Stores, 6:30 p.m. A Division--Newton Boys' Club vs. Cambridge Basketball Club, 7:45 p.m.; Arlington Flyers vs. Roxbury B.C., 9 p.m.

Friday, March 19

B Division--Rockwell Siding vs. Newton Community Center, 6:30 p.m. A Division--Newton Panthers vs. Spartans, 7:45 p.m.; Waltham Hawks vs. English, 9 p.m.

Newton South LLB has tryouts March 27-28

Newton South Little League Baseball will hold tryouts for the Major League teams on Saturday, March 27, and Sunday, March 28, at Richardson Field. Rain dates are April 3 and 4.

Any child born between Aug. 1, 1969 and July 31, 1972 is eligible. Children presently on Major League rosters need not attend the tryouts, but they must submit an application form.

All children must return a completed application form, signed by their parents, before being allowed to try out. Applications can be obatined from the Angier, Countryside, Hyde and Zervas schools as well as private and parochial schools.

Tryouts will begin at 10 a.m. for 10 year-olds; 12:30 p.m. for 11 year-olds and 2:30 p.m. for 12 year-olds. All applicants must attend at least one tryout session to be eligible for selection by a Major League team.

Newton Youth Hockey indebted to Mike LeConti

Mike LeConti says he is retiring from Newton Youth Hockey after this season. I hope he doesn't hang up his skates totally and forever, there is undoubtedly no one, any place, who has earned retirement more than Mike.

Since the foundation of Youth Hockey in Newton 15 years ago, Mike has been a pillar of strength in the program, both on and off the ice. He has participated in countless, dreary meetings in smoke-filled rooms of parents struggling to organize more than 500 boys and girls from Kindergarten through high school, into more than 30 teams.

Mike could be a pretty tough guy to deal with at these meetings, as he usually had strong views on how things should be done, and he was seldom shy about expressing his opinions. Yet, you always knew, no matter how heated or confused the discussion, that he consistently had only one goal in mind and that was to bring about the finest program possible for the players on the ice.

Unlike many parents who, unfortunately, get involved in youth sports mainly to satisfy some needs of their own egos, Mike's Bottom (and only) line has been the interests of the kids the organization was set up to serve. Knowing this has always made differing with him not only tolerable but usually very productive, for the end result is usually a better decision than could have been made in the beginning.

Mike has probably spent more time in cold rinks in the past decade than any man in Massachusetts, with the possible exception of Zamoboni, operator at the Boston Garden. Although, he didn't have the luxury of going to summer hockey schools to learn the game, as many youngsters do these days, he has taught hundreds of Newton boys and girls about the basic tactics and strategies of the sport. More important, he has conveyed to all those players fortunate to have had him as head coach or instructor a sense of fair play, good sportsmanship and dogged determination.

Mike was always at his happiest at the end of a particularly hard fought game, when everyone--players, coaches, parents and referees--did their absolute best and the score was either a tie or a one goal victory for the underdog. These were the kinds of games that seemed to make it all worthwhile for him and he could always be counted on to remember even the small details, for to him, and to the players, these games were as important as any Stanley Cup contest.

There are those in Newton who insist that the image of Mike LeConti is really a myth and that Mary LeConti has really been calling all the shots and doing the difficult work for Newton Youth Hockey all these years. Obviously, only she knows and the chances are she will never tell, but there is no debating the fact that Mary has played a significant role in the success youth hockey enjoys in Newton.

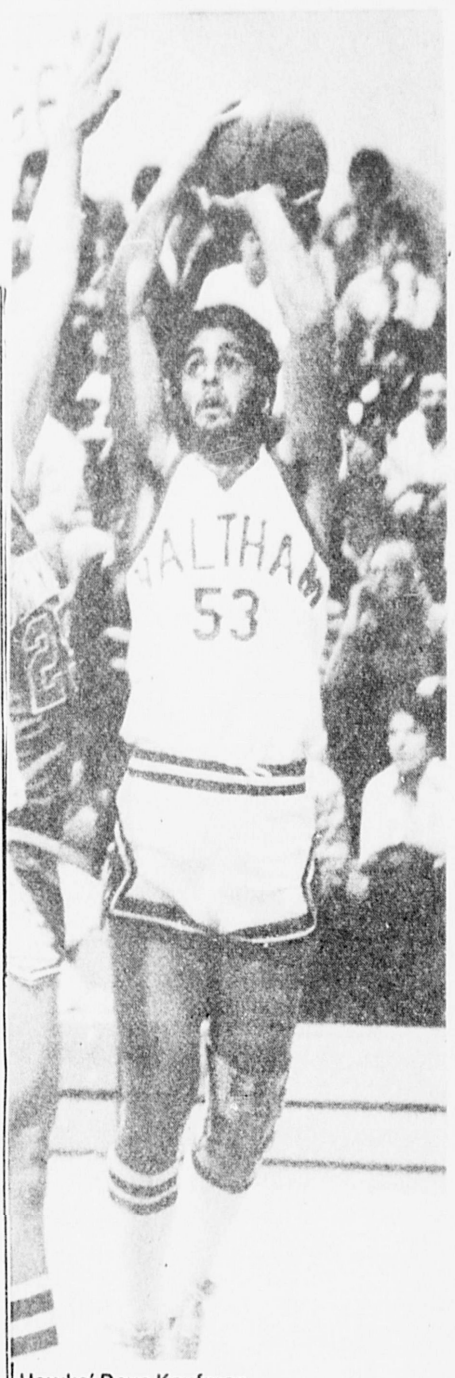

Mary LeCaonti has also endured countless long, cold hours at the rink and innumerable phone calls from often uncooperative parents and coaches trying to sort out some scheduling problems, difficulties over the issuance of jerseys or any one of the hundreds of things that go wrong in a program of this size.

Certainly, if someone had been keeping track of the successful sales of the Newton Youth Hockey program, Mary would have won the prize hands down, for she has convinced hundreds of anxious mothers over the years that their sons and daughters wouldn't get into a lot of fights playing hockey, wouldn't necessarily lose their newly braced front teeth, wouldn't have to get up at 4 a.m. each Sunday, and would be getting into a very rewarding and constructive activity.

I think Mike LeConti nas made an enormous contribution to the people of Newton in the past 15 years. He had (as I did) a brief fling at political office a few years ago, but I think he would agree that helping all of these young people in hockey has been, in many, many ways a more productive use of his valuable time than sitting, listening to pompous politicians argue interminably about things that really didn't make that much difference in the long run.

It is tempting to sum it all up by saying how much we will miss Mike at the rink next season. Obviously, everyone involved in Newton Youth Hockey wishes there were two or three more LeConti children coming along to prompt he and Mary to stay on for a few more years. Still, his presence will be felt strongly throughout the organization for a long time, for there are many returning next fall (and for many falls thereafter) who have learned a lot from Mike about the true meaning of youth sports and who will be trying to live up to the extremely high standards of excellance he has firmly established for us. We wish him well in his retirement and thank him for all he has done to make Hockey in Newton such a fine, enjoyable pastime.

Taking a look back on Lions' Dream Season

From the very first game, when they rose up without the services of All-Star center Mike Antonellis and still stunned defending Division II state champion Wayland High, 1981-82 was a dream season for the Newton South Lions.

The Lions used that victory as a springboard to their finest season in a decade, finishing 15-2 in the regular campaign and then winning once in the MIAA South Sectionals before being eliminated by eventual titlist South Boston.

The difference between this year's club and last year's mediocre 9-9 one? Turnovers and free throw percentage. The Lions committed 376 turnovers with a slow-down offense in 1980-81 and only 324 using the running game this season. They also lifted their free throw percentage from 55% to 69%. A big difference.

While coach Joe Killilea is hesistant to say that the win over Wayland led to all that, he does admit it provided many of the veterans with a great deal of confidence. "We felt we could play with Wayland with Mike (Antonellis) in the lineup," recalls Killilea. "We knew we matched up well with them. But I'm not sure we thought we could win without him. When we did it showed everyone on the team what can be accomplished with hard work."

The Lions went on to lose their next encounter to Wayland and finish second in the Dual County League, but they easily qualified for the tournament ("I knew we would at the beginning of the season" — Killilea) and then destroyed Dedham in their opener by 40 points. South Boston ousted them in Round II, but it was a game Killilea still feels he should have won. "We didn't play our best that day," says Joe. "If we had we could have beaten them. And they went on to win the whole thing."

Newton South loses three starters from this year's sparkling group. Both co-captains, David Hill and Antonellis, graduate as does Forward Steve Abrams. "We'll miss those three because they provided most of our scoring," says Killilea. "We'll have to develop some people into better shooters for next year."

Hill, who averaged just 8.5 points per game as a junior, became one of Newton's leaders in 1982, leading the team in scoring (16.5) and free throw percentage (77%). "He improved in every aspect of his game," said Killilea. "You can see how hard he worked during the off-season just by looking at his free throw percentage. He went from 66% as a junior to 77%."

The 6-5 Antonellis was Newton's only returning DCL All-Star, and after missing some early games due to a football injury, he established himself as one of the top centers in the league again. He was fourth on the club in scoring and one of its top rebounders.

Abrams, only 6-1, became South's All-Everything. Abrams was third in scoring (10.2) and also pulled down 102 boards. More importantly, nearly all of Abrams' points were crucial ones. "When someone cooled down, Steve would be there with a basket," Killilea commented.

Also graduating are sixth man and Booster Award winner Greg Wands and Andy Young.

But Killilea does have some strength returning. Tops on the list is Forward Scott Anglin (14.7 ppg) and Guard Meatchie Russell (a school-record 149 assists). Anglin should become Newton South's leading scorer — Killilea expects him to average more than 20 per game. He'll also continue to provide intimidation under the boards. Only 6-3, Anglin registered 60 blocks this season. "He plays more like 6-5," says Joe. "His timing and quickness allow him to be very intimidating. It also lets me play people with a little more bulk inside."

Complementing Anglin at a forward spot will be 6-3 Gene Lindsay. Lindsay saw scattered action this season, and although his stats won't send you running to the record books, he's the kind of player that just wins games. "I'd say Gene was a big part in us winning four or five games this year," said Killilea. "He gets the clutch rebounds and is an excellent passer. You don't realize his contributions until you watch him closely."

The third forward position — South won't have a legitimite center — is wide open. Battling it out should be 6-0 swingman Chuck Sullivan and Steve Anglin along with Jayvees Evan Kushner, Tim Gaines and Mike Oglesby. Kushner was the leading scorer and rebounder for coach Mike Aronson's 14-3 club. He could emerge as a force for Newton South.

Russell will be back to run the offense from his guard position. One of the best playmakers in the DCL, Russell makes everyone around him look better. Without him, the Lions might have been nothing more than the 9-9 team they were the year before. "All we need for next year is to find someone for Meatchie to get the ball to. It's fine if he sets people up, but they have to be able to put the ball in the hoop."

Possibilities for the second guard are Tracey Hairston, Sean Sims, Sullivan, Oglesby and Steve Anglin. Hairston saw sporadic action this season and seems to have the inside track, but watch out for Sims, who played on the Jayvees. Killilea is very high on him. "Any other year he would have been playing varsity. He's very intelligent," said Joe.

So speed and poise, in the person of Meatchie Russell, and scoring and rebounding, in the person of Scott Anglin, return for Newton South. Killilea expects 35 to 40 points a game from those two. He'll need 30 more from his remaining three starters to reach this year's average of 68 per game. "If we can do that, we'll be right in the thick of it again," he said.

Cohen bill would aid retirement fund study

NEWTON — Representative David B. Cohen (D-Newton), a member of the Joint Committee on Public Service, announced last week House Bill 895, which he sponsored, a resolve providing for an investigation and study by a special committee relative to the Massachusetts Contributory Retirement Law, has received a favorable report. As a result of this report, Cohen expressed optimism for early action on this matter.

The Special Committee, which would consist of three members of the Senate and six members of the House of Representatives, would investigate and study the Massachusetts Contributory Retirement Law, which presently covers over 150,000 active public employees in Massachusetts, together with over 60,000 retired public employees.

The Committee would investigate and study: The present administrative procedures of the 105 retirement boards; the existing unfunded liability of the retirement system; the existing investment proactices of the retirement system with a view toward encouraging more productive investments; eliminating mandatory retirement provisions; and reviewing the impact of Proposition 2½ on the Massachusetts public employee retirement systems.

In a press release, Rep. Cohen said the bill, "Represents one of the most important issues which we in the legislature will be dealing with this session. The solvency of the Massachusetts public employee retirement system will have a dramatic impact upon the fiscal stability of the commonwealth and the city of Newton during the next ten years. We in state government msut insure that the system is on a solid financial footing."

Cohen noted, "Approval by the Public Service Committee of this legislation is an essential first step in our beginning the process to revamp our public employee retirement system. Serious decisions impacting the Massachusetts retirement boards and their employees will be take up by this legislative committee."

Rep. Cohen, who recently worked for the enactment of legislation providing for the investment of public employee retirement funds in the Massachusetts home mortgage market is hopeful thta more programs providing for economic grouwth in Massachusetts would be a result of the committee's work.

The bill now goes to the House for further action.

New health plan opens doors to Newton area

NEWTON — Family Health Plan of Massachusetts, a newly operational health maintenance organization (HMO), began providing comprehensive health care services to new members, March 1.

The organization is sponsored by the South Middlesex area Chamber of Commerce and serves 38 towns in the western Boston suburbs. The plan has more than 150 participating physicians in its 38 town service area and is affiliated with four hospitals: Framingham Union, Leonard Morse, Marlborough and Milford-Whitinsville.

Newton, Needham, Wellesley and Weston are among the communities in the service area.

Family Health was recently granted a $1.6 million line of credit from the Shawmut Community Bank, N.A. which enabled it to begin operations. This loan was made possible due to the tremendous support and financial backing of the plan's four affiliated hospitals.

According to Dustin Mackie, executive director, family health is one of the few developing HMOS nationwide that has survived recent federal cutbacks and successfully made the transition to an operational phase by obtaining private financing.

Family Health is presently enrolling members through companies employing 25 or more persons. Employers may offer the plan as an alternative to traditional health insurance. Benefits include preventive health services, physician office visits, well-child care, emergency care, full hospitalization and mental health services. There are no deductibles, no waiting periods for benefits and no claims forms to complete.

Additional information about the plan may be obtained by calling the marketing department, 879-4500, at the administrative offices located in Framingham.

Newtonville man named to head Graham crusade group

NEWTONVILLE — H. Elmore Blanton of Blithedale Street, Newtonville, widely known Baptist lay leader and life deacon at Tremont Temple Baptist Church, Boston, has been named chairman of the church's Billy Graham Committee to prepare for the upcoming Boston and New England Crusade in May and June.

Blanton, also an executive at Raytheon, joined the downtown Boston church in 1948, and has served as chairman of the Executive Committee, church moderator, and as a member of many committees involved in the church's active life.

A specialist in the field of electrical engineering, he has been with Raytheon for some 25 years and is manager of the technical planning for the Equipment Division. He holds two degrees from Clemson University, South Carolina, in mechanical engineering and electrical engineering, and a Master's of Science degree in electrical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After completing advanced work at MIT, he also received the professional degree of Electrical Engineer in 1955.

His wife is the former Barbara Mercer of Boston. The couple has two sons, Robert of Newton, and William of Hudson, both of who are active at the church; and a daughter Allison, now Mrs. Lee Parsons of Plymouth, and one grandson.

Blanton served more than three years with the U.S. Army signal corps in the Pacific during World War II.

He is also a member of the Corporate Board of the New England Baptist Hospital.

Evangelist Billy Grahm will conduct a special servicess in many New England cities and will hold Boston meetings May 30 to June 6 at BU's Nickerson Field.

Cong. Frank offers income tax booklets

NEWTON — Comprehensive Federal Income Tax information booklets aimed at aiding taxpayers in completing their 1981 tax returns are available in limited numbers through Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass.

Publication 17 of the Internal Revenue Service explains in detail each part of the return and the tax laws that cover salaries and wages, interest and dividends, itemized deductions, rental income, gains and losses, and adjustments to income, including alimony, moving expenses, and employee business expenses.

Frank opposed several sections of the tax bill last year, espicially the breaks given to oil producers.

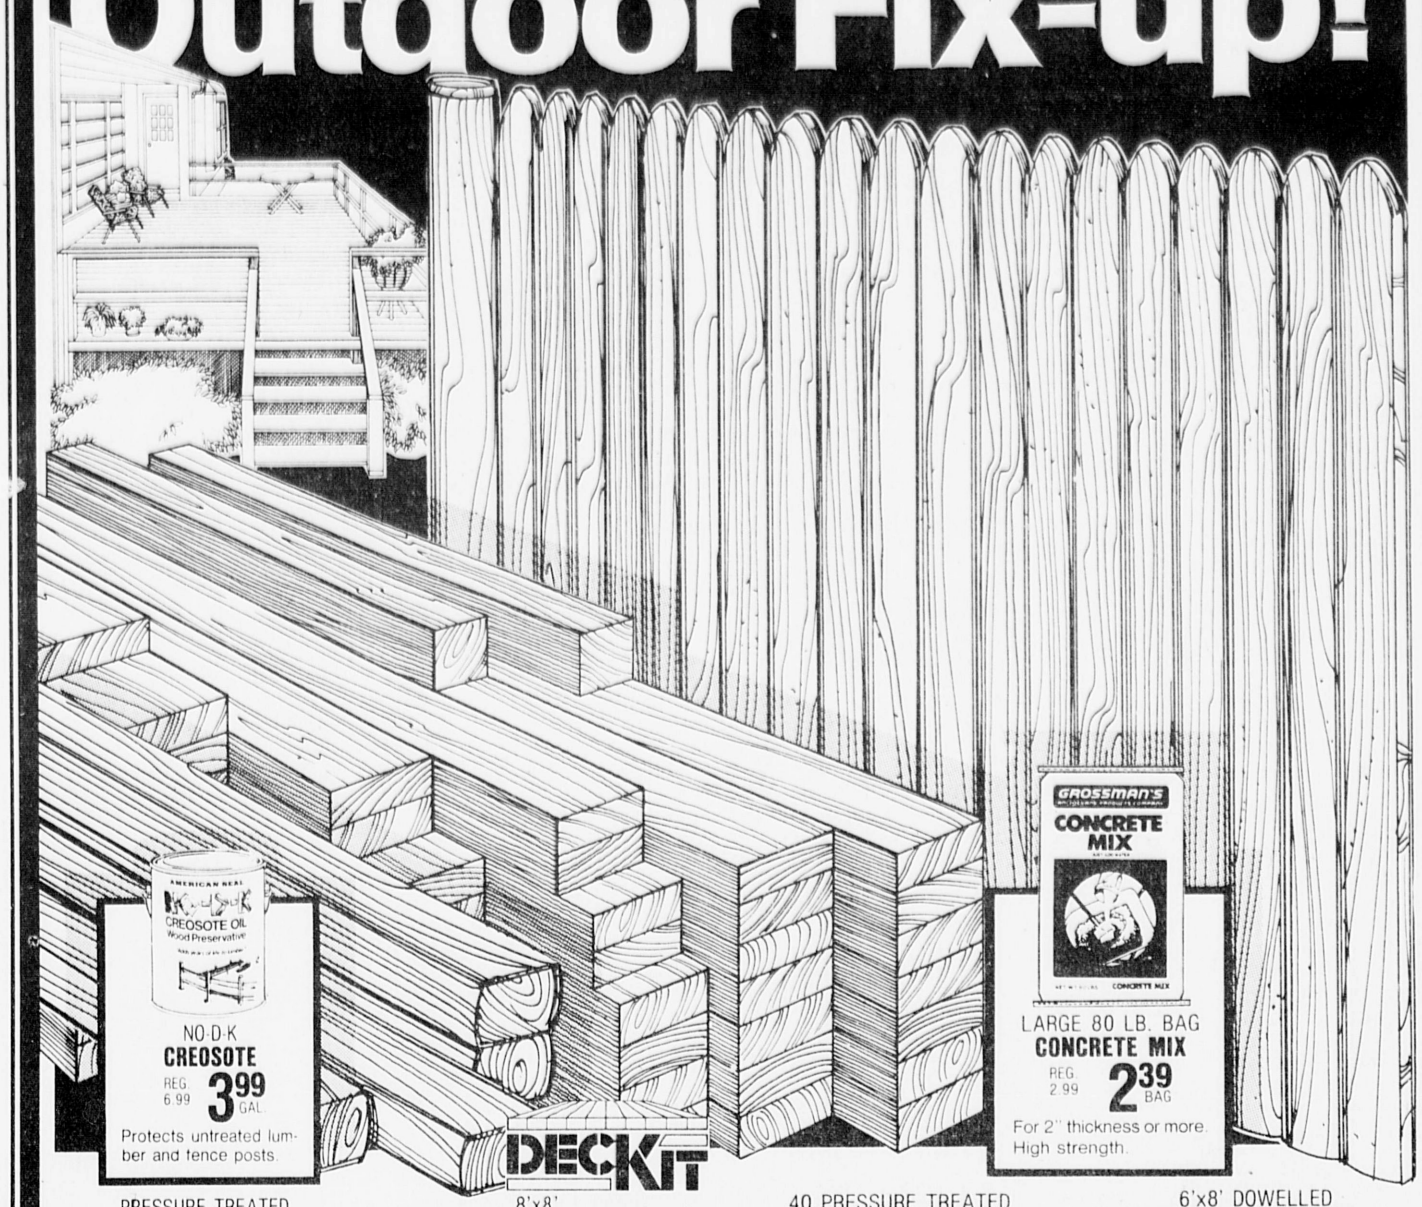

Person wishing a copy of the 168-page booklet should write to Congressman Barney Frank, 437 Cherry St., West Newton, 02165.

Joe McCarthy, press examined as B.C. topic

CHESTNUT HILL — "Joseph McCarthy and the Press" will be the topic of a seminar and lecture at Boston College in Gasson Hall, beginning at 4 p.m. on Thursday, March 18. Both the seminar and the lecture are free and open to the public.

The March 18 conference will begin at 4 p.m. in Gasson 100 with a panel discussion, "Faces of McCarthy: Historical and Journalistic PPerspectives." Panelists include Murray Marder of the "Washington Post"; Richard Blake, SJ, of "America" magazine; Peter Steinfels of "Commonweal"; and author Robert Griffith, UMass-Amherst professor and author or "Politics of Fear."

Rev. John Michalczyk, SJ, associate director of the honors program at Boston College and an associate professor of Fine Arts, is the conference organizer and moderator.

That evening the Boston College Humanities Series will sponsor a lecture by Edwin Bayley, dean of the School of Journalism, University of California, Berkeley, on "Joe McCarthy and the Press." The lecture will take place in Gasson 100 at 8 p.m.

Bayley, author of a recently published book on the subject, is a former newspaper and magazine correspondent, a former special assistant to President John F. Kennedy and a past executive with National Education television.

Doing battle for local consumers

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Diane Lupo recently checked out a local health spa and without signing for a membership to the club soon found herself out $300.

After some slick pressure tactics, the sales representative had obtained the Newton resident's Visa credit card number and submitted a bill for a lifetime membership without her signature or permission.

When she received the bill, Diane refused to pay up and the health spa ignored her demands for a refund. It was only after Diane turned to the Newton Consumer Protection Division that the spa finally agreed to pay the Visa bill.

"I had gone down there (the spa) many times, but they wouldn't budge," said Lupo. "I called the consumer protection division and they straigtened the whole thing out."

Diane is one of thousands of local residents the consumer protection division has successfully assisted since its inception nearly four years ago. The division, funded by an annual grant from the state Attorney General's Office, saved consumers an estimated $65,000 last year.

The driving forces behind the division are co-directors Fredi Shonkoff and Mary Ann Albert.

The crack consumer protection duo have combined in an innovative "job sharing" program to battle consumer ripoffs and mediate countless disputes between businesses and local residents that would otherwise end up on a court docket.

Albert and Shonkoff, who are friends and started as volunteers in the division, are both working mothers and share job responsibilites at the division located in City Hall.

Albert says the division helps consumers "cut through the red-tape."

"Most people appreciate a third party intervening," she says, noting that "objectivity" is essential to mediation of disputes between consumers and businesses.

"It is a program that works and is extremely rewarding," says Shonkoff. "We save (consumers) $9 for every dollar spent."

The division, which receives approximately 120 calls every month, deals with a broad range of consumer related problems, including car repairs, warranties, and refunds.

Both Shonkoff and Albert are quick to point to the division's staff of eight volunteers as one of the reasons for its success. "The program couldn't function without them," says Albert.

The most frequent consumer complaints are car repair and sales, followed by warranty and refund requests, according to Shonkoff.

"I think the biggest piece of advice I can give is to get estimates in writing and know exactly what the mechanic is going to do," says Shonkoff. All automobile service dealers must provide written estimates under state statute.

Often it is a faulty product that brings consumers to the division. Stephen Gardetto of Newton bought a radar range from a local department store and after it repeatedly broke down, the servicing company refused to repair the range at no cost which was under a warranty.

Gardetto turned to the consumer protection division and received a full refund for the range.

"They were super helpful," said Gardetto. "I came out smelling like roses."

(Residents can call the Newton Consumer Protection Division for assistance Monday - Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. by calling 552-7170)

Preschool program is offered at Aquinas

NEWTON - Registrations are being taken for September for the Child Development Center at Aquinas Junior College in Newton. A licensed pre-school program for children ages two years - nine months to five years will be directed Monday through Friday, 8:30 - 11:30 a.m. with a 'stay day' until 3 p.m.

The Aquinas Child Development Center was established in conjuction with the Early Childhood Education program to provide quality care for pre-school children. Recognizing the importance of early learning as the 8foundation for the entire educational structure, the program aims to develop the physical, mental, emotional and social growth of the child in a "nursery school" atmosphere of wonder and discovery. This on-campus center is a valuable resource providing a laboratory setting for students in the Early Childhood Education Department.

If interested call Aquinas Junior College, at 244-8134.

Visiting nurses plan new patient services

NEWTON — A pilot project was announced this week by two local home health care agencies that will bring night nursing services to their patients for the first time.

The Newton-Wellesley-Weston Visiting Nurse Association, 1589 Beacon St., Waban, and Visiting Nurse Associates, Inc., 51 Lincoln St., Needham, have entered into a cooperative program to provide the services of a nurse for their patients from 9 p.m. until 8 a.m. five night a week.

Both agencies, which currently have services covering day and evening hours, feel that there is a need to extend nursing care to 24 hours.

One nurse, Mrs. Beverly Johannesen, R.N., of Needham, will be on night duty.

THE WORLD of Travel

by Hank Fleming

It is, indeed, becoming more difficult to find great ski lodges. However, the romance of an old farmhouse, replete with bountiful meals and expansive apres-ski talk, is not lost. There are still a handful of these classic lodges where there is a crackling fire in the fireplace and a congenial host-owner. For the most part, the ski lodge is a New England art form. The slopes of Stratton Mountain in Vermont are graced with a moviemaker's idea of a lodge. Fieldstone fireplaces and antiques abound at Stowehof. Not to be outdone, Colorado's Christiana at Vail has distinctly Norwegian decor..

Claflin hospice plan stalled by board

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As legislative approval to sell the Claflin School at a city subsidized cost of $116,000 for use as a hospice appeared imminent, a parliamentary maneuver by an alderman Monday night delayed a final vote for two days.

If the plan is approved, the Lowell Avenue School would become the first non-hospital affiliated hospice in the state. The hospice would provide a comprehensive care program for terminally ill patients and their families.

After three hours of debate on the proposal, Alderman Joseph DePasquale delayed a final vote by employing a parliamentary procedure that stops debate.

As a result, a group of seven aldermen have called a special meeting on the hospice proposal for Thursday night. The proposal for Claflin, which was closed at the end of the 1980-81 school year because of declining enrollment, is expected to gain legislative approval.

If aldermen approve the project, the "Hospice of the Good Sheperd," a Waban based organization, plans to provide a mixed-residential development with market-rate rental housing and an in-patient facility at the site.

The proposal for the 5-acre site calls for a 17-unit apartment complex (13 one bedroom and four two bedroom units) with preference given to Newton residents and a 15 patient hospice in-patient unit with the housing of a 12-person hospice care team.

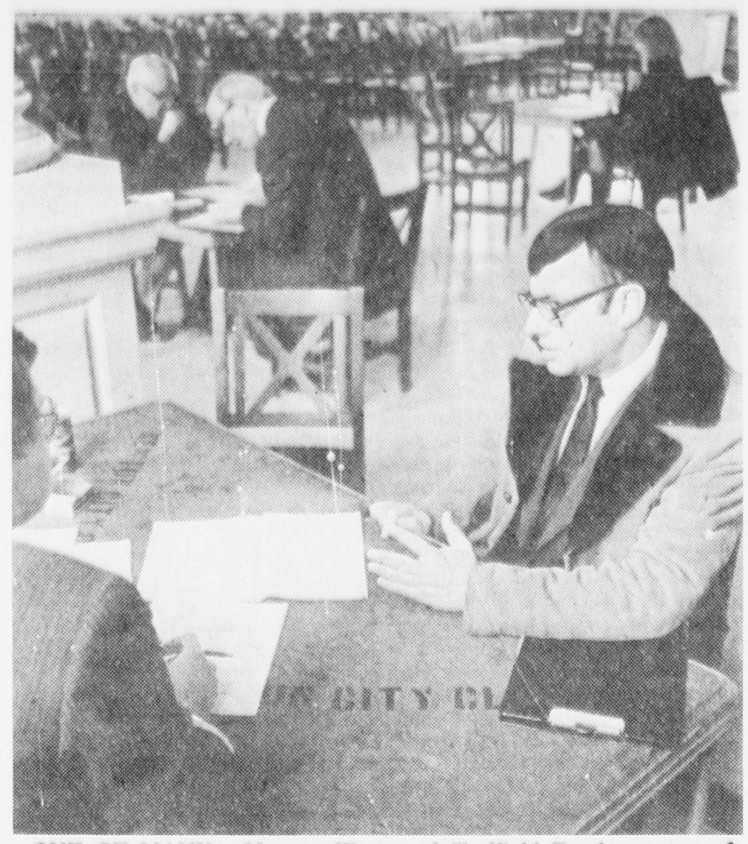

DePasquale said he "chartered" the proposal because he believes there are "legal questions" on the organization's compliance with an ordinance requiring mandatory low-income or elderly housing for density-increasing projects requiring special permits.

Furthermore, DePasquale maintained there may be "legal problems" because of Mayor Theodore Mann's role in the process. Mann is on the 32-member Hospice Board of Directors and has final authority on the sale of the school. Aldermen Harold Levinsky revealed Mann was on the board at a meeting last week.

Linda Kilburn, executive director of the non-profit hospice organization, said that Mann has never attended one of the hospice's meetings and did not play a part in the selection of Claflin as a site.

Kilburn said that if the project is not approved by aldermen before May 1, the independent group will be forced to drop the proposal because of a mininmum $66,000 in construction costs needed because of a delay that would result to obtain a mandatory state "certificate of need."

Opponents argued that in difficult financial times the $116,000 selling price was a giveaway and unfair to taxpayers. The Finance Committee had recommended a $200,000 price tag.

'Newton Rider' wins reprieve

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The previously bankrupt "Newton Rider" bus service will continue to operate at least until June 30, the end of this fiscal year.

Without debate, the Board of Aldermen Monday night unanimously approved a $12,000 appropropriation which will allow the city-run transportation service to run from April through June.

In a special meeting March 9, the 24-member legislative body approved an emergency appropriation of $4,000 to fund the bus through March.

The bus, which began operations in September 1980, provides service throughout the city to hundreds of elderly, special education adults, and students who are longer provided transportation to their schools under new distance requirements for school bus service. According to city statistics, ridership averages 138 riders a day.

About 50 people, most of them elderly, clapped when Aldermen approved the appropriation. Approximately 200 residents packed Newton City Hall last Monday to support the emergency funding of the service.

Andre Bus Lines and Limousine Service of Brookline operates the service with a city subsidy and donations from local merchants. City officials had hoped that with the support of the business community the bus would be self-sustaining.

However, during the past few months, donations from the city's business community have noticeably decreased and the bus service has fallen into debt. City Traffic Engineer David Tannozzini has noted that the service is losing about $2,800 a month as a result.

Alderman Robert Tennant informed his colleagues Monday evening that the business community was concerned that the ridership on the bus consists primarily of elderly and school children, not shoppers as merchants had been told.

The business community has provided the service with nearly $23,000 in donations since its inception 18 months ago.

The bus service charges riders $20 for a monthly pass, 50¢ for a senior citizen and 75¢ as a regular one-way fare throughout the city. The bus provides transportation to the Chestnut Hill Mall and other business centers in the city.

Computer firm, community join forces for workshops

WEST NEWTON — Data Utilities of North America (DUNA), a Newton-based computer company involved with sales and software, is joining forces with Newton Community Service Centers to plan a series of free workshops, which will introduce young people to the business application of the computer.

The first workshop is scheduled for Saturday morning, March 20, at 10 a.m. The workshop, which will run for two hours, will be held at Newton Community Service Centers, 492 Waltham St., West Newton.

The aim of the workshop is to provide business orientation to high school students so that they may have some idea of their aptitude and interest in computers.

The workshop program, which will consist of two meetings, will provide a useful, comprehensive introduction to computers. Students will have the opportunity to work with computers and computer professionals from Data Utilities, who will provide a one on one relationship. The students will be given a test to determine their aptitude for working with computers. Those who successfully complete the first meeting will be invited to participate in the second, the date of which will be announced at a later time. The second meeting will be open only to those students who have successfully complete the first.

Opportunity for advanced training will be made available to those students who complete the two meeting workshop. The Data Utilities long term objective is to set up an apprenticeship program for youths who complete the workshop program. Future workshops will be planned for upcoming months.

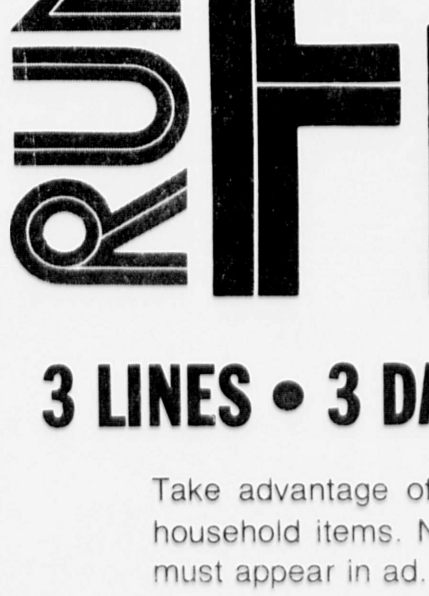

The workshops will be limited to 25 high school age youths. Reservations and inquiries must be made in advance. Anyone interested in participating in this computer workshop program should contact Larry Hasenful at Newton Community Service Centers at 969-5906.

Maida Abram chairs Special Arts Fest

NEWTON- The sixth annual Massachusetts Very Special Arts Festival, chaired this year by Newton resident Maida Abram, will be held April 6 at the John Hancock Hall in Boston.

The festival is a day in which handicapped and non-handicapped children and adults will experience as well as perform in presentations, workshops and activities involving the arts in all capacities.

This year's festival is funded by the Mass. Committee, Arts for the Handicapped, the Mass. Council on the Arts and Humanities, the state Department of Education and from private sources.

Chairman Abram, a special needs teacher in the Newton Public Schools, said the festival will consist of 25 participatory workshops in addition to ongoing performances and activities, all done by handicapped and non-handicapped professionals from around the state. The workshops and activities encompass visual arts, crafts, movement, dance, drama, music, poetry, storytelling and a balloon ceremony.

Some highlights of the day will be 13 visual arts workshops organized by Judy Grunbaum of the Lexington school system. There will be workshops in facepainting, hatmaking, weaving a "fibre environment" and puppetmaking. Cindy Stone of the Institute of Contemporary Art will be doing a workshop in architecture construction with the blind.

In the area of movement, Nancy Beardall, a Newton dance therapist, has organized eight dance workshops done by professional dancers and therapists. Segments of the show, "Annie" will be performed by an integrated group of handicapped and non-handicapped students from Newton South High School. There will also be continuous performances in the auditorium by the Wellesley junior and senior high dance groups and various special needs classes from Newton.

The festival day begins with registration at 8:45 a.m. and ends with an evening showcase performance at 7 p.m.

For information on the Very Special Arts Festival call Charlie Roye at the Mass. Department of Education at 727-5750.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Joseph Luchan (top row, second from right) in slave-labor camp in Poland.

Surviving the Holocaust

On Sept. 1, 1939, the German military machine invaded Poland, begining World War II. Over the following two days, Piotrkow, a city of 50,000 in Western Poland, was heavily bombed, resulting in a large number of casualities and the destruction of the city hall, police headquarters, the state bank, post office, and the city water system.

On Tuesday, Sept. 5, German ground troops entered Piotrkow and within two hours captured the city. Later that day, the Germans set out on a search for some of the 17,000 Jews in the deserted city, found twenty, including a rabbi, and shot them in cold blood.

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Joseph Luchan was 24-years-old when the Germans occupied his home city of Piotrkow in 1939, grabbed him along with other Jewish men on the street, and hurled them onto a transport truck heading toward a work camp in Lublin.

Hanna, his wife of 35 years, was 11-years-of-age when Germany launched its invasion of Poland and 15 when she was taken with her parents to a Jewish ghetto outside her home town of Sosnowiec.

For Joseph and Hanna life was suddenly transformed from the serene to an existence previously unimaginable. For each of the Luchans, their families, and the Jewish population of Europe, life became a precarious catwalk between death and a living hell — at times much easier to die than to struggle with the daily horror of life under German-occupation.

Joseph, 60, was liberated from Dachau in April 1945 along with 60,000- 70,000 Jews. Hanna, 52, was found in hiding during that spring, along with four female friends, in a home in Langendorff by American troops.

That Joseph and Hanna, residents of Newton Centre since 1961, are alive today is a combination of strength, willpower and luck. Although each of them will tell you that it is mostly luck.

The Luchans are, by their experience, a piece of history to be examined and studied. Both were victims of fate, yet at the same time, spared by the fate that almost overtook them along with their people.

"It's just a miracle that I'm alive," says Hanna. "If they didn't grab me from the streets, I would be dead right now."

"If the war lasted another year, no one (Jews) would be alive," says a saddened Hanna. She lost her parents, her brother and sister, an uncle, an aunt and two cousins in the Holocaust.

The Luchans, who have two sons and one six-year-old granddaughter, came to live in America in November, 1949. The two met in Kaunitz, Poland in 1947 and married a year later.

When American troops entered the Dachau camp on April 27, 1945, Joseph had just completed a five-week death march from Buchenwald. He was one of the 7,000 survivors of a march which had begun with 35,000 people.

"The Weimark shot about 10,000 people in the woods," notes Joseph, who at 29-years-of-age carried just 45 pounds on a 5'3½" frame when he was liberated. "One more week and I would have been dead."

Joseph, whose uncle had moved to the United States before the war, was awaiting his visa number when the war broke out in 1938.

"The guys in front had a chance to live," recounts Joseph of the march. "Everyone was running to the front."

It was his athletic background and his sense that the war was coming to an end that pushed him beyond his own limits. "We saw machine guns on the ground," he recalls. "They were running. Other Germans asked the SS, 'Where are you taking these people? We lost the war.'"

"Mostly people gave up. They just laid down in the ditches as if they were going to bed and they'd shoot us," says Joseph in amazement. "If you were a little lucky and stronger you could walk longer."

"I could see the end," says Joseph of his final days on the march. "The city had been bombarded. The whole day we could see US planes overhead. This kept me alive."

Between five and six million of the 8.3 million Jews in German-occupied Europe before 1939, the start of the war, were killed by the Nazis. Of the five to six million, between 62 and 72 percent were exterminated.

Of those Jews killed by the Nazis, the Polish Jews sustained the worst casualties with an estimated 85 percent loss of Jewish life. Of the 3,300,000 Polish Jews alive before the war, between 300,000 to 500,000 were alive when Germany succumbed to the allied powers.

Battlehardened veterans, inured to the sight and smell of death, were sickened by what they saw in these pestholes (the camps). They could scarcely believe their eyes.

But there was evidence - rows of incinerators, gas chambers camouflaged as shower rooms, thousands of bodies piled up like logs, others cast into pits and trenches. And staggering out to meet them were the walking skeletons - human beings whose bodies were stripped of flesh, their eyes staring in disbelief, their voices hollow, their minds crippled by starvation and disease. (The Black Book of Polish Jewry by Jacob Apensziak).

"I still remember everything they were doing to us," says Joseph, with an anger that shoots from his lips, more pronounced, more violent than his wife's.

After liberation, he was unable to locate a single member of his family - presumably all dead - except for his father's brother, David, who was living in Brookline.

Hanna was taken from the streets of a ghetto outside Sosnowiec in 1943 and sent to a labor camp in Bulkenhain, Germany, to weave blankets. She would work here for four months and then be transported to Marzdof to unload coal. Finally, she was sent to a third camp, Grunberg, to weave with 1,000 to 1,500 other girls.

"Every few weeks we would go for x-rays to see if our lungs were clear," recalls Hanna. "If not, we were sent to Auschwitz - the extermination camp."

In January, 1945, Hanna joined a group of 2,000 Hungarian girls on a death march which was to last three months. Hanna eventually fled the the group along with four friends and found shelter in Langendorff.

"Since I was so young, I had some friends who shared with me." Hanna says, explaining her ability to stay alive. "The hope that someday I might find my family kept me alive too." About 300 of the 3,000 girls survived the three-month march.

In early October, 1939, the Germans issued an order to erect a Jewish ghetto in Piotrkow, the first in the occupied areas of Poland. Joseph lived with his family in the fenced-in ghetto for three years when in October, 1942, the Germans liquidated Piotrkow.

During his years in the ghetto, Joseph was employed in a glass factory making lightbulbs for the German war front. He remained in Piotrkow to work in the factory (about 1,800 stayed) until the Germans implemented this particular phase of the Final Solution in 1944, a policy of total extermination of European Jewry.

Those who were forced from the Piotrkow ghetto in 1942 were sent to the death camp at Treblinka for extermination. Of the 17,000 Jews in Piotrkow at the time of the German invasion in 1939, only 1,400 survived the Holocaust.

Of these Jews, about 400 returned to their home city of Piotrkow only to be convinced resettlement was impossible. Just one of these people is known to have remained as of 1979.

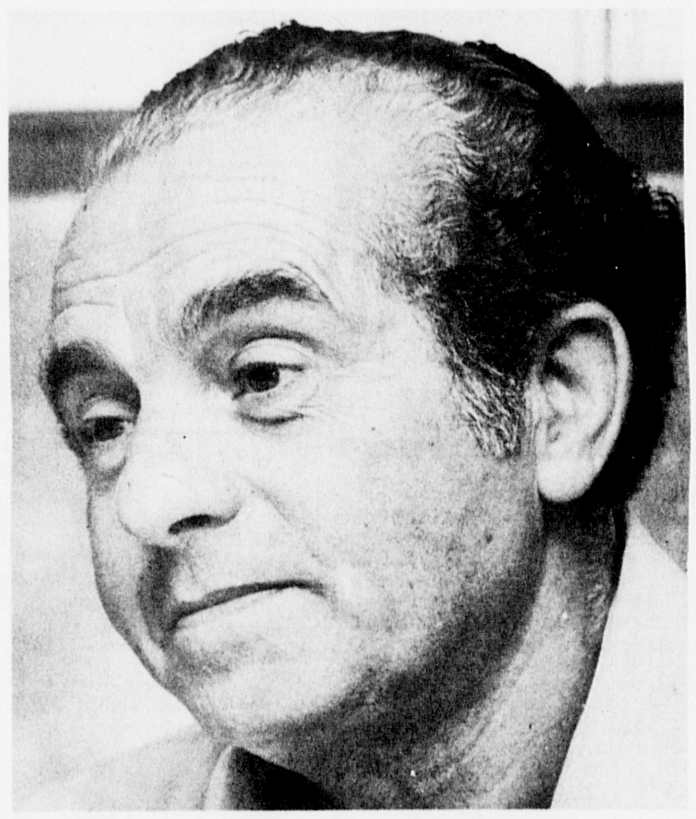

Joseph worked at digging trenches at a slave labor camp in Plaszov, a small town between the German and Russian boarders, during his initial four-week internment in 1939. Left unguarded one night, he escaped and ran to Lublin where he was smuggled into the Jewish ghetto. The Jewish organization then smuggled Joseph back to his home town of Piotrkow.

"We didn't know," he recalls. "We had no idea they would take us. We were watched by the SS (Nazi Secret Service) all the time," says Joseph of his internment. "We couldn't run away. There were big dogs and SS everywhere. It was impossible."

"When we dug these (trenches), the Russian border was only a couple of feet away," adds Joseph. "Some tried to run. They were shot on sight."

He tells the story of the "illegal" Jews who came out of hiding after about 20,000 were deported, leaving about 2,000 "legal" Jews in Piotrkow.

In the winter of 1942, the "illegal" Jews who avoided deportation were taken to the town's synagogue where they were forced to live for weeks without food and water. They were eventually marched into nearby Rakow forest by a joint-enforcement team of Germans and Ukranians where they dug their own graves.

Every door was closed to the Jewish people
Joseph Luchan

Five-hundred and sixty Jews were shot in Rakow on the night of Dec. 19, 1942. The wounded, along with the dead, were buried in the mass graves.

"The ground was going up and down for three days afterwards. They were still alive," says Joseph, "The Polish people told us."

Notes Hanna: "The Polish people didn't want to hide you. The Poles were offered incentives to find Jewish people."

"We couldn't have any resistence," says Joseph. "We had no support from anyone. The Polish collaborated with them. We had nowhere to go. Every door was closed to the Jewish people."

The Luchans traveled to Israel last summer for the much-publicized reunion of Holocaust survivors. Each of the eight-thousand Jews at the conference also came with a "hope" that they would be reunited with a loved one through the computer terminals set up at the gathering.

"It was both a happy and sad occasion," says Hanna. "There were moments that were very touching. I can't describe it."

Neither Joseph nor Hanna found a loved one, but Joseph did locate a pair of brothers with whom he lived in Piotrkow. Hanna met one of the four girls with whom she had hidden in Langendorff.

It's just a miracle that I'm alive
Hanna Luchan

Free Library hosts pastel exhibit

NEWTON CORNER — Ronnie Wolf exhibits small pastel drawings of dancers and bathers in a one-person show in the Newton Free Library Gallery, 414 Center St., Newton Corner, April 5 - May 2. A reception to honor the artist, scheduled for Monday, April 5 from 6:30-8:30 p.m., is the first of many special events scheduled to celebrate National Library Week, which begins April 18.

Using pastels in bright pinks, greens and blues, Wolf's simplified forms convey rhythm and movement. The small drawings are intimate and appealing and Matisse-like in their colors.

She exhuberantly smudges and pushes the pastels into place, working towards free expression rather than a smooth velvet finish.

Wolf works primarily with femal shapes. In order to clarify her own ideas and images, she eliminates facial features which might "confine" her view.

Wolf explains that her pastel drawings are a visula diary of her daily experiences and activites. She describes the pastesls as self-portraits, each revealing to the viewer, a little bit more about who "I am and how I think."

Wolf spent 18 years in the Caribbean and is greatly influenced by its uniqe colors and "light quality."

Wolf is a graduate of Tufts with a diploma from the Museum School. She also works with stained glass and makes large stained glass panels and windows. Her work has been exhibited in the B.U. Gallery, at the Corning Museum in New York, the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln and many other galleries.

Library hours are 9-9, Monday - Thursday; 9-6, Friday; 9-5, Saturday and 1-4, Sunday. Call 552-7145.

Beethoven plans hobby groups

WABAN — The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center is interested in starting hobby groups for those persons interested in photography, stamps, and coins.

Please contact the center if you would welcome the opportunity to meet with others who share your interest. The center provides a congenial atmostphere and the chance for you to meet regularly. Persons interested in developing new hobbies are welcome, too.

The Beethoven Drop-in Center is located at the Zervas School, 30 Beethoven Avenue, in Waban.

The Center is sponsored by the Dept. of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging. For more information call Mary Stuart-Hillman at 527-6770.

Multi-Service Center honors good old days

NEWTON — The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will present a nostalgia program, "The Good Old Days! Or Were They?" on Friday, March 19, at 1 p.m. The event, sponsored by Boston Gas, will examine how people lived, and will live, from the 1800's through the year 2000, their entertainment, tools and equipment, appliances and energy sources.

Recreational activities at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center include Bingo, bowling, yoga, dance exercise, painting, ceramics, special trips and parties. The Center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. For further details about classes and other programs, call the Center at 965-6390.

Peg Weizel, a registered nurse with the Newton Health Department, holds health and blood pressure clinics at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings, and Monday and Thursday afternoons. Evening Clinic is held on the first and third Tuesday of the month from 6-8 p.m. Mrs. Weizel's successful diet class is held on Thursday mornings from 10-11 a.m. Newton adults over 21 years of age are encouraged to take adantage of these services.

Senior adults may attend the hot lunch program at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, Monday through Saturday. The well-balanced meals are provided by the West Suburban Elder Services. Transportation to the hot lunch program may be arranged by calling 552-7120. Seniors may attend lunches for the whole week, or on individual days, but should call the Center for reservations at 965-6390.

Fuel assistance applications are prepared at the Center. Low income families or individuals who need help with their fuel bills should call the Nonantum Multi-Service Center at 965-6390.

Senior Adults are invited to visit the Nonantum Multi-Service Center to learn about the interesting variety of programs at the Center. The Center will be participating in the Annual Springfest at Newton City Hall, and will resume their gardening at Hawthorne Playground in the spring.

Applications still being taken for help on heating bill

NEWTON CENTRE — Newton residents are reminded that applications for the Home Energy Assistance Program will be processed by the Newton Department of Human Services only until April 26,. After that date no applications can be accepted.

The city of Newton participates in the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) in cooperation xith ACD, Inc., (Action for Boston Development). The program is designed to help low income families with the burden of heating bills, including oil, gas, electricity and kerosene.

The program will pay heating bills from $325 to $750, depending on income for a limited number of low-income people with payment being made directly to the oil or utility companies. Funds for this program will be made available by the federal Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Department of Human Services (52-7170), located in Newton City Hall, is processing application for this program for Newton residents.

Applications for senior citizens will also be available at the Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center, 345 Walnut St., (Newtonville Library) 527-6770; the Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center, 30 Beethoven Ave., Waban (Zervas School), 527-6749; The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center, 191 Pearl St., (Lincoln-Elliot School) 969-8030 and the Nonantum Multi8-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Ave., 969-6390.

All applicants must call and make an appointment at all locations before applying for this program.

All applicants to provide and submit the following inoformation when they apply: A currently dated utility fuel bill paid or unpaid ;original copy) or a shutoff notice froma fuel dealer or utility company; For Cash on Delivery (COD) fuel customers, a statement from6 fuel dealer noting the cost of a fill-up for the applicant; Documentation of income.

Housholds where the head of the household is certified for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) are automatically eligible.

ADL hails legislative efforts

BOSTON - The New England Office of the Anti-Defamation League hailed the filing of a bill increasing penalties for racially or religiously motivated vandalism and harassment filed by Representatives David Cohen, Susan Schur, Joe DeNucci and Sen. Jack Backman recently.

The bill, which also penalizes ethnic intimidation, is part of the ADL's general program of combatting anti-Jewish or racially motivated acts through the law. Noting the increase in such activity in the Commonwealth and the ranking of Massachusetts as fourth in the nation in the number of reported acts of anti-Jewish harassment and vandalism, ADL Chairman, Stephen B. Kay stated that he expected the bill to pass swiftly through the legislature.

The bill has already been hailed by the Boston Chapter of the NAACP and other church and community groups are expected to support its passage. Rep. John Businger, Generald Cohen, Lawrence Alexander, John Murphy and State Senators Sam Rotundi and George Bachrach have signed on as co-sponsors.

Piano concert planned

All Newton Music School hosts David Beyer on piano on Friday, March 19 in a program which includes works by Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin and Brahms starting at 8 p.m.

Concert is free. Call 527-4553 for information.

Health Department notes salmon recall

WEST NEWTON — The Newton Health Department, in cooperation with the federal Food and Drug Administration, announces a voluntary recall of 7.75 ounce canned salmon produced in 1980 and 1981 in Ketchikan, Alaska.

This recall is a precautionary measure because of a single incident of Botulism food poisoning in Belgium from a 7.75 ounce can of salmon.

The product can be identified by the code "K13" on the top line on one end of the can. The K13 is in the second, third, and fourth position of the code. Go strictly by the middle three characters. For example, H*K13*A/Q708 or R*K13*X/Q513. Please note that only the 7.75 ounce can size is involved.

If you have any of the above indicated cans of salmon in your home notify the Newton Health Department immediately. Please do not open the can.

If you have any questions or need additional information, contact the Newton Health Department at 552-7058.

10K road race set for this Sunday

Investment seminar at library

Part 3 of a free investment seminar - "The IRA and its implications for working Americans" - starts on Tuesday, March 23 at 7:15 p.m. at the Newton Free Library with discussion led by Frederick S. Blick and Andrew Cutler.

Call 552-7145 for details.

A BRILLIANT DEDUCTION.

Together, you and your spouse can take up to a $4,000 Federal income tax deduction in 1982 by opening West Newton Savings Bank Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) right now. That's $2,000 apiece for each working spouse or $2,250 if only one spouse works. If you're self employed, you can take even greater deductions with our Keogh Plan—up to $15,000 worth.

What's more, the healthy interest you'll earn is tax exempt until you withdraw funds after retirement. And of course, your principal and interest are fully insured.

Stop by any West Newton Savings Bank office soon for the complete details. Remember: an IRA or Keogh Plan is more than a smart move for the future. Considering the tax benefits you'll get, it's absolutely brilliant.

Thousands hear views aired on revaluation figures

NEWTON - More than 2000 concerned taxpayers filed into Boston College's Roberts Center Tuesday night to protest property tax increases and plead with city officials to remedy "injustices" brought on by property tax revaluation.

Unlike the scene at City Hall one week ago when Fire Department officials adjourned a public hearing after an unruly crowd jammed the aldermanic chambers, Tuesday night's crowd was orderly but often cheered loudly following various speakers from the audience.

Some speakers verbally blasted the city wide revaluation done by the Acton firm of Finnegan Associates.

Resident Joseph Weinfeld asked homeowners to unite in the battle against the figures. "Back in 1942 on December 7 we entered a state of war," Weinfeld said. "That is where we are right now - a state of war against the ignorant manner and the way potential taxes were derived."

The Newton Taxpayers' Association and members of the grassroots organization Save Our Homes handed out flyers asking homeowners to unite in voicing opposition to what many in the crowd termed an inequitable revaluation.

According to statistics released by the city assessors, 75% of the 22,000 Newton homeowners face increases in their tax bills. Of that figure some 35% will pay an increase of $500 or more.

One taxpayer likened revaluation to 'a state of war' but the head of the assessing firm charged 'media attention' had given a false impression of the fairness of the process.

Melvin Friedman was one of many who protested the computer generated values. "The use of computers does not make the process effective," he said, adding, "Garbage in - garbage out."

"We have a long tradition going back to the (Boston) Tea Party to demand accountability," Friedman told the crowd.

John Mullen, a spokesman for the Upper Falls community asserted "We believe that we have a right to demand that you, the responsible officials, see to it that a remedy for the injustices imposed on our homeowners be devised - that some way be found out of this indescribable mess and that you see to it, as it is your duty, that the burden of intolerable hardship and the threat of irreparable harm be lifted from the homeowners of Upper Falls."

Robert Finnegan, president of the firm which conducted the revaluation at a cost of $600,000 to the city, read a prepared statement prior to the hearing in which he charged "media attention given recent public meetings in Newton tends to give the false impression that the reappraisal program conducted by Finnegan Associates is somehow deficient."

Finnegan said a reassessment is "by its nature an unpopular undertaking," but added that revaluation is supposed to shift the tax burden from those properties formerly overassessed to those underassessed. This includes a $3.5 million shift from commercial, industrial and personal property to residential property.

In the statement Finnegan said "less than half of those (people) with tax increases requested hearings, which bears out the quality of the appraisals..."

Of these, Finnegan claimed 60% have only sought information and offer no specific challenge to their assessments.

"The bottom line, " said Finnegan, "is that of those asking for hearings only about a tenth allege an assessment error greater than 10%, and offer any supporting evidence."

Monkey business is serious stuff

Tony and Angelo: Entertaining duo

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTONVILLE - You could call what Tony Lupo and his friend, Angelo, do "monkey business" but that wouldn't be quite complete.

And you could say Lupo and Angelo have an equal partnership, but only Angelo has to dance.

The 32-year-old Lupo, of Newtonville, and his 18-month-old monkey, Angelo, make up "Hurdy Gurdy, Monkey and Me," a travelling old-style organ grinder show, complete with striped shirts, tricks and music.

While Tony cranks away on either his 35-year-old Italian street piano, or his 140-year-old classic hurdy gurdy, Angelo pumps the crowd for quarters, plucking change from the palms of grinning kids and climbing up legs to search the pockets of willing adults.

Lupo, with his broad moustache and colorful striped attire, began the business about a year ago. He trained the 18-inch-high Angelo, through a system of positive rewards, and now the monkey performs simple card tricks, a shell game and dances, on cue, to the music.

The pair have performed regularly at Quincy Market in Boston, the spring festival in Newton, county fairs and private parties throughout the region.

Although the duet brings smiles to crowds which gather around whenever they set up, Lupo sees the trade as carrying on a tradition from the "old country."

Organ grinders came to the United States around 1860, Lupo said, to get away from an economic depression in Italy. They would work the streets with organs and monkeys, earning money to send back to support families in Italy.

These days, Lupo said, hurdy gurdy men are hard to come by.

"You've got to search around for one these days," he said during a break in a Quincy Market performance Friday. "This is my career. It would be a shame to let something like this go. If it wasn't for somebody like me you just wouldn't see an organ grinder around anymore."

In addition to keeping up the tradition, Lupo said he's also trying to clean up the image some people have of hurdy gurdy men.

More of the monkey, page 18

"At one time organ grinders used to keep their instruments out of tune just so people would pay them to stop playing," he said with a laugh. "And some people think monkeys are dirty animals, but they're not if you take care of them.

"I'm trying to keep the image clean," he noted.

So with his tiny monkey on a leash, and his hurdy gurdy cart at hand, Tony Lupo carries on his monkey business in a very serious way.

School board votes final tab

Mayor abstains on budget

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — With little fanfare, the School Committee Monday night gave its final nod to a more than $39.1 million school budget.

Two amendments to the budget, amounting to a decrease of about $5,000 from the fuel oil account, were not enough to prompt Mayor Theodore Mann to support the budget which includes the reduction of about 31 teacher and staff positions based on declining enrollment.

'I feel the abstention after the straw vote I cast earlier is a clear indication of the kind of perplexing situation that I find myself in.'
Mayor Theodore Mann

Although Mayor Mann voted in opposition to the budget when the initial "straw" vote was taken two weeks ago, he abstained from Monday's vote.

School Committee support of the budget was unanimous.

Although Mann said he has abstained from voting on the school budget in the past, his votes are nevertheless an indication that the school budget, which represents a 3.7 percent increase in this second

School sewer funds approved

NEWTON — With a $1.5 million law suit against a Norwood architectural firm pending for alleged design deficiencies, Aldermen Monday night approved $900,000 to repair a broken sewer line at the F.A. Day Junior High School.

City attorneys claim architectural deficiencies have resulted in the broken sewer line and left the school "unfit for school purposes." Building Commissioner Allan Fraser said the sewage problem must be repaired if the school is going to be operated beyond the 1981-82 year. The architectural firm named in the suit is: Korslund, LeNormand and Quann.

Aldermen approved the funds by an 18 to 1 vote at a special meeting. Repair plans can get underway immediately. After the vote, Fraser said his department will have the job completed before summer.

The repair of the sewage line comes in the wake of complaints from angry Warren Junior High School parents and officials. The School Committee voted last June to close the Washington Street school rather

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — At least five decomposed dog and cat carcasses have been illegally ditched at the former Rumford Avenue dump, prompting an aldermanic investigation into charges of wrongdoing against city Department of Public Works (DPW) employees.

Alderman Richard McGrath and a resident abutting the land fill have charged DPW employees dumped the dogs. The animal carcasses with a horrible stench - several in plastic trash bags - have apparently remained strewn on the site for four to five months.

McGrath, chairman of the Public Facilties Committee, has requested an aldermanic investigation into the illegal dumping and has filed a docket item that will be taken up by his committee.

McGrath wants to know how the animals were killed and why they were deposited at the site. As a result, he has requested that the city freeze the carcasses until the Public Facilties Committee investigation is completed.

'You try to build up an image of keeping the place clean and when it is not, it is very distressing.'
DPW head Charles Thomas

Joseph Rogers, who lives behind the dump on Wabasso Road, claims he saw a city truck pull up and then watched the plastic trash bags containing the carcasses being thrown over the steep plateau behind his home.

Rogers said many residents also illegally dump trash at the site. "It's too bad," he said. "Sure I'd like to see them clean it up."

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas made a trip to the site Monday afternoon with McGrath. As a result, the carcasses were scheduled to be removed by public works employees Tuesday.

McGrath, who investigated reports of the carcasses after complaints from constituents, claims dogs have been buried in the past at the site by city employees.

Thomas said he received complaints of the carcasses four or five months ago and ordered several employees to dispose of the decomposed animals. The employees apparently disregarded the order, according to Thomas, and were "reprimanded" Monday.

Thomas refused to cite the action taken against employees, but he confirmed the individuals involved were not suspended. "They have been reprimanded and that is all I am going to say about it," he said.

The site, which is bounded by Rumford Avenue, Staniford Street, and Lexington Street, has not been used as a dump since the mid-seventies when the city began use of the adjacent waste facility as a transfer-haul station for disposal of city trash in Amesbury. The city spent $500,000 for a cleanup of the site at that time.

The site has since been downgraded by illegal dumping of building materials and other trash. On a recent visit to the site, McGrath was quick to point to the illegal dumping. He has also charged that the dump is encroaching on wetlands in violation of a state permit.

Installment plan on tax bills okay, with interest

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Taxpayers unable to pay property tax increases under revaluation can make partial payments, but will be charged 14 percent interest per annum on the remaining debt.

City Treasurer Theodore Scafidi told aldermen Monday night his office does accept partial payments, but under state law the city is required to charge interest.

"A lot of people are under the misunderstanding they must have the payment all at once," he said. "We do at present time accept partial payments."

Scafidi was before aldermen to discuss a proposal for a one time arrangement installment payments for homeowners facing dramatic property tax increases. The proposal, which needs state legislative approval, was held by the Aldermanic Finance Committee. Many officials maintain the installment payment plan has little chance of state legislative approval. Alderman Sondra Shick docketed the proposal.

$90,000 award will be appealed

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee is appealing to the Massachusetts Supreme Court a recent lower court decision which granted $90,000 in damages to a group of Newton school custodians as the result of a five-year court battle.

Calling the case "a landmark decision," the School Committee is seeking direct review of the Superior Court decision by the state Supreme Court on the grounds that the case sets a precedent in the area of bargaining obligations of public-sector officials.

The suit was brought by the independent union which represents the custodians, Local 454, in July 1976 over the layoffs of seven custodians due to cutbacks in the school budget.

Although the president of the union, Robert Robards, has called the length of the suit "a crime," the case promises to drag on even longer with interest on the back-pay settlements continuing to mount.

Although the School Committee's legal brief on the case was due March 1, it was granted a one-month extension. According to Alan McDonald, the Boston attorney representing the custodians, the brief for the custodians must be submitted within 30 days of the filing of the School Committee case.

School board sees 'landmark' case; asks court review

McDonald was originally hopeful that the case would be heard "sometime in the spring," but says the extension makes that an "impossibility."

The long history of the lawsuit includes a 1978 decision by the state labor commission ordering the rehiring of all the custodians as well as back-pay hearings.

In November 1981, the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission awarded $90,000 in damages to six of the seven custodians. Seven-percent-per-year interest amounting to more than $30,000 was included in the sum.

However, the School Committee appealed to Superior Court, which supported earlier findings in favor of the custodians, but denied the interest payment.

As a result, the School Committee is appealing the entire case, while the custodians are appealing for the interest payment as well as back pay for the seventh custodian who was not included in the November labor commission decision.

According to Robards, the union made an offer to settle for back pay alone earlier in the lawsuit, but the School Committee kept appealing the case "so now we're looking at a great deal of cash."

In its November 1981 decision, the labor commission decided in favor of the custodians because the School Committee refused five years ago to bargain with the union over the layoffs.

"They (the School Committee) did everything but bargain with them," McDonald said "It's in nobody's interest to litigate in the long run if you can solve a problem by negotiation at the outset."

"I think it is fair to say that this is the lead case decision by the (state) labor relations commission with respect to the duty of a municipal employer to bargain over the decision to lay employees off and the impact of that decision," McDonald said.

"On the other hand the legal principles involved and used by the commission in resolving the matter in my view are not new at all, but are long-standing propositions in both the private and public labor sectors," he said.

Three South students readmitted to classes

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL - A Newton South High School official said last week three girls who were suspended from school because they refused to discuss last week's racial incident there were readmitted to classes last Thursday.

"After a long conversation with the girls and their parents, they decided to try to be tolerant. If not, they'll be suspended again and further disciplinary action will be taken," said Cutler House Housemaster Judy Malone Neville.

School Principal Ernest Van Sedsholes asked Neville to discuss the events with the girls involved in the fight and unravel the facts leading to the incident. Most of the girls involved are from Cutler House, according to Neville.

According to school and police officials, the fight began about 9 a.m. two weeks ago among five or six black and white girls in a school bathroom. The confrontation continued outside with verbal and physical attacks among 30 girls. No boys were involved in the incident.

Nine girls were immediately suspended for a day. When they returned to school the following day, Seasholes told them they would have to talk about the problem or be suspended. Two white girls and a black girl refused to discuss the matter, left the building and exchanged racial slurs as they departed, according to Seasholes and Police Lt. Charles Feeley.

"With the faculty's cooperation, we are planning ongoing discussions so that we can iron out the girls' feelings. We're dealing with adolescents who can learn to interact with one another," said Neville.

Neville and other school officials, during several lenghthy discussions with the group, discovered the problem had existed among some of the girls since the start of the school year and that for many it began when they were students at the former Meadowbrook Junior High School, now the Charles E. Brown Junior High School.

As to how the original incident started, Neville and others said the facts were still unclear. Reports that the argument began after a white girl asked a group of black girls for a marijuana pipe inside the bathroom were dismissed as the cause because the incident occurred one week earlier. Also, both groups of girls are saying that the other side initiated the situation with harassment, according to Seasholes.

School officials say that other blacks and whites are interacting well at the school and that the racial problem is limited to that particular group of girls.

"We're hoping to involve professionals (such as school psychologists) who are skilled at verbal interaction," said Neville, who said the girls involved needed to talk about their problems.

Fire station analysis appears unlikely

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — An outside consultant's study on the effects of the proposed closing of the Manet Road fire station appears to be unlikely as a result of a Public Safety Committee vote Monday against the item.

The aldermanic committee, which two weeks ago requested Mayor Theodore Mann to initiate funding for a study on the department, thought an in- depth study on the public safety impact of the proposed closing could not be conducted under the executive department's guidelines.

Deputy Mayor James Hickey informed the committee that two consultants, including one which had just completed a six-week study of the Boston Fire Department, have told the city they could conduct a study on the impact of the Manet Road closing on a three-week timetable at a cost of $5,000.

The committee failed to act on a $10,000 appropriation request by the mayor submitted in response to the original consultant request by the Board of Aldermen. The Aldermanic Finance Committee voted to hold the item until the Public Safety Committee moved the request.

"I have mixed up feelings about it," said Alderman Richard McGrath of the study. "I don't know if $10,000 is sufficient." He noted that the city spent $40,000 for an overall study of the city's garbage pick-up service a year ago and it has yet to be completed.

'It seems as though the $10,000 is a cosmetic answer to the concerns of the committee by the administration. The only reasonable thing to do is to postpone the study so we can evaluate this properly.'

--Alderman Richard McGrath

"I think the $10,000 request is being used to pacify the board," said Alderman Elaine Gentile.

"It seems as though the $10,000 is a cosmetic answer to the concerns of the committee by the administration," said McGrath. "The only reasonable thing to do is to postpone the study so we can evaluate this properly."

Fire Union Chief Robert Merullo said if he were an alderman, he would ask the mayor to come in with a realistic price for an in-depth study.

Fire Chief Edward Reilly proposed the Manet Road fire station closing in response to a directive from Mann that all city departments incur a 4.5-percent budget cut in the 1983 fiscal year. Hickey said during the committee meeting that not all departments will be forced to incur the requested cuts.

Hickey and Reilly insisted that the cut was made with consideration to public safety and not alone as a "fiscal decision" as several aldermen suggested. Reilly did not believe there was any necessity to have an in-depth study of the fire department.

Both officials pointed toward the International Services Office report conducted in 1977 which said the department "has an adequate number" of engine and ladder companies and gave the department an A-2 rating, the highest attainable.

According to Reilly, the city would maintain an A-2 rating despite the loss of an engine company. At the time of the ISO report, the city had in operation ten engine companies and three ladder companies. The city would have eight engine companies and three ladder companies after the Manet Road station closes.

"We know it will save money," said Alderman Verne Vance, whose ward is serviced by Manet Road and proposed the idea of a consultant's study of the Fire Department, "We don't know if it will compromise public safety."

"Nobody has given me a sense of what the pertinent standards are and how Newton meets or fails to meet those standards," said Vance. Both Vance and Alderman Michael Malec expressed their discomfort with the cut based on the 1977 ISO report.

Alderman Rodney Barker, however, disagreed with his collegaues noting "the bottom line" of the report was that Newton had an A-2 rating and that the chief had said the city would maintain the rating even after the closing of a station.

Oak Hill auction is on Wednesday

NEWTON CENTRE - Oak Hill School PTA Vice-president and auctioneer Sandy Perrin announced plans this week for a "two-hour express auction" at the school on Wednesday, March 31 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The school is located at 130 Wheeler Road.

The fund-raising auction will include all new merchandise, including a Raleigh bicycle, flower arrangements, a black and white television, cameras, gift certificates, tickets and more.

The public is invited to this free auction and all proceeds go to benefit the Oak Hill School.

Newton Police reports

Hobby shop vandalized

NEWTONVILLE — Vandals broke two windows and caused $700 damage Sunday to the Ken Kaye Krafts hobby shop, 863 Washington St., police reported.

According to police, who reported the incident at 2:45 p.m., the vandals apparently used a pellet gun to break the store's front window and plate glass window above the front door.

Car window shattered

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The owner of a 1978 Subaru reported that someone shattered his car window.

According to police, the incident occurred sometime Sunday in the driveway of a Lake Avenue home. Police said the rear window of the car was shattered with BBs from a pellet gun.

Auto stolen from lot

CHESTNUT HILL — A 1975 Eldorado was stolen Sunday night from the Chestnut Hill cinema parking lot, police reported.

The theft occurred between 8:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m., according to police.

Tool box taken from truck

NEWTON CENTRE — Police reported that a tool box worth $200 was stolen Monday morning from a city truck parked at 1164 Centre St.

According to police, no damage was reported to the vehicle.

Vandals smash windows

NEWTON CORNER — Both the Newton Corner and Newtonville sites of Frost Motors car dealership were struck by vandals Sunday night when several windows were smashed.

Police reported that the vandals smashed three 8'x10' panes of glass at 624 Washington St., Newtonville and four 6'x10' panes of glass at 399 Washington St., Newton Corner. The damage occurred between 5 p.m. and 7:30 a.m., according to police.

Roslindale pair arraigned on Newton break charges

NEWTON — A 34-year-old man and a 22-year-old woman were arraigned Tuesday in District Court on charges of breaking and entering in the day with intent to commit a felony, police said.

Arthur R. Garey and Robin L. Cole, each of 855 American Legion Highway, Roslindale, were arrested Friday afternoon inside a Waverley Avenue home they allegedly had broken into.

Police sped to the scene after receiving a report of a break-in in progress at 4:34 p.m. and allegedly saw Garey and Cole descending a stairs inside the home.

Police said they "patted down" the suspects and found a screwdriver on Cole and jewelry on Garey. Allegedly, the jewelry had been taken from a second-floor bedroom in the house. Police said that part of that bedroom had been ransacked.

Arson trial delayed in Cambridge court

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The case of three people charged with the $2 million fire last Aug. 14 at the former Meadowbrook Junior High School was continued Monday and may be tied up for several months because of motions filed by the defendants' attorneys, according to a court official.

In Cambridge Superior Court Monday Judge Paul Garrity sent the case to a trial session with Judge Stephen Steel, where the case may also be continued for several months.

According to Middlesex County Assistant District Attorney Thomas Brennan, one defense attorney filed a motion to have the defendants tried separately and another attorney filed for a continuance because of a commitment to a case in federal court. As a result of the attorneys' actions, the proceedings may be delayed for several months, Brennan said.

Three 19-year-olds, Eric R. Krasnigor, of 90 Clearwater Rd., Newton, Michael K. Masterson, of 209 Park Ave., West Roxbury, and Leslie Alberts, of 96 Levbert Rd., Newton are charged with arson and breaking and entering in the night in connection with the incident.

The three were arrested by Newton police the morning after the blaze of the Oak Hill school which has since been renamed the Charles E. Brown Junior High School.

The defendants were arraigned in Newton District Court where during a Sept. 23 hearing Judge Monte Basbas found probable cause. The case was sent to Superior Court of Cambridge. In December, a grand jury indicted Alberts, Krasnigor and Masterson.

According to Brennan, Albert's attorney, William Homans of Boston, is preparing for a lengthy trial in federal court. Homans will be tied up for several months with the case and as a result requested a continuance for Albert's case, according to Brennan.

"The basic problem is his other commitment," said Brennan.

In addition to the continuance, Brennan said defense attorneys filed motions to have Krasnigor tried separately from Alberts and Masterson. The motion was filed "Because of certain statements that were made," said Brennan, though he declined to comment further on the denfendant's statements.

The maximum penalty for arson of a public school building is 10 years in a state prison or 2 ½ years in the house of correction. The maximum penalty for breaking and entering in the night is 20 years in a state prison or 2 ½ years in the house of correction.

Brennan stated that the arson case would normally be a trial by jury, though the defendants can waive their right to a jury trial and appear before a judge.

Brennan said he does not expect many witnesses to be presented, but the trial could be lengthy.

"I think what they'll do is make an attempt to have them (the defendants) plead," Brennan said. "If that is refused then the judge may have the case continued."

Judge Steel is expected to hear the case sometime next week, according to Brennan.

Dogs dropped at dump, clean up is underway

As a result of a review of the land fill, Thomas has promised an extensive cleanup.

"I wasn't too happy with the way it looked," the commissioner said. "We are going to do some cleanup work there."

"We actually put a lot of effort to clean it up," added Thomas. "I thought we had been successful. That is one reason this is so disheartening."

Thomas said he did not know who dumped the dogs at the site.

Responding to charges that it may have been DPW employees, he said: "I think anything is a possibility. But, unless, there is somebody who saw something I don't know how we'll ever know. It's an allegation. I can't deal with that because it can't be proved."

Police are responsible for enforcing dumping regulations after the site is locked up every weeknight and on weekends. DPW personnel are responsible for the site during the working day, according to Thomas.

"No one knows who dumped them there," said Police Chief William Quinn. "This just came to my attention."

According to Thomas, dead animals are normally taken to a freezer and sent to the Boston Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals where they are incinerated.

"You try to build up an image of keeping the place clean and when it is not, it is very distressing," said Thomas. He said the cleanup of the site, which is an ongoing process, will be a "constant project for the next two months."

School sewer repair funding is approved than F.A. Day. Now, parents are charging coverup, claiming school officials were aware of the Warren problems and did not make it an issue in the closing decision. School Committee officials have denied the charges.

"It's not very difficult," Fraser said of the repair work. "Not technically difficult. It's just a lot of hard dirty work." Fraser illustrated the sewerage break below the school with a color diagram.

An extensive investigation into the sewerage problems at the school began last April after repeated sewer backups and other related problems.

An excavation was made last August "which disclosed a complete seperation of the sanitary sewer line at the school," according to city officials. Excavations at six other locations verified the break. City attorneys filed the law suit claiming breach of contract on March 2.

Fraser said the sewerage break currently poses no safety or health hazard. However, he assured that he would bar the school from opening next year if the work is not completed. The city has hired the Middleboro design company, E.J. Flynn, to begin design work on the sewer break.

Mechem scholarship fund is still growing

NEWTON - Since the Richard W. Mechem scholarship fund was established this winter, officials in charge say people in Newton and the surrounding area have been most generous.

The award, which will be given for the first time at Newton North High School's graduation on June 16 at Dickinson Stadium, honors Principal Richard W. Mechem, who will retire at the end of this school year following 22 years of dedicated service.

The award committee announced its thanks to those who have contributed so far.

Tax deductible contributions may still be sent to Norman Gaudet, Newton North High, Adams House, 360 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, 02160. Checks should be made payable to the Richard W. Mechem Award.

Three weeks ago the Newton School Committee approved Cambridge School administrator Marya Levenson as a replacement for Mechem.

Levenson's appointment came after a lengthy search which drew almost 100 applications from around the country.

School budget okayed year of Proposition 2½, may prompt considerably more fanfare when it reaches the Board of Aldermen in the next few weeks.

Under Proposition 2½, the School Committee lost fiscal autonomy to the Board of Aldermen.

Although Mann said he originally asked city departments to decrease their budgets for next year by four percent, he has said the effects of those cuts were too severe and would result in personnel cutbacks in public safety and other departments which he could not support. He has since revised his request and is asking for no more than a 2.5-percent increase in municipal budgets.

Mayor Mann intimated Monday night he would support the same approximate increase in the school department budget.

He said in explanation of his abstention, "Over the years I think I've earned my credentials as a supporter of this school system. I've had to make some very serious calls at times."

"I feel that abstention after the straw vote I cast earlier is a clear indication of the kind of perplexing situation that I find myself in," Mann told the committee.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann thanked Superintendent Aaron Fink for "a remarkable job" on putting together the "tightest possible budget while maintaining excellence."

"I'm delighted that we can say with confidence that this is a budget which maintains excellence," she said.

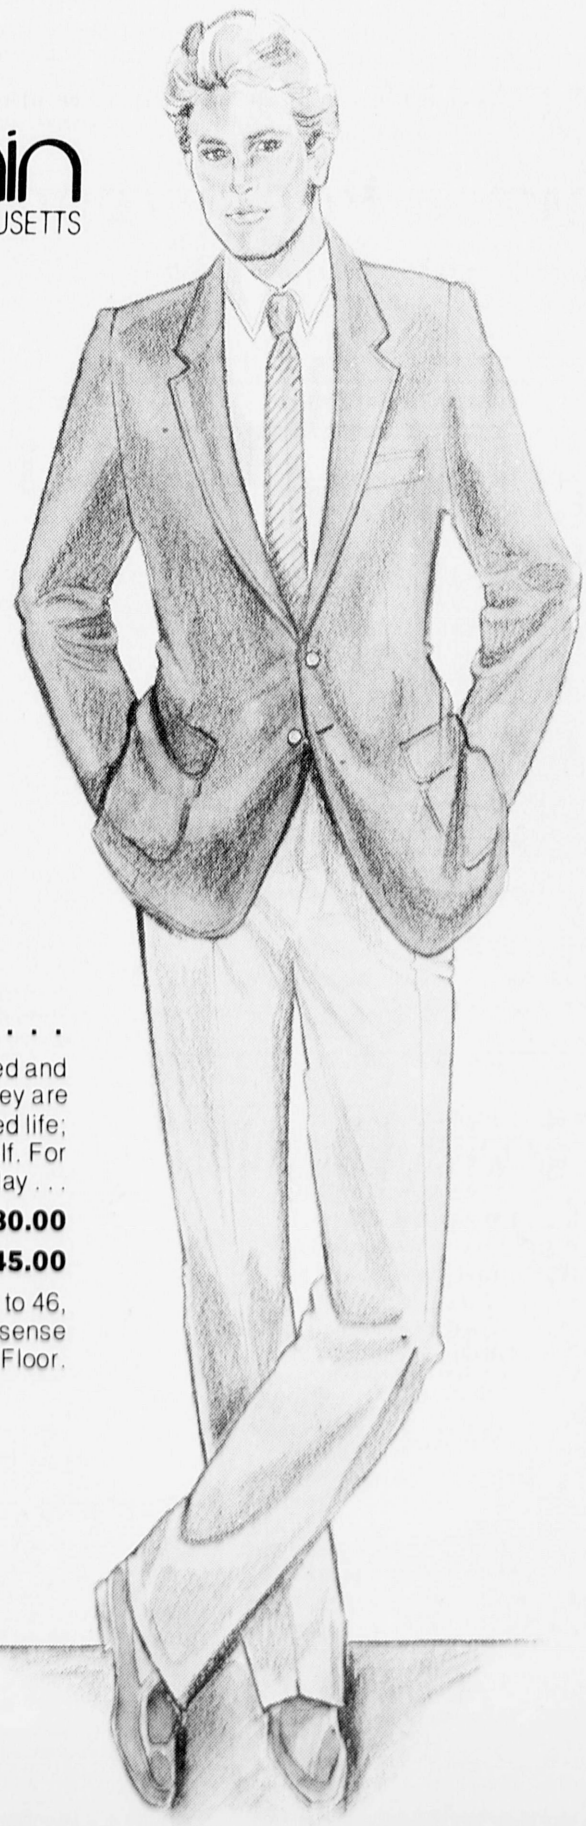

Amended Monday night at the meeting at F.A. Day Junior High was the fuel oil account and the School Committee's share of funding for Newton Community Schools.

Fink said there was "some discrepancy" between the school and city budgets since the schools set their budget figure for #2 heating oil based on a price of $1.40 a gallon and the city was using a price of $1.20 a gallon.

The committee approved using the city's figure which meant a reduction of $5,750 from the $1.1 million fuel oil account.

Fink also advised the committee that the city had reached an agreement on salary increases for Newton Community Schools personnel which meant that the School Committee share of that overall budget should increase by $426 over the current $25,608.

A rumor of war from Washington

Did you hear the one about the survivable nuclear war?

You know. The story about how everybody piles into the family wagon, heads up to New Hampshire, stops along the roadside, piles dirt over the car and waits out the nuclear Holocaust.

Well that's the joke out of Washington these days and it comes out of some small, but influential corners.

A survivable, limited nuclear "confrontation."

Calling a nuclear war a confrontation is like calling World War II a police action. And saying such a thing is survivable is akin to saying total destruction of a city is a good opportunity for urban renewal.

This weekend, in three churches around the city (see Around Newton, page 20) Drs.Helen and William Caldicott will be speaking on the dangers of nuclear war, as they have done time and again. Along with their talks will be screenings of the Academy Award nominee movie "Eight Minutes to Midnight," about the horrors of nuclear war.

Helen Caldicott, head of Physicians for Social Responsibility, has lectured around the world and will, we hope, continue to carry her message that nuclear war is unthinkable.

The only problem, as she points out, is that some in Washington seem to be thinking about it.

To suggest that we can plan and control a nuclear war is suicide, plain and simple.

Dozens of communities in New England, including the city of Newton, have voiced condemnation of continued nuclear escalation. The rallying cry for the 1980s is for across-the-board nuclear disarmament, and discontinuance of nuclear weapons development. The call is for a return to sanity.

The nuclear weapon drum beating of the Reagan administration could be the ultimate downfall of us all.

Such talk is not far-fetched. And it is no longer the ravings of liberals and college students.

It should be a demand from all of us that the powers that be take a close look at the consequences of their actions.

"If only Ed Asner was president of the United States, and Ronald Reagan was president of the Screen Actors Guild!"

Opinions

We can only print what we are told

By Jonathan Greenspan

There is one line from the flick Absence of Malice which has stuck with me since my first viewing of the film.

It is when Michael Gallagher (Paul Newman), an alleged mobster, is confronted by Megan Carter (Sally Field), an investigative reporter, who is trying to uncover Gallagher's connections to the disapperance of a prominent union leader.

A poignant Gallagher, fed up with Carter's reporting exploits, informs her that she "doesn't print the truth," but rather, "what people tell her."

Gallagher had a point. Concerning revaluation in this city, we, (the press) have not necessarily printed the truth, but what people have told us.

Reporters are a public resource. They are in most cases gatherers of information. We listen, ask questions, pry some, and report.

Concerning revaluation, we have printed what we have been told by city officials. We do not make up figures, nor do we name the top assessor; we print the numbers spoken in our presence.

When the Acton firm, Finnegan Associates entered into the $600,000 plus contract with the city, we were told that the job would be completed in an eight-month time-frame. The press was told that the normal period for such an undertaking was 18 months.

Robert Finnegan said he was "confident" the project could be completed by January 1, 1982. It is now March 24 and commercial property has yet to be certified.

The press was told throughout the mayoral campaign by Mayor Theodore Mann that one-third of the homeowners in the city would face higher tax bills, one-third would remain the same and the final third would pay lower bills. Any look at pre-election rhetoric will bear this out.

> 'All along we have printed what city officials have told us. However, several weeks ago, that liberty was placed in jeopardy...'

We were then told by the city assessors that the average increase for homeowners would be $150. Afterwards, it was indicated to the press that 12,000 of the city's 22,000 homeowners would face increased tax bills of $200 or more.

Last week, city assessors finally came out with a detailed analysis of the effect of the revaluation on residential property. The data shows that 75 percent of 22,309 city homeowners will pay increased tax bills.

Broken down further, the information reveals that 35 percent or 7,762 homeowners will pay increases of $500 or more. Another 5,931 taxpayers will be forced to pay increases of at least $200.

Yet, in releasing the detailed data, the assessors failed to give out a ward by ward breakdown of the increases and decreases. The information is based on the old ward and precinct breakdowns making a ward by ward analysis virtually impossible and according to Alan Licarie, the City Election Commissioner, "like comparing apples and oranges."

The press crys foul. The assessors' data is an inadequate response to a question many have posed and will continue to want answered.

All along, we have printed what city officials have told us. However, several weeks ago, that liberty was placed in jeopardy.

After the press reported that Harold Brady was demoted from the city's top assessor post and replaced by Robert Palmer, we were told that the department would no longer answer "spontaneous verbal questions" from the media.

All questions must now be in writing and a written reponse will in turn be prepared by the Board of Assessors.

For radio and television, the statements must be submitted prior to the interview with the assessing department.

As a result of this crackdown on "spontaneous questions," it took The Newton Graphic a full week to receive answers from a host of questions submitted on Tuesday, March 9.

The Board of Assessors by refusing to answer these questions from the press, was deliberately ignoring the public's right to know. A delay in response is in effect censorship.

The public does not want answers tomorrow or next week. They want them today. The department's new policy is a slap in the public's face, not only the media's.

The press did not demote Brady. His two colleagues voted him out. The press just reported on the incident prior to the official announcement from the mayor's office.

We did not make up the numbers given to us. Approximately 8,100 citizens have scheduled hearings questioning the revaluation figures - twice the number originally anticipated.

The press printed both figures and when the final number was announced, printed the anticipated number beside it. Each figure was attributed.

We have reported throughout the revaluation process that the average assessment for single and two family homes will jump between 700 and 800 percent.

The press did not make up these figures. However, we cannot swear to their accuracy. Like everything else during this revaluation, they have been given to us.

And we have used them in good faith.

Taxpayers' revolt; fed up with fees

By Steven Burke

City officials are beginning to feel the force of a taxpayer's revolt. Newton residents are fed up with taxes, user fees, license fees and soaring property taxes.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer and Mann administration officials got their first ugly site of the throngs of residents protesting the sharp assessment and property tax bill increases under revaluation at a public hearing last week that was canceled because the 1,500 furious taxpayers posed a potential safety hazard at City Hall.

The canceled hearing, complete with catcalls and frequent outbursts, was a glaring view of the widespread taxpayer malaise.

This all comes in the wake of the first year implementation of Proposition 2½ - the taxpayer measure that never took place in Newton and most other Massachusetts cities and towns. A new law that was designed to reduce property taxes by limiting a city or town's tax levy to 2½ percent of the full and fair market value.

Sure, Proposition 2½ became law. But has Newton and other cities and towns really been forced to make the disastrous cuts originally predicted?

In this the first year of Proposition 2½, the city of Newton will raise more in revenue than ever before. City officials have implemented a wide array of measures to circumvent the law.

> 'Taxpayers are now getting their first look at that unprecedented revaluation which has allegedly put property at full and fair market value.'

Newton and other cities and towns have implemented a broad range of fees for everything under the sun - fees for the use of recreational facilities, fees for licenses in every department from building to health to the City Clerk's office, increased parking meter fees, and a trash collection fee for local businesses. Fees. Fees. Fees.

Newton also walloped taxpayers with a new sewer user tax to raise an additional $2 million in revenue.

In addition, the city, often accused of dragging its feet on revaluation, quickly implemented an "accelerated" revaluation effort that allowed the city to avoid $11 million in cuts that would have been required.

After an extensive search, city assessors came up with a grand total of one firm that was willing to take on the monstrous revaluation project in only eight months - Finnegan Associates of Acton. Even the president of the firm admitted that a revaluation of this magnitude within the eight month time frame was "unprecedented."

Taxpayers are now getting their first look at that "unprecedented" revaluation which has allegedly put property at "full and fair market value."

Barbara Anderson, the driving force behind Proposition 2½, recently speculated that the tax cutting measure, would pass handily in Newton if an election was held here tommorow. She's right.

The financial squeeze is on and taxpayers are fighting mad - mad enough to toss more than a couple of public officials out on their rear end if an election was held tommorow.

As city officials prepare budgets for the second year of Proposition 2½, they would do well to listen to the taxpayers - the taxpayers that voted for Proposition 2½ and the taxpayers that are turning out in droves to protest property tax bill increases.

Marking time

Better circle the wagons, sheriff

By Mark White

It was like deja vu. I had seen it all before, the angry mob standing in the aisles, the aldermen sitting in their seats, listening intently, cars surrounding City Hall like Indians circling a wagon train.

Thoughts go back to spring, 1975, the night of the public hearing on the first revaluation.

It was a hot night and people were angry. I remember a group of citizens standing under the mayor's window singing "We Shall Overcome."

I remember the screaming and yelling inside the chamber.

And I remember people vaulting the railing, forcing the aldermen out of their seats and into the corners of the chamber, surrounded by police.

And now it's seven years later but nothing had changed except the date.

But this time my perception is different. As I observed the whole scene my mind starts to picture a western movie...

I see a town in the Old West - the General Store, the blacksmith's shop, the sheriff's office.

Suddenly a crowd gathers and the crowd turns quickly into a mob.

The sheriff, Alderman Paul Coletti, paces his office concerned about the trouble brewing outside. Around him, his deputies, Depasquale, McGrath, Carmichael and Jefferson; Bauckman, Sheehan, Shea, Gentile, Bullwinkle, Vance and Taglienti.

In the back, near the exit, sit the Board of Assessors and Robert Finnegan, the appraiser. They sit calmly and quietly, but they appear increasingly apprehensive.

Finally the chants start - "Give us the assessors. We want the assessors. We want to be heard!"

"They don't deserve a fair trial! Let us show them justice! Let's lynch them right here in City Hall!"

Coletti turns to his deputies and says, "The crowd is getting ugly. We have to do something!"

Deputy Bullwinkle suggests they move to another site where thhe crowd can be handled properly. Other deputies, particularly Shea, Sheehan, Bauckman and Taglienti feel the mob ought to be faced tonight.

Coletti takes charge. He positions the assessors near the rear door and then steps outside to face the angry crowd.

"There will be no mob rule in my town," he declares. "We want to listen to your complaints. We want to get input. But the assessors deserve a fair trial.

"We know that you're angry but there is very little that we can do about it an lynching the assessors will accomplish nothing."

> 'Give us the assessors!' the crowd chanted. But Sheriff Coletti replied, 'Lynching the assessors will accomplish nothing.'

The crowd grows larger and the street is now totally blocked. The fire department expresses concern about the passage of emergency vehicles.

Coletti, impressive in his ability to take charge during this volatile situation, pleads for reason and for people to clear the streets. No one moves.

He goes back inside to confer with his deputies. "GEt the assessors out of here. The situation is getting out of hand. I don't know how much longer we can control the crowd," he says.

One deputy chimes in: "Why don't we give them Finnegan?"

There is concern that the sheriff and deputies can't make the crowd understand that the assessors aren't to blame for this situation, that the assessors are not villains but good people thrust into a difficult situation they didn't create.

One wonders why the crowd doesn't march on the offices of Citizens for Limited Taxation, or the State House, or the Department of Corporations and Taxation, or the homes of some local politicians for creating the problem.

But all of that is irrelevant now. The crowd is justifiably upset and needs an outlet for its anger. They've chosen the assessors.

Coletti is stymied. Some deputies want to change location. Some want to face the crowd down, right here. What to do?

Suddenly, a cloud of dust appears and in rides the cavalry, dressed in Fire Department uniforms, with orders for the crowd to disperse.

Coletti breathes a sigh of relief.

Deputy Depasquale steps forward and says, "Well we survived this one but what happens next time?"

All the deputies shrug their shoulders and slowly file out into the street. And the street is calm once more. The sheriff and his deputies deserve the thanks of the town for controlling a potentially explosive situation.

Suddenly, I snap back into relaity. As I look into the angry City Hall crowd, I remember my dream and I repeat to myself, "It's only a movie. It's only a movie. It's only a movie..."

Letters to the editor

Reader concerned by 'timid' school board

To the editor:

(The following is an open letter to the Newton School Committee)

As a Hyde School parent, I was quite disturbed at last week's (3/8) consideration of the Hyde School restoration. You were presented with a simple request–to continue to push the city to appropriate the funds necessary for an architect to assess the feasibility, compared with other options, of restoring the fire-damaged building for mixed-use, i.e., use for both educational and non-educational purposes. This is an option whose study you have previously requested (unanimously) and it is an option which has very strong support with the Hyde district, among both parents and non-parents.

Several aspects of the discussion troubled me. First, the resistance expressed by many on the board to even studying the mixed-use option seems quite short-sighted in the face of the major problems and changes facing school systems today. Mixed-use as an option is important not just to Hyde but has surfaced as an issue in other schools, and will continue to, as a result of declining enrollments, crises (such as fires), and declining resources from city, state, and feds to maintain existing space.

The key issues is not, as stated, meeting the short-term, minimum space needs at Hyde. Rather it is the long-term need to consolidate resources in creative new ways to meet both educational and other community needs in the face of major changes in the extent of source of those resources. This long-term view simply demands that mixed-use be at least evaluated. It may or may not turn out to be feasible, consistent with educational objectives, or cost effective. On the other hand, it may prove to be an effective way of preserving valuable school space and neighborhood schools during periods of low enrollments while also using scarce resources to meet other community needs.

Community day care illustrates the importance of a long-term view of needs and resources. At Hyde, the extended day program is a resource not just to the families who use it, but to the school as well. Without it, the double-session kindergarten classes which permitted use of Hyde School this year, would have been virtually impossible.

Such programs must become part of the long-term planning of the school system, for we can expect the demand for them to increase as the economy creates the need for more two working-parent families. If not provided one place (eg. Hyde), these needs will be taken elsewhere, overburdening other programs. They represent educationally enriching options for both family and school to serve the developmental needs of our children. Their importance to both family and school points to the necessity of thoroughly examining mixed-use options for school space. Besides, these programs can and do pay rent!

I was also surprised at how willing the committee seems to be to relinquish control over the use of the fire-damaged building. Abandoning its use as an educational facility does not mean that it will not impact, perhaps detrimentally, the educational climate and operations of Hyde School. It seems essential that the School Committee explore all options for keeping its hands on that building in order to insure that it is used in ways consistent with educational goals. The extra money (about $200,000) from the insurance settlement available to put back into that building makes retention of that space worth serious study. Mixed-use in fact seems the only option which retains some School Committee control over the building.

Above all, I am disturbed by the frighteningly timid stance the School Committee seems to be taking viz a viz the rest of the City on control of a basically educational decision. It is troubling to hear comments like, "Well, we asked the aldermen several times for this money and they said no, so its not our fault if the option isn't studied." Or statements to the effect that the committee liked the idea of mixed-use until they found out that other branches of government would have some say in its use too, making it too difficult to deal with. And there were no objections to Supt. Fink's stance that it is not the role of the School Committee to determine the nature of school space, only how much?!

In short, the committee seems to be backing off on this issue when resistance surfaces from other quarters. Yet this seems to be a particularly clear example of what happens when the committee does not aggressively pursue its own interests. An option which the committee had explicitly opposed (total renovation of the non-damaged building), has somehow been allowed to precede and probably replace an option which you unanimously endorsed for study (mixed-use). How was that allowed to happen?

This kind of weak and ambivalent stance in these matters should raise concern not only to Hyde parents but throughout Newton. This is not fundamentally an issue where one district benefits at another's expense, since the specific case has to do with restoring damaged space from insurance money.

Rather the real issue is how effectively the long-term educational needs of our children are going to be advocated in the face of the short-term politics of expediency created by Prop 2 1/2 and Reagonomics. The real questions raised by the Hyde decision are how effective your leadership is going to be on creative use of scarce resources, responsiveness to the needs of residents vs. the problems of city bureaucrats, and articulation of a long-term vision in the face of the short-sighted and parochial politics created by the pressures of 2 1/2.

'Speed of Light' race is scheduled

CHESTNUT HILL — Chestnut Hill School's third annual "Speed of Light" five-mile road race will take place on Saturday, April 24 starting at 10:30 a.m.

The race, sponsored by Stop & Shop and Fayva Shoes, will start and finish at the Chestnut Hill School, Hammond Street at Essex Road, Chestnut Hill.

The route includes part of Heartbreak Hill, one water station, and every mile will be marked. The Blue Knights Motor Cycle Police club will escort racers. Entry fee is $4 and registration is limited to the first 500 runners.

For registration forms call the school at 566-4394.

Minorities and cable TV

To the editor;

Now that many citizens of Newton are buying into the cable television system, we are becoming more aware of the range of issues raised by the introduction of the new pay system. As a new subscriber, one of my concerns is the lack of representation of ethnic minorities on the channels currently available.

Newton is a predominantly white suburb of Boston, containing significant numbers of citizens of Black, Hispanic and Asian heritage, among others. With four access channels available to Newton, all organized groups representing social, sports, political, ethnic and other interests will presumably have the opportunity to communicate with, entertain, educate or stimulate the public about a variety of issues.

Yet many of us will be drawn to the slick, costly and highly professional presentations of the commercial cable channels for a majority of our entertainment. I wonder why Continental Cablevision has chosen not to include at least one channel featuring minority programming. Whether or not the minority population is small or very small, to deprive it and the "majority" populations as well, of the opportunity to see or be exposed to programming representing a wide range of cultures is to continue the institutionalized racism from which American has historically suffered.

One of the promises of cable TV has been that with so many channels, everyone could have access. My fear is that the same lowest common denominator principle inspired by the profit motive of the conglomerates which control commercial TV will prevail on cable television; unless we citizens aggresively demand a high quality programming and channel selection which will serve not only to entertain, but to educate and to help enable all citizens to work together to create a more just society.

A most important event

To the editor;

I subscribe to The Newton Graphic because I believe in supporting a local newspaper. But I get frustrated when I read big coverage on really unimportant events.

Newton is about to have an important event and your March 17 edition gave it one sentence. With much dedicated help of many concerned Newton citizens the Academy Award nominated documentary film "Eight Minutes to Midnight" is to be shown in Newton for an entire weekend at three locations. Most important, Drs. Helen and Bill Caldicott, leaders in the nuclear disarmament movement and residents of Newton, will be speaking after the film. You don't seem to realize the privilege Newton citizens have at their fingertips!

Dr. Helen Caldicott, president of Physicians for Social Responsibility and founder of Action for Nuclear Disarmament, travels world wide lecturing before large and important groups. Dr. Bill Caldicott was the leader putting the freeze resolution before the Board of Aldermen last June and is now leading the civil defense effort in our great (?) city.

The fact that they will donate their time to a local event like this is extraordinary but they realize the importance of it. The proceeds will be divided between the production of the civil defense booklet and the Mother's Day Action for Nuclear Disarmament on the Boston Common.

How can you expect citizens to respect your paper when you won't give coverage to an event such as this, whose theme is of vital importance to every man, woman and child in this and every city?

Resolution offered to conflict involving legal fee payment

To the editor;

The controversy about paying the mayor's legal defense fees in the lawsuit brought by Diana Ossinger should call attention to the need to amend the indemnification ordinance.

The present wording of the ordinance is such that some readers might consider the payment of an outside legal fee to be part of the indemnification for liabilities incurred as a result of the suit. According to the ordinance, indemnification would be allowed only after a court decision that the defendant was not grossly negligent or wilfully malicious.

To resolve this ambiguity regarding legal fees and indemnification, some maximum amount of legal fees could be specifically designated as not "indemnity" but as a substitute for the services of the city solicitor if a conflict of interest arises. The amount would be fixed to cover the non-contingent portion of a legal defense fee.

By the avoidance of unlimited "blank checks' from the city and by the retention of more responsibility by any defendant, the proposed amendment could form the basis for a resolution of the current conflict.

'Vapid vulgarity' and movies

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to theatre owners).

Dear Theatre Owners;

Maybe we shouldn't call you dear because you are far from endearing to our sense of decency, our happiness and our pocketbooks.

One of the most delightful treats to most of us today is called "not going to the movies."

Now this may sound paradoxical but it is simply a case of negative act being transformed into positive pasttime.

Often when my friends ask me, "What are you going to do Sunday afternoon?" I answer "I'm not going to the movies."

When this response brings a look of perplexity or incredulity, I explain: "By shunning the House of Destruction I can breathe the clear, fresh 'un-popcorned' air, bask in the warm spring sun, gaze into the faces of happy, innocent children, find new depths of love and appreciation by really listening to my friends and relatives, watch the Celtics on TV, read an exciting book or play, write to or telephone a friend, etc., etc., etc."

This is a paradize compared with the captive punishment of having my nose rubbed in titillating trash, fulsome fornication, nauseous narcissism, vapid vulgarity, stale storylines, venomous violence, blatant blasphemy, and doltish dialogues.

When sanity and decency are restored to the silver screen please announce it on TV and in the press and perhaps former movie goers may give films another chance if they still remember the theatre locations.

South students say incident was 'mishandled' by media

To the editor;

The Newton South Student Council, representative of the student body of the school, would like to express its deep concern about the events of Wednesday, March 10. However, we also feel the event was mishandled by the media. What has been referred to as "racial strife throughout the school" involved only 30 students out of more than 1500.

Students left school Wednesday with little knowledge of the incident, yet due to the mass coverage, returned tense and frightened for their own safety. This fear was primarily due to reports of tension and widespread violence.

Had the press bothered to investigate the situation more fully and to look at the school community, it would have discovered that for a school so diversified, Newton South does a very good job dealing with its problems. Finally, we would like to ask that in the future, the press take measures to carefully investigate the truth behind a situation before it makes that situation worse than it really is.

Jonathan Kaplan
President

(Editor's note: Considering the treatment given the incident at South by area television stations we trust this letter was sent in their direction, also.)

BROOKLINE AND NEWTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

PARENTS OF 3 & 4 YEAR OLD CHILDREN

The Brookline and Newton Public Schools and the Department of Public Health are providing a screening program for children born between January 1, 1978 and April 1, 1979. This program is designed to identify preschool age children who may need special services. Testing will be done for vision, hearing and general development. This is a free and optional service.

For Brookline residents the screening will be held on April 14th and 15th at the Pierce School. For Newton residents it will be held April 27th at the Lincoln-Eliot School (for bilingual children), May 4th at Lincoln-Eliot, and May 6th and 7th at the Memorial-Spaulding School.

When necessary, a second appointment will be made for more in-depth screening. This is not for children entering Kindergarten this fall, 1982. They are screened in their local schools.

If you are interested in having your child screened please call 332-5588 (mornings for an appointment.

Annual sports night slated this Friday

NEWTON -The eighth Annual Sports Night highlighting the completion of the Ninth Annual St. Bernard's Boxing and Physical Fitness Program is slated for Friday, March 26 at 7 p.m. in St. Bernard's Parish Hall.

The program is under the direction of State Rep. Joseph DeNucci, who started it in 1974 for the benefit of all school-age youngsters.

Rep. DeNucci said this week the evening will begin with a karate exhibition followed by youngsters in the program participating in exhibition bouts which will have no winners or losers. The finale of the evening will be a professional wrestling exhibition.

The youngsters' exhibition bouts are designed to allow the boys to show off the skills they learned during the eight-week program, which DeNucci said "Helps them become more conscious of the importance of physical conditioning, confidence, leadership, character and a sense of sportsmanship.

"This training carries over to the classroom and athletic field and later into real life situations," DeNucci said.

Each youngster who participates in an exhibition will be presented with a trophy and all of the more than 100 boys who took part each week will receive a certificate of participation.

A number of well known sports figures will be guest referees for the youth exhibition bouts, including former middleweight champion Paul Pender, former featherweight champ Sal Bartolo, former heavyweight contender Tom McNeeley - who fought Floyd Patterson for the title - and featherweight boxers Tommy Collins and Al "Red" Priest, among others.

DeNucci said this week he wanted to thank "those dedicated persons who assisted me during the program, including Tom Pugliese and Matty Torchia, who have been with the program for its entire nine years."

"There is not way this program could be a success without the invaluable help of those who come each week to assist the boys," the state representative and former boxer said.

DeNucci cited Harry Heesch, Tom McNeeley, Billy Doherty, Steve, Bob and John Capadonna, Paul Snyder, Mike Malec, "Go Go" Girard, Joe Fannelli, John Cedrone, "Scrub" Poirier, Gene Cronin, who serves as announcer, and Richard Bulwinkle "who keeps time at the bell" as providing assistance during the program.

There is a dollar donation for sports night, which is used to defray expenses for the ring, wrestlers, trophies and other costs. The Sports Night is funded by public contributions with American Legion Post 440 and the Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association as major contributors.

The arts: a tool for coping

Ginny Fry speaks about death, a subject she has to confront every day as arts coordinator of the Hospice of the Good Shepard.

The goal of the Hospice, a private, nonprofit organization operating in coalition with NWH and other agencies, is to care for terminally-ill patients in Newton and Wellesley and to support their families during their bereavement. But with the establishment of the arts-in-hospice program last year, the Hospice staff is now concerned with the creative as well as the physical needs of their patients.

The new arts-in-hospice program is a new hospice model; it is one of only two in the country that has an arts program (the other one is in Connecticut.) Moreover, the arts program offers a new method of coping with terminal illness.

"Art allows patients an opportunity to regain a feeling of self-esteem and a sense of control over their lives," Fry says. "It allows families to share in a creative experience and therefore brings family members closer together."

She cites the example of one 16-year-old girl who has been sketching her mother and has developed into quite an accomplished artist, with Fry's help. The girl's mother, who is terminally ill, has also learned how to paint. "The art work has given them something to share and enjoy and has consequently brought them together as a family.

Fry, who has worked as a nurse's aide and a free-lance artist, has successfully combined her skills to provide the needed emotional support and artistic guidance to conduct the art sessions in patients' homes. "I see myself as a facilitator, she explains." "Whatever the patient decides to do, I join her. We draw, paint, write poetry and journals. My goal is to get the family to focus on something other than their illness. When I arrive, the families know we're not going to talk about medications or their illness, but do something totally different."

In addition to the art sessions, she also plans special events for the family. "I try to help create celebrations for the family. Once I danced as a belly dancer while the patient played the finger symbols at a party she threw with her family. It was wonderful — the patient and her family were able to enjoy themselves for an entire afternoon and were able to say their goodbyes."

Fry also brings volunteer musicians into the patients' homes. "I try to plan things that I think the patients will enjoy by following up their requests, interests or unrealized dreams."

As an outgrowth of the arts program, she recently established a children's arts workshop held every other Wednesday at the Hospice from 3 to 5 p.m. "I started the program for kids from 9 to 14 years of age who had recently lost a parent or grandparent," Fry says. She adds, "I purposely began the program before the holidays because that's when most kids realize how difficult their lives are going to be when their parents are no longer there."

The art sessions offer children a chance to be creative and to share their concerns with other children. "The Hospice is an incredibly safe place for kids to come and talk about their grief. It also provides a great form of support for them and an opportunity to help others who face similar tragedies." Most importantly, creative expression provides an opportunity for the children to share their grief. One 13-year-old boy best illustrates how he uses language to cope with his father's recent death:

My father has been my baseball coach for six years, that is six GREAT YEARS.

It was great having him for my baseball coach. He would always warm up the pitcher before the game started.

Every time I was up to bat he gave me hand signals from third base on what I should do.

Now when I look down at third base and see he's not there to give me hand signals, I say to myself before the pitch, "This one's for you, Dad."

—Barry Siegel

The arts-in-hospice program is mostly self-supported; however, the hospice staff welcomes contributions and supplies. Volunteers or artists interested in participating in the program should call the Hospice of the Good Shepard at 969-6130.

Show offs

THE WORLD of Travel
by Hank Fleming
LONDON
"Why, Sir, you find no man, at all intellectual, who is willing to leave London. No, Sir, when a man is tired of London, he is tired of life: for there is in London all that life can afford." So wrote Samuel Johnson in the 18th century and the same may be said of 20th century London. London is more than just a blend of the old and the new. It is perhaps one of the few places on earth where one can feel a part of many different centuries at the same time. From Buckingham Palace and the Tower of London to some of the world's greatest shopping and nightlife, London offers something for everyone.

Airline boots an Auburndale resident; he looks forward to his day in the court

AUBURNDALE - Charles J. Sabatier, 36, was arrested Monday by State Police because he didn't want to sit on a Delta Airline's blanket.

Sabatier was scheduled to plead innocent today in East Boston District Court to a charge of disorderly conduct, to wit, he refused to sit on a blanket for a trip to Miami aboard a Delta jetliner last Wednesday.

Sabatier's wife, Peggy, quoted her husband as saying he will plead innocent to the charge —"if I get into the courtroom which I doubt. There's no ramp."

Today, Sabatier also plans to file an official complaint with the Civil Aeronautics Board alleging a violation of his rights under Sction 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

He quote the act: "No otherwise qualified handicapped indiidual ... solely for the reason of his handicap shall be excluded from the participation in, denied the benefits of, or discriminated against under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

A Vietnam veteran, Sabatier is paralyzed from the waist down. He gets around whether it's on a wheel chair or in a car. As assistant director of the State Office for Handicapped Affairs, he commutes to the heart of Boston at One Ashburton Place right beside the State House.

Last Wednesday Sabatier rolled his wheelchair down the ramp right into a Delta jet for a flight to Miami where he was scheduled to do some consulting work for the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Once in the plane he moved over into the plane's aisle chair because his wheel chair is too wide for the plane.

But when he got to his seat, the flight attendants wanted to put a blanket under him.

The purpose of the blanket, according to Delta officials was to allow Sabatier to be readily carried out of the plane in case of a "survivable crash."

Two flight attendants (usually women) would carry the six-foot, 200-pound Sabatier off the plane, Mrs. Sabatier (she uses her maiden name, Peggy Griffin,) said.

Sabatier says he doesn't want to be discriminated against. He wants to be treated like other passengers as much as possible.

Ms. Griffin said her husband negotiated with Delta officials for more than an hour. He argued that other handicapped passengers had flown on Delta without the blanket under them.

At one point, Ms. Griffin said, other passengers told her husband that they were willing to sit on blankets. This came after the pilot said he wouldn't take off unless Sabatier sat on a blanket. If all the passengers were on a blanket, there would be no discrimination, said one passenger.

Soon the pilot went further. He said he would cancel the flight if Sabatier didn't sit on a blanket.

Delta officials finally called the State Police who patrol the airport and had Sabatier removed. Sabatier, however, says he has three witnesses who will testify he was in no way disorderly, He never raised his voice, his wife says.

Ms. Griffin (who is herself legally blind) said handicapped people "from all over" have called and expressed their sympathy and support for her husband's stand on the issue.

"Some people said they would come to the courthouse," she said, "they want to join the protest."

Last evening she was arranging for a lawyer to represent her husband so he could tell the court that he could not get into the court room in East Boston because it lacked ramps.

Their own home in Auburndale has ramps and she said it's part of her husband's work to make others more conscious of the rights of the handicapped to be able to move around and function as other people do.

"We're innocent and we're going to fight," she said.

At Delta Airlines there was no spokesman immediately available who could comment on the situation. Most of the managers, a spokesman said, were at a meeting out of town. It was expected that one would be available sometime today who was conversant with the facts of the case.

Officials blast press showing

Mayor says revaluation coverage has been unbalanced

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Many city officials, including Mayor Theodore Mann, are criticizing press coverage of revaluation as unfair and unbalanced.

"To me it appears that some reporters have been very anxious to use a scalpel instead of a pen in a manner of reporting," Mann said last Wednesday.

"When a reporter feeds on the worst, rather than balancing out a story, it does tend to promote a sitution that is not good," added Mann. The mayor refused to cite a specific newspaper or reporters.

Furthermore, Mann said inequitable assessments will be corrected by the appeals process open to all taxpayers.

Many aldermen were quick to point out that the press has failed to focus on the thousands of homeowners whose tax bills have dropped dramatically as a result of the shifting property tax burden from newer homes to older homes under revaluation.

Alderman Cynthia Creem stressed that for many years owners of newer homes have been forced to pay an unfair burden because of the city's refusal to bring property to full and fair market value.

"It has not been fair," asserted Creem. "These people for years have been paying a disproportionate share. There have been relative inequities and we needed a revaluation. There is no noise being made by the people being helped by the revaluation."

"There is a lot of the story that is not coming out," she added.

"There are a lot of people that are very happy," agreed Alderman Robert Tennant. "Everytime you pick up the newspaper there is nothing good about this. There has to be something good."

Under the revaluation, the average assessment for single and two family homes has jumped 800 percent, according to city assessors. The tax rate, however, has dropped from $177 per $1,000 of assessed property to $22.10 per $1,000.

According to assessors' statistics, 75 percent of the 24,000 homeowners in the city face property tax bill increases. Approximately 50 percent face property tax bill increases of $200 or more.

Several aldermen have criticized Mayor Mann's speculation before the mayoral election last November that only one third of all taxpayers would face a property tax increase; one third would see a decrease and one third would remain the same.

Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris said: "Prior to the election the mayor said one third would go up; one third would stay the same and one third would go down. I would state that one third got screwed; one third got a break and one third got a fair deal."

Alderman Verne Vance said there was "no justification" for the one-third doctrine that was espoused during the mayoral campaign.

During a brief press conference, Mann said that he never made any "guarantees" on the tax shift.

He also stressed the revaluation has been forced by state law. "If we didn't do it here now, the state would have to come in (and revalue) and send us a bill," Mann said. "With 22,000 homes you are going to have some differences of opinion. Hopefully, anyone who has a valid difference of opinion will get it resolved."

Responding to charges by Alderman Ethel Sheehan, the canceled public hearing Tuesday night was scheduled to "incite" taxpayers furious with the revaluation, Mann said: "These are right times for people like that to come out of the woodwork."

"I would be very disheartened to find that aldermen or any person in this community would be as low as to politically benefit on the misery of people being traumatized by the state's requirement for the city to comply with the law."

Mann also noted that the city has not had a full scale revaluation since after World War II and has many non-profit, non-taxable properties such as Boston College.

"Who do you blame in a case like this?" Mann asked. "The blame is inflation, cost of living, and a court decision requiring communities to do it (revaluation) and the law that everyone pay their fair share."

Mann said he will support a plan to allow taxpayers faced with dramatic property tax increases to make time payments rather than the entire bill at one time. Tax bills reflecting the new assessments are scheduled to be mailed by assessors on April 1.

Two-day shutdown ordered at pub

NEWTON — In the first suspension of a city restaurant license in three years, the Licensing Commission Tuesday night voted to shut down Lewis' Pub on Eliot Street for two days.

The commission approved the suspension for next Monday and Tuesday after a report from Newton Police that the pub stayed open after the midnight closing deadline on Feb. 14 and served alcohol.

Peter Tingos, manager of the popular 344 Eliot Street pub, did not dispute the police report.

"It was an oversight," said Licensing Commissioner Carleton Merrill. "He (Tingos) has since had meetings with his staff. He knows that last call must be at 11:30 p.m. and closing at midnight. There was just a slip up on that particular night."

Merrill, who noted that the board has received some complaints from abutters of the pub, said this was the first license violation for the bar.

"I think for a first time violation it was a fair decision by the Licensing Commission," he added.

The vote on the license suspension was unanimous with both Chairman Ernest Angevine and Martina Jackson voting. The third commission member, Jerome Pearlstein, was absent.

Understanding the Irish 'troubles' comes from experience for him

Kevin C. Kennedy
Correspondent

WEST NEWTON — There is a man with a small grocery store in the heart of West Newton square who has a special understanding of "the troubles" besetting the Irish people.

He also has special words of hope for the nation that has suffered so long under division and foreign oppression.

He is a native of a country which has been divided for a very long time, north and south, by two governments and two opposing systems of religious belief.

He longs for the day when the sorrow and suffering caused by an oppressive foreign power in the northern part of his country will be over, when his people will again be unified, when families can finally join together to mourn their loved ones who died in the conflict which has torn the nation apart for so long.

The man's name is Young Suhk Vang. He is from Korea.

Vang came to America ten years ago. He runs the little store with the funny name, "Milk Stop," in the square.

Koreans are known in parts of the Pacific as "The Irish of the Orient." They are different, as far as stereotypes go, from Japanese, Chinese or Indonesian people. They are tenacious, sometimes obstinate, and always tough.

They are great fighters, as was well-documented in several wars they fought alongside American troops.

Other orientals might tell you the Koreans drink too much, a criticism that has been elevated to near ritual in its application to the Irish.

Vang, who does not drink, says the comparison fits because both people are "so strongminded, so strongwilled."

According to Vang, his native country has suffered under foreign rule since the beginning of this century when the Japanese said, "You are in trouble with conflicting forces in your country. You can not handle it."

Vang said, "This is when they brought some soldiers and said, 'This is not an invasion. We are here to protect you.'"

World War II changed the face of the foreign power in Korea. After the Yalta Conference, Russia took over the northern half of the country and the U.S. took over the south. Since then, the nation has been separated by "ism's," according to Vang, much in the way Ireland has been separated by Protestantism and Catholicism.

The division in Korea is much stricter than in Ireland. Vang said, "South Koreans can not even go into the North. They can not cross the border. So, we feel pretty bad, you know." The Korean Red Cross once proposed an exchange of letters between North and South, but even this modest proposal was rejected by the Communists.

"The North Koreans are the strongest and worst Communists in the world," according to Vang. "Communists in China and Russia, I think, are different from those in North Korea. They are the hardest, and it is tough," he said.

The well-educated Vang, whose slightly grey and balding head tells his age while it belies his youthful vitality, said the present situation is "just like in the Japanese Imperialist time. Before World War II, everybody just bowed every damn morning to the emperor, Hirohito. He is like a god, you know, a human god.

At that time, education was nothing except just the emperor. If you show disrespect for his picture even, you just go away. We must die for him, so Japanese soldiers 19 and 20 years old, they just 'bam! bam!,' and then you can, you know, shine the emperor's shrine for a while, then go to heaven," Vang said with a wry smile.

"So now the North Koreans educate the same way the Japanese did. It is pretty strong. No excuses are allowed. If something is wrong, you just go away. It is like the nazis in Germany," Vang said.

He adds that outside forces, in both Korea and Ireland, are the cause of division in those countries. "It is one race, you know. They are brothers," he insists.

"I think Ireland should be unified and independent, without foreign intervention," Vang said. "It is a dishonor, a shameful thing. There is no dignity for the country. If it was a poor country, I could understand that somebody would want to take care and help it find solutions to its problems. But this is the 20th century and the people are nice and civilized. The Irish are a strong people. It is a big, strong nation. I am very sympathetic."

Vang is sure the situation in Northern Ireland "must change someday." He said, "I just read that the prime minister who was recently elected said the British should be removed. That means there is some stimulation. The situation will now have some tendency to change."

With a weather eye on the eternality of change, Vang pointed out that the present confrontation is so strong, "so tight," as to appear momentarily frozen. But he insists, "When the sun comes out, it must melt. Summer, Winter... It is always changing, the four seasons.

"It is tight now, but with some kind of a gap it becomes a different situation," Vang said. He pointed to the dramatic change in America's relations with China and said, "That's all politics. It is always changing and reoccurring. It's not stationary. It is like water. Everything flexes.

"So, with Ireland, opportunity is knocking for something new," Vang said.

He knocked on the counter of the "Milk Stop" as he described the opportunity that now faces the Irish. But he kept knocking long after it was appropriate to the imagery of the conversation, as if to express his fervent hope that a comparable opportunity might soon present itself o his own people in Korea.

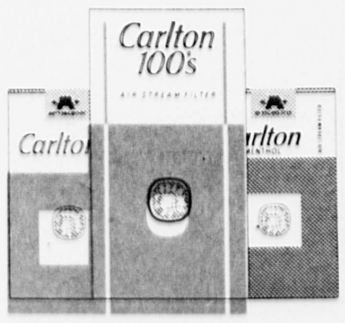

He said, "Some observers say unification can only happen if you start another war. Others say we can unify through peaceful contact and negotiations. When? Nobody knows. But it can not last forever."

Lincoln Day Dinner planned for April 15

NEWTON — Committees are already in full swing completing arrangements for Newton's Twenty-second Annual Lincoln Day Dinner according to Kenneth Hartford, president of the Newton Republican Club.

A major political event in the area, the dinner will take place Thursday evening, April 15, in the main ballroom of Post 440 in Newton. Hartford stated that an unusually good turnout of several hundred is expected to be on hand to welcome guest speaker, Assistant Secretary to the Navy, John S. Herrington, and Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler, the honored guest at the event.

Assistant Secretary Herrington is responsible for Manpower and Reserve Affairs, coming to the Navy after serving in th White House as Director of Presidential Personnel. A native of California, he is a graduate of Stanford University and the University of California from which he received his LLB and JD degrees. He has been a practicing attorney since 1965 and served for five years as Senior Prosecuting Attorney in the Alameda County District Attorney's Office. He and his wife, the former Lois Haight, and their two daughters now live in Washinton, D.C.

The event's special guest of honor, Congresswoman Heckler, is well known in Newton which she represented before an earlier redistricting. She won her House seat in 1966 and has gained wide respect for her wok on various congressional committees, among them, Veterans Affairs, Science and Technology, and the Joint Economic Committee.

Before entering politics, Heckler was a practicing attorney. She is a graduate of Boston College Law School where she was editor of Law Review.

Heckler has received honorary degrees fro several instituitions in recognition of her accomplishements. She and her husband, John , and thir three children live in Wellesley.

The congresswoman is up for reelection in the coming November contest with the district again including Newton.

A feature of the annual event continues to be the presentation of special awards to local Republicans in recognition of long term service to the GOP and the community. Martin Samuels is the chairman of the Awards Committee this year.

Heading the overall committee on arrangements is Kenneth Hartord, president of the Newotn Republican Club. He noted that the dinner has brought a number of prominent national leaders to Newton over a period of 22 years, among them Vice-President George Bush who addressed the dinner in 1974.

Charlotte R. Thornbury and Frances E. Shaeer are co-chairmen of the Dinner Committee. Wendell Wilson is dinner treasurer. Other appointed to committees, still in formation are: Donald Budge, Evaleen Budge, Maudyea Campbell, Flora Ellington, Marjorie Heiser, Alvin Mandell, Julius L. Masow, Samuel Robbins, John L. DiSabato, Margaret Tennant, Henry J. Wilson.

Vivian Graham is ticket chairman, with Norman Buchbinder, Richard Graham, and Robert Tennant, co-chairman aof the Patrons Committee.

The Newton Republican Club is principal sponsor of the event in cooperation with the Newton Republican City Committee and the Republican Women of Newton.

Substitute teachers seeking 'professional level' pay hikes

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The head of the Newton Substitute Teachers' Association has charged that there is a critical shortage of substitutes in Newton that will not be redressed if the proposed $39.1 million school budget is adopted.

Constance Wool, president of the association, claims the shortage is the result of Newton's failure to pay substitute teachers at "a professional level." According to Wool, there are "frequently a number of classrooms each day" which are not covered by "qualified teachers" because substitutes cannot be found.

Wool says this is due to "the failure of substitute salaries to keep pace with full-time salaries." The proposed budget, which will go to the School Committee for a final vote Monday night, sets aside over $307,000 for substitute teacher pay, an increase of 0.6 percent from the current year.

The reason is an increase in the number of substitute days to 6,570. Of these days, there are 5,920 set aside for teacher absences due to illness and personal reasons (approximately 10 days per teacher).

Helen Thomas, assistant superintendent of personnel for the Newton schools, says the budget includes a cut of 300 substitute days to reflect the reduction of about 30 teacher positions, but that 550 days were added for teacher participation in curriculum workshops, conferences and other staff development activities.

Although the overall school budget, which is up four percent, contains funds for anticipated collective-bargaining increases for most school department employees, the specific budget account for substitutes does not project any salary increases.

Nancy Mann, chairperson of the School Committee, admits that the budget currently does not provide salary increases for substitutes.

"We're definitely not thinking of decreasing the pay for substitutes, but I guess at this point we're not thinking of increasing it either," Mann says.

Wool stresses that her organization, which polls its 60 members but is not an official union, has not made a formal proposal to the School Committee yet. However, she said the group is seeking an increase in the account by $66,500 which her calculations show will reduce the current "inequities" between substitute pay and full-time teacher salaries.

> 'There are times when classrooms are not covered and that is due more to the fact that substitutes on our list are substitutes in more than one city.'
> Helen Thomas

Wool will also seek a salary increase for substitutes comparable to any increase negotiated with the teachers' union later this year.

Mann says there is "no evidence" that the current salary for substitutes in Newton is resulting in a shortage of qualified substitutes to cover classrooms.

"I don't think that we've had a problem where we haven't been able to cover a large number of classrooms," Thomas says. "There are times when classrooms are not covered and that is due to the fact that substitutes on our list are substitutes in more than one city."

In addition, Thomams does not see the issue of uncovered days as related to salaries for substitutes in Newton.

"In my opinion, and looking at neighboring communities, this (Newton's substitute salary scale) is competitive. I think we have brought it up to being very competitive," Thomas says.

"I think finding substitutes is a continual problem," she adds.

According to Thomas, all per diem salaries for substitutes were increased by 7.5 percent in 1980-81, the same pay hike given to full-time teachers. In 1981-82, Thomas says the base pay was raised to $35 a day and a half-step was added to the salary schedule which boosted substitute pay to $70 a day after 10 days of teaching. After 20 consecutive days, substitutes are place on the full-time teacher's salary schedule.

But, Wool says that while there have been increases, substitute salaries have not kept pace with full-time teacher salaries.

According to Wool, in 1970 the average full-time teacher earned over $58 a day while the average substitute earned about $28. By 1981, she says the average full-time teacher's salary had exactly doubled although the average substitute pay increased by only $10.

"That represented only one-third of the full-time teacher's salary," Wool says. "During the current year, the average full-time teacher earns $129 a day and the average substitute $43.87 — still only one-third of the rate for substantially the same job."

"I think that children can learn with substitutes if the substitute is a qualified teacher," Wool emphasizes. "But, in order to find qualified substitutes, you have to pay them professionally."

"It's not a pin money job," she stresses. "It should be a professional job."

Wool says that on any given school day, there could be as many as 25-50 classrooms covered by substitutes.

Rep. Schur running again

NEWTON - Citing her concerns about the "ax of New Federalism" falling on "those people who are least able to help themselves," State Rep. Susan D. Schur (D-Newton) announced her candidacy for reelection in the 12th Middlesex District last week.

"I believe now, with even more conviction than when I first ran, that we need in the legislature voices which are thought-ful and independent and ready with new approaches to old problems," Schur told a group of over 150 supporters at a fund-raising kick off party.

In a prepared statement released to the press last week Rep. Schur said, "We are now setting the stage to ensure that as the ax of the 'New Federalism' falls on Massachusetts, that those people who are least able to help themselves, those in need who turn to government, arenot left out in the cold."

Schur said 1982 will be "the year for confronting, literally, death and taxes - the death penalty and the recurring question of taxation.

"The increasing demand for instant solutions, is I believe, destructive and dangerous," she added. "What must be culled from the pressure now being put upon us is the very real need to attack these problems head on and enact sound, well-reasoned and even courageous responses.

"Instead of promising tax cuts for the rich, we should be ready to institute overall tax reform, to provide the needed revenues for government programs and local aid through a progressive tax structure, within limits which will safeguard our state's competitive status. Instead of willy-nilly cutting of jobs and programs to answer the cries of 'cut the fat' we must insist on sound administration and accountability."

Schur said in considering current "limited resources" an "effectively functioning government" is necessary.

"Instead of mandatory sentencing to get criminals instantly off the street," she said, "we must address the question of what we expect from our criminal justice and correctional systems.

"Stuffing people into overcrowded jails may give some instant satisfaction, but when conditions verge on inhumane, when rehabilitation is virtually nonexistent, what kind of person emerges back into society?" she said. "If our social programs are not working, we must look at how they can be made to work , rather than dismantling the very services which can give the disadvantaged a chance to lead independent, productive lives."

All-night parking turned down by board

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Residents who leave their cars in the street rather than in the relative safety of their driveways will continue to run the peril of getting nabbed for a parking violation this spring.

Despite protests from Chairman Joseph DePasquale, who docketed an item to amend the all-night parking restrictions in the city last year, the Aldermanic Public Safety Committee voted 3 to 2 Monday to maintain the current system of "selective enforcement" by the Police Department.

The DePasquale amendment called for allowing all-night parking in the city from May 1 to October 31. The current restrictions, although seldom enforced in the spring and summer months, do not allow for overnight parking on city streets year round.

Police Chief William F. Quinn, however, noted that "anyone who leaves their car in the street, runs the peril of a $4 ticket."

Quinn said the all-night parking restrictions are strictly enforced in the winter months because of the need to clear streets for snow and ice removal. He also said the restrictions on overnight parking serve as a crime deterrent.

The Fire Department, Police Department and the Traffic Commissioner all recommended that the over-night parking restrictions remain the same.

"Public streets are there as highways, not as parking lots," said Alderman Rodney Barker. "I don't think we should ignore the advice of three public safety departments."

Alderman Richard McGrath, who voted in favor of the ordinance change, had a problem with what he termed "selective enforcement," of the ban on overnight parking.

"In the summer time cars aren't tagged and this is a fact," he noted. "It's a legal law to be obeyed, not to be interpreted."

Library boasts 100 volunteers

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Free Library has gone over the 100 mark with volunteers working in Library buildings throughout the city.

Enthusiastic men and women, of varied ages, bring many talents and skills to their library jobs.

The library has benefitted greatly, as have the volunteers who have the chance to see how a city agency functions; to observe its strengths as well as its problems.

Members of the library staff have noted that an additional benefit of volunteerism is derived from the friendship and good feeling it seems to engender in the community as more people participate and respond to a community need.

The staff, at first somewhat hesitant, now sees the library volunteer program as a significant support system for the library.

Library volunteers help in many ways with jobs the staff has not had time for because of Proposition 2# cuts in Library staff.

Some volunteers work at the computer, others in in technical services and others in the circulation and pulic relations departments.

They help in the Center for the Visually Handicapped and Hearing Impaired.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Ferreri

NEWTON - Cynthia Hovey and Donald Richard Ferreri were recently married at the Pilgrim Church in Duxbury. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Hovey of Duxbury, holds an associate of science degree from Lasell Junior College. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Ferreri of Newton, holds a bachelor of science degree from Northeastern University. The bride is presently employed by Mutual Bank for Savings in Boston and the groom is an accountant with Kendall Company in Boston. Following a honeymoon to Aruba, the couple are living in Auburndale.

Engagement

Kashtan - Gordon

NEWTON - Mr. and Mrs. Max Kashtan of Bayside, N.Y. announce the engagement of their daughter Ilene to Roger Bruce Gordon, son of Mrs. Sumner G. Gordon and the late Mr. Gordon of Newton and Mashpee, Ma.

Miss Kashtan graduated from the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York and is now sales manager for Diva, an Israeli swimwear firm.

Mr. Gordon attended Syracuse University and is a manufacturer of ladies' large size clothing.

Share-a-Home alternative for older area homeowners

WEST NEWTON — This is the time of year when older homeowners find the costs of maintaining a home particularly burdensome. Fuel bills are an unwanted addition to a mounting layer of bills. While homeowners of any age find it difficult to meet all their expenses, older homeowners who are retired and living on fixed incomes, are facing particular difficulties. For many, the only option seems to be to sell their homes.

Share-a-Home, a program sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services (WSES), can offer another option ot older homeowners. The program assists people seeking housing to meet those with homes or apartments to share. The shared arrangement can offer homeowners additional income to help meet monthly expenses. There are other benefits as well, including the chance to share meals and household tasks with another person.

For the homeseeker, share-a-home can offer affordable, comfortable housing, as well as the chance to develop a special relationship.

Share-a-home is primarily for self-sufficient people of all income levels. At least one of the two persons in each home-sharing situation needs to be 60 years or older for WSES to offer assistance in the process. The other person can be contemporary or can be a younger person. There is no charge for this program.

Find out more about Share-a-Home by calling WSES at 969-0170.

Forsyth School announces establishment of scholarship

NEWTON — Dr. Ralph R. Lobene of Newton, Dean of Forsyth School for Den tal Hygienists has announced today that a scholarship fund has been established at the school in memory of Roberta (Frogel) Derris, formerly of Wellesley, who died in an automobile accident in Hawaii early in January.

The late Mrs. Derris was a clinical instructor at the Forsyth School for Dental Hyg ienists from 1964-1977. She is surviv ed by her husband, Dr. David Derris, an orthodontist, and two daughters, Alison and Karen. The family moved to Maui, Hawaii, in 1978. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Murray Frogel, reside in Boca Raton, Florida.

Friends, former associates and students, may address contributions to the Roberta F. Derris Memorial Scholarship Fund and send them to Dr. Ralph R. Lobene, Dean, Forsyth School for Dental Hygienists, 140 The Fenway, Boston, 02115.

DOUBLE EMPHASIS - Maudyea Campbell (right) shows her approval of models Mrs. Donald Eaton and Mrs. Frederic Carpenter who will take part in the Florence Crittenton League's 13th annual fund-raising fashion show and luncheon Tuesday, March 30 at the Marriot Hotel in Newton. Mrs. Campbell is currently president of one of the League circles. For reservations to the affair call Betty Lee Babcock at 235-9234 or Harriet Westin at 235-3679.

Crittenton League sets annual fashion show

NEWTON - The Florence Crittenton League's 13th annual fund-raising Fashion Show and Luncheon will be held on Tuesday, March 30 at the Marriot Hotel in Newton.

Models have been selected from the Florence Crittenton membership at large and will be showing spring fashions from Hurwitch Brothers of Boston, Wellesley, Concord and Falmouth. Cocktails will begin at 11:30 and a gourmet luncheon starts at 12:30 p.m.

Raffle prizes have been donated by 15 area merchants and will include an entire escape weekend at the Marriot. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Maudyea Campbell, long active in other organizations in Newton, is current president of the Crittenton League Circles, and was pleased to announce this year's all-circle benefit which is being held in Newton for the first time.

As one of the main social events of the year, the fashion show offers a chance for members and guests to get better acquainted with Crittenton service, giving a wide range of choices to young women with unplanned or unwanted pregnancies in a stress-free and caring environment.

Reservations are being accepted on a first come-first serve basis. Anyone interested can call Betty Lee Babcock at 235-9234 or Harriet Westin at 235-3679.

Continuum hosts intern program workshops

NEWTON — Continuum, a Newton-based school known for its internship program for women career changers, plans to repeat its short-term career workshops.

The spring workshop series will again address both men and women who are underemployed, unemployed, moving up, or just getting started.

The programs were initially designed by Continuum staff in response to requests by men and women who wanted short-term training in specialized areas. Workshops include "What is Networking", "Take Me Seriously" a program on assertiveness presentation, "From Volunteer to Paid Professional," and "Who's A Generalist?" focusing on the needs of the non-technical person. A four-week support group for the Job Hunter is also included.

Programs are 2½ hours long and run both mornings and evenings. The cost is $15 and registration is now open. Interested participants can call for a brochure at Continuum, 964-3322.

Health Department planning basic CPR classes in April

WEST NEWTON — The Newton Health Department has announced its spring schedule for CPR - basic life support classes. All classes are held on two consecutive Thursday evenings from 6 - 10 p.m., at the Health Department, 492 Waltham St., West Newton. There is a $5 registration and materials fee.

The schedule is: April 8 and 15; April 29 and May 6; and May 20 and 27.

For registration and questions, call the Health Department at 552-7058.

Development group aids relocation efforts

NEWTON CORNER — In response to the impending development to the core of the Newton Corner Commercial district, the Newton Corner Community Development Corporation (NCCDC) Board of Directors recently voted that staff of the NCCDC should be available in assisting commercial tenants of the Gorin and Leeder properties with relocation.

Last month some merchants and residents of these buildings received written notice from Gorin and Leeder that they had to vacate the building. This correspondence gave them legal notice of the remaining term of their tenancy. According to Chuck Eisenberg of the Drucker Company, initial demolition is scheduled for mid-summer, 1982.

Joanne Yawitz, the NCCDC Managing Director, will begin efforts at finding suitable relocation sites for commercial and retail tenants.

The NCCDC office will serve as a clearinghouse between tenants looking for appropriate rental space and realtors with listings of available Cornerspace in the immediate Newton neighborhood, other villages in Newton, or surrounding communities.

Persons with information about commercial and retail space or Newton Corner merchants seeking information should contact Yawits at 969-3555, at 126 Vernon Street, Newton Corner, 02158.

Charlie Nelson and Michael Barnett are two NCCDC directors representing the Newton Corner business community. They will continue to investigate the space requirements of the commercial tenants who are still searching for a new business location. As the information is gathered, it will be relayed to the NCCDC office such that a "match" can be made between possi blereal estate options and those businesses to be relocated by the Druker project's new construction.

Freelance Players enjoy 9th season

CHESTNUT HILL — It happens every winter in Chestnut Hill when the atmosphere is charged with creative sparks. The group dynamics of many responsive, creative human beings generates a feast of multi-arts experiences. Innovative and original work is created and professional quality is achieved. Children have the opportunity to explore and develop interests in areas that will provide lifelong enjoyment and fulfillment.

Such an experience has been provided over the last eight years by the Freelance Players, now in its 9th season. The group is a children's theatre, comprised of boys and girls, 9 to 16 years old, who meet twice a week at the Brimmer and May School in Chestnut Hill. The 35 young people who participate are the ingredients whose responses to an exposure to the arts gives testimony to the rewards of the experience. Staff mambers – a group of 10 professionals in such areas as dance, drama, music, playwrighting and art – are committed to the central role of the arts in enriching the quality of life.

Each rehearsal begins with a half hour of physical and vocal warm-ups and then "the circle", a time when the whole group can discuss production ideas, the themes of the play and characterizations. When the children are not in rehearsal for the production, classes are offered in improvisation and scene work, portrait painting, public relations, design and playwrighting.

"These classes add depth to the kids' experience of the theatre," says Director Kippy Dewey. "For many of the young people in the group, the Freelance Players becomes an important part of their lives. The support they feel within the group opens up innumerable opportunities for sharing and learning."

Since the first year, the focus has been on the total musical theatre: collaboration, writing and producing; from the inception of an idea to the property to be produced. Thus, under professional direction, the children are involved in every aspect of the creation from the beginning: research, costumes, set and lighting design, choreography, music and lyrics composition, playwrighting and set building, props, performing, stage managing, make-up, acting, singing and dancing.

Eight full length musicals have been created over the years, and countless young people have reaped proprietary rewards from their input and influence on these scored, scripted, large-cast properties. "Many of the musicals have been published and produced in theatres, schools, on television and by drama groups across the country," Dewey said. In addition, several of the young people in the group have gone on to pursue professional careers in the theatre, including Marth Donaldson of Newton, who recently performed in James Lapine's "Table Settings" at the Next Move Theatre in Boston.

The group's philosophy emphasizes the use of theatre as an outlet and a means for personal growth. The quality of the performances is reflected by the enthusiasm of the audience.

A new work, "The Duchess of Pleasant Hill" is slateds for April. For more information on performance dates and times, call 524-6848.

Defense will be key to Tiger hoop revival

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

After a 1-17 season, the only consolation must be the future and the belief that things can only get better. That, and a bit of inspiration from a cross-town rival.

"Waltham had a tremendous season," Newton North coach Jerry Phillips says, "but look at all the stuff they had to go through the year before. Remember, they were 4-16, so they had to put up with a lot before they found success. It'd be nice if we could be the Hawks of 1983."

Of course, every losing team in the state wants to be the Hawks of '83, but if teams like that came along every day what would be the amazement of it? Realistically, Phillips is just hoping the Tigers can recover from what may rank as the worst season in the school's basketball history. He is optimistic though. Ask him if this season will have any effect on next and he'll respond, "Look at Waltham. There's your answer. I really don't think kids think about what's happened in the past. They'll be back next year wanting to win just as badly as ever."

The Tigers did indeed suffer through a nightmarish season. They lost their first game, won their second, and then dropped the last 16. The frustration of it all was perhaps best symbolized by a game late in the season against Weymouth South. The Tigers thought the long losing streak had finally come to an end when South's last second shot fell off, the clock read :00 and they were ahead by a point. "We all headed to the locker room, happy to have finally won," Phillips remembers. "All of a sudden, a referee stops us and says a foul had been called. So we all had to go back to the court and watch a Weymouth South kid sink two free throws to beat us. Can you imagine what that was like!"

What had happened was a second official had whistled a foul off the ball just as the gun sounded. "It didn't have anything to do with the play," Phillips says. "But that's the way our season went."

Combine that with the fact that the Tigers had no one with any previous varsity experience in its starting lineup and it's easy to see why the year was such a downer.

But Phillips is confident next season can be different. The inexperience of '82 will be the experience of '83. Graduating is Center Scott Olsson and Forward Chuck Hayes, but returning are Guards John Humphrey and Mark Coppola and Forward Dean Morreale.

The 6-1 Morreale and Coppola have been elected co-captains and they should provide plenty of leadership. It is hoped Morreale will assert himself on the boards, too.

Humphrey, however, figures to be the mainstay of Newton's offense. He averaged 17 points per game over the last half of this season, and with added maturity, there's no reason why he can't continue that.

"We asked a lot of things of John this year," Phillips said. "We wanted him to bring the ball up court against all kinds of pressure, penetrate the middle and score his points from the outside. That's a heavy burden. We hope Mark (Coppola) can handle some of that next year."

The second forward spot and the center position figures to be filled by either Bruce Corwin and Eric Fortune (both 6-3) or 6-1 John Berrigan. James Daniels arrives from the Jayvees to lend support at guard while Roger Nusbaum and Duffy Plunkett, a pair of six-footers, will play small forward roles.

The main worry for Phillips next year is defense. "I didn't think our offense was the problem this year," he says. "We scored enough, but we didn't stop anybody. We've got to become quicker and stronger, but as of this moment I see no evidence that we will. So that is my biggest concern."

Will Newton North become the Waltham of '83. Doubtful. A .500 record would probably please Phillips a great deal.

Newton Boys' Club hangs on

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

For Newton Boys' Club coach John Colantonio, it was simply a question of attitude. What did he think of his team's 64-57 victory over the Cambridge Bucks? "Well, how about this," Colantonio told reporters. "Our offense executed well, we hit the boards and then we bottled them up when we switched to our 1-2-1 pressure zone. How's that sound?"

Colantonio then revealed what he really thought of his team's effort. "Actually," he whispered, bowing his head, "we should have beaten them by 20. I was not satisfied with our performance."

The occasion was first round A Division play of the Waltham Boys' Club Tournament, and Colantonio must be at least satisfied that Newton will still be eligible for the Round II. Next on the agenda is the Roxbury Boys' Club Thursday night at 7:45.

Newton was indeed sloppy, but fortunately, Cambridge was sloppier. Thanks to former Newton North star Bob Billings (27) and the inside work of Brian Devlin and James Black, the Boys' Club built a 42-25 halftime lead and stretched it to a peak of 19 (52-33) late in the third stanza before Cambridge began making its run.

The major reason for the turnaround was the loss of Billings, who picked up his fourth foul with 5:47 to go in the third. When he sat down, Newton was leading by a 48-30 margin. When he returned with 6:08 left in the contest, the lead had been whittled to 11 (54-43) and by the time Billings got back into the flow the Bucks were within seven at 54-47.

The 6-3 Billings, currently starring at Mass. Bay Community College, had been Newton's chief scoring threat in the first half. Colantonio posted him up low against Cambridge's taller (6-5) Keith Hinderlie and Billings ate his opponent for lunch. He scored 22 first-half points with six of those coming via unmolested slam dunks as Billings hung back and broke open for outlet passes. Hinderlie, meanwhile, was scoring just six of his 11.

Newton assumed its first lead in the closing minutes of the first quarter when an 8-1 run put them ahead, 16-10. Billings scored eight in the quarter, two on a beautiful finger role right up the lane to help Newton on its way. Devlin and Rion Foley also contributed a couple of key hoops.

From that, Newton simply took off. They opened the second quarter by rattling off 10 of the first 12 points for a fashionable 26-12 cushion. It was Billings again who inflicted the damage. A turnaround in the middle of the lane made it 22-12, and then two sky stuffs on breakaways capped the explosion.

Hinderlie found the range inside twice to keep Cambridge within hailing distance, but Newton then stepped on the gas with a 10-4 blitz which created a 38-20 lead. Keith Norton started the assault with a jumper from the corner, and after Black swished an eight-footer, Billings pumped home six straight points.

Cambridge would never find its way back into the game until Billings took a forced rest. Suddenly, the Bucks found some semblance of an offense and with Clinton Evans scoring most of his team-high 18, they managed to sneak their way back.

An 8-0 run at the top of the fourth brought the deficit back to seven (54-47) as Newton went cold and the Bucks took advantage. A jumper from the top of the key by Evans completed the burst and seemed to bring all the momentum in Cambridge's favor. But Miguel Marinez provided the rally-killer by swishing an off-balance 10-footer from just inside the foul lane which bounced around the rim before dropping. Billings added a rebound basket seconds later and Newton had retaken control, 58-47.

The Bucks got it back to six (58-52) with 2:50 remaining, but they never really threatened again. Newton went into its stall and ran out the clock.

In the second A Division game of the evening, John Sims scored 21 points and Matt Palazzi added 16 to power the Arlington Flyers to a 105-66 romp over Boston College High.

Arlington took a 23-9 first-quarter lead and moved out to a halftime cushion of 50-27.

Sims, an Independent League All-Star this past season with Rivers, controlled the inside while Palazzi, the son of former Holy Cross great Togo Palazzi, popped from outside.

Wayland High's Tom O'Shea ran the offense smoothly, pitching in 10 points while Tim Kelley added 13.

Billy Crowley had 18 points and Brian Sullivan 17 for the losers.

The B Division contest saw College Stores of Waltham rip the Waltham Boys' Club, 81-56.

Doug Hoffer was high for College Stores with 14 points while Joe Cacciatore had 13.

Kenny Doyle of the Boys' Club was the game high man with 21. Pat Trainor also collected 15 in a losing cause.

Tournament action continues tonight with two A Division games pitting the Newton Panthers vs. the Spartans at 7:45 and the Waltham Hawks vs. English at 9:00. The Hawk club consists of many of the players who took the high school team to the Division I North Sectional final.

A B Division game at 6:30 has Rockwell Siding facing Newton Community Center.

Newton swimmers lift Bernal's to NE crown

Led by 14-year-old Ronda Applebaum, six swimmers from Newton amassed nearly three dozen medals to pace Bernal's Gator Swim Club to its fourth New England Age Group Championship title.

Applebaum of Newton Centre, took first place medals in the 200 and 500 yard freestyle, the 1,650 yard free and the 400 yard individual medley. In addition, she gathered two second place medals, a fourth, two fifths, and one sixth place medals.

The 400 and 800 yard freestyle relay teams of which she was a member both took first place honors. The 400 yard relay team finished second.

Coming close behind Applebaum was West Newton's Katie King. The 17-year-old King notched top honors in the 1,000 yard free and brought home second place medals in the 200 yard butterfly and 400 yard individual medley. She also picked up two third place finishes as well as one sixth and one eighth.

Swimming in his first meet since joining the Gators last fall, David Castle, 14, of Newton Centre won five medals. He finished first in the 100 yard breaststroke, second in the 200 and was a member of three relay teams that took two seconds and a third.

The brother and sister team of Rick and Janet Bishop of West Newton, gathered eight medals between them before a freak accident removed Rick from competition on the third day. Janet, 13, placed fifth in the 1,650 yard freestyle and seventh in the 500 and 1,000 free. She also captured an eighth place finish in the 100 yard butterfly and was a member of the 800 yard free relay team which finished third. Her 17-year-old brother had placed fourth in the 500 adn 1,000 yard freestyle and eighth in the 200 yard butterfly. On Sunday, the older Bishop was kicked in the head during warmups and suffered a punctured eardrum, probably removing him from competition for the remainder of the season.

Drew Lane, 17, of Newtonville rounded out the Newton scorers. Lane placed third in the 500 yard freestyle and eighth in the 1,650.

In successfully defending their age group champion title, the Gators scored 1,597.5 points, nearly twice as many as the second place club and almost five times as many points as the third place finishers.

Lions' Butler DCL track All-Star

Although the weather this past winter has been kind of harsh, some of the area track athletes have enjoyed every minute of it. Winter brought the track season indoors and some of the stars came in out of the cold as Weston placed two members and Newton South one to the Dual County League All-Star team.

Newton South's Scott Butler was named after winning the All-League meet with a 5.9 in the 45-yard hurdles. That time tied the school record.

Also, in Butler's second year of participation in the winter indoor program, he placed third in the state meet with a time of 6.6 in the 50-yard hurdles.

"He did a very fine job ... (he) ranks with the three top hurdlers in Newton South history," said coach Don Sutherland.

With the winter indoor track season over and the spring season just beginning Butler is ready for another great season.

For Dual County League champion, Weston, junior Richard Hall was named after he put the shot 47-9. Weston senior Frank Hamm was selected after running the mile in 4:40. Hamm has been running for four years, while Hall has been involved with the shot put for three years.

Weston senior Bill Mcabe was named to the second team with a 2:21 time in the 1,000. Also placed on the second team were senior Kurt Mack with a 34.9 in the 300 and junior Rowan Welch with a 1:17.5 in the 600 yard dash.

Although Weston won the championship with a 6-0 record Wayland won the league meet.

In the girls division, Weston's Caroline Fish, a senior, was named to the first team all stars, when she had a time of 6.6 in the 45 yard hurdles. Named to the second team were Weston's Junior Heidi Kasevich with a high jump of 5-1 and K.C. Wilder with a 2:51.0 time in the 1,000 yard dash. It was the first year running for both the junior Kasevich and the freshman Wilder.

Acton-Boxboro won both the league championship and the league meet.

The following have been named to the Dual County League all star track team:

Boys

40- Mark Franz, Acton-Boxboro
300- Nat Garfield, Wayland
600- Jon Mann, Wayland

Tryouts for South LLB

Newton South Little League Baseball will hold tryouts for the Major League teams next Saturday and Sunday at Richardson Field. Rain dates are April 3 and 4.

Any child born between Aug. 1, 1969 and July 31, 1972 is eligible. Children presently on Major League rosters need not attend the tryouts, but they must submit an application form.

All children must return a completed application form, signed by their parents, before being allowed to try out. Applications can be obatined from the Angier, Countryside, Hyde and Zervas schools as well as private and parochial schools.

Tryouts will begin at 10 a.m. for 10 year-olds; 12:30 p.m. for 11 year-olds and 2:30 p.m. for 12 year-olds. All applicants must attend at least one tryout session to be eligible for selection by a Major League team.

Janice Brack tourney victor

Janice Brack, a seven-year veteran of the Newton Police Department and a Hyde Park resident, recently won the Women's Intermediate Daytime Racquetball League playoffs held at the PLay Off Club, 144 Gould St., Needham.

Janice began playing racquetball two years ago and joined the Intermediate League this year. She placed second in the nine-week league with the first place spot in the league standings going to Sue Ekivian of Newton.

Janice captured the first place trophy when she bested Sue in the final playoff series of three matches.

Cooperstein qualifies for US Gymnastic competition

Cheryl Cooperstein of Newton has qualified for the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, Class I State Championship competition to be held at UMass, Amherst, this month.

Needing 64 points to qualify, Cheryl's spectacular 67.85 score also qualified her to compete in Regional Championships which will be held at Brown University in mid-April.

Thirteen-year-old Cheryl is the daughter of Barbara and Carl Cooperstien and is a student at Day Junior High School. She works out more than 25 hours a week at Massachusetts Gymnastics Center in Waltham Under Coach Steve Nuno.

Tigers need goalies in '82-83

Goaltending will be the major question mark next season for coach Don Crowley and his Newton North hockey team.

The Tigers were a disappointing 5-9-2 this year, and if Crowley is to improve on that mark, he knows he'll have to find replacements for graduating netminders Rob Incorvati and Bob Mazzolla. "It's my biggest worry simply because there is no one person I can point to and say, 'He's the one,'" says Don. "I know there are a couple of good kids in the ninth grade, but whoever he is he'll be very inexperienced."

The Tigers' problems this season were twofold: They didn't have many people who could put the puck in the net and they had trouble keeping it out at crucial times. Five games were lost by one goal and two more by two goals. "Only Brockton blew us out," said Crowley. "Brookline, the league champion, only beat us by 4-3 and 5-3 scores. Our problem was that we gave up too many easy goals. I don't think we made teams earn the wins. That's one aspect we have to improve. We must shore up our defense next year."

And although the Tigers finished with 65 goals scored for and 66 against, Crowley points out that those numbers are deceiving. "Take away the two Cambridge games, where we scored 19 goals, and you'll see we didn't score all that much," he says.

But like all coaches, Crowley is optimistic when he speaks of next year. He loses his second-leading scorer Paul Howley (8-17-25) in addition to first line forward Larry Kelley (4-9-13), John Stewart, Ray Dunn, Mark Antonellis, Joe Santangelo, Kevin Cornell and All-Star defenseman Ken Healey (3-9-12). Returning, however, is a solid nucleus of six juniors from whom Crowley expects major things.

All six started as sophomores this season and one, Center Tom Ryan, led the club in scoring (12-15-27) while being selected a Suburban League All-Star. Another, John Butterworth (8-15-23) centered the second line and was Newton's No.3 scorer. Both will see plenty of action next season, although Crowley's not certain yet if he'll place them together on one unit or leave them centering the first and second lines.

The remaining four in that group are Tom Grady (6-9-15) Chris Pachus (5-10-15), Dave Buckley (6-4-10) and Bob Boudreau (2-5-7). Grady and Pachus, along with Bill Chisholm, will add depth to Newton's front line while Buckley returns to anchor the defense beside two-year starter Tom Whiting and Junior Jeff Cutter.

"I don't expect scoring to be a major problem next season," insists Crowley. "I anticipate those returning people to mature and become bonafide scorers."

Newton's strengths will be at defense and center because of the experience of people like Whiting, Buckley, Ryan and Butterworth. Those four should be the heart and soul of the 1982-83 team. The weakness, of course, will be goaltending and the wings. The Tigers have excellent centers, but at the moment are low on wingers who can take the puck and knock it home.

It's hard to even set a goal for next year record-wise," Crowley admits. "Until our goaltending situation is answered, there's no telling what we'll do."

Newton East LL tryouts are scheduled

Newton East Little League is preparing for the coming baseball season and has scheduled its initial tryouts for Saturday, March 27, and Saturday, April 3, at Newton South High School. Weather permitting, tryouts will be outdoors, otherwise in the gym.

Sneakers must be worn and a child may try out on only one of the following dates:

Age	Time
10-Sat.,Mar. 27	8:30 a.m.
11-Sat.,Mar. 27	10:00 a.m.
12-Sat.,Mar. 27	11:00 a.m.
11-Sat.,Apr. 3	8:30 a.m.
12-Sat.,Apr. 3	9:30 a.m.
10-Sat., Apr. 3	10:30 a.m.

League age is determined as follows:

8-Child born between Aug. 1, 1973 and July 31, 1974.

9-Child born between Aug. 1, 1972 and July 31, 1973.

10-Child born between Aug. 1, 1971 and July 31, 1972.

11-Child born between Aug. 1, 1970 and July 31, 1971.

12-Child born between Aug. 1, 1969 and July 31, 1970.

Eligibilty of residence is dictated by the ruling that an apllicant must be enrolled in Memorial-Spaulding, Oak Hill, Bowen, Mason Rice or a private school and be eigible to attend any of the above named schools, or any child having played previously in Newton East.

Any applicant must be eight years old before Aug. 1, 1982. An applicant must not reach his or her 13th birthday before Aug. 1, 1982. An apllicant must not play more than five years. All new applicants must submit a copy of their birth certificate with their application (non-returnable).

Eight and nine year olds do not try out. They must play on a farm team and will be notified of their assignments. Children now on a Major League team do not try out. All others are urged to come to the tryouts, since a child must try out to be promoted to a major or minor team at the draft.

If a child is chosen for a Major League team, the child will be expected to play on that team. No child will be allowed to try out or play unless he or she has returned his or her applicant by his or her parents.

There will be a brief, important and informative meeting of parents and their new applicants to Newton East Little League at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, April 5 at Sacred Heart School Hall, Crescent Avenue, Newton Centre. Children may attend.

Any parent requesting further information is cordially invited to attend the new applicant meeting.

Myrtle wins Pony hoop title

The Myrtle Tigers won the Newton Recreation Pony League basketball title at Warren Junior High last night, when they beat Hawthorne "A", 47-43.

Leading scorers for the Tigers were, Sean Jones with 16 points, Adrian McCray with 13 poins and Troy Jones with ten points. Leading scorers for Hawthorne "A" were, Caleb Baker with 15 points and Rusty Halloran with eight points.

Awards were presented after the game to the league champions by recreation commission member Paul Burke. Recreation Commissioner Russell J. Halloran was in attendance.

Youth Hockey holds meeting

The annual meeting of parents, coaches and others involved in Newton Youth Hockey will take place on Wednesday, at 8 p.m., at the Police Station in West Newton.

Those attending are urged to bring along ideas and suggestions to improve the program.

Lady Jackie Gladu (L) and Kathy McLellann, both of Newton, were members of the Providence College women's hockey team this winter. Gladu, a two-year starter as a forward for the Lady Friars, is a 1980 graduate of Newton North High. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gladu of 34 Cherry St., West Newton. McLellan, freshman forward, is a 1981 graduate of Newton South High. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLellan of 34 Carver Rd., Newton.

Newton Bantams finish 60-0-4

The Newton Youth Hockey Bantam AA team ended its regular season play undefeated with a record of 60 victories and four ties.

The final week saw Newton at its best as it won its two final league games and four other games while sweeping the Arlington-Menotomy Second Invitational Hockey Tournament.

In Middlesex League action Newton edged Waltham, 4-2, behind John Mullowney's two-goal performance, and ended the season with a 5-1 victory over Arlington with Tom Bachner's hat trick leading the way.

Newton opened the Arlington-Menotomy tourney by crushing Billerica, 16-0. The score of the one-sided contest was 15-0 at the end of the second period and the officials mercifully ran the clock for the last stanza. Bobby White's three-goal effort and two goals apiece for John Connors, Jon Sachs, C.J. Young and Timmy Marchand highlighted the scoring.

Burlington was Newton's second victim, but an opportunistic Burlington offense and a hot goalie made the final score of 5-3 quite respectable. Defenseman Chris Biotti provided most of Newton's offense with three goals.

South Boston fell, 5-1, in the last game of the preliminary round. Southie opened the scoring at the 20-second mark of the game. But Young came back 20 seconds later with a feed from Jamie Rice, and goalie Kenny Castriotta and a tough defense kept South Boston off the board the rest of the way. Bachner's two goals and singletons by Eddie Sullivan and Paul Healey accounted for the final score.

The tournament final was a rematch of the 4-2 Middlesex League gamne against Waltham played earlier in the week. However, this time Newton methodically took apart a fine Waltham team by a 12-0 score.

Off the opening faceoff, Newton's goalie John Fletcher, taking the ice for the first time since sustaining a leg injury, flashed out his right skate to deflect a Paul Bourgeois slapshot, and Waltham's next scoring chance wouldn't come until the game was out of reach. Bachner's four goals and three more by Young were more than enough for Newton.

The Newton defense of Biotti, Chris Heitman and Jimmy Burke in front of Fletcher and Castriotta must be given enormous credit for shutting out the explosive Waltham team. Led by Paschal, St. Cyr, Bourgeois and Tardif, Waltham leads the Middlesex League in scoring.

The leading scorer for the tournament was White with 13 points on four goals and nine assists. Heitman and Mullowney each chipped in with six assists. Bachner, with eight goals, and Young, with six, were the leading goal-getters.

The Arlington-Menotomy title brings to four the number of major titles won by Newton during the 1981-82 season. Earlier they had taken the gold at the Ernie Economides Tournament, the Cranberry Classic, and the Kiwanis International in Quincy. The Newton Bantams overall record is as follows:

	W	L	T	GF	GA
Middlesex Lge.	18	0	1	99	29
Tournaments	22	0	1	160	23
Scrimmages	20	0	2	167	38
Overall	60	0	4	426	89

The team has scored an average of 6.7 goals per game while allowing their opponents a mere 1.4 goals.

Newton now heads for the major hurdle in its quest for a perfect season. The State Bantam Championships (all players either 13 or 14 years old on Dec. 31, 1981) will be played starting Friday at the Fessenden School Rink and the Babson Recreation Center.

Newton's first game is versus Watertown, 7 p.m., on Friday at Babson. On Saturday, Newton will face Quincy at 10:30 a.m. and Marblehead at 5 p.m., both games at Babson. If Newton qualifies, the semi-fiinal agme will be played at Babson on Sunday at 10 a.m., and the tournament championship will be determined at Babson on Sunday at 6 p.m.

Tourney games will be going on at both rinks Friday evening and all day Saturday. Anyone interested in the best of Youth Hockey should make plans to attend. Admission is $2 per game, or $5 for a weekend pass good at both rinks. Students will be admitted at no charge.

Newton Pee Wees shut off Billerica, 3-2

Call in the New York Islanders. They may be the only team capable of stopping the red-hot Newton PeeWee A's these days.

Not even Billerica, one of the finest teams in the state, could put a halt to Newton's amazing streak Wednesday night as coach Neil Schwartz' crew came away with a thrilling 3-2 victory at the Fessenden Rink over a team which entered the game 22-1 in the Wilmington League and 35-3 overall.

The victory extended Newton's winning streak to 13 straight. They have won 20 of their last 21 to improve their record to 30-14-3 after a dismal 2-8-1 start.

The defense carried the load in this game as Dom Bianchi and Doug Proia both scored key markers while teaming with Tim Connors and Dave O'Connor to limit Billerica to just two shots on net in the entire third period.

The game went into that final stanza deadlocked at 2-2. But Jay Cappello won it for Newton with just over three minutes remaining when he took a pass from Bianchi and drilled a 14-foot wrist shot to the stick side.

Bianchi had given Newton the initial edge at 5:20 of the first when he poked home a rebound. The stellar defenseman had created the opportunity by skating down the left wing and beating a Billerica defenseman to the inside. His first shot was stopped, but the rebound bounced right onto his stick and he had no trouble converting.

Billerica tied the game two minutes into the second period before Proia put Newton ahead again. Chris Pike set the play up with some nifty moves after taking the puck at center ice. He fed the disk to Proia skating about three feet in front of the net and Proia redirected it home in a bang-bang play.

Neil Ronchinsky had 13 saves in the Newton net to register the win.

The summary:

BAA marathon gets sponsor, not going pro

BOSTON (UPI) — Will Cloney, president of the Boston Athletic Association, announced Monday that the Boston Marathon will have official sponsorship for the first time in its 86-year history.

Cloney also denied recent reports that the marathon is abandoning its strict adherence to the amateur code.

Sponsorship of the race is necessary, Cloney said, because of the fluidity of the marathon situation worldwide and the necessity to set up a more businesslike administration of the race.

"We have to be ready to meet the competition from hundreds of races," Cloney said, noting that the BAA "will watch with interest the development of the trust fund concept before making any decision on providing prize money within amateur rules, probably in 1983."

Cloney announced that Seiko, the watch company, will be the official timer of the 26.2-mile race April 19 from Hopkinton to Boston. Other sponsors will be the Dodge division of Chrysler Corp., which will supply trucks and cars for the race, and Bristol Myers, assisting with the medical station areas, Cloney said.

Honeywell will continue to provide computer services for the race, Cloney said, and Prudential Life Insurance Co. will continue its support with race and runner facilities.

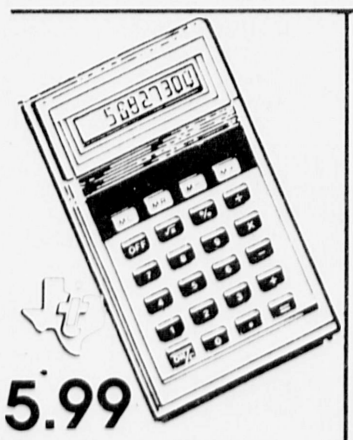

Two other sponsors will be announced shortly. Cloney said. All sponsorship opportunities are being negotiated by International Marathon Inc.

"We are delighted with the integrity and character of our sponsors and the excellent quality of our agent, IMI," Cloney said.

"The selection process has been rigorous," he added, noting that offers to rename the race after a particular company were refused because "the Boston Marathon will always remain in the direct control of the Boston Athletic Association."

(Cloney also announced all sponsor oppurtunities are being negotiated by Marshall Medoff, president of International Marathons Inc.)

Search for a superintendent

NEWTON — The School Committee began its public interviews of semi-finalists for the position of superintendent of the Newton schools this weekend and will continue interviews this week.

Aaron Fink, the current superintendent of schools, announced in early September that he would leave the position after 13 years at the end of the school year.

Although the Search Committee for the superintendent recommended eight semi-finalists to the School Committee for consideration, one candidate, Dr. Frederick J. Stokley, currently superintendent of the Calcasieu Parish Schools in Lake Charles, Louisiana, has withdrawn his application.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann announced at a Saturday interview at F.A. Day Junior High that Stokley, who was superintendent of the Waltham schools from 1971-78, had accepted a position with private industry in Houston, Texas.

Stokley was scheduled to be interviewed Wednesday night, but the School Committee decided on Saturday to maintain its original schedule. All interviews will be held in the F.A. Day Junior High auditorium.

On Tuesday, after presstime for The Graphic, the committee interviewed Dr. William Holland, superintendent of schools in Naragansett, R.I.. On Thursday, Dr. Troy Earhart, superintendent of schools in Foxborough, will be interviewed at 8 p.m.

Other interviews will be with Dr. Percy Clark, Jr., assistant superintendent of schools from Shaker Heights City School District, Shaker Heights, Ohio, at 2 p.m. on Saturday. Dr. John Strand, superintendent of Pelham, N.Y., public schools, will be interviewed at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Below are highlights from the first three interviews.

Blair: High expectations for all

NEWTON — Dr. Alice C. Blair, a recognized educational leader in the Chicago public school system, was the first of seven semi-finalists for the superintendency to be interviewed by the School Committee on Saturday.

The only woman semi-finalist, Blair, who stressed her belief in the ability of all children to learn, has spent the majority of her more than 30 years in education as a teacher and administrator Chicago, Ill.

One statement which revealed her emphasis on high expectations for all children, regardless of socioeconomic, cultural or ethnic background, was that schools "cannot take credit for those who succeed and not take blame for those who do not succeed."

> 'Vandalism to me is an indication that needs are not being met, that the school is not meeting the needs of those young people.'
> --Dr. Alice C. Blair

Since April 1981, Blair has been deputy superintendent of instruction and pupil services for the Chicago schools after being promoted from her job as superintendent of the District 13 schools, which has an enrollment of 26,000 students.

Newton's problems with declining enrollment and budget and staff cutbacks pale in comparison with the magnitude of management decisions Blair has made in these areas. According to Blair, $150 million was cut back from her district's school budget last year. "You've closed five (schools in Newton), we've closed 41," she said.

"So those things I understand," she laughed jovially.

Her priorities when confronting cutbacks, Blair said, were reductions "as far away from classroom and instruction as possible." She added, "I don't think any superintendent ought to make that decision alone. I think it has to be a collaborative decision."

As superintendent, Blair placed emphasis on personal supervision and assessments of both teachers and administrators. Visiting schools each morning was part of her daily routine.

When asked if she had made any assessments of problems in the Newton schools during her brief tour, Blair said, "I see many of the same problems that I see as I visit schools in Chicago," but she noted vandalism in particular.

Blair said that in one school she visited there was more vandalism than she has seen in most inner city schools. "Vandalism to me is an indication that needs are not being met, that the school is not meeting the needs of those young people."

Blair is "proudest" of her formation while superintendent of the Beazley Academic Center, a magnet elementary school in Chicago which "sits facing the largest public housing project in the world" and "yet you will find no vandalism."

While superintendent, Blair worked to make achievement scores at Beazley, which serves the highest poverty area in the city, improve radically. She said scores "went sky high" after the first year the school was open and have improved each year. The school now has a waiting list of 2,000 students and went from an all-black school of 1,100 students to a school with 14.5 percent white students.

According to Blair, parents of upper middle and middle class children have placed their children back in the public schools at Beazley.

Blair began her career as an elementary school teacher at the upper grade level in two different Chicago schools from 1952-1964. She was also an assistant principal in Chicago as well as asst. principal at a junior high in Michigan City, Indiana from 1968-71. Before becoming District 13 superintendent in 1976, Blair was an elementary principal for six years.

A 1980 member of Who's Who in Black America, Blair received a B.A. in sociology education from Roosevelt University in Chicago in 1951 and went on to get a master's in elementary education from the same university in 1960. In 1978, Blair received her doctorate in education in administration supervision from Loyola University, Chicago.

Dr. Lancaster: Strict standards

NEWTON — The School Committee Sunday night interviewed for the Newton school superintendency Dr. Oliver W. Lancaster, superintendent of schools in Hempstead, N.Y. since 1976.

Lancaster, who received his doctorate from the University of Massachusetts in 1973, said he came to his current position in Hempstead at a time when the 5,700 student system had seen seven superintendents in 11 years.

> 'I think a professional listens to and absorbs what the School Committee is talking about, what the community is saying, what youngsters are saying.'
> --Dr. Oliver W. Lancaster

According to Lancaster, he "traumatized" students, parents and teachers by introducing a strict academic standards policy for grade level promotions and as a result "raised the priority of education for the whole community."

He said he was proudest of two programs he introduced geared toward high achievement. One was on Saturdays for gifted children and Lancaster said the program brought many children back from private schools to the public schools.

Another program was called "The Academy Approach," which Lancaster said was designed to identify youngsters possibly facing retention whose problems could be solved by intensive efforts. For the most part, these "Academy" students recieved saturated instruction "zeroed in on the basics."

As part of the academies, students would be taken out of their regular classrooms for possibly up to six weeks and School Committee member Ann Berwick asked if there was not some stigma invovled.

"They had to want to do it," Lancaster stressed. "The parents and their students had to volunteer."

"There was no stigma," he continued. "In fact, the biggest problems were 'why can't my student go.'"

When asked how he has responded to intiatives for change from the community or staff, Lancaster said, "I may be the initiator often...but I think a professional listens to and absorbs what the School Committee is talking about, what the community is saying, what youngsters are saying."

Lancaster, who holds regular "forums" with community groups, parents, and staff, places a high priority on communication and said this kind of involvement "really brings about the fertilizing of my own thinking."

Asked about his methods for staff evaluation, Lancaster said he strongly believes in "the inclusion of the persons to be evaluated in the development of the instrument (for evaluation) is fundamental to that process."

Among the methods he uses are peer assessment and the testing of students in the fall and spring which, he says, can over a period of years "give you some idea" of which teachers are the "strongest."

Lancaster said he believes there is a trend back to public schools and that "academic opportunity, the security of firm discipline and the availability of options make the public schools more attractive than private or parochial schools."

Prior to becoming superintendent, Lancaster was from 1972-76 principal of Gratz High School in Philadephia. He began teaching in the same city and taught from 1953-65.

Lancaster received a B.A. from Shaw University in 1953 and an M.A. from Temple University in 1962. He was also a Yale-Kellogg Foundation Fellow working on a project for urban central office administrators. He has been the recipient of numerous awards for his work in Philadelphia.

Pierson stresses central control

NEWTON — School superindendent candidate Dr. J. Geoffrey Pierson said Sunday he advocates strong central control within a school system and views regular supervision and evaluation of schools, staff and programs as top priorities of a school superindendent.

Pierson is acting superindendent of Lexington Public Schools and was the second of seven semi-finalists to be interviewed for the position of superindendent in Newton. During a two-hour interview, Pierson told the Newton School Committee and the foremost issue a superindendent must deal with is developing effective techniques to manage the school system.

"When I arrived, Lexington was without leadership for two years," said Pierson, a Newton Centre resident.

As a result, Pierson prepared a 40-page report on the Lexington school system, including some 60 recommendations, all of which were implemented into the city's education system, according to Pierson.

Pierson told the audience at the F.A. Day Junior High School the report prepared for the Lexington schools was his most notable professional accomplishment as superindendent there. Pierson added that the creation and implementation of programs in Lexington were also the result of support from many people throughout that system.

Among Pierson's recommendations were additions to the curriculum, including drama, computer and health studies. A five-year plan to teach computer science in Lexington was initiated, along with a curriculum resource center with computerized data which was established for teachers. An evaluation program for administrators and an ability-grouping system for students were also among Pierson's recommendations.

Pierson is a 1961 graduate of Wesleyan University and 1965 graduate of Harvard Graduate School of Education. At Harvard, Pierson earned an Ed.D in Education Administration and was honored for distinction in doctoral studies.

Pierson was a Simpson Fellow with the New England School Developement Council in Newton in 1971 and District Program Coordinator for Newton Public Schools in from 1972-76.

He cited professional development programs for teachers and additional time for teachers to create such programs for one another as programs he favors.

When asked by a School Committee member how he would reduce the budget, Pierson said he would look to energy conservation, early retirement plans, liberal leave policies and methods of reducing absenteeism in order to minimize the need for substitute teachers. Pierson also suggested training and recruiting more school volunteers.

When a committee member suggested that strong central control might cause tension among school principals, Pierson said he would avoid alienating individual school heads by holding bi-monthly meetings with the principals.

"A superindendent needs to exercise control which must be done through frequent supervision," said Pierson.

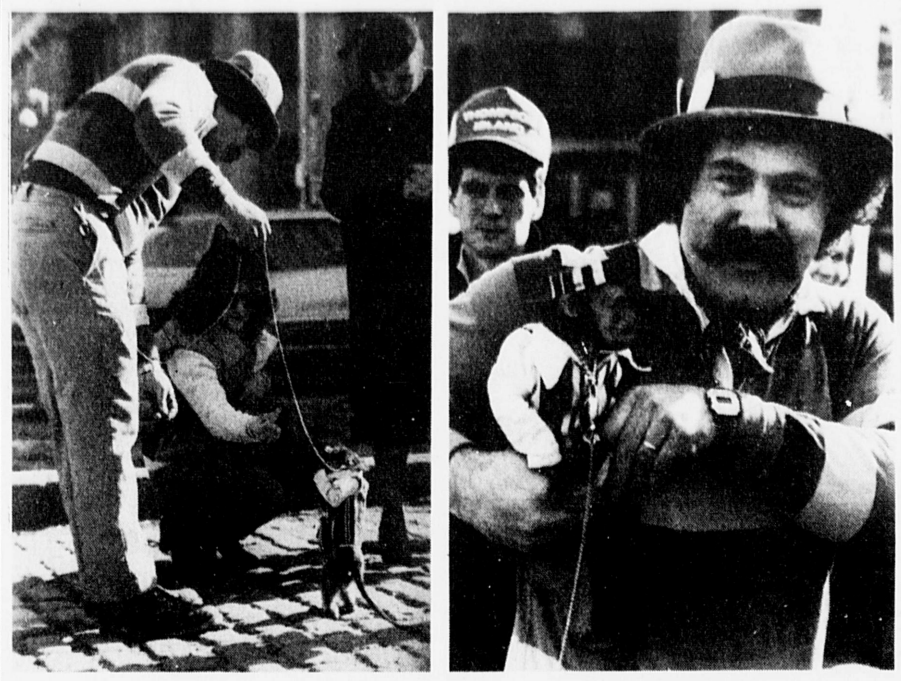

In response to recent racial incidents at Newton South High School, Pierson said he is not surprised the problems exist because of the diversity of students in the schools. "When I was working in the city, there was tension at Meadowbrook," said Pierson. He suggested ongoing meetings with the faculty and students of the school to discuss the problem.

Dog license fee increase wins an aldermanic okay

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Aldermanic Public Safety Committee has endorsed special legislation which would allow the city to increase the cost of a dog license to a maximum of $12 if approved by the Board of Aldermen.

The legislation, which must be sanctioned by state lawmakers, allows the city to keep the entire proceeds of the license fees and remove the county from the collection process. Aldermen will debate proposed changes in the fee structure at a later date.

Under the present licensing system, the city recovers $1.75 for each tag with the remainder being pocketed by the state. The current rate structure is $4 for male dogs and spayed females and a $7 charge for non-spayed females.

With enabling legislation from the state Legislature, the city would be able to pocket the entire dog-tag charge.

Police Chief William F. Quinn has also asked aldermen to approve a proposal which would increase the fine for an unleashed dog from the current rate of $15, $20, and $25 for the first three offenses to a flat rate of $50 per offense.

According to Quinn, the recommended new rates and fine structure would allow the city to raise $74,000 through Animal Control, $20,000 short of making the $94,000 division self-supporting.

In fiscal year 1982, the city recouped $22,540 from fees and fines.

Several aldermen noted they would not support the maximum increases allowed under state statute. On March 3, the Legislation and Rules Committee voted unanimously to hold the item, thinking the fee hike request to be unreasonable.

The enabling-legislation package would also exempt the city from a section of the General Laws of Massachusetts which makes it mandatory for stray dogs to be turned over to universities for experimentation. According to Quinn, the department picks up about 300 stray dogs each year.

Department of Revenue blasts proposal to keep values as is

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The State Department of Revenue Monday shot down a proposed aldermanic resolution requesting residential assessments remain at last year's sums while the firm conducting revaluation makes "necessary adjustments."

Deputy Commissioner Edward Collins quickly responded to the proposed resolution that was unveiled last Thursday, informing city officials they must live within the limitations mandated by Proposition 2½.

The city implemented the accelerated revaluation last May to avoid an $11 million cut in this year's municipal budget. The revaluation was implemented only after an unsuccessful court challenge to Revenue Department guidelines forcing the $11 million shortfall.

Alderman Richard McGrath, one of the most vocal critics of revaluation, proposed the resolution in response to a wave of complaints from disgruntled taxpayers.

McGrath and other aldermen have argued that the revaluation conducted by Finnegan Associates of Acton is plagued with inconsistencies, discrepancies, and unfair values.

In a letter to Chief Assessor Robert Palmer, Collins wrote in part: "You will, I'm sure, recall that in the case of the City of Newton vs. The Commissioner of Revenue, the Supreme Judicial Court upheld the determination of the Commissioner of Revenue in this regard and deemed her actions reasonable and appropriate under the circumstances.

The letter continued: "Absent a certification from this office that the City of Newton has accomplished revaluation and is now assessing its property at full and fair cash value as of 1/1/81 the Commissioner of Revenue is required to establish the fiscal 1982 levy limitation for the city in accordance with the court's decision."

A disappointed McGrath chided city officials and assessors for hastily submitting the resolution to the state agency without putting together a comprehensive package on the proposed resolution.

"It's impossible for anyone to have done a serious evaluation of the proposal," he asserted. Some aldermen, however, had maintained there was little hope of the resolution avoiding the budget cut.

Francine Crognale named Miss TEEN contestant

NEWTONVILLE — Francine R. Crognale, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleto Crognale of Newtonville, has been selected as a contestant in the Massachusetts Miss T.E.E.N. pageant which will be held in Springfield at the Springfield Marriott Hotel on Aug. 20, 21, and 22.

Contestants are young ladies who maintain at least a "B" grade average in school, participate in volunteer service work, excell in scholastic achievements and present either a speech or talent offering.

Miss Crognale is sponsored by Great Northern Constructors, Cousins Constructors, Azione Cattolica Italiana of Newton, Delfina D'Amato.

Pact expires in June

City, fire union sign contract

NEWTON — The city of Newton and firefighters' union signed a new contract last week which one city official claimed would save taxpayers $150,000-$200,000 in overtime costs.

"It's a very good contract, " said Deputy Mayor James Hickey of the new agreement that firefighters approved last week by a 158-47 vote. The city and union had been negotiating the contract for 26 months as firefighters worked under the guidelines of a 1978 contract. The new contract expires on June 30, 1982.

Both Hickey and Fire Chief Edward Reilly said reductions in manning and vacation policy changes would result in the overtime savings.

Fire Union Chief Robert Merullo last week said, "We brought back to the fire membership the best contract that we could get from the city without binding arbitration. We asked the membership to ratify it but we did not endorse it."

A minimum-manning clause of the firefighters contract was won four years ago in binding arbitration. However, the city terminated the clause last November because Proposition 2 ½ prohibits the use of binding arbitration.

According to the new contract, manning is reduced from 48 to 45 firefighters per shift in the winter and from 45 to 42 firefighters per shift in the summer.

As compensation for the manning reduction, negotiators agreed to pay each firefighter $395. "It's a one-time buy back recognizing that they've given up on overtime," said Reilly. '

Hickey commented that the new agreement allows Reilly more flexibility in using overtime allotments. Hickey stated that city spent $224,500 in overtime during FY 1982.

"The chief could never use that overtime for what he wanted, such as during a snow storm," said Hickey. "He can now use it for public safety rather than to comply with the terms of a contract."

Two 7 ½-percent pay increases for FY 1981 and FY 1982 are also specified in the new agreement in addition to a $50 a year increase in the clothing allowance, from $80 to $130.

Reductions in the number of firefighters taking spring and fall vacation, from 12 to 9 firefighters at a time, is also written in the new contract. Reilly stated that the policy change would also save on overtime.

Merullo said the manning specifications would be further reduced should the city decide to close the Mannet Road Station which houses Engine 9.

Merullo said negotiations for the FY 1983 fire contract would begin "as soon as this one is signed."

Bill would benefit cities and towns

NEWTON-Saying that an entire region or even the whole state benefits from non-profit, tax-exempt institutions that burden only local communities, Northeastern University President Keith G. Ryder called upon the Commonwealth to correct tax inequities by giving additional financial assistance to cities and towns that have large amounts of non-profit property.

Ryder made the remarks in a statement to the Committee on Taxation.

He spoke in support of H. 2520, a bill filed by Ryder and Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton. Ryder said the bill would expand the state reimbursement statutes to include not only state-owned property, but also property owned by hospitals and educational institutions. This measure would grant municipalities with such institutions within their borders a portion of the annual $14.7 million appropriation to reimburse cities and towns.

Manufacturers plant themselves at The Gables

Somewhere along the line you may have pieced together that your present home no longer fits the cog with your lifestyle. In that case you should constructively examine the material advantages of evolving to The Gables in Newton. These single family attached two and three bedroom homes are geared up to provide gracious carefree living, including such factors as large living spaces, attached two-car private garages and quality electronic/gatehouse security control. There are tennis courts, clubhouse and a swimming pool.

The Gables

Many professionals who are cognizant of the value offered by these $265,000 to $400,000 homes have already accepted delivery, but due to the industrious developer, a second small group has been created at the junction of Parker and Dedham Streets in Newton, immediately adjacent to the Charles River Country Club.

You can visit the furnished models, any day from 9 to 5, or call (617) 969-0200 to make a productive appointment.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

WORDY GURDY
BY TRICKY RICKY KANE

Every answer is a rhyming pair of words (like FAT CAT and DOUBLE TROUBLE), and they will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word. To win $10 send your original rhymes with your definitions to this newspaper. All entries become the property of UFS, Inc.

1 Gloomy song bird (1)
2 Unbiased new Broadway star (1)
3 A Rolling Stone investment (1)
4 James Beard's chess pieces (1)

Obituaries

Kevin H. Smith, 73

WALTHAM — Kevin H. Smith, 73, of Brookline, adjunct professor of film and director of the Film and Media Workshop at Brandeis University for the past eight years, died March 15 after a lengthy illness.

A former dancer on Broadway in the 1940's, who later produced more than 300 films in the physical and social sciences for the Eastern Development Center in Newton, Mr. Smith came to Brandeis in 1973 as a part-time professor of film and taught production courses. During World War II he served as an actor, stage manager and director of an entertainment unit.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy (Etheridge); two sons, Stewart E. Smith of Linville, N.C. and Courtney Smith of Jacksonville, Fla.; one sister, Sheila Cameron of Wilton, Conn, also survived by two grandchildren.

Elizabeth Rollins, 56

NEWTON — Funeral services were held at the Congregational Church, Thursday, March 18, for Elizabeth (Shishmanian) Rollins, 56, of Newton Highlands, who died at home, March 15 after a long illness.

Mrs. Rollins was a longtime resident of Revere and graduated from the Revere High School class of 1944. She moved to Newton 20 years ago. A graduate of Jordan Marsh's Executive Training Program, she had been employed as a buyer and a store manager in both the Boston store and the Malden store.

She had been a teacher with the Week Day Church School and was active as an official at the Hyde School polls. She had been involved with scouting in Norumbega Council as a den leader, pack and troop committee member, and unit commissioner.

She is survived by her husband, Raymond C. Rollins; one daughter, Judith A. Rollins, of Newton; one son, Adam I. Rollins of Newton; her mother, Agnes Shismanian of Revere; one sister, Anita R. Shishmanian of Revere; one brother, Charles Shishmanian of Newton. She is the daughter of the late Hagop "Jack" Shishmanian.

Memorial gifts may be made in her name to the Hospice of the Good Shepherd, P.O. Box 144, Newton 02168.

Leo B. Hall, 52

NEWTON — Leo B. Hall, 52, of Newtonville, died suddenly Sunday, March 21 at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Born in Attleboro, Mr. Hall earned his B.S. degree from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and a Masters degree from Central Michigan University. He was owner of the consultant firm, Leo B. Hall Associates. Mr. Hall was a member of Associated Mental Health Administrators and Sigma Xi. He was an assitant director of mental health at Boston University from 1977-1978. From 1976-1977 he was director of planning and development at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst and from 1961-1976 he was director of division patient services at the Universtiy of Massachusetts.

He is survived by his wife, Carol A. (Thayer); two sons, Mark and Jon; two daughters, Karen and Carol Vanasse; son of Beatrice (Hall) and Fredrik J. Christiansen; brother of Beverly Ann, Robert E., Bernard B. Hall, John Christiansen and Ann Sleeper, also survived by three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in the Mackay Funeral Home, Newton, Wednesday, March 24, with interment in Quidnessett Memorial Cemetery, North Kingstown.

Helen C. Troy, 81

NEWTON — Helen C. Troy, 81, of West Newton, died, Saturday, March 20 in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, after a long illness.

A lifelong Newton resident, Miss Troy worked for Grover Cronin in Waltham for 25 years.

She was the sister of Michael J. Troy of West Newton. Funeral Mass was in St. Benard's Church, Wednesday, March 24 with interment in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Country Day expands use of computer

NEWTON CENTRE — Both public and private high schools across the nation are introducing computers into their curricula.

At Newton Country Day of the Sacred Heart, an all-girls preparatory school in Newton Centre, computer courses are being expanded this year through a donation from Honeywell of Waltham.

Through a time-sharing arrangement with Honeywell, the school on Centre Street has access to Honeywell's DPS 7, a medium-sized system located at Honeywell's Waltham Data Center. Students from grades 7 through 12 are being exposed to computers on different levels.

Newton Country Day currently has two terminals of its own with video display screens, but Janet Montgomery, a math teacher, says the donation of time on the Honeywell system gives the students use of a $1.5 million system with larger files in contrast to small microcomputers.

Montgomery says computers are being integrated into the math curriculum at the school with more in-depth study for seniors. The goal of the program, she says, is to give students "hands-on experience early so that they become comfortable with computers."

"Definitely by the end of the 8th grade, every student will have been through some exposure to computers," Montgomery adds.

"I guess the stress in all of the classes is creative programming so that students can see an application of what they're studying and perhaps write their own program," she says. "My objective with creative programming,and in introducing some of the technical aspects of the computer, is so that the students will not learn to depend on the machine."

"Hopefully the girls will learn to challenge the computer and evaluate the output themselves," Montgomery says.

This is the first year for Newton Country Day, which currently has 190 students, to offer computer science courses and Montgomery says the school next year hopes to teach a highly technical full-year course which includes PASCAL, COBOL and BASIC lanquages.

Dentist/inventor makes a breakthrough

Patients get a dentist's eye view

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — The strange thing about Harvey Apotheker's practical new invention is that it should have been invented sooner.

"I don't know why it wasn't developed before," says Apotheker, a 33-year-old dentist who has spent much of his professional life working towards improvements in dentistry.

After an intense four-year effort, Apotheker's invention, the DentiScope, will be marketed by Johnson & Johnson Company beginning April 15. It's a lightweight and moveable microscope which magnifies the view inside a patient's mouth seven times the actual size. Dentists using the instrument are more comfortable because they're looking through a microscope suspended overhead and not slouching over to look inside a patients mouth. Also, to the patient's advantage is the fact that the magnification allows dentists to do better precision work.

Apotheker, who has lived in Newton Centre since age 14, feels the DentiScope is something that dentists have always needed.

"It's so obvious," says Apotheker. Everyone else seems to agree. Dentists and patients repeatedly ask Apotheker why someone didn't think of it sooner.

"Everybody keeps asking me that. Every dentist that I've talked to said that," remarks Apotheker.

Even Dr. Geza Jako, a nose and throat surgeon who helped create the instrument, wondered the same thing. In 1976, during a dental visit to Apotheker, Jako asked him why it took so long to fill his cavity. Apotheker explained that he was having trouble seeing the area. Jako then explained to Apotheker that some doctors were working with micro-surgery, using a microscope to perform precision surgery.

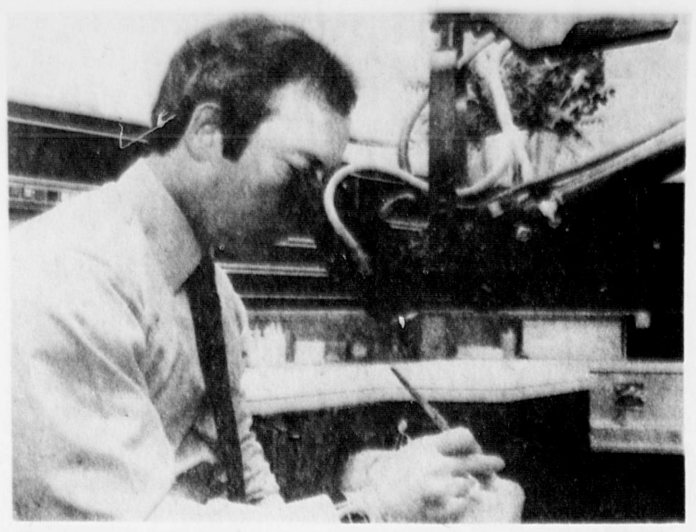

That instrument, created by Jako, sold for $25,000 and seemed too expensive to Apotheker. But it prompted him to wonder if they could create a similar instrument for dentists.

Jako's instrument, unfortunately, was stationary and impractical for a dentist. Also, the depth and field of vision was not great enough for a dentist's high precision work.

What dentists needed, Apotheker decided, was an easily moveable instrument with optical features specifically designed for dental use.

"He and I set out to design one which had all these features," ex-

3 finalists for schools' chief

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The field was narrowed from seven to three Monday night in the search for a new superintendent of schools.

Three finalists - Dr. Percy Clark, Jr., Dr. Troy Earhart and Dr. John Strand - were voted by the School Committee with opposition from three members.

The 5-3 vote narrowing the field to three finalists was weighted with the support of committee members from the north side of the city, Leonard Gentile, Katherine Jones, Susan Silbey, and Nancy Mann, who represent Wards 1-4 respectively.

Absent was Mayor Theodore D. Mann, ex-officio School Committee member. He attended only one of the semifinalists' interviews

Earhart, superintendent of the Foxboro schools, is the only in-state finalist, while Clark is assistant superintendent of schools in Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Strand is superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y., schools. Based upon public interviews, priorities the finalists held in common are the clear definition of objectives and goals and more structure for schools and programs.

A motion was made following executive session offering the three men as a slate because, according to Chairperson Nancy Mann, "it became clear (during executive session) that there was strong division on certain candidates and more unanimity on others."

During the role-call vote by wards, Marcia Mitchell of Ward 5 cast the fifth vote in support of the three as voting went around the table. Ann Berwick, James Mnookin and Robert Ricles, from Wards 6-8 respectively, cast the opposition votes.

Current superintendent Aaron Fink announced in September that he would resign at the end of the school year after 13 years.

Although three of the seven semi-finalists were black, Dr. Percy Clark is the only black finalist. The only woman semi-finalist, Dr. Alice Blair, a black educator and deputy superintendent with the Chicago, Ill., schools, was not selected along with Dr. J. Geoffrey Pierson of Newton Centre.

Pierson, acting superintendent in Lexington since January, was from

Rental housing could increase

Might ease reval burden

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The city's Human Rights Commission is studying housing needs in the city with an eye toward lessening some of the financial burden of revaluation.

Susan Wollach said the commission was concerned about "increasing the city's rental housing stock," and had begun to survey citizens on the legalization of accessory apartments.

In mid-February, the Aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee set up a sub-sommittee to explore policy questions regarding land use regulations involved in the legitimization of these units, sometimes called "in-law apartments."

Wollach said legalizing such accessory apartments would allow young people to move into Newton and help some elderly to keep and maintain their homes, because of the potential added income. Many elderly have claimed the increased tax bills will force them to move out of the city or allow their homes to gradually slide into decay.

"If it's possible to break up the larger homes in the city into two or three or four-unit dwellings without sacrificing the outside structure and aesthetics of the city," said Richard Glovsky, commission chairman," we might be able to increase the rental housing stock."

Mayor Theodore Mann was uncommitted on the issue but noted: "there has to be a consistency with the zoning laws" in the break-up of the older homes or else there would be an erosion of neighborhood standards.

Director of Planning and Development Barry Canner said it was "the type of thing you have to be careful of," and cautioned against the possible re-characterization of a neighborhood.

"Hopefully we'll find a way to do it that will diminish the effects of revaluation," said Glovsky. "It could help some people."

Glovsky estimated there are about 3,000 illegal apartments in the city.

Revaluation firm rechecking figures

NEWTON — The firm conducting revaluation began a review Monday of new assessments being challenged by city homeowners.

Thomas Polzella, project manager for Finnegan Associates of Acton, said the company expects to notify all residents of the result of informal appeal hearings by the end of April. Five Finnegan employees are currently conducting the field review of the values appealed during hearings, according to Polzella.

"I want to make sure we make the proper adjustments and don't rush through this," Polzella said of the review.

Approximately 8,100 homeowners have filed appeals and scheduled appointments with the company since tax impact notices reflecting the revaluation were mailed Feb. 18. Polzella estimated, however, that 2,500 homeowners simply wanted information on how the assessment was obtained.

Many aldermen and taxpayers are claiming the revaluation is plagued with unfair values, inconsistencies, and discrepancies. If the revaluation is delayed, however, the city would be forced to make the $11 million budget cut with only two months remaining in the fiscal year.

Polzella said field reviewers often check the property values of other homes on the street to assure assessments are in line. He also said the company will review data on homes that residents claimed errors.

Polzella said values are often adjusted because of location problems, data errors, the condition of the home and other factors that may affect selling price. He said the assessments of less than 5% of all homes reviewed will be increased.

Under revaluation, city assessors have planned to use $1.8 million in tax dollars ($90 million in property value) to make abatements and changes as a result of taxpayer appeals.

Chairman of the Aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee Paul Coletti is preparing a resolution that would call for funds from a budget surplus to be used to make abatements.

Coletti is expected to unveil the resolution at a joint-meeting of the Revaluation Subcommittee and the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Revaluation Wednesday night after Mayor Theodore Mann presents his proposed FY 1983 municipal budget to aldermen.

Polzella said many taxpayers will be satisfied with the project after changes are made as a result of the review. "We know there are a few obvious mistakes," he said.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer said the final 800 appeal hearings with Finnegan and city assessors will be completed Friday night. Palmer also said the Revenue Department may begin a preliminary review of commercial values next Monday.

Man loses foot after bus-truck crash

NEWTON — Doctors were forced to amputate the left foot of an 18-year-old Newton man who was trapped in his truck for almost two hours Friday after a collision with a school bus.

Vernon T. Porter of 292 Langley Rd., Newton Centre, was listed in good condition at Newton-Wellesley Hospital following the surgery.

In spite of the ordeal, Porter was also in good spirits, according to his father, Newton Water Commissioner Vernon Porter. "He's in very good condition," said the elder Porter, who added that he is now looking towards his son's future. "He doesn't know what he's going to do. We'll have to take it one day at a time."

The younger Porter became pinned in his 1972 GMC truck after it collided at 12:25 p.m. Friday with a METCO school bus at the Parker Street exit off Route 9. Fire and ambulance rescuers spent over 1½ hours trying to remove the Newton Centre man from his vehicle.

A passenger in the truck, Lynn Butler, 17, of Longfellow Rd., Lower Falls, was treated by Newton-Wellesley Hospital surgeons for facial injuries and released Friday night. Butler's parents reported Sunday night that "Lynn is fine," though they declined to comment further on the incident.

Some 13 of 30 children on the bus, Roxbury residents who attend Wellesley's Schofield school, were treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for scrapes and cuts and released Friday night. Two children, one suffering from abdominal pains and another who temporarily lost consciousness, were admitted overnight for observation, hospital officials said.

The driver of the bus, Paul Snow, was reported to be shaken up by the accident, police said, and was treated at the hospital and released.

Porter's father said his son has discussed with family members why the accident happened, though he declined to comment on the discussion. Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicle officials, who were on the scene Friday, are still investigating the accident. The registry is required to investigate all accidents involving school buses. Immediately following the collision, the bus driver stated that he stopped at the stop sign, did not see the truck and proceeded to turn left onto the bridge over Route 9 when he struck Porter's truck, which was turning right onto the bridge. Officials said fault has not been determined.

Porter must undergo another operation on his leg, according to his father. The date for the second operation has not been scheduled, Porter said. "It will be another three months before he can start doing anything," said Porter, noting that his son would probably remain in the hospital for at least another two months.

"We're constantly with him except for about six hours a night," Porter said of his son, a Catholic Memorial High School graduate who now works as a landscape contractor.

Porter was trapped when the bumper of the bus bounced up and as it bounced down again, caught Porter's leg between the truck's floor board and the bumper of the bus. Ambulance, fire and police resuers sustained Porter intravenously as the crew worked loosen the vehicles without further injuring Porter's leg.

Porter was conscious most of the time, which fire officials said helped them in the rescue effort.

Chaulk Ambulance Service technician perched on the hood of the school bus to administer aid to Vernon Porter, trapped for almost two hours in the cab of his truck last Friday.

Ambulance personnel joined Newton Police and firefighters in lifting an injured Porter into an ambulance for a trip to Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Doctors were later forced to amputate Porter's injured left foot.

Motorist's robbery probed

NEWTON — Police are investigating the robbery of a Watertown Street motorist Saturday night by two men who smashed his driver's window, struck him, and made off with his cash.

The victim told police he just had stopped his car at Cherry and Webster streets shortly before 10 p.m. when he was hit in the chest — apparently after his car window was shattered — and his money was stolen by robbers he did not see, police said.

A witness told police the assailants may have used a tire iron to smash the car window.

Police were uncertain how much money might have been stolen from the Watertown Street man.

Rugs lifted from Newton home

NEWTON — Someone stole Oriental rugs and a 19-inch Sony color television from a Mt. Alvernia Road home, according to a report received by police about 9:45 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the thief smashed a window and forced its lock to get into the house.

Reported stolen were the television and four rugs. No values were known for the stolen items.

Elderly store owner injured in 1-alarm fire

NEWTON CORNER - An 84-year-old man was hospitalized with third-degree burns he suffered last week in a fire which gutted his Pearl STreet variety store.

John Coffey, of School Street, Newton Corner, was carried out of Coffey's Variety Store at 192 Pearl St., by Edward Casey Jr., son of Newton Firefighter Edward Casey, fire officials said.

Firefighter Herbert Fothergill was treated for facial burns at Newton-Wellesley Hospital and later released. The cause of the blaze is still undetermined, according to Fire Captain Carnine Tedesco.

Casey, 24, a Newton resident, was driving by the shop at about 10:15 a.m. when he saw the flames from a side window, Casey's father said. Casey then struck a nearby fire box and rushed into the flamming store, where Coffey stood engulfed in flames. Casey told fire officials that the elderly man was in shock and did not want to leave the store. So Casey was forced to pick him up and carry him outside.

Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Simeone, who live in the apartment above the store, were unaware what was happening until after the fire downstairs had spread rapidly through the store.

"My husband was stepping out to go to the bank," said Mrs. Simeone. She said she could smell smoke but did not realize it was coming from below until the couple saw the smoke seeping through the floors. They then dashed outside through the front entrance.

"When we went outside, Mr. Coffey was standing there all burnt," said Mrs. Simeone.

When the Simeones arrived outside, the fire trucks had already arrived. Engines 1, 4 and 9 and Ladders 1 and 3 fought the blaze for about 25 minutes before it was controlled, said Ass istant Chief Edward Murphy.

"The fire was well involved when we got here," said Murphy. Fire trucks remained on the scene until about 1 a.m., Murphy said. Murphy and Tedesco stayed at the scene all day, until a private company came in to board up the gutted building.

Although the Simeone's six-room unit was not badly damaged, all that remained of Coffey's store was a mass of black debri.

Firefighters smashed two walls and several windows in the upstairs apartment. Glass and wood debri splattered areas in the apartment, though most of the unit remained in tact. The Simeones will stay with family members temporarily.

Coffee was originally rushed to Newton-Wellesley Hospital though doctors there advised that he be taken to the burn center. Officials there said Coffey was in stable condition but very ill. Most of the burns covered his legs, said fire officials.

The Simeones stated that a smoke detector in their unit did not alarm until they saw the smoke and the fire was already well involved.

Residents of the Pearl Street area, particularly youngsters who were in school when the fire occurred, expressed shock and concern for Coffey. They said Coffey is a thoughtful, friendly man who is well-liked by the neighbors.

Two weekend fires damage one restaurant and two local garages

NEWTON CENTRE - A grease fire spread rapidly through a Union Street Restaurant, causing heavy smoke and water damage to the kitchen and an adjacent office on Langley Road late Sunday night.

According to fire officials, Pierre Saraufin, owner of the Sabra Restaurant, 45 Union St., was closing the establishment for the evening when he saw flames coming from the ceiling ducts.'

The blaze was well involved when firefighters arrived on the scene at 9:21 p.m. Flames and smoke were coming through the front of the two-story building, which also houses apartments on the second floor. No one was injured, officials said.

Engines 3, 6, 9 and 10; Ladders 2 and 3 and Assistant Chief Edward Murphy responded to fire and about 10 minutes later, Fire Chief Edward Murphy also arrived on the scene.

The blaze was all out at 10:46 p.m. after firefighters extinguished the flames which burned through the kitchen ceiling and grease ducts. Flames also extended to the adjacent office building occupied by Patterson Insurance Agency, 61 Langley Rd.

Flames also burned the kitchen roof and ignited the framework of the second floor porch, though firefighters stopped the fire at that point, fighting the flames from an aerial ladder.

Firefighters were also forced to knock out ceilings and walls to check for extension of the fire. Heavy smoke damage was reported to the second floor apartments.

Before leaving the scene at 11:26 p.m., fire officials contacted the Health Department to check for food contamination.

WEST NEWTON - Two garages were heavily damaged late Sunday night following a working fire that began behind a garage at 96 Berkley St. 11:36 p.m., was caused by disposal of fireplace ashes. The owner of the qamage, Michael Battmann, told officials that earlier in the evening, he dumped ashes from the fireplace behind the garage.

When firefighters arrived, the blaze was well involved and began to spread to a garage at 19 Exeter St., officials reported. Engines 2, 4 and 5, Ladder 1 and Assistant Chief Edward Reilly responded to the scene at 11:36 p.m. and declared the blaze all out at 12:20.

Firefighters extinguished the blaze with 2 ½ hoses stretched down a 200-foot driveway. No cars were parked in the garages though tools, toys and other items were damaged by the fire. Firefighters remained on the scene until 1:26 a.m.

Correction

Due to a reporting error, a recent story concerning the committee screening applicants for the school superintendent's position incorrectly identified Lillian Radlo as a member of the committee.

In her role as secretary to the School Committee, she did attend the search committee meetings. She is also assistant to current School Superintendent Aaron Fink.

The Graphic regrets the error.

Dad's coaching made him a lifesaver

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER — Edward Casey Jr., 22, who last Wednesday saved the life on an 84-year-old man during the fire of the man's Pearl Street store, didn't stop to think about going into the burning building.

"I didn't hesitate. I just went right to the front door," said Casey, who at 10:30 a.m. carried John Coffey, who was shocked and seriously burned, out the now gutted store.

Casey, the son of Newton firefighter Edward Casey and long-time Newton Corner resident, explained, "I heard him moaning and without a second thought I ran in to get him." Coffey suffered third degree burns over 44% of his body and last night was listed in stable but guarded condition at Brigham and Womens Hospital Burn Center.

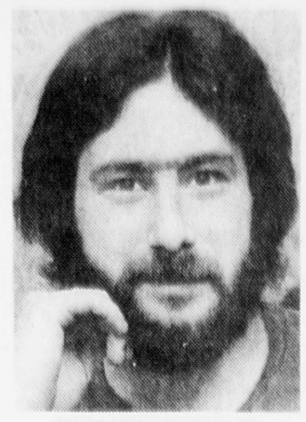

Casey, a 1977 graduate of Newton North High School and now a carpenter, was driving past Coffey's Variety Store and saw the flames through a side window. He alerted the fire department to the blaze inside the two-story, wood-framed stucco by striking a nearby fire box.

Fire Captain Carmine Tedesco said yesterday that careless disposal of a cigarette was the cause of the one-alarm blaze that destoyed the small store. Tedesco said fire officials are discontinuing the investigation.

The blaze left the store a pile of burned debris. The second floor apartment occupied by the building's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Simeone, was only slightly damaged. The Simeones escaped uninjured.

Casey has been acquainted with Coffey for 15 years because he lives on School Street, across from the shop. When Casey saw that the elderly man's car was still parked in front of the store, he was sure Coffey was still inside. Without hesitation, he rushed through the front entrance.

"He (Coffey) was about five feet from the door," Casey continued. "His clothes were all burnt." Casey, who said he never before went into a burning building or saved anyone's life, recalled some lessons he received from his firefighter father.

EDWARD CASEY JR.

Casey stayed low as he proceeded through the store because the smoke was heavy. "The store, you couldn't even see the back of it the smoke was so thick," Casey explained. "There were flames all around us," said Casey, who was not burnt but did inhale a lot of smoke. Casey, however, dismissed it as "nothing major."

"Coffey was dazed, in shock," Casey continued, noting that Coffey didn't want to be taken from the burning store. So Casey picked him without any difficulty. "He's a small man basically," said Casey, describing Coffey as about 5'7" and 175 lbs. "It wasn't hard to pick him up."

When he got outside, Casey held on to Coffey for a moment, and then rested him on a mailbox so that he could go up to the second floor apartment and check on the Simeones, who were home and unaware what was happening.

Casey ran up the stairs and asked the couple if they needed any help getting out. When they responded that they could walk out alone, Casey returned outside. By then, several fire trucks and ambulances had arrived, and rushed Coffey away for medical care.

Casey said his father, who said he was "very proud" of his son's rescue efforts, had talks with him as youngster about what firefighters do during a fire. Though Casey has never had any formal training. "I did what I thought was neccessary and it worked out for the best," said Casey.

"I'm very proud that I did it and it's something I'll be proud of for a long time to come."

Kiwanis scholarship program is announced

NEWTON — Michael Murray, President of the Kiwanis Club of Newton has announced that Senior High School students of all public, private and parochial High Schools in the City of Newton area are urged to check with their school principals or guidance counselors for information regarding the annual New Englend Kiwanis Scholarships Awards.

These scholarships provide second semester assistance for one year towards the tuition and other costs in a two year or four year college, business school, two year technical, or nursing school of the recipient's own choice. Basis for the awards are scholarship, school service, community service and financial need. These awards are made to deserving young people in New England without regard to sex, race, creed, color or national origin.

Kiwanis Scholars from New England states are now attending major colleges through-out the country, as well as junior colleges, technical-vocational and nursing schools.

Chief Quinn issues reminder on alarm systems

NEWTON — Chief William F. Quinn is reminding all residents about ordinances regarding alarms and the major types of systems that are available.

Homeowners may install an audible alarm which sounds at the home, a silent system which runs directly into the police station, or a combination of the two.

"The type of system that should be installed depends on the resident's needs and the type of dwelling" stated the chief. "Interested persons should contact a variety of alarm companies for information and estimates."

Quinn advises those who are installing alarms to provide the Police Department in writing with their names and addresses and type of system. Also included whould be the names and telephone numbers of two additional people with keys who can be reached if the alarm is activated and the resident is not available.

"Alarm users should also take precautions not to transmit false alarms" warned the chief. "Our officers respond to all such reports to determine their validity." The Police Department assesses a fine of $25 for each false alarm over three within the calender year.

Guns and history

It's funny how history tends to repeat itself.

Looking at the ongoing concern about gun control and viewing gun-related incidents in recent months within some Boston public schools, we offer excerpts from a Newton Graphic editorial, published in 1887 and sent in last week by a reader from Littleton, Mass.

The editorial, entitled "Boys and revolvers," is eerie in the way it presents something of a whimsical "Wild West" image for dear old Newton.

We quote: "Complaint has been made to the police that several of the young boys at the Bigelow School are in the habit of carrying revolvers about in their pockets.

"The statement appeared incredible, until the matter was investigated and it was found to be the truth. What the parents of these boys can be thinking of, is something which we do not profess to understand.

"It is impossible to take up a daily paper without reading of some horrible affair, wher some boy either intentionally or otherwise murders a playmate with his toy pistol or revolver, and if this habit is allowed in Newton we may any day expect a similar tragedy here.

"If the boys who are allowed such dangerous playthings shoot themselves, the public would not have so much occasion to be indignant, but that is very rarely the case; it is generally some inoffensive playmate who is maimed or killed.

"...There are probably few grown persons in this community who allow themselves to carry revolvers habitually, and they would be careful to conceal the fact if they did, from fear of public sentiment.

"...Boys of the age of Bigelow School boys have no business with fire arms, except under the supervision of some person of mature years and discretion."

No one would, of course, claim that guns are a problem in the Newton schools but in some schools of thought, firearms are treated as lightly as they were in 1887, with the same tragic results.

That figures...sort of

The public hearing on revaluation last week came off without a hitch, after the previous week's postponement, of course.

But we were just wondering one thing. Does anyone really know how many people showed up?

The Graphic reporters present estimated "more than 2,000" - a number aimed at giving the reader a good "guestimate", without getting too picky.

One Boston daily declared "3,500 attend Newton hearing" while the other daily in the Hub gave a more conservative estimate.

It is not, of course, of great import in light of the real reason for the hearing last week. But next time you're in a crowd like that one, just give it a guess - then wait for the newspapers.

'Tis not an easy thing to put a number on sometimes.

Frank's fans; bucking the system

A handy racquet

Janice Brack, a seven year veteran of the Newton Police Department, recently won the Women's Intermediate Daytime Racquetball League playoffs held at the Play Off Club in Needham.

Janice began playing racquetball two years ago and joined the intermediate league this year. She placed second in the nine-week league with the first place spot in the league standings going to another Garden City resident, Sue Ekivian.

Janice captured the first place trophy when she bested Sue in the final playoff series of three matches, played the week of March 8.

Kudos and platinum racquets to both.

Not bad for a freshman

Congressman Barney Frank has been singled out by his colleagues as the most effective freshman in the House, according to a Congressional poll published in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report.

In its survey of "What Congress really thinks of itself," U.S. News asked the lawmakers which freshman reps "have shown the most promise as effective members of Congress."

That's where Barney received the most votes. More than 30% of the members of Congress responded to the survey, which the magazine said was answered by more members of the GOP than Democrats.

The local legislator was also honored in recent months when he finished first in the Washington public television station "Lawmakers'" show poll listing the best first-term reps.

"Congressional Insight," the newsletter of Congressional Quarterly, reported back in November that some of the 73 freshmen Republicans and Democrats in the House were starting to "emerge from the pack."

Guess what. Frank was first among the Dems and was singled out for a special profile in a succeeding edition.

Off to Carnegie Hall

Word comes to us that Christopher Cushna of Newton, a student of the Boston Choir School in Cambridge, recently performed the Mahler #3 with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Carnegie Hall in New York.

Christopher is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Cushna, a proud couple indeed.

Encore!

No way to make a buck

Newton Police Chief William Quinn last week issued a warning to residents about some phony - or should we say, altered - currency floating around the area.

"Currently in circulation," the chief said, "are dollar bills that have been altered at the ends with taped pieces to look like ten dollar bills."

Merchants should check each bill, Chief Quinn noted, making sure the presidential picture corresponds to the numerical amount. That means George Washington should be on the $1; Abe on the $5; Alexander Hamilton on the $10; and so on.

If you end up with any of this bogus cash the chief asks that you call the Newton Police at 552-7240.

Off to the county

Bill Schmidt, executive assistant to Middlesex County Sheriff Ed Henneberry, has taken a leave of absence from his position to organize his campaign for Middlesex County Commissioner in the Democratic primary on Sept. 14 of this year.

Schmidt, a 30-year-old Garden City resident and former legislative assistant to Congressman Edward Markey, is making his first try for public office.

Last week he noted his belief that "there needs to be a change in the way Middlesex County government operates," and if elected he said he would pursue "much-needed reforms with current Commission Chairman Thomas Larkin."

A tip of the hat to Jerry

Charles "Jerry" Stonemetz, recently retired editor of our friendly competition, the Newton Villager, was recently feted at a huge dinner held in his honor at a Waltham restaurant, only 500 feet from where he took his first newspaper job at the old Newton Transcript.

Newton Police Lt. Charles Feeley let us in on the gathering, noting that Stonemetz had only expected a small gathering of his office staff and production crew.

First on board for the congratulatory party was James Murphy, a one-time sports contributor to the old Transcript. Murphy presented Stonemetz with a silver Paul Revere bowl filled with crystal marbles, noting "When I met you over 40 years ago you had all your marbles, as you leave I present you with the proof that you still have all your marbles."

Surprise visitors at the gathering included Mayor Theodore Mann, Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, Chief William Quinn, Chief Ed Reilly, Aldermen Robert Tennant and Richard Bulwinkle, Recreation Commissioner Russell Halloran, Election Commissioner Alan Licarie, City Clerk Ed English, Veterans' Agent Carleton Merrill and Judge Monte Basbas, among many many others.

Written kudos came in from Governor Ed King, Mayor Kevin White and Congressman Barney Frank, Lt. Feeley told us.

And where do you go after 40 years of hard work in the newspaper business?

Jerry is heading off to a nice, quiet, secluded cabin in Maine.

He deserves a break.

West Newton mom helps out

Programs offered by the Easter Seals Society have been a great help to Mario and Lynn Baldy of West Newton. So now Lynn has given them a hand. When the Easter Seals Telethon was televised March 27 and 28, Lynn was one of the many operators taking pledges.

Lynn is the mother of seven children and owner of the Busy Bee gift and cake decorating shop in West Newton. She says the Newton Stroke Club, funded through Easter Seals, has been vital to her husband Mario since he suffered a severe stroke last year.

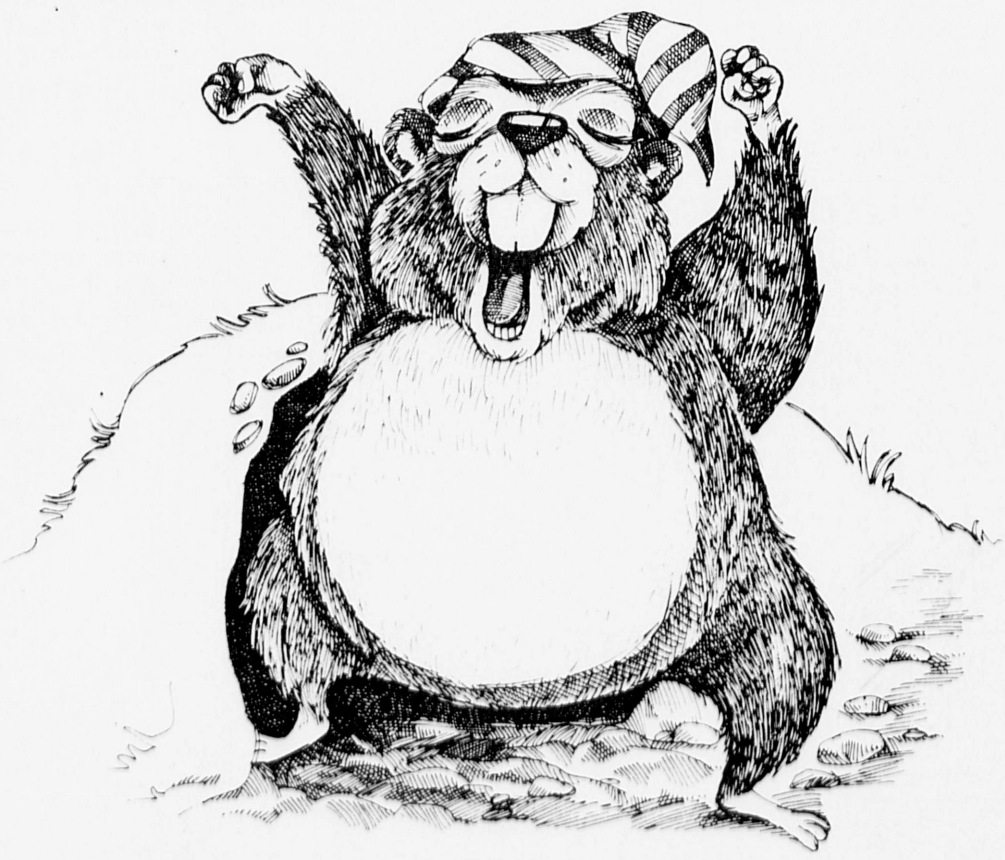

"It's next to breathing. It's essential for stroke victims and their families," says Lynn, who noted that her husband also helps other stroke victims in the club. Lynn had already raised $500 before the telethon even started.

Marking time

For sale: Underground(hog) home

By Mark White

(A typical day at a revaluation hearing.)

Next! Name, sir.

"Punxatawney Phil."

Occupation, sir?

"Groundhog."

And you're here to protest your revaluation?

"Yes, I can't understand how you could have valued my home at $100,000."

Well here's your sheet. It's really self-explanatory.

"I'm sorry, please explain it to me."

Of course, Mr. Phil. First we examine the type of home in which you live. For instance, you live in an underground single family residence on an acre of land.

"But I live in a hole!"

'Of course,' the hearing officer told him, 'Underground homes are very fashionable these days. Many people are building them to save on energy costs.'

Listen sir. It's not up to us to characterize your home. If you want to call it a hole, that's your business.

Your card says that you have a fireplace and an indoor swimming pool. Sounds pretty nice!

"Swimming pool? You idiot! Your man visited my home after a rainstorm. That was a puddle! And what's this about a fireplace? Some jerk came by, dropped a cigarette in my livingroom and it hit a twig."

No need to get nasty, Mr. Phil. The card says you have a livingroom, eating area, bedroom, playroom and den. Is that true?

"Yes and it's all the same room you nitwit!"

Now Mr. Phil. We also increase assessments for aesthetic values and the computer increased your assessment for that reason.

"But why??"

Well, first of all, you're property is unique. The market for such a parcel is very limited which increases its value.

Then, of course, underground homes are very fashionable these days. Many people are building them to save on energy costs.

Furthermore, your "hole," as you call it, is located in the most fashionable area in the city. You abut a $300,000 home and two homes valued at $250,000 each. That increases the desirability of the neighborhood. Finally, you have no traffic in front of your house.

"Well how come my home is valued at $100,000 and my friend's hole is valued at $75,000 and his is much nicer. It has four entrances, a large kitchen, three levels and a new modern, hibernation area."

Well, let's check the card. Oh yes! His hole is much older than yours. We don't have any record of renovation. He must have done it without a building permit and the lister must have missed it.

Oh, and I almost forgot, the most important criterion. The market value depends on when we visited your house.

"I don't understand."

You see, your house was valued at the time the federal government announced a cut in the interest rates as well as a decline in the inflation rate. That makes people more willing to buy expensive properties, allows for an affordable mortgage and increases the market value.

Now your friend's house was valued after President Reagan's budget message. You see, when the president announced a huge deficit in the federal budget, people started worrying about the economy and they are less likely to buy a house. Consequently, the house is worth less. It's really very simple.

"I don't believe this."

It's all done very scientifically with a computer. All the information is put in the computer and the computer comes out with a value.

"Well what about all the disadvantages of my home??"

Like what?

"Stray golf balls from the adjoining country club, dogs going to the bathroom in my living room, enormous costs for snow removal, and mudslides."

It's all been taken into account by the computer.

"Then how about any statutory abatements for groundhogs?"

Only if you're elderly or a veteran of Quemoy or Matsu.

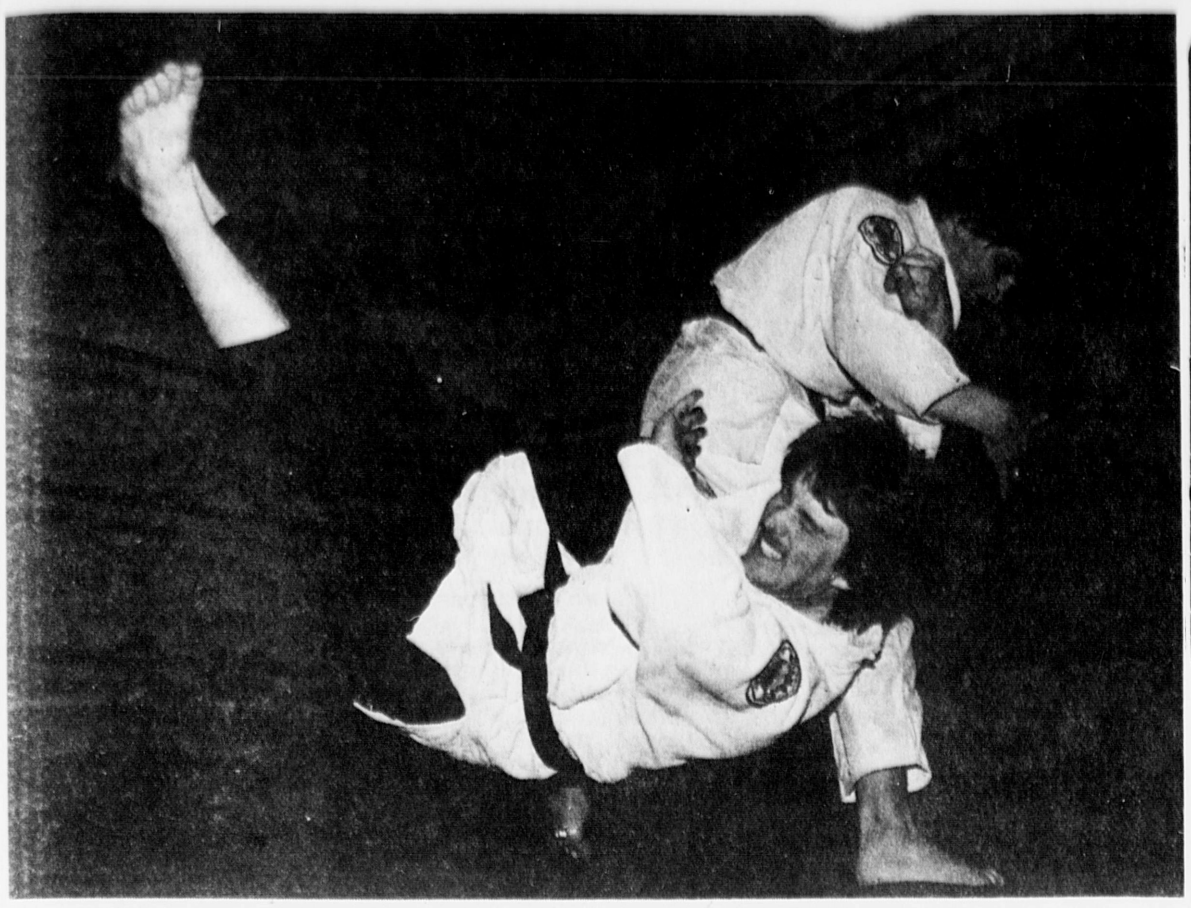

"Can I qualify for a hardship?"

Not from your neighborhood.

"One more question.

"Do you know anybody who wants to buy a fashionable underground home with a fireplace and an indoor swimming pool?"

'I died and went to Heaven' when tavern was shut down

To the editor;

On Monday, March 22 I thought I died and went to Heaven! Hale Street in Newton Upper Falls was so-o-o peaceful and quite quiet. There weren't any cars, noise, beer bottles or "late night visitors."

Isn't this how it was about three years ago? This was during the period that "Lewis's" (formerly "Molly's", formerly "Leonard's") barroom was renovating.

It did make a different in apperance on the outside, but that's all it did.

It seemed so long ago I've forgotton how it was to live in a residential neighborhood. Ever since Lewis's on Elliot St Street came into existence the people on Elliot and Hale Streets have had ntohing but noise, cars, beer bottles and "late night visitors" who leave part of their body fluid in the darkness of the street.

But thanks to the Newton Liquor Licensing Board and the Newton Police Department this establishment was closed on Monday and Tuesday for serving liquor after closinq time. My husband and I would have preferred a Thursday and Friday closing (their busiest days and nights) but even these two days gave Hale Street a long, peaceful weekend.

Thanks again for doing such a good job.

Congratulate School Committee

To the editor;

I congratulate the Newton School Committee for its decision to schedule public interviews of finalists for the position of superintendent of schools.

I strongly recommend that in the future this practice be followed for the selection of all central staff administrators and principals of the high schools.

Correction

Due to a typesetting error a story last week about the Countryside Community School's seventh season of summer camp inadvertantly failed to include the fact that the three-week summer sessions cost $70, plus a $2 fee per child.

Registration is now open for the summer program, which includes music, water play, arts and crafts, games, stories, dramatics and free time.

The program is offered for children ages 3-6. Children just under 3 years of age will be accepted if toilet trained.

The first session runs from July 12-31; session two is from Aug. 2-20. Call Barby Chandra at 965-1369 for more information on the summer program.

Cable hooks up 1000th subscriber

NEWTON— Continental Cablevision of Massachusetts, Inc., has completed more than 1,000 subscriber installations in the city of Newton, according to System Manager Michael Musen. The Boston-based cable television company began offering service in Newton on November 12, 1981.

On February 12, Continental hooked up its 1000th Newton subscriber. Marketing of the 300-mile cable system, which passes 28,000 homes in Newton, is expected to be completed by early fall.

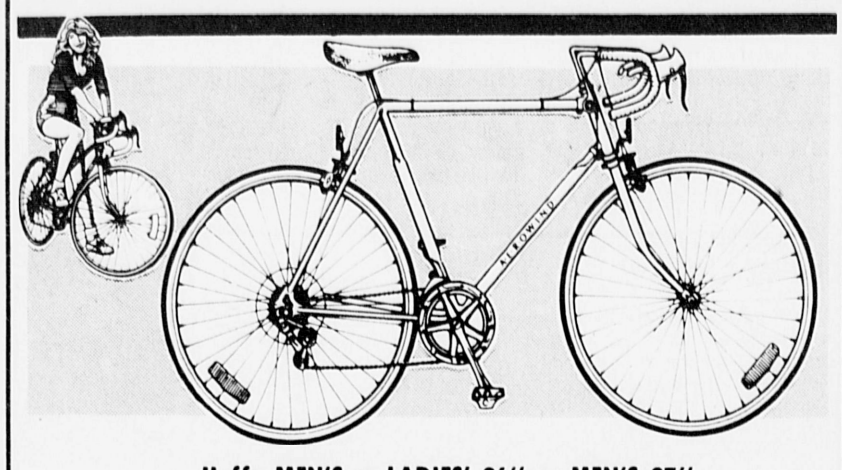

Musen detailed the seven phases in which area residents will be offered cable service. Phase One, completed last fall, activated parts of Newton Center and Newton Highlands. Phase Two, in which the company is currently engaged, covers parts of West Newton and Newtonville. The Third Phase will activate Newton Corner, the remainder of Newton Center, and Chestnut Hill, and will begin in about two weeks. Phases Four through Seven, which will occupy the spring, summer and early fall, will cover, in chronological order, South Newton, Oak Hill, Newton Upper Falls, Waban, Newton Lower Falls, Auburndale, West Newton (north of the Massachusetts Turnpike), and Nonantum.

Musen also outlined how cable services will be marketed. "When an area is ready for home installation, all residents will receive a mailing from Continental notifying them that cable service is available. Shortly afterwards, a neighborhood representative will go door-to-door, usually in the early evening hours, to contact residents and explain the various cable services. This representative will also make appointments for installers to visit individual homes to complete the installations. Cable service is installed in the same fashion as telephone service.

"So far we have encountered a lot of interest in cable," Musen noted. "We are very happy with the enthusiastic response cable has met in Newton."

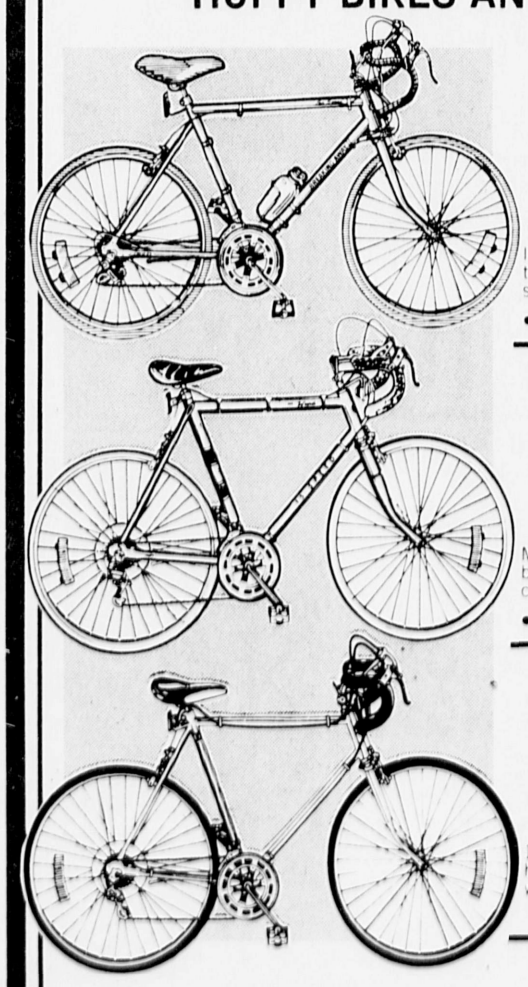

Continental's main offices are located at 1349 Centre Street, in a newly renovated building that formerly housed the Pulisfer School of Music. Also located within the building is the Newton Community Television Studio, where Newton residents may use company-supplied equipment to produce programs for the cable system's local channels.

Environmental honors

Newton Alderman Lisle Baker (left) and the Newton Commonwealth Improvement Corporation, represented by Norman Wolfe (right) were congratulated by Newton Conservators's President Sally Barnett recently after the pair received the "Environmentalist of the Year Award." The pair received the honor for the work preserving the 71 acres of land at the former Chestnut Hill Country Club.

Heckler courting Newton voters

By Jonathan Greenspan
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — Veteran Congresswoman Margaret Heckler (R. Mass.) made an appeal Sunday to city Democrats who have previously supported Freshman Congressman Barney Frank (D. Mass).

Heckler, a veteran of eight terms in the House of Representatives, said she was not looking for "partisan answers" to this country's problems but rather solutions that "make sense."

Heckler, who has begun to solicit support in Newton and Brookline — two heavy Democratic communities previously in Frank's congressional domain — noted the "independence" in her voting record and downplayed her ties to the Reagan Administration.

The Wellesley native kicked off her local campaign Sunday by addressing members of the Republican Citizens Committee at the West Newton home of Alderman Robert Tennant. About 45 people attended the campaign-strategy session and 15-minute address by Heckler.

Charlotte Thornburry, chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee, said Heckler thinks of Newton as being "very crucial" in her political bout with Frank and where she "expects to spend a lot of her effort."

A new congressional map which reduces Massachusetts' existing 12-member congressional delegation to 11 forces a run-off in the new 4th District between Heckler and Frank. A decline in Massachuetts' population in the past decade compared to the other 49 states forced the state to forfeit one congressional seat.

Heckler, who represented Newton for three terms beginning in 1966, said she "was delighted to be back in Newton" and renew friendships that had been forged in past political battles.

During her presentation, Heckler noted that there were "budget problems in Washington" and that the "country can't stand this type of deficit." Reagan's proposed fiscal 1983 budget projects a deficit of nearly $100 billion that both Democrats and Republicans have blasted.

> 'There's no one in Congress that's been more independently minded than myself. I think the independent record is going to be very strong.
> "I'm looking for what makes sense, for the rational answer to our problems. Not a Republican or Democratic answer.'
> –Cong. Margaret Heckler

"There's no one in Congress that's been more independently minded than myself," added Heckler. "I think the independent record is going to be very strong."

"I'm looking for what makes sense," claimed the senior female member of Congress, "for the rational answer to our problems. Not a Republican or Democratic answer."

"There is no way I've ever been a rubber stamp for any president," she said in response to an accusation that she has been a stamp for Reagan. "There was a mandate for change last year."

While exiting the meeting, Heckler said she "wants to cut the budget, however, not the way he (Reagan) does." Time did not allow her to elaborate.

Heckler defended Reagan's cuts in student aid noting that the president had tried to cut out the abuses in the system. However, Heckler thought "student aid and assistance could not be cut further," than it has been already.

"We have to cut out the abuses and the frauds," said Heckler. "There is no one who has been in Washington for at least several years that can't say there is abuse and fraud."

Heckler also defended the need for a "strong defense," but was not sure whether the economy could absorb a $214 billion defense budget.

Heckler called Frank's noise on redistricting a "public relations pose" that "served him well."

Frank lost most of his old 4th district as a result of the redrawing of the congressional map and threatened not to seek re-election. Under the new 4th District, 70 percent of the voters are from the congresswoman's old district and 26 percent from Frank's.

Heckler denied a newspaper report that said she had asked Robert White, who ran Waltham Mayor Arthur Clark's congressional campaign in 1980, to sign on as her campaign manager against Frank. Clark lost a close fight with Frank in the democratic primary for the 4th District seat.

Music program slated in Auburndale April 11

AUBURNDALE — A program of music for cello, harp, and harpsichord will be given by Ronald Feldman, Elizabeth Morse, and Beverly Scheibert on Sunday, April 11, at 5 p.m. at the Church of the Messiah, 1900 Commonwealth Ave. in Auburndale. The program will include works by Bach, Handel, Geminiani, and Vaughan Williams, and is open to the public without charge.

Ronald Feldman is a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and on the faculties of the New England Conservatory, Brandeis University, and the Boston University Tanglewood Institute. He is often heard as a recitalist and has been soloist with the Boston Pops Orchestra, the Orchestra da Camera of New York, Georgetown University Orchestra, and the Worcester Philharmonic, among others.

Elizabeth Morse is a graduate of Boston University and teaches at the All Newton Music School. She appears frequently as a recitalist and as a member of the Greylock Trio which also includes Ronald Feldman and Paul Fried, flutist with the BSO.

Beverly Scheibert is completing a doctorate in music at Boston University where she held teaching fellowships. She is music director at the historic Old Ship Church in Hingham, and is a frequent performer on harpsichord and organ, most recently in London.

Cable TV show deals with Jewish issues

NEWTON — A Jewish community affairs cable TV show, ALEPH is a chance to work with exciting Jewish personalities and issues while taking part in the grass-roots cable TV revolution.

Ten shows are being produced at the Newton Continental Cable studios by a volunteer staff led by Anne Fishman and Moshe Waldoks. All staff members are being trained in the video TV basics to produce shows that will be viewed throughout Newton on the city's new cable system.

Taping began on March 9 and will continue through mid-June, producing shows on a variety of topics, including assimilation, anti-semitism and First Amendment rights, Jewish texts, Jewish art, and the Passover seder. Leonard Fein, Nathan Perlmutter, and Alan Dershowitz are among those who have agreed to be guests within the talk-show format.

The volunteer production crew is still taking shape, and new members are welcome to join. For more information on ALEPH, and on how you can get involved, contact Anne Fishman (965-0460) or Moshe Waldoks (964-3412.

No previous experience is necessary, and staff will be able to contribute in a variety of contexts ranging from the TV studio to the community-at-large.

PRACTICAL PHILOSOPHY

Designed for thoughtful men and women who seek an understanding of the nature of man and the world in which he lives, this introductory course of 12 weekly lectures shows how great philosophic ideas of the past and present may be put to effective practical use in daily life.

The course inquires into the meaning of human existence; the levels of consciousness; natural law; thought, feeling and action; and man's function and possibilities.

You may join an introductory series of 12 lectures, offered on a choice of Wednesday or Thursday evenings, at 30 Fairfield Street in Boston (at the corner of Commonwealth Ave. and Fairfield Street). Classes begin at 7 p.m. and finish at approximately 9 p.m. Tuition for the course is $40. Register from 6:15 on either first lecture evening.

For more information, or a brochure, call 665-6665.

Spring term begins:
Wed., Apr. 14, Holiday Inn, Exit 53 off 128, Grove St., Newton Lower Falls

Rental housing study

"One of my personal concerns is that young working people cannot afford to buy in Newton which changes the make-up of the city," noted Wollach. "The average age of Newton's residents is now going up dramatically."

According to 1980 census reports, more than 18 percent of the city's 22,309 homeowners are 60 years of age and over.

"Elderly people get tax abatements," said Wollach. "We're removing the people who can afford the tax rate." The commission has noted that the additional units would also increase the city's tax base.

Canner said his department had begun to research real estate files to identify housing units that fall under the accessory category. Canner, however, was quick to point out the complexity of the issue.

"The whole question of legitimizing apartments is so convoluted," said Canner. "Every time you touch one issue, you trigger at least one more."

City ordinances permit the division of a large house into a two-family home if the division conforms to zoning regulations and a public hearing is held on the item.

"There isn't a simple solution," Canner added. "The more I think about it, the more confused I get about it.

Alderman Edward Richmond, who introduced the item to the Administration and Planning Committee, said the current high mortgage rate paired with inflated housing prices are placing many of the older and larger houses outside the financial limits of young house-buying couples.

"The feeling of a lot of people in Newton is that their children should live in Newton," added Wollach, "but they can't afford it."

In his presentation, Richmond mentioned the social trend toward smaller families and the possiblity of the city's larger homes becoming "white elephants" within the next decade.

A year-study concluded by the Human Rights Commission in 1981 indicated there were 3,000 rental housing units in the city between 1975 and 1980 , one-half of which are now condominiums. With the recent conversion of the 423-unit Chestnut Hill Towers complex, only one-third of the rental housing stock remains from five years ago.

City Clerk takes month's leave

NEWTON — City Clerk Edward English has been granted a one-month leave of absence by the Board of Aldermen for "personal reasons."

English, who began his leave Thursday, also acts as clerk to the Board of Aldermen.

English, 40, earns $32,800 and will be paid in full during his absence. President Matthew Jefferson said English and the Board of Aldermen both concurred on the leave decision.

The 24-member legislative body appoints a city clerk, city comptroller, and the city treasurer.

Theresa Fickett, assistant city clerk for the past two years, will act as city clerk in English's absence. Fickett has been with the city for 24 years and served as Mayor Monte Basbas' admistrative secretary from 1965 to 1971.

Grace Lennon, assistant clerk to the Board of Aldermen since July 1979, will serve as clerk to the board in English's absence. Lennon has been with the city since December 1972 and in July 1975 was promoted to the position of administrative assistant to the clerk of the board.

English has held the dual post since Dec. 3, 1979 when he replaced City Clerk Joseph Carlin. Prior to his predecessor's retirement, English had served as assistant city clerk from 1971 to 1979. He has been the clerk of the Board of Aldermen for the past 10 years.

Board seeks members

NEWTON — The Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Area Board of the Department of Social Services is seeking local citizens to serve on the Board and its committees.

The purpose of the board is to review and advise on area social service contracts and programs as well as to report on their availability, effectiveness and integration.

Interested persons may write Holly Zallinger, 27 Knowles Street, Newton, 02159. Questions may be directed to Fran Gilbert at 277-1040 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Club notes

The Retired Men's Club of Newton meets on alternate Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, Lincoln and Hartford STreets.

On the Thursday that regular meetings are not held, a discussion group starts at 9:30 a.m. at St. Paul's Church on Walnut Street in the Highlands.

On the first Wednesday of the month the investment group holds its meeting at 1:15 p.m. at the Second Church in West Newton, on Chestnut Street.

Every Thursday afternoon the bowling section of the club meets at a Needham bowling alley. Besides the side clubs, the Retired Men's Club has clubs for bridge, hobbies, golf, travel and walking.

April meetings include "Highlights of the 1981 Red Sox season, and World Series film from 1981" on April 8. The program on April 22 will be a doctor member, who is now visiting South Africa, who will review "Africa: Before and Now," with Dr. Lawrence Bernard.

The Auburndale Garden Club will hold its reunion day on Monday, April 5 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Helen Griffin in Auburndale.

The speaker will be Bob Seawright, a hybridist of Seawright Gardens, who will speak on "The World of Daylilies."

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Joseph MacMillan and her committee.

The Newtonville Woman's Club held its final meeting and luncheon on April 27 in Framingham, with Mrs. E. Rudolph McKay, club president, presiding, according to a press release received by The Graphic.

Organized in 1884, the club has always been active in community affairs, contributing to Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the All Newton Music School and other local organizations. With regret, officers and members made the decision to disband, citing an inability to find officers willing and able to serve in the coming year.

At the last board meeting it was voted that the club's funds be used for three scholarships and a gift to the Newton Community Service Centers.

A gift of $15,000 was given to Newton-Wellesley Hospital for establishment of a permanent fund, the income from which is to be used to provide scholarship aid to needy students in the School of Nursing.

A gift of $10,000 was given to the All Newton Music School for establishment of a permanent fund to be used for scholarship aid to needy students.

Grants of $15,000 to the Newton Community Service Centers and $7000 to $8000 were given to the state Federation of Women's Clubs to establish a Newtonville Woman's Club Scholarship Fund. The final figure of this gift was not determined at this time.

THE WORLD of Travel
by Hank Fleming
AIR LINE TICKETS
An airline ticket should be considered as cash. In the event of its being stolen or lost, it is advisable to report it as soon as possible. Most airlines require the filing of a Lost Ticket Report Form. This can be obtained at a ticket counter or the airline's local office. You will then be able to buy another ticket and wait for the "trace" to clear. At that time, your money will be refunded or a new ticket will be issued. The refund time varies from 4 to 12 weeks. Be certain to provide all the information needed by the airline to put a stop on the lost ticket.
Are you up in the air about air fares? Who can blame you? There are new airlines, new routes and new prices practically every day...Apex, Super Saver, Freedom Fare and more. FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 knows them all and can sort them out for you. Make your next flight reservations at our office. There is never any charge to you for our services, so why pay more if you don't have to. We offer the lowest airfares, cruise fares and vacation packages. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Fri. til 8. Call 899-5658.

Special dedication service set at Temple Beth Avodah

NEWTON — A special dedication service will take place on Friday evening, April 2, at 8:15 p.m., at Temple Beth Avodah, Newton, commemorating four "Genesis" Tapestries which will hang in the Temple Sanctuary.

Each of the tapestries is 42 inches wide and 58 inches long, and consists of one continuous canvas depicting an interpretation of a passage from the Book of Genesis.

These tapestries are the original work of members of Temple Beth Avodah and represent five years of diligent work from the first presentation for approval.

The original artwork was conceived by Ruth Dockton Shapiro of Newton. The canvas preparations were done by Carl Herman of Boston; and the needlework, by Sylvia Goodman, Beverly Holzman, Helen Silverstein, (all Newton residents), and Charlotte Segall (of Brookline). Ms. Segall also served as chairperson and co-ordinator of the tapestry committee.

Additional members of the committee are Herbert Goodman and Alvin Silverstein, graphics; Gail Satter, calligraphy; Jeffrey Shapiro, Margaret Miller, and Rabbi Robert M. Miller, who chose and translated the Hebrew texts incorporated in the tapestries. Framing and mounting is the work of Terry Stevenson, Creative Design of Connecticut.

Community auction slated Saturday at Mishkan Tefila

CHESTNUT HILL — One of the largest community auctions of recent years will take place at Congregation Mishkan Tefila, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway, Chestnut Hill, on April 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The gala dinner event features a 1982 Buick Skylark, a weekend Trip to the Sun for two, fine jewelry, celebrity items from Paul Newman, Ed McMahon, President Gerald Ford, and other notables, bicycles, signed prints, and much more, for any budget from $10 to $10,000.

Proceeds from the auction will go to benefit numerous charitable causes, foremost among them being the "Facing History and Ourselves" Holocaust education project. This program combats religious, racial and ethnic hatred by teaching students in the public junior high schools about the moral and physical realities of genocide, and is in desperate need of funds because of federal budget cuts.

Admission to the auction is by reservation only. The cost is $7.50 per person, which includes a social hour, hors d'oeuvres and dinner. Cash bar.

For tickets and information, call Harvey Greenstein at 332-0997 or the Congregation Mishkan Tefila office at 332-7770.

Former UPI photo chief finds new duties on 'retirement'

NEWTON - Former United Press International New England photo editor David Wurzel retired last year but he just can't seem to stay away from the camera.

Wurzel, who for years headed the photo department at UPI in Boston, and taught photojournalism at Emerson College, has started a photographic inventory service to provide homeowners and merchants with proof - in pictures - of ownership of valuable goods.

Wurzel photographs anything from valuable paintings and silver place settings to coins and jewelry for insurance and estate records.

The Newton resident noted last week that in the event of theft of valuable items, the owner can present the visual record, 35mm color transparencies or prints, to the police or insurance company.

Wurzel can be contacted at 332-2514.

Series on Holocaust at Newton South High

NEWTON CENTRE — The Enrichment Program at Newton South High School has arranged a week-long series on Holocaust Education, April 12 to 15. This educational experience includes many goals. The tragic events of the Holocaust must be remembered. A learning environment must be provided in which students will understand that they are not isolated from historical events. Individuals must be motivated to assume the responsibility of protecting the rights and freedom of all people, to deplore racism and to recognize the elements and trends in our society which are contrary to the Bill of Rights.

The offerings of this week-long program of education with a moral emphasis are part of an historical record which underlines the hazards of indifference and silence. The events of a generation past must be reviewed to help the youth of today to understand the implications of the rising, blatant, contemporary antisemitism and racism. This major historical period when the Nazis were in power demonstrates the extremes of human behavior. It is incumbent that educators bring to the attention of students the civilization destroyed by Hitler and its contribution to society which should not be lost to the world. In addition, the teaching of the horrors of the Holocaust brings into sharp focus for the students and faculty the rights and responsibilities of citizenship and the importance of upholding the law of the land.

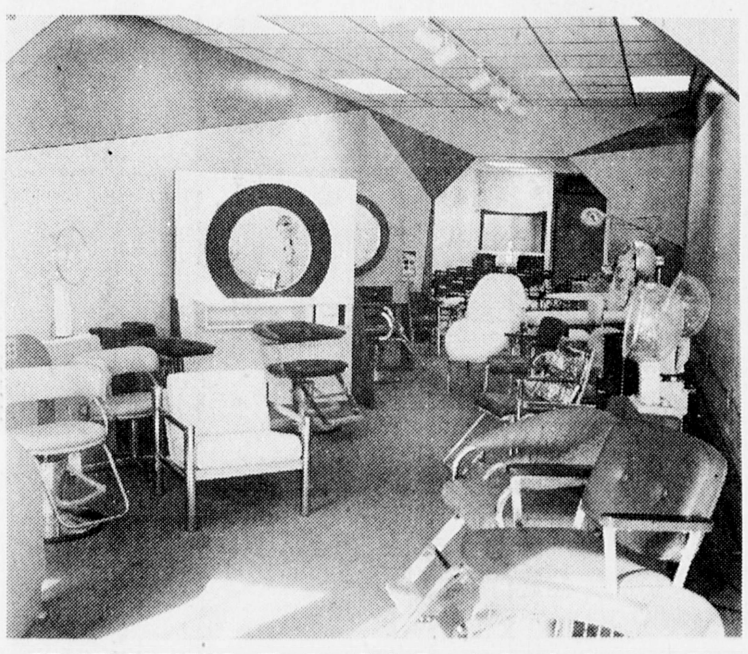

This perspective of the past will help students comprehend the phenomenon of scapegoating more prevalent in times of economic distress. The cruelty, the apathy, the hard-heartedness of those in power in Nazi Germany and of those who agreed silently, or disagreed silently, led to the extermination of millions of Jews and members of other non-Aryan groups. Alerting the community to the danger of all potential Holocausts is a way to motivate the young to recognize and to combat the evil of antisemitism and racial discrimination. Through the presentation of carefully documented historical facts, students may be able to fathom how it is possible for seemingly-cultured, sane people to support a government policy of genocide and to participate in subhuman acts. The works of a few current historians who deny the existence of the Holocaust should be discredited. The most important lesson to be gleaned from a Holocaust observance is that a repetition must be avoided at all costs. The facts will speak for themselves. They are impossible to forget and demand a confrontation with history and ourselves.

In this chronicle of the Holocaust at Newton South High School by the Enrichment Program, Professor Erich Goldhagen, Harvard University, will speak of the "History of the Holcaust," Monday, April 12 from 8:55 to 9:45 a.m. On Tuesday, April 13, from 10:05 to 10:55 a.m., Rabbi Isaiah Wohlgemuth, a survivor, will describe his experiences in a concentration camp and from 11 to 11:50 a.m., Father Robert W. Bullock, Pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows, Sharon, will address the topic of "AntiSemitism and the Church." Elizabeth Dopazo will relate her childhood experiences as the daughter of political dissidents in Nazi Germany on Wednesday, April 14, from 11 to 11:55 a.m. The final event is on Thursday, April 15 from 8:55 to 9:45 a.m. and will be a performance of the cantata, "I Never Saw Another Butterfly" by the Youth Pro Musical Group.

The public is invited at no charge.

Handbell ringers perform at church

NEWTONVILLE — The Yeo Belles, a group of handbell ringers from the United Parish of Auburndale will perform, in honor of their 20th anniversary of music ministry, at the Central Congregational Church, 215 Walnut St., Newtonville, on Wednesday, April 7. Chizuko Matsusaks, a sophmore at Newton South High School will appear as soloist in the second movement of the Cello Concerto by Edward Lalo.

Also featured on the program is Newton's acclaimed All-City Elementary Orchestra, George Napoli, director. Fresh from a successful performance at the Massachusetts All-State Music Festival, the orchestra will perform by itself and with the Newton Symphony.

The program will open with Wagner's rousing "Flying Dutchman" Overture with slides from productions of the opera and some explanation of the work for the young audience by Mr. Benjamin.

The concert will begin at 2 p.m. at the Brown Junior High School (formerly Meadowbrook). Admission is free for all ages. For more information call 552-7493 or 552-7632.

WSES helps care for aging parents

WEST NEWTON — West Suburban Elder Services, Inc. (WSES) now has help for those families who care for their aging parents.

The new program, called Respite Care, relieves family members of their full-time care responsibilities by providing supervision and companionship to frail elders. The program is partially funded by the Department of Elder Affairs and the cost of service is based on a sliding fee scale.

Many families in the WSES service area care for an elder in their homes.

Respite Care recognizes the fact that family and friends who provide informal supports which allow elders to remain in the community should be strengthened and encouraged.

The new program trains Respite Care workers who will stay with an elder during the family's absence. Respite Care is available days, nights and weekends. If you are in need of Respite Care of would like more information about the program, please call Shawna Priestman at 969-0170.

Bay State Beauty Supply holds grand opening of displays

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - The Bay State Beauty Supply, Inc. located at 31 Lincoln Street, has opened a new salon furniture showroom designed specifically for beauty salon owners.

Designer Tony Feola is available to blueprint a design to meet the needs of those interested.

Colors in the showroom run the range of greys and maroons, black and white, browns and beige, accetned with mirrors and brass inlays.

For the esthetician and skin salon owner the firm has a complete set up usually done in sparkling whites. Classes will also be held in the new classroom at 23 Lincoln Street. Those interested can call for an appointment at 965-2715.

Newton man at open house

WEST NEWTON — Prof. Robert A. Edwards, 77 Davis Ave., is a member of the committee for the annual Open House at Wentworth Institute of Technology, 550 Huntington Ave., Boston, on Wednesday, March 31, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The general public is invited to attend the Open House which will feature hundreds of fascinating exhibits and millions of dollars of equipment relating to industrial and engineering technology education.

Accountants figure on The Gables

If you've totalled the cost of continuing to live in a house that no longer balances your needs, you'll probably figure that the bottom line indicates the advantages of purchasing one of the new attached single-family homes at The Gables in Newton, rather than tax your energy looking elsewhere.

These spacious two and three bedroom homes are invested with details such as Bermuda and tray ceilings, fireplaces, attached two-car garages and combined electronic/gatehouse security. To balance the amenities are a swimming pool, clubhouse and tennis courts.

Default is yours if you don't figure out why so many of these homes in the $265,000 to $400,000 range have already sold when you visit The Gables at the junction of Parker and Dedham Streets in Newton, directly adjacent to the Charles River Country Club.

We'll ledger see the beautiful furnished models any day from 9 to 5, or call (617) 969-0200 for a private appointment.

WE JUST DEVELOPED A FASTER, MORE SOPHISTICATED SYSTEM FOR MAKING LONG DISTANCE CALLS. HERE'S HOW YOU'LL RECOGNIZE IT:

beep.

It's just a little sound. But when you're away from home, it can make long distance calling so easy, it's like magic.

And right now, New England Telephone is adding that new beep to all the Touch-Tone™ phones in Newton.

Here's what'll happen. Whenever you dial "O" plus a long distance number at any Touch-Tone phone, you'll immediately hear the beep. Then, if you're at a pay phone or a coinless Charge-A-Call phone, you'll hear a recorded message that tells you exactly what to do next.

If you have a Calling Card (that's our new name for your Bell System credit card), just punch in your card number after the beep. Your call will go through like magic. It's easy—so easy you don't even need the operator. And that saves you time.

And another nice thing. Even if you want to make a series of long distance calls, now you only have to punch in your card number once (our new system has a very good memory). After you finish each call, instead of hanging up, just press the "#" button and dial your next call. Simple.

If you don't have a Calling Card, don't hang up. Just dial "O" again and the operator will handle your call as usual.

So remember, if you're looking for a fast easy way to make long distance calls, just listen. And we'll beep.

New England Telephone

A BRILLIANT DEDUCTION.

Together, you and your spouse can take up to a $4,000 Federal income tax deduction in 1982 by opening West Newton Savings Bank Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) right now. That's $2,000 apiece for each working spouse or $2,250 if only one spouse works. If you're self employed, you can take even greater deductions with our Keogh Plan—up to $15,000 worth.

What's more, the healthy interest you'll earn is tax exempt until you withdraw funds after retirement. And of course, your principal and interest are fully insured.

Stop by any West Newton Savings Bank office soon for the complete details. Remember: an IRA or Keogh Plan is more than a smart move for the future. Considering the tax benefits you'll get, it's absolutely brilliant.

Three finalists in search

1972-76 district coordinator of program for the Newton schools, but resigned to take a position as assistant superintendent for instruction in Lexington.

Other semi-finalists knocked out of the running Monday night were Dr. William Holland, superintendent of schools in Naragansett, R.I., and Dr. Oliver Lancaster, superintendent of schools in Hempstead, N.Y.

Public discussion of the seven semi-finalists began around 8 p.m. at the Education Center and continued for nearly four hours before voting to go behind closed doors.

Exercising its right under the state's Open Meeting Law to discuss mental health, character or reputation in executive session, Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann around midnight convened the executive session on those grounds. The committee emerged around 1:15 a.m. and adjourned at about 1:45 a.m.

In open session, before an audience of about 40 people, the committee batted around impressions of public interviews held recently with each candidate as well as impressions from tours of schools or dinners with the semifinalists.

Strand was praised by Berwick, specifically, and others, for the "maturity" he showed in an answer about hiring people. Strand said he has learned to focus on the ability to get things accomplished, rather than on hiring people with values or stvle similar to his own.

Berwick also cited Strand's aggressive measures of combating increasing private school enrollments. Gentile felt he was "very teacher-oriented."

Many committee members felt the "best interview" was with Earhart and Mitchell liked his statement that public schools need to have open response to criticism. She added that he said he had never seen an open campus lunch program that worked and that he had "sensible alternatives."

Silbey was impressed because Earhart asked her at dinner what the School Committee's problems were. "He showed himself to be a very good listener and responsive to the underlying issues," she said.

Berwick also termed Earhart's interview "excellent," but said she found his answers on professional development and curriculum "somewhat thin."

According to Chairperson Mann, some members of the committee will conduct "on site" investigations of the finalists' school districts during the next two weeks. Offers to candidates will be made during the week of April 12. The committee has not decided whether to conduct second interviews.

The offer is expected to be in the form of a three-year contract with no "rollover clause" (or automatic extension of the contract if no notification is given). The salary range for the position was voted previously and was set at $48,000 to $58,000.

Superintendent Fink currently earns $53,900 a year.

Holy Week in Highlands

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — To usher in Holy Week at The Newton Highlands Congregational Church, there will be two special services on Palm Sunday. The first, the April 4 Palm Sunday morning service, will be a festival service featuring music from Alexander Peloquin's Unless You Become, a liturgy for children commissioned for the United Nation's International Year of the Child, 1979. Also commissioned for the same commemoration, the hymn "Come as a Child" will be sung by the congregation during the service.

Musical forces for the day will include three choirs and soloists, woodwind trio, percussion, and organ. Instrumental prelude and postlude will be music from the Peloquin work. Central to the work and to this particular service will be the title piece, the text for which is based on the quote of Christ, "Unless you become like little children, you shall not see the Kingdom of God." Children of the congregation will participate in a sing-along performance of this lovely song during the Children's Sermon of the day.

The children's cry of "Hosanna!" from the work will call to mind the Palm Sunday narrative, as the service reminds Christians that Christ on Palm Sunday approached self-sacrifice with child-like trust. The Sermon for the day, "For Whom is the Table Set?" will be delivered by Rev. David Clarke Allen, Co-Pastor of the Church. In spirit, the service will reflect the Chruch's Good Friday Children's Communion Service.

The second Palm Sunday service will be a special 7:30 p.m. Choral Service featuring the music of the Requiem by Gabriel Faure. Staff soloists Marsha Vleck, soprano, and Paul Barrientos, bass, will sing the solo parts; and, with the Senior Choir, they will be accompanied by Adele Trytko on harp and Music Director Carrol Hassman at the organ. This service is presented as the Church Choir Program's special offering for Lent; at the same time, it serves as a conclusion to the Sunday evening series, "Conversations at the Parsonage." A brief meditation will be delivered by Mr. Jack P. Elliott, Director of Christian Education at the Church. As has become customary at such special musical services, a free-will offering will be received for the benefit of the Church's Organ Fund.

The Church's traditional Maunday Thursday Choral Communion Service will be held at 8 p.m. on April 8. With ritual led by members of the Church's Diaconate, and responses sung a cappella from the gallery by Senior Choir and Soloists, this beautiful service features a celebration of Christ's "Last Supper," as well as a dramatic observance of the Office of Tenebrae, the "Office of Darkness."

The Peloquin Unless You Become liturgy was originally intended as a communion liturgy for children; and at 9 a.m. on Good Friday, April 9, its music will be featured again in the Children's Communion Service traditional in the Church's Holy Week calendar. The service will be led jointly by Co-Pastors Bonnie and David Allen, and music will be provided by the Junior and Youth Choirs. After the service, the Co-Pastors will conduct a Question and Answer Session for Children.

With other Newton congregations who are members of the United Church of Christ, The Newton Highlands Congregation will observe the actual "Hours of Darkness" of Good Friday in a Union Service to be held at 2 p.m. at the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville.

Members of the Highlands Church congregation will begin their Easter morning celebration with a Sunrise Service on Institution Hill in Newton Centre on the grounds of the Andover Newton Theologiical School. This service will begin at 7 a.m., and will be followed by the annual 7:30 a.m. pancake breakfast bacck in the Highlands Church basement.

The Easter morning service at the Newton Highlands Church will begin at 10 a.m. with a Prelude by woodwind quartet consisting of music staff member Sandy Consiglio on oboe; and friends of the Congregation Chairman Proskauer, flute; Helenann Wright, clarinet; and Stephen Wright, bassoon. Other music to be featured will be taken from the "Resurrection section: of Handel's Messiah: with a sing-along "Hallelujah" Chorus; "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth" by Miss Vleck; the Senior Choir in "Since by Man Came Death;" and "The Trumpet Shall Sound" by Mr. Barrintos. The Message for the day, "Do Not Be Amazed!" will be delivered by Rev. Bonnie Scott Allen, Co-Pastor.

Multi-service Center hosts lunches, variety of activities

NEWTON— The Nonantum Multi-Service Center, at 48 Silver Lake Avenue, Newton, is a nutrition site for the senior citizens' hot lunch program provided by West Suburban Elder Services. The lunches, including dessert, are offered Monday through Saturday, at noon. For reservations, call the Center at 965-6390. Transportation for the lunch program may be arranged by calling Dorothy at 552-7120.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center offers a variety of after-lunch programs such as crafts on Monday, with a leather-stamping demonstration on Monday March 29. Trivia contests with prizes are offered on Tuesday. On March 23, Cathy Poliquin, registered nurse, will discuss blood pressure pills and diuretics. Other afternoon programs are crochet, knitting, ceramics, movies, chess and table games.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will hold a Recycle Day to help raise funds for ongoing projects for senior citizens, such as painting, dance, yoga, trips and parties. Members of the community are invited to participate by dropping off their aluminum beverage cans and pie plates at the Center, on Friday, April 23, from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Peg Weizel, registered nurse, holds health and blood pressure clinics at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center on Monday, Tuesday, and Friday mornings, and Monday and Thursday afternoons. Evening clinic is held on the first and third Tuesday of each month from 6 - 8 p.m. Newton adults over 21 years of age are encouraged to take advantage of these valuable free services.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center bowling group meets at Riverside Bowling Lanes on Tuesdays at 10 a.m. Interested senior citizens may join the group at the lanes, or at the Center at 9:45 a.m. if a ride is needed.

Morning programs at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center include dance, yoga, exercise, and painting classes. Senior citizens are invited to visit the Center to learn about the many exciting programs offered. Plans are being made for trips, and the vegetable and flower gardening programs. For information call the Center at 965-6390.

Senior home repair service offered

NEWTON — The Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation (NHCDC) announced it is taking applications for its Senior Home Repair Program (SHRP).

Through this program, minor home repairs will be provided to low and moderate income senior citizens, with priority given to Newton Highlands residents.

NHCDC will evaluate the repair to be made and if the repair is eligible, NHCDC will arrange and pay for a repair team to complete the job. The client will pay for any necessary materials.

To be eligible for home repair assistance, an applicant must meet the following requirements:

The applicant must be 60 years of age or older.

The applicant must be the principal occupant of the building to receive repairs (owner or tenant).

Some of the repairs which are eligible include: minor carpentry and plumbing, door and closet repairs, window repairs, picture hanging, lock and bolt installation and similar types of small, yet necessary work. The repairs will be carried out by a retired tradesperson teamed up with high school age apprentices.

Funding for this program has been provided through the Newton Community Development Block Grant program and through a grant from the John W. Boyton Fund.

For more information on the Senior Home Repair Program, call NHCDC at 244-5551.

Beethoven Center offers senior lunch program

WABAN — Senior citizens can enjoy a hot noon meal Monday through Friday at the Beethoven Drop-in Center at noon. The meals are varied and nutritious, and are offered to senior citizens for a .75¢ donation.

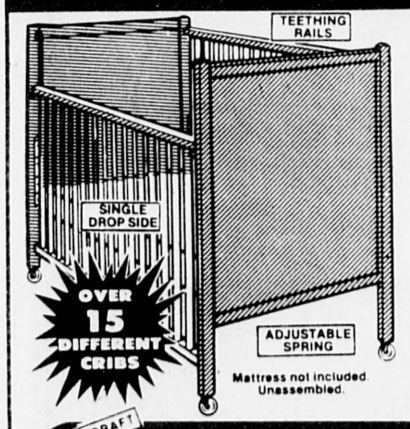

The meals program which is sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services, offers seniors an opportunity to meet new friends and an opportunity to bring your own friends with you for lunch.

Call Mary at the center (527-6749) for a lunch reservation for yourself and your friends. If you need a ride, transportation is available by calling the Dept. of Human Services at 552-7170. One day's notice is required for a ride. You'll be picked up at your home and returned after lunch.

The Beethoven Center is sponsored by the Dept. of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging.

The Center is located at the Zervas School, 30 Beethoven Ave., Waban. For more information, call Mary Stuart-Hillman at 527-6749.

Three finalists in search

1972-76 district coordinator of program for the Newton schools, but resigned to take a position as assistant superintendent for instruction in Lexington.

Other semi-finalists knocked out of the running Monday night were Dr. William Holland, superintendent of schools in Naragansett, R.I., and Dr. Oliver Lancaster, superintendent of schools in Hempstead, N.Y.

Public discussion of the seven semi-finalists began around 8 p.m. at the Education Center and continued for nearly four hours before voting to go behind closed doors.

Exercising its right under the state's Open Meeting Law to discuss mental health, character or reputation in executive session, Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann around midnight convened the executive session on those grounds. The committee emerged around 1:15 a.m. and adjourned at about 1:45 a.m.

In open session, before an audience of about 40 people, the committee batted around impressions of public interviews held recently with each candidate as well as impressions from tours of schools or dinners with the semifinalists.

Strand was praised by Berwick, specifically, and others, for the "maturity" he showed in an answer about hiring people. Strand said he has learned to focus on the ability to get things accomplished, rather than on hiring people with values or stvle similar to his own.

Berwick also cited Strand's aggressive measures of combating increasing private school enrollments. Gentile felt he was "very teacher-oriented."

Many committee members felt the "best interview" was with Earhart and Mitchell liked his statement that public schools need to have open response to criticism. She added that he said he had never seen an open campus lunch program that worked and that he had "sensible alternatives."

Silbey was impressed because Earhart asked her at dinner what the School Committee's problems were. "He showed himself to be a very good listener and responsive to the underlying issues," she said.

Berwick also termed Earhart's interview "excellent," but said she found his answers on professional development and curriculum "somewhat thin."

According to Chairperson Mann, some members of the committee will conduct "on site" investigations of the finalists' school districts during the next two weeks. Offers to candidates will be made during the week of April 12. The committee has not decided whether to conduct second interviews.

The offer is expected to be in the form of a three-year contract with no "rollover clause" (or automatic extension of the contract if no notification is given). The salary range for the position was voted previously and was set at $48,000 to $58,000.

Superintendent Fink currently earns $53,900 a year.

Holy Week in Highlands

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — To usher in Holy Week at The Newton Highlands Congregational Church, there will be two special services on Palm Sunday. The first, the April 4 Palm Sunday morning service, will be a festival service featuring music from Alexander Peloquin's Unless You Become, a liturgy for children commissioned for the United Nation's International Year of the Child, 1979. Also commissioned for the same commemoration, the hymn "Come as a Child" will be sung by the congregation during the service.

Musical forces for the day will include three choirs and soloists, woodwind trio, percussion, and organ. Instrumental prelude and postlude will be music from the Peloquin work. Central to the work and to this particular service will be the title piece, the text for which is based on the quote of Christ, "Unless you become like little children, you shall not see the Kingdom of God." Children of the congregation will participate in a sing-along performance of this lovely song during the Children's Sermon of the day.

The children's cry of "Hosanna!" from the work will call to mind the Palm Sunday narrative, as the service reminds Christians that Christ on Palm Sunday approached self-sacrifice with child-like trust. The Sermon for the day, "For Whom is the Table Set?" will be delivered by Rev. David Clarke Allen, Co-Pastor of the Church. In spirit, the service will reflect the Chruch's Good Friday Children's Communion Service.

The second Palm Sunday service will be a special 7:30 p.m. Choral Service featuring the music of the Requiem by Gabriel Faure. Staff soloists Marsha Vleck, soprano, and Paul Barrientos, bass, will sing the solo parts; and, with the Senior Choir, they will be accompanied by Adele Trytko on harp and Music Director Carrol Hassman at the organ. This service is presented as the Church Choir Program's special offering for Lent; at the same time, it serves as a conclusion to the Sunday evening series, "Conversations at the Parsonage." A brief meditation will be delivered by Mr. Jack P. Elliott, Director of Christian Education at the Church. As has become customary at such special musical services, a free-will offering will be received for the benefit of the Church's Organ Fund.

The Church's traditional Maunday Thursday Choral Communion Service will be held at 8 p.m. on April 8. With ritual led by members of the Church's Diaconate, and responses sung a cappella from the gallery by Senior Choir and Soloists, this beautiful service features a celebration of Christ's "Last Supper," as well as a dramatic observance of the Office of Tenebrae, the "Office of Darkness."

The Peloquin Unless You Become liturgy was originally intended as a communion liturgy for children; and at 9 a.m. on Good Friday, April 9, its music will be featured again in the Children's Communion Service traditional in the Church's Holy Week calendar. The service will be led jointly by Co-Pastors Bonnie and David Allen, and music will be provided by the Junior and Youth Choirs. After the service, the Co-Pastors will conduct a Question and Answer Session for Children.

With other Newton congregations who are members of the United Church of Christ, The Newton Highlands Congregation will observe the actual "Hours of Darkness" of Good Friday in a Union Service to be held at 2 p.m. at the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville.

Members of the Highlands Church congregation will begin their Easter morning celebration with a Sunrise Service on Institution Hill in Newton Centre on the grounds of the Andover Newton Theologiical School. This service will begin at 7 a.m., and will be followed by the annual 7:30 a.m. pancake breakfast bacck in the Highlands Church basement.

The Easter morning service at the Newton Highlands Church will begin at 10 a.m. with a Prelude by woodwind quartet consisting of music staff member Sandy Consiglio on oboe; and friends of the Congregation Chairman Proskauer, flute; Helenann Wright, clarinet; and Stephen Wright, bassoon. Other music to be featured will be taken from the "Resurrection section: of Handel's Messiah: with a sing-along "Hallelujah" Chorus; "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth" by Miss Vleck; the Senior Choir in "Since by Man Came Death;" and "The Trumpet Shall Sound" by Mr. Barrintos. The Message for the day, "Do Not Be Amazed!" will be delivered by Rev. Bonnie Scott Allen, Co-Pastor.

Look before you reap.

There are many good ways to make your money work for you. And some not so good. So don't leap into anything without taking a long, hard look. Especially if you have no savings in reserve.

And if you don't have enough savings, look into U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds do make sense.

They guarantee the interest. They're guaranteed against loss, fire, and theft. And the Payroll Savings Plan is a sure, easy way to guarantee savings. Federal income tax may be deferred and there's no state or local income tax.

A little is set aside each payday for U.S. Savings Bonds. Your savings will grow until you're ready to reap the rewards of regular saving.

Saving is one of the most important financial decisions you'll ever make.

Multi-service Center hosts lunches, variety of activities

NEWTON— The Nonantum Multi-Service Center, at 48 Silver Lake Avenue, Newton, is a nutrition site for the senior citizens' hot lunch program provided by West Suburban Elder Services. The lunches, including dessert, are offered Monday through Saturday, at noon. For reservations, call the Center at 965-6390. Transportation for the lunch program may be arranged by calling Dorothy at 552-7120.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center offers a variety of after-lunch programs such as crafts on Monday, with a leather-stamping demonstration on Monday March 29. Trivia contests with prizes are offered on Tuesday. On March 23, Cathy Poliquin, registered nurse, will discuss blood pressure pills and diuretics. Other afternoon programs are crochet, knitting, ceramics, movies, chess and table games.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will hold a Recycle Day to help raise funds for ongoing projects for senior citizens, such as painting, dance, yoga, trips and parties. Members of the community are invited to participate by dropping off their aluminum beverage cans and pie plates at the Center, on Friday, April 23, from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Peg Weizel, registered nurse, holds health and blood pressure clinics at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center on Monday, Tuesday, and Friday mornings, and Monday and Thursday afternoons. Evening clinic is held on the first and third Tuesday of each month from 6 - 8 p.m. Newton adults over 21 years of age are encouraged to take advantage of these valuable free services.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center bowling group meets at Riverside Bowling Lanes on Tuesdays at 10 a.m. Interested senior citizens may join the group at the lanes, or at the Center at 9:45 a.m. if a ride is needed.

Morning programs at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center include dance, yoga, exercise, and painting classes. Senior citizens are invited to visit the Center to learn about the many exciting programs offered. Plans are being made for trips, and the vegetable and flower gardening programs. For information call the Center at 965-6390.

Senior home repair service offered

NEWTON — The Newton Highlands Community Development Corporation (NHCDC) announced it is taking applications for its Senior Home Repair Program (SHRP).

Through this program, minor home repairs will be provided to low and moderate income senior citizens, with priority given to Newton Highlands residents.

NHCDC will evaluate the repair to be made and if the repair is eligible, NHCDC will arrange and pay for a repair team to complete the job. The client will pay for any necessary materials.

To be eligible for home repair assistance, an applicant must meet the following requirements:

The applicant must be 60 years of age or older.

The applicant must be the principal occupant of the building to receive repairs (owner or tenant).

Some of the repairs which are eligible include: minor carpentry and plumbing, door and closet repairs, window repairs, picture hanging, lock and bolt installation and similar types of small, yet necessary work. The repairs will be carried out by a retired tradesperson teamed up with high school age apprentices.

Funding for this program has been provided through the Newton Community Development Block Grant program and through a grant from the John W. Boyton Fund.

For more information on the Senior Home Repair Program, call NHCDC at 244-5551.

Beethoven Center offers senior lunch program

WABAN — Senior citizens can enjoy a hot noon meal Monday through Friday at the Beethoven Drop-in Center at noon. The meals are varied and nutritious, and are offered to senior citizens for a .75¢ donation.

The meals program which is sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services, offers seniors an opportunity to meet new friends and an opportunity to bring your own friends with you for lunch.

Call Mary at the center (527-6749) for a lunch reservation for yourself and your friends. If you need a ride, transportation is available by calling the Dept. of Human Services at 552-7170. One day's notice is required for a ride. You'll be picked up at your home and returned after lunch.

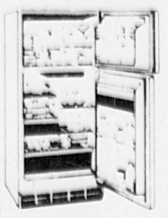

The Beethoven Center is sponsored by the Dept. of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging.

The Center is located at the Zervas School, 30 Beethoven Ave., Waban. For more information, call Mary Stuart-Hillman at 527-6749.

Pitching will be crucial for Tigers in '82

Coach Tom Rezzuti

After losing seasons in his first two years at the helm of the Newton North baseball program, manager Tom Rezzuti expects this to be the year the building process begins to pay dividends for the Tigers.

"We certainly should be over .500," says Rezzuti, who was thinking even Suburban championship until two costly injuries dashed those dreams. "With our pitching and the experienced people we have returning, there's no reason why we can't have a successful season."

Returning on the mound for the Tigers are two-year starters John Corsi, Paul Howley and Rich Marchioni. Corsi and Howley, particularly, have great potential and should keep Newton North in every game. "Pitching has to be our strength," admitted Rezzuti, who said he's hoping Howley and Corsi can average 8-to-10 strikeouts a game. "That would leave only 11 outs for the fielders to make. That's what we'll need."

Rezzuti might not have needed such overpowering hurling if not for two damaging injuries. The biggest story for the Tigers this year is not so much who they have back, but who they expected to have back and will not. Out for the season with injuries are last season's All-Star third baseman Larry Kelley and starting shortstop Bob Mack. Mack, who Rezzuti says would have developed into one of the finest shortstops in the league, tore up his knee during football season and still hasn't healed. Kelley, meanwhile, broke his ankle in the final week of hockey season.

"I think we could have challenged Waltham for the league title with those two in the lineup," says Rezzuti. "But we can't be caught thinking about who we've lost. We have to make due with what we have."

Mack will be replaced by Junior Glenn LeGault. It will be a tough assignment. Mack committed only four errors in 15 games last season and also provided offensive punch for the Tigers by batting .280 with 16 stolen bases. "Bobby (Mack) would have been worth two runs a game to us," said Rezzuti. "Losing his speed on the bases will be the toughest thing."

The burden offensively will not be shifted to LeGault. If he does the job in the field, Rezzuti will be happy. He'll probably take the pressure off further by DH-ing for the junior.

Third base will fall on the shoulders of either Corsi or Marchioni, depending on who is pitching. Sophomore Bobby Connerney may also see action here as well as second base.

So that brings the emphasis back to pitching. Can Corsi and Howley average 8-to-10 K's a game? "It's a high number I know, but they both have the potential to be overpowering," Rezzuti insists.

Corsi is currently rated Newton North's top pitcher. He has the skills to become one of the best in the league, but whether he will is another matter. "It's a question of him putting it all together," Rezzuti said.

Howley, the only lefty in the group, needs work on his curveball — especially to left-handed hitters — but otherwise posseses excellent control and a quick fastball.

Rezzuti is working with Marchioni to develop a sidearm delivery, one that could be intimidating coming from the tall, rangy righthander.

First base is fairly open at this point. Howley or Marchioni, again depending on the pitcher, will see action there but Rezzuti says that if Junior Matt Ryan (5-11,210) can field the position, it's his. Otherwise, the power-hitting Ryan will be a designated hitter.

John Humphrey will play second base with Joe Slamin returning behind the plate. Slamin had some problems last year, but Rezzuti expects him to mature into one of the Suburban's best. "No one will steal on him, he has a great arm," said Tom. "I look for him to become an All-Star."

The outfield will have Fred Dalicandro in left ("The kind of player who can't hurt you. He has such a great attitude" — Rezzuti), Sophomore Chris Pachus in center and probably Bill Jordan in right. Corsi could also see action at the latter spot, though.

The Tigers have experienced problems scoring runs in the past, but Rezzuti says the biggest difference this year is the potential power of his lineup. "We have five guys, Howley, Marchioni, Corsi, Jordan and Slamin, who are all capable of hitting home runs," he says. "We've only hit one home run in the last two years, so this is something we haven't had before."

Rezzuti's goals for the '82 club are large ones. First, he wants to win 11 games (finish over .500); second, qualify for the MIAA Tournament, and third, win the league title. "If we could accomplish two of those I'd be very happy," said Rezzuti.

Bantams cop tourney

Steve DelGrozzo knocked in a rebound with 2½ minutes to play to dissolve a tie and give the Newton Bantams as 4-3 victory over Woburn in the championship game of the Arlington Intramural All-Star Hockey Tournament Sunday at the Arlington MDC Rink.

Scott Hamblett, Tom Conboy and Dave Frawley had scored earier for Newton to put them in a 3-3 deadlock in the third period. DelGrozzo picked up the rebound of a missed shot by Michael Schultz and hit the open net for the clincher.

On Saturday, Newton gunned down Arlington, 5-2, with Schultz bagging a pair of goals and Conboy, Chris Stephans and Dave McNiece adding singletons. Peter Mooradian and Mitch Doren shared the goaltending duties.

Antonellis, Liz Natale honored at Sons of Italy sports banquet

Newton High School students Michael Antonellis and Elizabeth Natale were among 29 top high school men and women athletes from throughout the state honored at the annual sports banquet sponsored by the Masachusetts Grand Lodge, Order of Sons of Italy.

Antonellis was one of 22 men and Natale one of seven women students who were awarded plaques and citations for exemplary achievement in high school football, basketball, wrestling, soccer, field hockey and track.

An outstanding runner, Natale was voted Athlete of the Year by Track and Field. As a junior, she won the New York Road Runners Age-Group Nationals, took fifth in the TAC Junior Nationals and seventh in Boston's Bonnie Belle Race. Her senior year, she won the All-State and Division I cross country championships, was arepeat champ in the Road Runner's Age-Group Nationals, was fourth in the TAC Junior Nationals, sixth in the National Outdoor Track Championships in the 1500 and, on her 17th birthday, ran a 4:53 mile at a meet in Los Angeles.

She is considering the universities of Tennessee and Texas and Florida State in her college plans.

Antonellis has won All-Dual County League honors in basketball and football. He was co-captain of the Newton South basketball team which qualified for the South Sectional Tournament.

A team player, his desire to excel placed him as a leading members of the Newton South football team, which had the best record of any Newton South eleven over the past 10 years. He plans to attend Boston University, Framingham State or the University of Connecticut.

Honored

Charles Perenick (L), assistant grand venerable, Order of Sons of Italy of America, joins Louis Parrella (R), Sons of Italy sports commissioner, in congratulating Newton high school students Michael Abtonellis and Elizabeth Natale, who were among 29 top high school men and men and women athletes statewide honored at the annual sports banquet sponsored by the Massachusetts Grand Lodge, Order of Sons of Italy.

Capello, Set-ups volleyball finalists

Spearheaded by Debbie Irwin, who scored 17 points, Capello Brothers downed Newton-Needham Home Improvements, 15-1, 15-3, 15-5, Monday night at the Day Junior High Gym to advance into the championship final of the Newton Recreation Twilight Volleyball A League playoffs.

Larane Bogosian added 11 points for Capello. Leading scorers for Home Improvements were Gail Bartone, with three points, and Marietta Zani with two.

The Set-ups were forced into five games before ousting Art Carrolls in the other A match. The scores were 15-0, 6-15, 15-7, 10-15, 15-5. Pat Savage paced the winners with 14 points and Sharon Cushman chimed in with six. Laura DeFazio tallied 14 and Shelley Polasky had seven for the Art Carrolls.

In the B League semi-finals, Newton Seafood eliminated Zani Gals, 15-9, 15-12, 15-4. Sandra Leach led the attack with 12 points and Martha Dwyer scored nine. Fran Francione and Connie DeVito tallied four apiece for the losers.

The Twi-Lighters engaged in a five-game struggle before ousting Honeystock, 15-2, 12-15, 15-7, 13-15, 15-11. Faith McElaney was outstanding for Newtoin Seafood and chalked up 24 points. Elaine Rezzutti scored 18 for Honeystock.

The title showdown is scheduled for next Monday night at Day Junior Gym. In the A final, Capello Brothers clash with the Set-Ups at 7 p.m. Newton Seafood battles the Twi-Lighters for the B crown at 8 p.m.

Newton PeeWees halted, 4-1

Unable to withstand a succession of power plays, Newton PeeWees wilted in the third period and bowed to Arlington, 4-1, in the Middlesex Youth Hockey League championship playoff game Sunday afternoon at Joyce Rink, Woburn.

The Newton team had grabbed an early first-period lead when Chris Pike stole the puck at midice, turned the defensemen around the right wing and put a high shot past the goalie.

Arlington, which had a total of seven power plays, got that goal back in the second period when Danny Theriault got his first of three goals at the 3:34 mark. Linemate Richie Verrier found the range with 2:48 gone by in the third stanza to break the tie. Theriault scored twice within the final 41 seconds to put the frosting on the cake.

Newton goalie Neil Ronchinsky was outstanding in defeat. Newton, fourth place finisher in the league during the regular season, swept past Waltham, Woburn, Medford, Burlington and Lexington in the playoffs. The loss to Arlington was only its second in the last 24 games and brought its overall record to 31-15-3. The summary:

Cooperstein qualifies for US Gymnastic competition

Cheryl Cooperstein of Newton has qualified for the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, Class I State Championship competition to be held at UMass, Amherst, this month.

Needing 64 points to qualify, Cheryl's spectacular 67.85 score also qualified her to compete in Regional Championships which will be held at Brown University in mid-April.

Thirteen-year-old Cheryl is the daughter of Barbara and Carl Cooperstien and is a student at Day Junior High School. She works out more than 25 hours a week at Massachusetts Gymnastics Center in Waltham Under Coach Steve Nuno.

Janice Brack tourney victor

Janice Brack, a seven-year veteran of the Newton Police Department and a Hyde Park resident, recently won the Women's Intermediate Daytime Racquetball League playoffs held at the PLay Off Club, 144 Gould St., Needham.

Janice began playing racquetball two years ago and joined the Intermediate League this year. She placed second in the nine-week league with the first place spot in the league standings going to Sue Ekivian of Newton.

Janice captured the first place trophy when she bested Sue in the final playoff series of three matches.

Newton Swim Club 4th behind Troiano's double

Tim Troiano was a double winner and was also helped the 200 freestyle relay team to a second-place finish as the Newton Swim Club participated in the "A" Suburban Swim League Championship Meet held recently at the Medford High School Pool.

Newton came in fourth among the eight league teams in competition after finishing its league season with an 8-2 record and 10-2 overall. Medford won the meet with 887 points. Newton scored 607 with points awarded in each event from one to 12.

Troiano, an entry in the 11 and 12-year-old group, captured both the 50 yard freestyle and backstroke events. His timing of 33.909 in the backstroke was a team record.

Also winning events for Newton were Michael Robertson in the 8 and under breaststroke, Billy Spalding copped the 8 and under backstroke, Cheryl Hagar was first in the girls' 13 and 14 Breaststroke, and Joe Dezotell set a team record in copping the 15 and 18 butterfly race.

Saturday, Newton scored 147 points. The summary:

Tiger laxmen strong with 16 veterans

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

There'll be no cautious optimism at Newton North this spring. Second-year lacrosse coach Rick Clark is one man who believes in laying his cards on the table, and if his pre-season forecasts are on target, the Tigers may be holding nothing but royal straight flushes in 1982.

The Tigers possess as illustrious a lacrosse history as almost any team in Massachusetts, but what does Clark say about this season's edition? "It may be the best we have ever had here. We are loaded," he confidently states.

Strong stuff. But as Clark says, "When you have the horses, why not admit it?"

The Tigers are coming off a 10-8 season (10-4 in the Southern League) and with 16 returning lettermen, they should indeed go a long way in '82. Gone is their No.1 scorer and leader Brian Quinn, but back are the likes of Ken Healey, Harry Martins, Mark Sampson, Dave Schiller, Ed McCarthy, Tim Mulvey, Alec Murphy and Joe Santangelo ... to name just a few.

"Depth is our greatest strength," Clark notes. "Up and down the lineup we have the kind of people who can adjust to any style an opponent plays. We can score goals and we can play strong defense. Balance will be our strongest point."

Clark, who was Jayvee coach for six years before taking over the varsity last season from Tom DePeter, says team speed will separate the Tigers from most clubs. "We have it at every position," he gushes.

The quickest is junior attacker Tim Mulvey, who, because of Newton North's incredible talent, may sometimes go unnoticed. But Clark has no reservations about his abilities. "Tim is one guy who we look to have a great year," Clark says. "He's practically unstoppable one-on-one."

The first wave of attackers will include returning starters Healey, Sampson and Martins. Healey was second in scoring last season with 19 goals for 30 points while Sampson had 12 goals for 18 points and Martins nine goals and 14 points.

Martins may be the new-found jewel. In the three weeks since Newton has begun practicing, he's been its most impressive performer. "He's coming to the ball great, finding the open spots and making things happen inside," says Clark excitedly. "He could have quite a year."

Providing that tremendous depth here are Seniors Ken Norton and Phil Lebrun, junior Tim Brandon and sophomore Tom Ryan.

But talk about depth and you have to talk about Newton North's midfielders. "We're strongest here," Clark says. "We have people playing on the fourth line who other teams would be very happy to have on the first line."

Schiller, a 5-11, 170-pound senior and team tri-captain, returns to anchor the midfield. A league All-Star last season, Schiller is quick, smart and one of the finest defensive performers anywhere.

McCarthy, another tri-captain, is back after a collarbone injury to team with Schiller. Clark calls McCarthy the "(Terry) O'Reilly of our team. He's a workhorse and a leader."

Lion cagers

Rated best team ever in the school's history, the 1981-82 Newton South High basketball team posted a 16-3 overall record and reached the semi-finals of the MIAA South Sectional Tournament. Front row: (L to R) Steve Abrams, Charlie Sullivan, Co-Capt. David Hill, Co-Capt. Mike Antonellis, Meatchie Russell, Tracey Hairston. Back row: Head Coach Joe Killilea, Manager Karl McLaurrin, Steve Anglin, Scott Anglin, Greg Wands, Andy Young, Gene Lindsay, Asst. Coach Mark Aronson.

The 6-2, 190-pound Mulvey fills out this starting trio. The second line consists of Juniors Tom Whiting and John Callahan and Sophomore Jim Quinn, Brian's brother.

Clark can also counter with a solid third unit, which he termed "my football line." All three were outstanding athletes on the 7-2 Tiger football team last fall and Clark looks to place them opposite some of the top lines Newton will face. "We're hoping they can play solid defense against those kind of lines and score a few goals themselves," he says.

The line is made up of Seniors Bill Ziener, Mario Proia and Mike Abbruzzese. Speed should be this trio's greatest weapon.

Sean Underhill, George Claflin and Neil Hadro add balance here.

The defense is led by veterans Alec Murphy and tri-captain Joe Santangelo. A second team All-Star last season, Santangelo is one of the better one-on-one defensemen in the league.

Sophomore Paul Boudreau and Seniors Matt Davis and powerful (6-3,225) Dan Reilly round out the backline.

Both goaltenders — Ed Cohen and Sam Kapreilian — are back. Cohen was a second team All-Star in only his sophomore season, so he should see most of the action, but Kapreilian has proven that he is very capable of handling the position should it become necessary.

It all seems to be there for Newton North this season, right down to the coaching staff where Clark is being ably assisted by Bussy Adams, a Division II All-American during his days at Boston State. What could stand in the Tigers' path?

"Maybe only injuries," the 28-year old Clark says. "But that's where our depth should help. Of course, overall the entire league looks much stronger this season."

Clark labeled Framingham North, Winchester, Brookline and Lincoln-Sudbury as teams to watch out for. "Eespecially Framingham North," he said. "They have everyone back."

The season unofficially began today with an exhibition against the Harvard University freshman at Harvard. The Tigers then play in a tournament Saturday and Sunday at Longmeadow before opening the regular schedule on Wednesday, March 31 at Framingham South.

Clark is betting it will be the start of a season to remember.

Dentists agree device makes details easier plains Apotheker, who with Jako searched around the world for cost efficient and quality optics, shunning anything that seemed too expensive or impractical, according to Apotheker.

The search was long and costly. Apotheker provided much of the funding which ran, he says, into "thousands and thousands of dollars." Both Apotheker and Jako spent about 3000 hours each, or most nights until midnight and every weekend for four years in search of an appropriate instrument.

"We set out to do it on our own," says Apotheker, an assistant professor at Harvard University Dental School. However during a 1980 science convention in New Orleans, the DentiScope sparked the interest of the Chayes Virginia Inc., who then began funding the project. Under their direction, the final product was developed and completed in 1981.

Apotheker, a 1975 graduate of Tufts University Dental School, is now using the instrument for his private practice at the Prudential Center in Boston. Apthoker is also using the microscope to teach dental students at Harvard.

"It will be a very big thing in dental education," explains Apotheker. The instrument also features a television screen so that patients or dental students can see exactly what the dentist is doing. A videotaping option is also available.

"The dentist doesn't need the TV," notes Apotheker. The dental microscope costs $3,600, though the TV and camera boost the cost to $14,000.

Still, the same basic benefits exist for dentists using the microscope without the camera and TV. "A dentist can work for hours without eye, neck or back strain," explains Apotheker. Also, the fiber optics provide bright, direct light for the dentist looking into the microscope without subjecting the patient to harsh lights. And the magnification allows dentists to do better work on serious dental problems.

Though the DentiScope is completed, Apotheker still spends more time in dental research than in private practice, which includes an office in Lynn. "I spend most of my time working on things for dentistry," notes Apotheker. "I was always concerned with the betterment of dental care."

His interest in science was shaped while attending Boston Latin High School. "I started with biology," says Apotheker, "But I always liked to be independent, and dentistry is an independent profession."

"I always admired dentists, because dentistry," explains Apotheker, "is a science and an art."

Series on Middle East set for South Enrichment

NEWTON CENTRE — A series on the Middle East has been planned in conjunction with the Social Studies Department by Newton South High School's Enrichment Program, April 5, 6 and 7. Wayne Altree, chairperson, Dr. Paul Gottlieb and Dr. Philip Burnham, faculty members, have shared their expertise with members of the Enrichment Program in developing this most important and timely program. The staff of the Center for Middle Eastern Studies, Harvard University has also assisted in the arrangements for this week.

This joint effort will offer a survey of the Middle East today and serve as a basis for further in-depth studies in the classroom. A visual impression will be furnished as well as a summary of basic information of the key issues involved. An analysis of the role of the United States in recent years, of the steps considered necessary for the preservation of peace and a consideration of a realistic basis for a credible Middle East policy will be included. This report of fundamental facts will be an aid in considering and discussing the questions about the complexities of the Middle East and of the Palestinian dilemma.

This program has been designed to provide information which will acquaint the students with the geography of the area, furnish descriptions of aspects of the various cultures of the region, help students understand the basic tenets and practices of Islam and clarify some of the critical issues and problems in that part of the world. Students and faculty will also have the opportunity to hear the views of speakers from different Middle East countries, to learn about the role of the United States in the Middle East from an expert on foreign affairs, Professor Herman F. Eilts, Boston University, and former Ambassador to Saudi Arabia and to Egypt, and to share in the personal experiences of some Newton South High School students who have visited there. Each session will include a question and answer period and time for discussion.

The schedule is as follows:

Monday, April 5, 8:55-10:55 a.m. - Film: "The Changing Middle East." Geographic, political, economic and social implications of rural and urban populations. Emphasis on the rising middle class, cultural achievements and religious traditions. Talks by Harvard University, Middle East Centre, graduate students from different countries in the MidEast.

Tuesday, April 6, 10:05-11:50 a.m. - Film: "Jerusalem: Center of Many Worlds." Historical, economic, geographic and religious significance of Jerusalem to Judaism, Christianity and Islam. Everday life in the Arab and Jewish sectors. This will be followed by talks on "Living in Jerusalem" by students at Newton South High School who have lived there.

Wednesday, April 7, 10:05-10:55 a.m. - "The Role of the United States in the Middle East" will be discussed by Herman F. Eilts, University Professor of International Relations and Research Professor of History and Political Science, Boston University. Mr. Eilts, graduate of Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, was Ambassador to Saudi Arabia and to Egypt.

Wednesday, April 7, 11 to 11:50 a.m. - In conjunction with the Home Economics Department, a Talk and Demonstration on Middle East Cuisine by Newton resident, Mrs. Wazik Kazimi. Mrs. Kazimi, a graduate of American International College, Springfield, Ma. was born and brought up in the Middle East and has travelled extensively in that area.

The community is invited to attend at no cost. For further information call 552-7520.

Recreation notes

NEWTON — Currently being researched by the Newton Recreation Department is the preliminary stage of a 1982 Summer Day Camp. The department welcomes input as to suggested hours, length of camp, activities, cost, possible age of young campers and interest. Call the Recreation Department and speak with either Sheila Balch or Fran Towle, at 552-7120.

Summer applictions are now available for summer Life Guards and Playground leaders. Pick your application up at the Recreation Department at 70 Crescent St., Auburndale.

Lassie League softball for girls in grades 6, 7 and 8, interested in playing, will be starting on April 27. If you are interested, please call Jean Cole at 552-7120.

Senior Adults interested in taking the Rhode Island trip to Newport on April 22 or April 28, can begin sending registrations for this trip on April 7. Pick up your brochure at the Recretaion Department at 70 Crescent St. in Auburndale, or at Human Services at City Hall. If you mail in a .20¢ stamp, we will be happy to mail one out to you.

Senior Secrets cookbook has made available a second printing of this super group of recipes. Pick one up at Recreation. The cost to seniors is only $3. Otherwise it is a $5 bargain. The editor, Judy Slamin is currently compiling a second cookbook entitled "Calorie Counting". Since about everyone is counting caslaries, young and old, this should be a special book for everyone. Don't forget to send in any good recipes, care of Senior Adults, Rec. Dept. The new edition will be ready this coming fall so you still have plenty of time to send us your low calorie recipies.

Friday Ceramics class at Harace Mann Apartment, Brookside Ave, Newtonville still welcomes additional seniors interested in creating something beautiful. Call Judy Dore at 552-7120 for more details.

Newton North High User Fee Permits now reduced since we are getting toward the end of the indoor swim/gym season. Students under eighteen are now $3.50, adults $5 and family is $12. Non-resident fee continues the same at $4 each use.

Women on the Run will start the second session of Level I. Class begins April 5 and continues for four weeks, Mondays and Wednesdays at North High (go in Hull St. entrance) at 7:30 p.m.

Women's Softball Manager's Meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 7 at 7 p.m. This meeting will be at Day Jr. High. If you are interested, please call Fran Towle at the Rec. Dept. 552-7120. The two divisions - the Garden City Stealers play regular softball rules, and the Village Belles play modified rules, no stealing.

Outdoor Tennis Permits for the 1982 summer season will go on sale April 26 at the Rec. Dept. at 70 Crescent St. in Auburndale, from Monday through Friday from 9 a.m to 4:30 p.m. They will also be on sale at North High Monday through Friday from 7 to 9:30 p.m from April 26 to May 21 and Saturday from 1 to 8:30 p.m. until May 1 and Sundays until May 2 from 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. The cost will be $25 for a family; $15 for an adult (18 or older) and $10 for a full-time student. These permits allow you to reserve ahead at the supervised courts at Newton Centre, Burr Park, Newton North and South High Schools. These courts will be open to the public on Saturday, May 1. Most other tennis courts are already open and the tennis nets are up.

Arts in the Parks of the Recreation Department now has a summer schedule of Children's courses now available. Children from 2 to 6 will have classes geared particularly to enjoyment and enrichment for those particular ages. Call Linda Plaut for more information at the Rec. Dept.

Residents research history of homes

Putting the historical puzzle together

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — During the 19th century a Newton man decided to give his daughter an unusual wedding gift so he built for her Newton's only octagon-shaped house that still stands on Watertown Street in West Newton.

Even if you don't live in an octagonal house, you can uncover some interesting facts about your old Newton home by tracing old street maps and thumbing through old city hall records.

That's just what a few Newton residents did recently with the guidance and expertise of history buff Barbara Thibault. At the Jackson Homestead, Thibault recently held a brief course on researching the history of your home.

Thibault, an Auburndale resident, always had a long standing interest in history. But her enthusiasm for 19th century architecture heightened in 1976, "when I became a Victorian homeowner." Since then, Thibault, who has a bachelors' degree in history from the University of Massachusetts, has taken various courses and seminars in architectural history. Now she enthusiastically lectures on the history of Newton homes.

The group she recently instructed is varied by profession: A computer analysist, nutritionist and social worker are among those who share an interest in their home's past and a respect for historical value.

"The one thing that unites people in Newton is their homes," explained Mary Grace Barber of Waban. Barber, a nurse, lives in a combination Georgian Revival, Queen Anne, Victorian home with some unusual features including intricate details and steel beam construction.

Barber feels her home may have been designed by the same architect who built much of the Waban shopping center, since she has noticed similarities in the design. The architect, incidentally, was the first person to live in Barber's 1902 home. "I'm wondering if he played any part in designing my home," Barber remarked.

Curiosity led Jack and Linda Davis, who live in a white Victorian house in Newton Centre, to the Jackson Homestead for more facts about their home. "It's like tracing the genealogy of your family. You have a very personal relationship with your home," explained Linda.

Originally from Idaho, Linda feels she now has a greater appreciation for old things. "I grew up in the west, where everything was new. I appreciate it more now because I grew up in the opposite environment," Linda, a nutritionist, explained. The Davis home, they believe, was built before 1874, perhaps as early as 1850.

David and Julie Cutright of Newton Lower Falls still haven't categorized their pre-1848 home. "It's a little bit of this and a little bit of that," said Julie, a psychiatric social worker. Even the people from the Jackson Homestead agree that the Cutright's home is unusual.

While the couple would like to know what influenced the creation of their Grove Street house, Julie said she and her husband are also concerned about historic preservation. "We'd like to be a catalyst in making it a historic district," she said.

One way to find the history of a home is to take the current deed to Newton District Court and obtain the first deed. Further information can be gathered from planning books and sewer and water records in the Engineering Department at Newton City Hall.

Street lists from the Building Department and records from the Assessors Office, both in city hall, can also be helpful. Election Commission records, town reports, tax lists and fire records should also be explored.

Outside city hall, many church records are a source of information particularly if someone prominent once lived in the house.

The experts at the Jackson Homestead can explain why some roofs curve like bells, what's behind the intricate designs framing a Victorian window or why a Greek Revival home has Italian designs. But for a livlier history of a home, you need to do some leg work, according to Thibault, "To put the pieces of the puzzle together."

New officers

Newton Commissioner of Recreation Russell J. Halloran congratulated newly-elected commission Chairman Herbert R. Bamel and Vice-chairman Jennie DeVito following their election recently at a commission meeting in City Hall.

Publishing honors

Waban resident Jack Effenson (second from right) joined others at the 10th anniversary of Blue Mountain Arts, the largest publisher of poetry in the world, in Colorado recently. Effenson is a sales representative for Madco, Inc. through which he represents the company's line of cards, calendars and books. At the award presentation Madco was honored as "sales organizaton of the year" for 1981.

Suspect accused of Li'l Peach stickup

NEWTON — A Quincy man was arraigned Monday in Newton District Court foolowing an alleged armed robbery and police chase early Monday morning, police said.

According to police, David Sprague, 31, of 4 Marion St., was arrested about 2 a.m. after police chased him and another suspect in a car through Newtonville, Newton Corner, Newton Centre and onto the eastbound lane of the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Sprague is charged with armed robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon and several motor vehicle violations in connection with the alleged armed robbery at the Li'l Peach store on Washington Street, Newtonville.

A second suspect, Anthony Brown, 25, of Boston, was charged with two counts of larceny over $100 in connection with that incident. He is being held for parole violations from a state prison.

Police received a call at 1:03 a.m. from the manager of the store, who said he had just been held up and robbed of cash from the store register. The manager described them as a black man and a white man wearing a nylon stocking mask over his face.

One of the men was carrying what appeared to be a sawed off shot gun, according to the manager. The suspects took cash from the register and left the store.

Shortly thereafter, Newton Police Officer Kenneth Marino noticed a car traveling on Washington Street, without its head lights. Marino pursued the vehicle to Newton Corner, Newton Centre, Newtonville, through Newton Corner and up to the Allston-Newton line on the eastbound lane of the turnpike.

Marino then noticed that the suspects threw an object out of the car, stopped his cruiser and picked up a sawed off pellet gun, police stated.

Just before the Allston-Brighton toll booth, the two suspects jumped from their car and were chased across the road by Police Officers Richard Badarraco and James Keagan. Badaraco and Keagan caught Brown and Sprague and place them under arrest.

Judge Monte Basbas ordered Sprague held on $50,000 with surety of $5,000 cash. A trial date for both men is set for April 5 in district court.

Urn stolen in housebreak

NEWTON — A cement urn was stolen Sunday night from a Shetfild Road home following a break there at 7:47 p.m., police said.

Then intruders entered the home by breaking a rear door window, police said. Nothing else was reported missing.

Burr School entered

WEST NEWTON — Nothing was reported missing followimg a break Sunday into the Burr School, 171 Pine St., police reported.

A custodian said the break occurred some time between noon Sunday and 6:45 a.m. Monday, according to police. The intruders entered the school by breaking a panel of a rear door and also broke door glass on the second floor.

Stereo items, cash lifted

WEST NEWTON — Stereo equipment worth $300 and cash were stolen Monday morning from a River Street home.

According to police, the burglars entered the house by breaking a cellar window.

Vandals strike business

NEWTONVILLE — The manager of Sparkle Cleaners, 388 Walnut St., reported that vandals shot a hole through the front window sometime over the weekend.

Police said they did not know what the vandals used to smash the window.

Pair faces breaking charge

LOWER FALLS - Two Waltham men were arrested Monday morning and charged with breaking into a Wellesley pizza parlor.

According to police, Robert Elliot, 21, of 27 Francis St., and Kenneth Schofeild, of Sartell Road, were charged with breaking and entering in the night in connection with a break into Mark's Pizza, 12A Wahington St., Wellesley.

Police Officers Keven Capoli and Gerald McGlaughlin at 3 a.m. were on a routine patrol in the Lower Falls area when they noticed two men running behind a Washington Street gas station. The officers notified Wellesley police, who said a break had occurred that morning.

Both men were arrested and face arraignments in Dedham District Court

Toyota tires slashed

WABAN — The owner of a 1980 Toyota reported to police that someone slashed two of the car's tires sometime Sunday night on Canterbury Road.

Word Processing

This course will focus on an introduction to word processing and the complete operation of a word processing unit. Training will be done on the Wang System 30. Students enrolled in the course should be able to type 35 WPM. This course meets in 3 hour sessions once a week.

Starting the week of April 29th, there will be openings in our Thursday Evening Section. There are Summer Sections also available.

FRI., APRIL 2

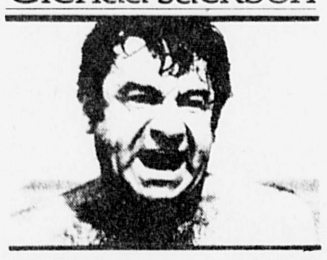

LET'S DO IT AGAIN
Sidney Poitier ★ Bill Cosby

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) LET'S DO IT AGAIN. Sidney Poitier and Bill Cosby in the middle episode of a Poitier-directed trilogy that began with Uptown Saturday Night. Two blue-collar workers conceive a risky and illegal scheme to pull down a big score for their masonic lodge's building fund. With Calvin Lockhart, John Amos and Jimmy Walker.

SAT., APRIL 3

HOUSE CALLS
Walter Matthau
Glenda Jackson

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) HOUSE CALLS. A romantic romp with Walter Matthau as a widowed surgeon determined to take advantage of his new single status and Glenda Jackson as an attractive divorcee who holds more conservative views on love and marriage. Art Carney is the hospital's chief of surgery, whose absent-minded behavior and outmoded medical techniques, has everyone in everything but stitches.

SUN., APRIL 4

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) MEATBALLS. Bill Murray as a mad-cap (what else?) head counselor at a summer camp for underachievers who manages to inspire his charges but strikes out when he tries to impress his female counterpart, Kate Lynch joins in the spirited hi-jinks.

9-11:45PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain)

Meatballs Bill Murray

adventure of six troubled teens learning to cope with themselves, nature and each other. Ralph Macchio, Dori Brenner, James B. Richardson and Sal Lopez.

9-11PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain)

GOLDIE AND THE BOXER. O.J. Simpson is a struggling fighter whose tender relationship with a little orphan girl (Melissa Michaelsen) has a dramatic effect on his climb to the pinnacle of boxing, the heavyweight championship. A sentimental tale.

Yanks

YANKS. American boy meets English girl in war-torn Britain. One of 1979's over-looked little gems. Richard Gere, Vanessa Redgrave, Lisa Eichorn and the always excellent William Devane.

MON., APRIL 5

8-10PM NBC (7 Central/Mountain) THE KID WITH THE BROKEN HALO. To prove he is worthy of heaven, a 12-year old wayward angel (Gary Coleman) is returned to Earth, where he's to patch up broken lives and save three families. With Ray Walston, Robert Guillaume, June Allyson, Georg Stanford Brown, Kim Fields, Mason Adams, Lani O'Grady, Telma Hopkins and John Pleschette.

8:30-11PM ABC (7:30 Cent./Mt.)

You Only Live Twice Sean Connery

YOU ONLY LIVE TWICE. James Bond pursues Russian and American space capsules through a dangerous world of lethal Japanese fish, a nervous volcano and arch villain Ernst Stravo Blofeld's latest scheme to rule the world. With the original 007, of course, Sean Connery, and Donald Pleasance, the best of the cat-stroking Blofelds.

TUES., APRIL 6

4:30-5:30PM CBS (3:30 Cent./Mt.) JOURNEY TO SURVIVAL. Dramatic

8-9PM CBS (7 Central/Mountain) THE ADVENTURES OF POLLYANNA. Eleanor N. Porter's novel comes to life on this Walt Disney special starring Academy Award winner Shirley Jones and 13-year old Patsy Kensit who herein makes her American debut in the title role.

SUN., APRIL 11

9-11:30PM NBC (8 Central/Mountain) CASEY'S SHADOW. Walter Matthau (popular fellow) is a poor Louisiana horse trainer near the end of his tether who risks a pony's life to win one big race before he retires.

MON., APRIL 12

9-11PM ABC (8 Central/Mountain) MY BODY, MY CHILD. A searing story of a middle-aged woman facing an agonizing dilemma... does she have an abortion against her deep-seated convictions or give birth to a probably deformed child? Vanessa Redgrave, Joseph Campanella and the late Jack Albertson ("The Man" of Chico and... fame). Heavy.

TUES., APRIL 13

The Last Song ★ Lynda Carter

9-11PM CBS (8 Central/Mountain) THE LAST SONG. Lynda Carter as a young mother forced on a trail of terror because she unknowingly holds the key to a deadly coverup. Lynda's first dramatic role, if you don't count all that Wonder Woman stuff.

specials

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Management

Want to manage a million dollar restaurant?

With average sales over the $1 million mark, many individual McDonald's restaurants have larger sales volumes than most private businesses and many corporations. You can be part of our success story as a McDonald's Restaurant Manager.

Through our Management Development Program you'll learn everything you'll need to know. This is a carefully conceived program specifically designed to give future managers a full understanding of the McDonald's operation. A McDonald's Restaurant Manager takes on the responsibility for personnel functions, accounting and budgeting, inventory and quality control, sales analysis, profit margins, and community relations.

It's a big job. With a bright future. But it's hard work. You must have the ambition, energy and determination to succeed in a top management position. To let us know if you'd like to share in the success of one of our operations, please call us or send your resume or letter of introduction to:

Clark pushes 'tough' discipline

NEWTON — School superintendent candidate Dr. Percy Clark, Jr., said Saturday he places priority on teacher evaluations, the definition of goals and on "tough" discipline.

"We are tough. There is no other way to describe it," Clark said of discipline in the Shaker Heights, Ohio, school system where he has been assistant superintendent since 1978. "We will not tolerate one student taking advantage of another student or chaos in the learning environment."

Clark said suspension and expulsion are some disciplinary actions taken and that "graffiti...is removed the moment it appears." In some cases, Clark said parents of students responsible for vandalism have been taken to court to recover for the damage as one approach which gets the parents' "attention."

One new program which Clark has worked to implement both in Shaker Heights and in Kalamazoo, Mich., where he was director of student services for six years, is a formal evaluation process for both staff and curriculum.

For staff, Clark said the evaluation consists of three phases: 1) a pre-conference period between the evaluator and the teacher to discuss priorities and expectations; 2) six visits by an administrator to the teacher's classroom; and 3) the formal evaluation when, if any weaknesses are found, the teacher is directed to certain staff-development and training programs.

For curriculum, Clark said, "Every program is evaluated according to the objectives stated for the program."

Clark said that he worked to develop a "block support system" for the Shaker Heights schools where there is at least one representative to the schools in every block. "This has worked very effectively in terms of building support," he said.

According to Clark, his management style is "based on the participatory system."

"I definitely believe in establishing goals not only for my staff, but for myself. There's usually a ripple effect," he said. "I try to encourage people in terms of achievement. I've found process is sometimes more important than the actual accomplishment of a goal."

Clark also advocates that a school system in times of tight budgets not only make reductions, but find ways to "generate income."

"I think the function of a school district is to remain vital and not just to dismantle to zero," he stressed.

He said last year $110,000 was saved by Shaker Heights from the "joint buying" of supplies with other school districts. Also, in the area of substitute days, Clark said, teacher absenteeism has been reduced by giving teachers an incentive; money saved in terms of substitute pay reverts back to their school building for supplies for the children.

Money was made, over $200,000 according to Clark, through "keeping the schools' computers running 24 hours a day." There is also a Shaker Heights Foundation where people can donate money to their own school district, an idea which Clark said "has caught on" but is not without problems and possibly legal ramifications.

Prior to working as director of student services for the Kalamazoo public schools in Michigan from 1972 to 1978, Clark was an elementary school principal there beginning in 1969.

Strand eyes strong management

NEWTON — Dr. John M. Strand, the last semi-finalist superintendent candidate to be interviewed by the School Committee, said Sunday that as superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y., public schools, he has improved "what was already an excellent school system."

Strand, who has been superintendent in Pelham since 1977, said during the public interview at F.A. Day Junior High that he generally believes in a "strong management system" and in "holding people accountable."

In New York, school departments have fiscal autonomy, but budgets must be passed by a majority referendum vote. "About two-thirds of our registered voters don't have any children in the schools," Strand said, so building public support and "campaigning for the budget" is a priority.

"We say 'the community' or 'the public'. I think it's wrong to assume that there is one public or one community," Strand said.

He said Pelham has "more than one strategy" for developing support for the school budget, including targeting "other governmental bodies." He said he also goes to neighborhood associations "on their own turf" and especially groups which might oppose the budget.

"Needs assessment" meetings are held each autumn with parents and school staff, said Strand. He said the meetings are "specifically designed to elicit criticism about problems or determine what needs to be improved."

From the outcome of these meetings, certain areas for improvement are targeted. During the second half of the year, "the professionals" – teachers and administrators – plan these improvements.

"What we try to do is establish very clear directives on the part of the superintendent and the school board," Strand said.

According to Strand, Pelham also has a "performance pay system" which is a system of rating administrators based upon written evaluation by the superintendent and assistant superintendent of administrators. Strand said that written into the contract for administrators is a minimum of a 4-percent salary increase and a maximum of 11 percent.

One program Strand is proud of is a new high school he helped start in New York. He was the first director of a career-education high school, the Satellite Academies Program, which had 600 students. He also hired its 50 staff members.

"It was a very comprehensive opportunity to start a school," Strand said.

The school was mainly for students who were potential high school dropouts or had already quit school. "I'm quite proud of that program," he said. "It is today a permanent high school and more than 1,000 students have graduated."

Strand said that, based on that experience, his first full-time position as an administrator, and on his years of experience since then, "the single biggest lesson I've learned" is "not to hire people just like me."

He added that it was more important "to be able to recognize the ability to get things accomplished and focus on that" than "to get sidetracked on personality or style."

Before becoming superintendent of the Pelham schools, Strand was for one year the assistant superintendent of that school system.

Earhart favors defined priorities

NEWTON — A school system should clearly define certain priorities rather than set out to fulfill all of society's needs, and then it will succeed at doing some things very well, according to school superindendent candidate Troy Earhart.

Because there is a serious lack of money due to loss of fiscal autonomy under Proposition 2½, a school system needs "to look at doing fewer things and doing them well," explained Earhart, currently Superindendent of Foxboro Public Schools. "Don't try to do so much that you don't do anything well. We have to be strong enough to say we can't do everything," said Earhart.

Foremost, the school system's obligation is the education of children, and not programs, such as adult education, said Earhart Thursday night during the Newton School Committee's fifth interview of superindendent candidates.

Earhart also said schools need to look at creative ways to cut back. The ways in which Earhart, Foxboro superintendent since 1973, would make budget cuts include retirement incentives and liberal leave policies for staff, differential staffing, job sharing and part time work.

Looking at creative ways increase school revenue, Earhart stated, "We need to consider which programs can become self-supporting." Earhart noted hot school lunches and continuing education as programs that could be supported by fees. He suggested renting school building as a good way to generate money.

In Foxboro, the former high school is used partly for administrative offices while the rest of the structure is rented by the Kennedy Center for Handicapped Students and the Foxboro Company, Earhart explained.

Earhart, a Medfield resident, received his Master of Education and Doctor of Education degrees from Harvard University. A 1955 graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Earhart concentrated on health, physical science, mathematics and sociology.

He spent 16 years in the Dade County, Florida school system as a teacher, assistant principal director of curriculum projects and as director of program planning and developemnt for the entire system.

As a superintendent, Earhart said he advocates and practices regular and planned meetings with other adminstrators. Two meetings a month are held with principals and himself in Foxboro, he said.

As superintendent, Earhart said he wants to spend 40-50 percent of his time in the schools, but lost much of support staff through Propostion 2½ and is unable to spend as much time as he would like inside classrooms.

"I went into this profession because I like kids and I still like kids," said Earhart.

On the issue of individual schools' autonomy versus central control, Earhart stated, "I'm an advocate of school-based management," noting, though, that each school should be allowed some flexibility so long as it recognizes and enforces district goals.

During his two-hour interview, Earhart stressed that he did not want to sound overly simplistic when he said that clearly defined expectations, sound reasoning and dialogue among all school personnel are the ways to successfully deal with most school issues.

Holland favors variety in system

NEWTON — William R. Holland, candidate for superindendent of Newton Public Schools, last night said that a school system should offer a variety of learning programs, particularly in a city as diverse as Newton.

"I feel that in a school there has to be alternatives," said Holland. "The strict, traditional methods may not work for some kids."

Holland, the fourth candidate to be interviewed for the position, was questioned at the F.A. Day Junior High School by the Newton School Committee and Mayor Theodore Mann.

Presently the Superindendent of Public Schools in Narragansett, Rhode Island, Holland said that among the most successful learning programs initiated into the Narragansett school system is one designed for gifted children. Since he became superindendent in 1978, computer science, expanded language instruction, and a special calculus course have been added to the system, Holland said.

Holland noted the "master skills" program when asked to describe learning approaches that he favors. The master skills program is a systematic approach to instruction which stresses that virtually all children can master certain basic skills.

However, Holland also noted that in a diverse city, alternative learning programs must be available.

A School Committee member also asked Holland for his views on research which concludes that teacher expectations have a greater effect on a child's education than socio-economic level. Holland responded that what a child learns outside of school also has an effect on his performance in school. "We have to accept the fact that there are cultural factors that effect a child's verbal performance," Holland said. Holland added that a teacher's attitude should be questioned during regular evaluations.

Holland, when asked how he would gather support for public school education, particularly here in Newton where the majority of residents supporting the schools do not have children in the system, responded that, "Eroding support of public school education is a problem and will continue to be a problem throughout the 80's." Holland suggested building the confidence of school personel and students because public support can not be maintained unless those working within the system feel good about the schools. Holland also suggested surveying the public's attitude toward its schools.

Some School Committee members snickered when Holland noted the city lunch program and union contracts as two areas he would look at for budget reductions. Committee Member Susan Silbey, after the questioning period, told Holland that the members were snickering because the School Committee had also tried to save money in those areas.

Holland, when asked what he would look for in an elementary school classroom, said he would look for classroom management, learning objectives, a sense of order, a rich rather than sterile environment, and student interaction.

Holland received his Masters Degree in Education in 1961 from the University of Massachusetts and in Ed.D. in Educational Administration in 1970 from Boston University.

'Concern' on possible cuts voiced at aldermanic session

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Tension between the "city side" and "school side" budgets arose last week when members of a pro-education lobby in Newton sounded out the Aldermanic Human Services Committee on the $39.2 million school budget.

Although the budget has not yet been submitted to Human Services, CONCERN, a six-year-old liberal organization, asked to meet with the committee to state fears of the impact upon education of any cuts in the proposed school budget.

"We recognize that you have a very difficult task ahead of you," Jennifer Huntington of CONCERN said.

But, she said, if any cuts were made to the school budget, "they would result in more loss of programs and perhaps higher pupil-teacher ratios."

When asked by Human Services Chairman Rodney Barker what specific programs would be lost if any cuts were made, a member of CONCERN, Lois Oxman, would not answer, but responded, "Obviously, that's a fishing question, Rodney."

While Mayor Theodore Mann had originally asked all departments for budget cuts of 4.5 percent, the final budget passed by the School Committee Monday night called for an increase of 3.7 percent. Mayor Mann abstained from the vote.

This disparity between the schools and other city budgets, according to Alderman Richard Bullwinkle, "almost gets you in an adversary position starting out."

Unlike preliminary city budgets, the school budget hike contains, money for collective bargaining salary increases. Nonetheless, Bullwinkle told the members of CONCERN and three School Committee members in attendance that aldermen are faced with "competing goods."

"We will have parading in front of us pathetic budgets," Human Services Chairman Barker said, referring to the Newton Free Library system and Recreation Department budgets. "We have that in our own committee, let alone the Board."

In their second year of fiscal control of the school budget, aldermen find themselves confronted with the possible closing of the Manet Road fire station and possible layoffs of police, fire and other city employees.

Pressure from the over 2,000 taxpayers who poured out at Tuesday night's revaluation hearing translated one clear message for fiscal austerity to Alderman Carol Ann Shea of the Human Services Committee: "If I heard one thing last night, I heard it a million times. They want us to cut."

"There were a heck of a lot of people there last night and that was their message," she said.

"I'm struck by how quickly we get to this kind of a battle about dollars and cents," Carol Liebman of CONCERN said. "The focus seemed (last year when aldermen reviewed the school budget) to be constantly on dollars and cents with observers feeling you don't have the time to know what it represents in terms of education."

Countered Aldrman Shea, "Our role unfortunately is really a dollar and cents role. So I think it may be nice to talk, but the bottom line is the bottom line and that is money."

According to Barker, the school budget, if level-funded from last year with an approximate figure for collective bargaining increases included, is "still up substantially," about $1 million.

To reach this calculation, Barker noted the $500,000 in unemployment compensation for teacher layoffs which had been included in the current $37.7 million school budget, but which was "in the best of good will" set too high. As it turned out, $450,000 too high.

Barker combined $450,000 with the estimated $600,000 in savings for next year based upon declining enrollment and staff reductions and then added about $1.5 million for a round estimate of salary increases based upon increases in salary accounts in the FY83 budget.

Neither the School Committee nor the School Department will publicly reveal the percentage of the budget which is set side for collective bargaining increases. However, School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said at the meeting at City Hall that Mayor Mann has been informed of the amount.

All School Department union contracts expire at the end of this year.

Originally, CONCERN had contacted members of the Human Services Committee to meet in a private home. However, according to Alderman Bruce Carmichael, this was decided improper and the committee opted instead for City Hall to keep the meeting "out in the public" domain."

CONCERN, which stirred a controversy in the last two School Committee elections for their lobbying and endorsement of a "slate card" of School Committee candidates, backed seven of the current School Committee members, with the exception of Leonard Gentile of Ward 1.

ANSWER THE CALL - Mayor Theodore Mann joined Deputy Police Chief Jay I.W. Moskow and Chief William Quinn at the podium during a recent introductory orientation for auxiliary police recruits.

Newton answers volunteer call

NEWTON — The recent call for auxiliary police recruits in Newton was enthusiastically received, according to Police Chief William Quinn.

Thirty-two volunteers answered the call and participated in a recent introductory orientation session conducted by Mayor Theodore Mann, Chief Quinn and Deputy Cheif Jay I.W. Moskow.

Chief Quinn served as chairman and welcomed the 27 men and 5 women who volunteered.

The chief gave a history of the auxiliary going back to 1942 and said the hallmark of the force has been citizens volunteering to observe and report crime.

Quinn said the auxiliary force has a tradition of "adding confidence to the residents of all Newton's villages that we not only have an efficient police force but also citizens helping out.

"In every major storm or disaster our auxiliary has been present," Chief Quinn said, "many times doing work which relieves our professional force to other and many times more dangerous work. It is not our intention that any auxiliary will replace an armed trained police officer in any hazardous effort.

"We want you to patrol in cars, on motorcycles and perhaps on foot and report what you see," Quinn told the volunteers. "Your presence will be seen in the future as in the past at every community function, marathons, springfest, parades and wherever crowd or traffic control is needed."

Chief Quinn told the group they would be meeting "some fine police officers " with the common interest of "protecting our community."

Mayor Mann thanked the volunteers for their interest, noting "Our crime (in Newton) is less and can be reduced by the volunteer auxiliary assisting a good police force."

Mann said the call for volunteers went beyond economics - that anyone could run a city with money - but that the residents "are the city and have been an important part of crime prevention in Newton."

Mann told the group, "People do not work for causes, they work for people, our people here in this community. We shall be better off with such a partnership."

Police Captain John Parker said the training schedule will include Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, defensive driving, community relations, criminal law and knowlege of police functions.

Deputy Chief Moskow outlined the types of service to be required and schedules of operation, as well as introuduction of the officers of the auxiliary.

Community Schools still has openings for spring

NEWTON — Interested in photography? In home repairs? In sports workshops? Newton Community Schools still have openings for several spring activities, notes Joseph Baron, NCS executive director.

"Many people don't realize that Community Schools sponsor special activities far into the springtime and early summer," states Baron. "We have a number of programs, such as walking tours, baseball and tennis clinics, and gardening classes for which people are more than welcome to sign up."

Through the Angier Community School, Newton residents are invited to enroll in a three-session workshop on "Securities and Investments: An Introduction." Conducted by Robert Cantin of Merrill Lynch, the workshops will begin on March 30 and will include potential rewards and risks, evaluation of several stocks, and how investments are affected by taxes. The Angier Community School will also present a tour of the Arnold Arboretum on May 1 from 10 - noon. Led by Michael Dathe, the tour will emphasize the spring highlights and beauty of this well-known site.

All of the above classes are open to the public, and interested residents are invited to learn more by calling 552-7117.

Spring fair planned April 3

Jackson School of Newton hosts a spring fair on April 3 at 200 Jackson Road (exit 17 off the Mass Pike) starting at 10 a.m.

A boutique, baked goods, restaruant, children's activities, cooking demonstrations and a raffle will be featured and all proceeds benefit the school.

Second restaurant charged with liquor violation

NEWTON — The Police Department has charged a second local restaurant in a month's time for an alleged liquor license violation in what Licensing Commissioner Carleton Merrill is calling a message to restaurant owners.

The Newton Licensing Board has asked the owner of the Backyard lounge and restaurant in Newton Centre to appear before the commissioners on a show-cause hearing for allegedly serving two minors on the night of March 17, St. Patrick's Day.

The Licensing Board recently suspended the license of Lewis' in Lower Falls for failing to close at midnight. The two-day supension was the first for a restaurant in the city in three years.

According to Merrill, past suspensions have been from one day to three weeks. Merrill said a decision on the length of a possible suspension is entirely up to the commission.

"It's a message sure," said Police Officer Paul Golden of the Community Service Division, "We hope every licensee in the city would be aware of the fact."

In January, Police Detective William Whalen was named the city's Liquor Licensing Officer as part of a crackdown on liquor violations. Whalen could not be reached for comment yesterday.

"I think there has been a general policy of checking the restaurants," said Golden. "It may be more so now than in the past few months."

Merrill said the allegation was the first of its kind (serving of minors) in the city in four years.

"It's the direct result of a general action on the part of the Police Department and myself on the monitoring of these restaurants to see that minors aren't being served," Merrill said of the violation. He visits between 10 and 15 establishments per week.

Owen Larkin, owner of the Backyard, said Thursday he will suspend each of the employees working the night of the alleged violation.

"I'll do whatever I have to do to make sure this doesn't happen," said Larkin, who took ownership of the popular nightspot more than two years ago. "The problem is so severe that I have to make my people stand up and take notice."

Merrill said under the present management the Backyard has no record of violations. The establishment is checked for violations at least once a week by Merrill and Whalen.

Larkin said as policy he informs all his employees when they are hired if they serve a minor knowingly or fail to ask for identification when there is doubt as to a person's age, employment will be terminated.

According to reports, two male minors were caught on the premises of the Backyard consuming alcohol. Neither minor had identification.

Backman raps Workfare program

NEWTON — Senator Jack Backman, Senate chairman of the legislature's Joint Committee on Human Services, has submitted a memorandum to Thomas Spirito, commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare charging that the administration's "Workfare" program is invalid since no public hearing was held on the draft regulations. Sen. Backman also claimed the recent written agreement between Commissioner Spirito, Secretary of Human Services and William Hogan and two legislators was an illegal contract, in violation of state law.

Sen. Backman who co-authored the law creating the state's Office for Children, stated that the regulations violated children's rights because of "disqualification of children from benefits as a result of alleged malfeasance of their mothers.

"The proposal should be rejected," Sen. Backman explained, "in that it does not provide for meaningful educational and training opportunities to participating mothers with dependent children, in cases where the mother has been deprived of reasonable educational opportunity."

Incorrect sewer bills were mailed to 3,000

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — City officials are making amends for a "data processing error" that has resulted in 3,000 taxpayers being overcharged on sewer tax bills.

The sewer tax bills, which were mailed three weeks ago, sparked anger and criticism from those overchaged as taxpayers are also facing dramatic increases on property tax bills scheduled to be mailed May 1. The sewer tax was included for the first time on water bills this year.

Meanwhile, Alderman Joseph DePasquale has filed a docket item in the wake of the tax bill blunder to totally rescind the tax which he termed "unfair."

"People are upset that in a time when they are looking for tax relief they are being hit left and right, and they are starting to get fed up," said DePasquale. "Not only are they getting hit with revaluation and user fees, they are now seeing another big chunk taken from them."

The sewer tax was implemented by Mayor Theodore Mann and approved by the Board of Aldermen last year to combat Propostion 2½ budget cuts. DePasquale voted against the tax.

Thomas Tuesday mailed letters to taxpayers who were overcharged. He said those taxpayers overcharged can obtain a refund at City Hall's Water Department or take a credit for the error on the next water bill -scheduled to be mailed in October.

Taxpayers have 30 days to pay the tax or face a penalty fee. Thomas said most of those affected have been overcharged "several dollars."

Thomas said a computer program calculating the tax made the error. The sewer tax, 75 percent of the water bill, was supposed to be calculated beginning June 1. A city employee, however, evidently programmed the computer to calculate the tax back to April 10.
